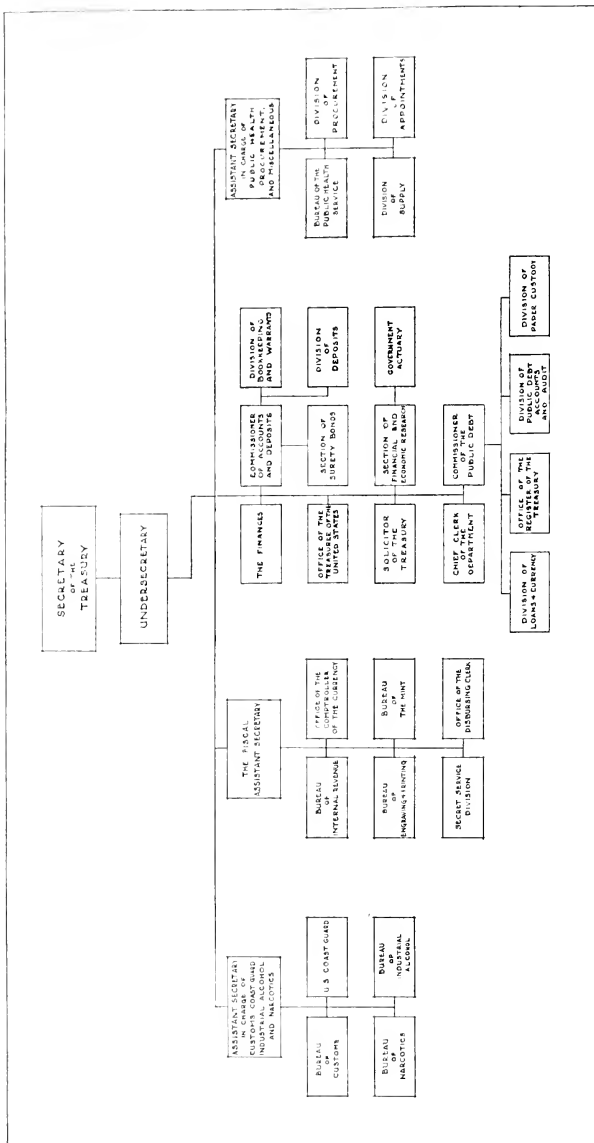

CHART 1.—Organization of the Treasury Department, November 15, 1933.

ANNUAL REPORT ON THE FINANCES

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D.C., November 20, 1933.

SIR: I have the honor to make the following report:

BUDGET RESULTS

Receipts

Total receipts, exclusive of trust fund items, during the fiscal year 1933 were $2,079,696,742, as compared with $2,005,725,437 in 1932. A large increase in miscellaneous internal revenue receipts, chiefly due to new and increased taxes, and a somewhat smaller increase in miscellaneous receipts more than offset the continued decline in receipts from income taxes and customs duties.

CHART 2.—Principal sources of receipts for the fiscal years 1924 to 1933 (exclusive of trust fund items)

The trend in receipts, by major sources, from 1924 to 1933, inclusive, is shown in chart 2; and a more detailed comparison of receipts for 1932 and 1933 is presented in the table on page 2.

Miscellaneous internal revenue receipts in 1933 constituted 41 per cent of total receipts, the largest proportion since 1924, while the percentage derived from income taxes was less than in any of the preceding nine years. Income tax receipts, which in recent years have usually accounted for more than half of the total receipts, were only 36 percent of the total in 1933.

³ Stamp taxes on playing cards and boats included elsewhere.

⁷ Amounts postponed under the suspension agreements aggregated about $252,300,000.

Income taxes.—In the fiscal year 1933 income taxes amounted to $746,200,000, as compared with $1,057,300,000 in 1932, a decline of $311,100,000. As shown in the above table, receipts from current income taxes were $614,400,000 in 1933, as compared with $868,000,000 in 1932, a decline of $253,600,000. The receipts from back taxes decreased from $189,300,000 in 1932 to $131,800,000 in 1933, or about $57,500,000.

Current income taxes during the first half of the fiscal year 1933 were collected largely on incomes returned for the calendar year 1931 and during the last half of the fiscal year represented taxes on incomes for the calendar year 1932. While taxable incomes for the calendar year 1932 showed further decline, taxes on incomes for that year (collected in 1933) did not decline correspondingly, due to the increased rates, reduced exemptions and credits, and other provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932.

Comparison of collections for the calendar years 1932 and 1933 on taxes returned for the calendar years 1931 and 1932, respectively, indicates the effect of the new legislation. Indicated corporation collections in the full calendar year 1933 show a decline of 27 percent as compared with collections in 1932. An even greater decline in taxable income was partially offset by the increased taxes effective on 1932 incomes, due chiefly to the increase in the tax rate from 12 to 13½ percent, with an additional tax of three fourths of 1 percent on net income reported on consolidated returns, and the elimination of specific credit for corporations with small incomes.

Indicated current collections of individual income taxes during the full calendar year 1933 show an increase of 30 percent over the preceding year, the decline in taxable incomes being more than offset by the increased taxes under the Revenue Act of 1932. The major provisions of the revenue act affecting collections of current individual income taxes were: A reduction in personal exemptions from $3,500 to $2,500 for married persons or heads of families and from $1,500 to $1,000 for single individuals; an increase in the normal rates from 1½, 3, and 5 percent to 4 and 8 percent; increased surtaxes (graduated from 1 percent on net income in excess of $6,000 to 55 percent on net income in excess of $1,000,000); and the elimination of tax credit for earned income.

Miscellaneous internal revenue.—Receipts from miscellaneous internal revenue taxes were $858,200,000 in the fiscal year 1933 as compared with $503,700,000 in 1932, an increase of $354,500,000. Receipts from the leading revenue-producing taxes are shown in the table on page 2.

In 1933 about 95 percent of miscellaneous internal revenue came from six sources—tobacco taxes, manufacturers' excise taxes, documentary stamp taxes, the tax on checks, the tax on fermented liquors, and the estate tax.

The taxes on tobacco manufactures, which yielded $402,700,000 in 1933, continue to be the largest source. Collections of the tax on small cigarettes, which produces more than four fifths of all tobacco taxes, totaled $328,400,000, an increase of $10,900,000 over the preceding fiscal year. Receipts from other tobacco taxes were $6,800,000 less in 1933 than in 1932.

In the fiscal year 1933, $449,400,000 of miscellaneous internal revenue represented collections of taxes increased by the Revenue Act of 1932 or of new taxes levied by that act and the act of March 22, 1933 (which imposed a tax on fermented liquors). The new manufacturers' excise taxes on a variety of articles yielded $247,800,000, of which $124,900,000 was derived from the tax of 1 cent per gallon on gasoline. Of the miscellaneous internal revenue taxes that were increased by the Revenue Act of 1932, the largest amount of revenue during 1933 came from the documentary stamp taxes, which, excluding playing cards, aggregated $53,400,000.

Miscellaneous internal revenue collections did not in all cases immediately reflect the full effect of new tax legislation, and monthly receipts during the year changed as new and increased taxes became fully effective. The manufacturers' excise taxes and the other miscellaneous taxes became effective on June 21, 1932, with the exception of the tax on the use of boats. Except for the documentary stamp taxes and the tax on boats, which are collected through the sale of stamps, these taxes are payable monthly on returns filed on or before the last day of the succeeding month. Miscellaneous internal revenue for July 1932, at $42,500,000, included receipts from new and increased taxes only for the period June 21-30. Collections increased during subsequent months and from October through April monthly receipts ranged between $64,400,000 and $78,000,000. In May 1933 these receipts increased to $93,500,000, and in June to $106,500,000, largely as a result of the new tax on fermented liquors and increased collections on small cigarettes.

The additional estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932 applied to estates of decedents after June 6, 1932. Since returns of this tax are not required to be filed until one year after death, and payment may be extended under certain conditions even beyond that period, the tax receipts for the fiscal year 1933 were affected only slightly by the additional tax provisions.

Customs.—Customs receipts declined from $327,700,000 in the fiscal year 1932 to $250,800,000 in the fiscal year 1933, or $76,900,000. Monthly collections of customs receipts throughout the year until May were at a considerably lower level than in 1932. Receipts in May and June showed increases of $2,500,000 and $5,600,000, respectively, over the corresponding months of the preceding year.

Miscellaneous receipts.—Miscellaneous receipts, exclusive of trust fund items, increased from $117,000,000 in the fiscal year 1932 to $224,500,000 in the fiscal year 1933. These receipts are nontax items and include such receipts as the proceeds from Government-owned securities, Panama Canal tolls, fees, fines and penalties, rents and royalties, the immigration head tax, tax on the circulation of national bank notes, and seigniorage on coinage of subsidiary silver and minor coins.

The increase was due chiefly to the fact that certain payments were made in 1933 on account of obligations of foreign governments, whereas, during the fiscal year 1932, payments on these obligations were postponed under the House joint resolution approved December 23, 1931. Principal payments received on obligations of foreign governments in 1933 were $31,600,000 and interest payments $67,200,000. Further information regarding intergovernmental debts will be found on pages 27 to 29 of this report.

Receipts on Government-owned securities also included interest in the amount of approximately $24,400,000 paid by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on account of advances made by the Secretary of the Treasury, offset in part by a decrease of nearly $14,000,000 in repayments of agricultural loans made by the Secretary of Agriculture.

1933 estimates and results.—Total receipts, exclusive of trust fund items, for the fiscal year 1933 were $388,200,000 less than Treasury estimates made in the fall of 1932. Receipts from internal revenue and customs were $194,800,000 or about 10 percent less than the estimates. Income tax receipts fell $113,800,000 short of the estimates and miscellaneous internal revenue and customs receipts were $41,800,000 and $39,200,000 less, respectively, than estimated. Miscellaneous receipts, exclusive of trust fund items, fell $193,400,000 short of the amount estimated, chiefly due to the fact that receipts on obligations of foreign governments were $169,800,000 less than the amounts due.

Expenditures

During the fiscal year 1933 expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts (exclusive of trust fund items) amounted to $3,865,915,459, as compared with $4,885,909,686 for the fiscal year 1932. Expenditures thus classified do not include net payments on account of purchases of notes of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation aggregating $1,277,038,168 in 1933 and $267,735,209 in 1932. Total expenditures including these payments amounted to $5,142,953,627 in 1933 as compared with $5,153,644,895 in 1932. The following analysis of Federal expenditures relates to expenditures excluding trust fund items but including net payments on Reconstruction Finance Corporation account. The trend in Federal expenditures for the fiscal years 1924 to 1933 is shown in chart 3 on page 6.

Expenditures for 1933 and prior fiscal years cannot be completely classified as between general and emergency outlays—a classification which was introduced into the Daily Treasury Statement on July 1, 1933. There is presented in the table on page 7, however, a comparison of expenditures for the fiscal years 1932 and 1933, classified by major functional groups. In this table major items due to or particularly affected by the depression are shown separately.

Major expenditures due to or particularly affected by the depression were $1,913,000,000 in 1933 as compared with $1,750,000,000 in 1932, an increase of $163,000,000. The principal item of increase in this class of expenditures represented net payments on Reconstruction Finance Corporation account which aggregated $1,277,000,000 in 1933 as compared with $768,000,000 in 1932, the latter including $500,000,000 for the purchase of the capital stock of the Corporation. Expenditures for public works decreased in 1933, amounting to $474,000,000 in that year as compared with $507,000,000 in 1932. Other reductions in this category of expenditures for 1933 reflect the nonrecurrence of certain outlays made in 1932 in connection with special aids to agriculture, including net loans of $136,000,000 from the agricultural marketing fund, purchase of $125,000,000 of additional capital stock of the Federal land banks, and $11,000,000 for loans and credits to farmers; and a decrease of $86,000,000 in the postal deficiency. The more important of the new expenditures in 1933 due to the depression included $14,000,000 for emergency conservation work under the act approved March 31, 1933, and $34,000,000 for wheat and cotton distributed for relief.

Service on the public debt amounted to $1,151,000,000 in 1933, an increase of $139,000,000 over 1932. Of this increase, $90,000,000 represented larger payments for interest, reflecting the increase in the public debt during the year, and $49,000,000 was due to retirements from repayments of principal by foreign governments on account of their indebtedness. Owing to the postponement of foreign debt payments due in the fiscal year 1932 there were no retirements from this source during that year.

⁶ Includes refunds of tax receipts, purchases of capital stock of Federal intermediate credit banks, and, for 1932, expenditures under Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928.

Other major categories of Federal expenditures were those for national defense and war veterans, which together aggregated $1,502,000,000 in 1933 and which were $129,000,000 smaller than in 1932. The greater part of this decrease was due to a reduction of $100,000,000 in the amount credited to the adjusted service certificate fund for which an increased appropriation had been made available in 1932 in connection with the financing of loans on adjusted service certificates under authority of the act of February 27, 1931.

The balance of Federal expenditures, composed chiefly of nonfunctional and departmental expenditures not included under other categories, aggregated $577,000,000 in 1933, a decrease of $184,000,000 as compared with 1932. Major nonfunctional expenditures, amounting to $98,000,000, were $43,000,000 lower than in 1932 and reflected a decrease of $31,000,000 in refunds of tax receipts, the nonrecurrence of an expenditure of $38,000,000 during 1932 made under the authority of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, and an increase of $26,000,000 in the purchase of stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks.

All other expenditures, largely for departmental activities not otherwise classified, amounted to $479,000,000, a decrease of $141,000,000 from 1932. This category includes expenditures on account of the legislative and judicial branches of the Government, the fiscal administration and control of banking and currency, foreign relations, civil pensions and allowances, and other governmental activities in connection with conservation of natural resources, education, promotion of public health, Indian affairs, and aids to agriculture, labor, aviation, and industry. Reduction in expenditures for these activities, which amounted to 23 percent of the amount spent for similar activities during the preceding year, reflected chiefly economy legislation, including the reduction in salaries of Government employees.

THE PUBLIC DEBT

At the end of the fiscal year 1933 the gross public debt outstanding was $22,538,672,560 and showed an increase of $3,051,670,116 for the fiscal year.

The changes in the character and amount of the outstanding debt as a result of the year's operations are summarized in the table on page 8 in which are compared amounts of the various classes of debt outstanding at the beginning and at the end of the fiscal year.

Treasury financing operations in the open market during 1933 reflected chiefly (1) an excess of expenditures over ordinary receipts, (2) payments against credits established for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through the purchase of its obligations, (3) retirements of maturing debt, and (4) increase in the General Fund balance.

About 43 percent of the total open market issues during 1933 consisted of securities with maturities in excess of 1 year, as com pared with 20 percent in 1932. Open market issues outstanding on June 30, 1933, and maturing in 1 to 5 years amounted to $4,304,000,000, an increase of $3,643,000,000 during the year. Outstanding short-dated debt maturing within 1 year aggregated $3,307,000,000, a decrease of $635,000,000 as compared with the end of the preceding fiscal year. Debt with maturities of over 5 years showed no significant change.

CHART 4.—Interest-bearing debt outstanding and ratio of the computed annual interest charge to the interest-bearing debt, by months, January 1919 to June 1933

Public debt transactions, other than open market operations, included the issuance and redemption of special obligations connected with the investment of trust funds and postal savings and of special 1-day certificates to cover temporary advances by Federal Reserve banks at the time of quarterly income tax payments, and transactions relating to matured debt on which interest has ceased and to non-interest-bearing debt, the latter representing chiefly operations in connection with the national bank note and Federal Reserve bank note retirement funds.

The course of the interest-bearing debt outstanding and of the computed rate of the interest charge on that debt for the fiscal years 1919 through 1933 is shown in chart 4 on page 9.

Between June 30, 1919, and June 30, 1931, the annual interest charge computed on the basis of the interest-bearing debt outstanding on those dates was reduced from $1,054,000,000 to $589,000,000, and the computed rate was reduced from 4.18 percent on the former date to 3.57 percent on the latter. By June 30, 1933, owing to the increase in the amount of the outstanding debt, the annual interest charge had increased to $742,000,000, but the computed rate had declined further, to 3.35 percent.

Information regarding issues, maturities and redemptions of interest-bearing United States securities in the open market is presented in table 27 on page 357 of this report; and Department circulars and public announcements regarding public debt issues appear as exhibits 1 to 19 on pages 157 to 186.

Reconstruction Finance Corporation

During the fiscal year 1933 the Treasury continued to supply funds for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through the purchase of its interim notes under section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act as amended. Purchases of the Corporation's interim notes during the fiscal year 1933 amounted to $1,235,000,000, making the total purchases to June 30, 1933, $1,585,000,000, in addition to the capital stock subscriptions during the fiscal year 1932 amounting to $500,000,000.

Obligations held by the Secretary of the Treasury maturing October 27, 1932, in the face amount of $675,000,000, were renewed for 6 months ending April 30, 1933. From October 27, 1932, to April 30, 1933, additional notes maturing on the latter date were purchased in the face amount of $660,000,000, making the total amount of notes maturing April 30, 1933, $1,335,000,000, which notes were renewed on May 1, 1933 (April 30 being Sunday), for a 6-month period ending November 1, 1933.

Interest on the notes was collected and covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts as follows: On October 27, 1932, $7,608,-904.11; and on May 1, 1933, $16,760,205.52.

The funds of the Corporation are credited to its account with the Treasury and payments are made by means of checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States. The net payments to June 30, 1933, amounted to $2,044,773,376.28, classified as follows:

Fiscal year 1932 (including $500,000,000 on account of capital stock).....	$767, 735, 208. 55
Fiscal year 1933.....	1, 277, 038, 167. 73

The account of the Corporation on the books of the Treasury as of June 30, 1933, was as follows:

Adjusted service securities

The financing operations of the Treasury during the fiscal year reflected the continued operations of the act of February 27, 1931, which authorized loans to veterans on their adjusted service certificates up to 50 percent of the face value of such certificates. At the beginning of the fiscal year the Treasury invested the appropriation of $100,000,000, provided for the adjusted service certificate fund, but subsequently redeemed a net amount of $113,000,000 in order to provide funds for authorized payments, which consisted largely of loans to veterans. A statement of the adjusted service certificate fund appears on page 55 of this report.

Cumulative sinking fund

The indefinite appropriation available for the sinking fund during the fiscal year 1933, including a small unexpended balance for the prior year, was $425,575,013. Bonds totaling $6,896,300, face amount, were purchased at a total principal cost of $6,805,628; and $418,764,000 face amount of 3¼ percent Treasury notes of series 1932 were redeemed for account of the fund. Tables covering the transactions on account of the cumulative sinking fund for the fiscal year 1933, and from its inception on July 1, 1920, will be found on pages 361 and 362 of this report.

The indefinite appropriation referred to above is made each fiscal year under section 6 (a) of the Victory Liberty Loan Act. This appropriation is made up of two parts: (a) A constant amount of $253,404,864.87, representing 2½ percent of the aggregate amount of Liberty bonds and Victory notes outstanding on July 1, 1920, less an amount equal to the par amount of any obligations of foreign governments held by the United States on the same date, and (b) an increasing amount, representing the interest which would have been payable during the fiscal year for which the appropriation is made on the bonds and notes purchased, redeemed, or paid out of the sinking fund during such year or in previous years.

The sinking fund appropriation for each fiscal year beginning with 1934 has been increased under recent legislation. The Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932 (sec. 308) and the National Industrial Recovery Act (sec. 210 (b)) provide for additions to the sinking fund appropriation of amounts equal to 2½ percent of the aggregate expenditures under title III (public works) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act and under title II (public works and construction projects) of the National Industrial Recovery Act. These provisions have the effect of increasing not only the first part of the sinking fund calculation but the second part also.

In a period during which the public debt is increasing, sinking fund operations clearly do not result in net reduction in the debt.

GENERAL FUND OF THE TREASURY

All cash receipts of the Government are credited to the General Fund of the Treasury and all expenditures are made therefrom. The net balance of this fund represents the working cash balance of the Government. The net change in this balance from the close of the previous fiscal year is accounted for as follows:

The composition of the General Fund of the Treasury, existing liabilities against the assets in the fund, and the balance in excess of such liabilities are shown for June 30, 1932 and 1933, in the above table. Similar information is presented in somewhat greater detail, and on the basis of the daily Treasury statements, revised, in the table on page 365 of this report.

EMERGENCY LEGISLATION AND THE FEDERAL FINANCES

The Government's activities and its finances are affected to an important degree by legislation enacted with a view to providing means for dealing with problems of the depression. The Government's recovery program which is based upon this legislation involves the use of the public credit in three ways. Provision for a variety of emergency activities has been made both by direct appropriation of Treasury funds and by authorization of advances by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the financing of which involves the Government's credit. In addition, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Federal land banks are authorized to issue obligations in respect of which the Government assumes a contingent liability to the extent of guaranteeing interest payments; and the Tennessee Valley Authority is authorized to issue bonds on the credit of the United States.

Authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to borrow

The financing of advances by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, over and above the amount of its capital stock, is provided for under a series of emergency acts authorizing the Corporation to issue its obligations in amounts aggregating about $4,075,000,000 (exclusive of indefinite authorizations). Through the fiscal year 1933 these obligations were not sold in the open market but were deposited as evidence of advances from the Treasury which in turn obtained the required funds through the sale of its own obligations.

Acts passed prior to the convening of the new Congress in March 1933 account for $3,425,000,000 of the total borrowing power, including the initial authorization of $1,500,000,000, as provided in the organic act of January 22, 1932, an additional sum of $1,800,000,000, as provided in the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of July 21, 1932, and a further increase of $125,000,000 under the terms of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of July 22, 1932.

Specific net augmentation of the Corporation's borrowing power included in acts passed by the new (73d) Congress totals $650,000,000, after taking into account a reduction of $400,000,000 provided for by title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act. The increases may be itemized as follows: $200,000,000 to be made available to the Farm Loan Commissioner for direct loans to farmers, and $100,000,000 to facilitate the orderly liquidation of joint stock land banks, as provided by the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of May 12, 1933; $500,000,000 for expenditures authorized by the Federal Emergency Relief Act of May 12, 1933, designed to provide for further cooperation by the Federal Government with the States and Territories in relieving suffering and distress; $50,000,000 for subscriptions to preferred stock and for the purchase of capital notes of insurance companies (act of June 10, 1933); and $200,000,000 for capital stock in the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, created by the Home Owners' Loan Act of June 13, 1933.

In addition to these definite authorizations, the Bank Conservation Act of March 9, 1933, empowered the Corporation to increase its borrowings in an amount sufficient to meet requests by the Secretary of the Treasury to subscribe for preferred stock in any national bank or any State bank or trust company in need of funds for capital purposes either for organization or reorganization, or to make loans secured by such stock; and the Agricultural Adjustment Act of May 12, 1933, empowered the Corporation to increase its borrowings in an amount sufficient to carry out the provisions of that act which relate to purchases of cotton.

By June 30, 1933, net payments aggregating $1,545,000,000 (in addition to the $500,000,000 disbursed for the Corporation's capital stock) had been made by the Treasury on account of advances to the Corporation. At the close of the fiscal year there remained, therefore, $2,530,000,000 of additional funds (exclusive of indefinite authorizations) which the Corporation was authorized to procure and use after July 1, 1933, under the acts now in force. Inasmuch as the limitations on the funds available to the corporation refer to the total amount of obligations which it may have outstanding at any one time, the amounts at its disposal are in the nature of a revolving fund.

Emergency appropriations of Treasury funds

The emergency appropriations made from the General Fund, as distinguished from outlays authorized from funds of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, may be divided into four broad categories for purposes of review, namely, those for public works, for purposes of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, for agricultural credits under the Farm Credit Act, and for subscriptions by the Federal Government for capital stock, surplus, or preferred shares in corporations and associations provided for in the acts.

The first emergency authorization for public works, in the amount of $329,660,000, was provided in the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of July 21, 1932. The so-called Reforestation Act of March 31, 1933, provides that sums necessary for carrying out its purposes be expended out of the unexpended and unallocated balance of the above-mentioned moneys appropriated for public works. This act also authorizes that an amount equal to the sums so expended ($101,875,200 was actually transferred) be appropriated for the purposes named in the Emergency Relief and Construction Act.

The major public works appropriation is that of $3,300,000,000 authorized by title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which creates a Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. This sum, except $100,000,000 authorized to be allocated for expenditures in carrying out the Agricultural Adjustment Act and for the purposes of the Farm Credit Administration, and such amounts as may be needed for expenditures of the National Industrial Recovery Administration, is to be used during the emergency period to construct, finance, or aid in the construction and financing of any projects in the public works program, and to make disbursements in connection therewith to States, municipalities, or other public bodies not to exceed 30 percent of the cost of labor and materials employed. The National Industrial Recovery Act and also the Emergency Relief and Construction Act provide for additions to the sinking fund appropriation (see page 12).

The Agricultural Adjustment Act carries an appropriation of $100,000,000 for administrative expenses under the act and for rental and benefit payments. In addition this act authorizes the use of processing taxes collected under the act for benefit payments, the expansion of markets, etc., and authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to make advances from the Treasury in anticipation of the collection of such taxes.

Direct appropriations from the General Fund authorized for subscriptions by the Federal Government for capital stock, surplus, or preferred shares in various corporations and associations assume a variety of forms. The Emergency Farm Mortgage Act authorizes an appropriation of $50,000,000 for the use of the Secretary of the Treasury in subscribing to the paid-in surplus of the Federal land banks in order to enable those banks to grant necessary extensions of unpaid interest and principal on farm mortgages. The same act also authorizes an appropriation of $15,000,000, together with such additional amounts as may be necessary, to cover payments to the land banks on account of certain reductions in interest rates on mortgages held by such banks.

The Home Owners' Loan Act authorizes the appropriation of $100,000,000 (of which $50,000,000 has already been appropriated) for subscription by the Secretary of the Treasury for preferred shares in Federal Savings and Loan Associations, the organization of which is to be encouraged by the board of directors of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, created by the act. An appropriation of $150,000,000 is authorized by the Banking Act of 1933 for subscription on behalf of the United States for capital stock in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The Governor of the Farm Credit Administration is directed by the Farm Credit Act to organize a Production Credit Corporation and a Bank for Cooperatives in each of the 12 Federal land bank cities. He is authorized to subscribe for the initial capital stock of these corporations out of a revolving fund made up of unobligated balances from certain funds created by various other acts and an additional emergency appropriation of $40,000,000.

Guaranteed obligations

A contingent burden is placed on the Treasury by the Government guaranty of interest on bonds issued by the Federal land banks and by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. The Federal land banks are authorized by the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933 to issue bonds in the aggregate amount of $2,000,000,000 and the Home Owners' Loan Act authorizes the corporation created by it to issue bonds in the same amount. The amount of bonds which the Tennessee Valley Authority may issue on the credit of the United States is limited to $50,000,000.

Economy and revenue measures

By the terms of the Economy Act, approved March 20, 1933, the Congress authorized substantial reductions in ordinary expenditures. The payless furlough plan of the Legislative Appropriation Act, approved June 30, 1932, which effected a reduction of $8\frac{1}{2}$ percent in Government employees' compensation, was repealed by the Economy Act and the President was authorized to reduce salaries in accordance with changes in living costs, up to a maximum of 15 percent, during the period from April 1, 1933, to June 30, 1934. Subsequently, an Executive order was issued, effective April 1, 1933, reducing salaries of Government employees by 15 percent. Certain other economies in the Legislative Appropriation Act are continued in effect for the fiscal year 1934 by provisions of the Treasury and Post Office Departments Appropriation Act, approved March 3, 1933. These economy provisions include: Reductions in retired pay, prohibition of administrative promotions and of automatic increases in compensation, and prohibition against the filling of vacancies except upon approval of the President. The Economy Act also provides for reductions in veterans' pensions and compensation allowances.

In accordance with the authority contained in the acts of March 3, and 20, 1933, the President submitted to the Congress on March 27, 1933, an Executive order consolidating the functions of the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board, and other agencies which deal primarily with agricultural credit, into one agency, the Farm Credit Administration. A further order was submitted on June 10, 1933, providing for numerous changes in administrative organization.

Additional revenue was provided by the act of March 22, 1933, which legalizes the manufacture and sale of beer and certain other beverages containing one half of 1 percent or more of alcohol by volume and not more than 3.2 percent of alcohol by weight. The act imposes a tax of $5 per barrel containing not more than 31 gallons of such beverages. The act also imposes an occupational tax of $1,000 on each brewery, to be paid annually by the brewer. Previously existing laws provide occupational taxes of $50 and $20 for wholesale and retail dealers, respectively.

Provision was made also for additional revenue to meet service charges on the funds borrowed for construction of public works. In title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act new and increased taxes were imposed. These include: An increase in the tax on gasoline from 1 to 1½ cents, effective June 17, 1933; an excise tax (to be withheld at the source) of 5 percent upon the receipt of dividends declared after June 16, 1933, by any person other than a domestic corporation, subject to certain exemptions; an excise tax, for each year ending June 30, of $1 for each $1,000 of the adjusted declared value of the capital stock of a domestic corporation or on such stock employed by a foreign corporation in the transaction of its business in the United States, subject to certain exemptions; an excess profits tax equivalent to 5 percent of such net income of corporations as is in excess of 12½ percent of the adjusted declared value of its capital stock for each income-tax taxable year ending after June 30, 1933.

The National Industrial Recovery Act also extends for one year after June 30, 1934, the manufacturers' excise and other taxes imposed by titles IV and V of the Revenue Act of 1932—the act of June 16, 1933 (Pub. No. 73), made this extension applicable to the gasoline tax—repeals provisions of the revenue act relating to deductions for net losses for prior years in computing income taxes, and establishes the rate of corporation income tax for consolidated returns for the taxable years 1934 and 1935 at 14¾ percent.

The act further provides that the new and increased taxes imposed shall cease to be effective at stated periods after the President proclaims the date of (1) the close of the fiscal year ending June 30 of any year after 1933, during which the total receipts of the United States (excluding public debt receipts) exceed its total expenditures (excluding public debt expenditures other than those chargeable against such receipts) or (2) the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution, whichever is the earlier.

The text of this and other revenue legislation is presented in exhibits 25 and 26 on pages 204 to 208 of this report.

ESTIMATES OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES

There follows a table showing actual receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1933 and estimates for 1934 and 1935. Estimated expenditures are based on the latest information from the Bureau of the Budget and are classified as between emergency and general governmental activities according to the new daily Treasury statement classification inaugurated July 1, 1933.¹ Actual expenditures for 1933 are not fully available according to this classification and emergency expenditures for 1933, except for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, are included in general expenditures for that year.

² The total amounts owing to the United States on account of obligations of foreign governments are $328,000,000 and $335,000,000 for the fiscal years 1934 and 1935, respectively. To the extent that receipts from foreign governments exceed amounts included in the estimates, there will be a corresponding increase in total receipts.

⁶ Included under Department of Commerce.

⁷ Revised to adjust $8,773,569.75 for Emergency Conservation Work included in daily Treasury statements in 1933 under National Defense, Army.

⁸ Exclusive of $8,773,569.75. See note 7.

¹⁰ Exclusive of $1,112,941.82. See note 5.

¹² The estimates of expenditures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are contingent on the enactment of legislation extending the Corporation's authority to incur obligations to June 30, 1934. If the authority is not extended, the estimated expenditures for 1934 will be reduced by $903,000,000, and the net repayments for 1935 will be reduced by $74,000,000.

¹³ Of the emergency expenditures made up to and including the fiscal year 1935, it is roughly estimated that $2,500,000,000.00 represents loans that will be repaid to the Government during the fiscal year 1936 and subsequent years, which repayments will be available for reduction of the public debt.

¹⁵ The classification of receipts and expenditures on account of contributed funds prior to the fiscal year 1934 is not available. Such receipts and expenditures were classified as special funds and are included in the receipts and general expenditures under General and Special Funds for the fiscal year 1933.

Total receipts (exclusive of trust fund items) are estimated at $3,259,900,000 for the fiscal year 1934, and at $3,974,700,000 for 1935. The uncertainties affecting the estimates of revenues are particularly important under present unusual economic conditions.

Estimated receipts from internal revenue and customs for 1934 include the following amounts not covered in the estimates presented to Congress last December: $150,500,000 for taxes levied by the act of March 22, 1933 (chiefly the tax on beer); $403,000,000 for processing and floor-stock taxes levied by the Secretary of Agriculture under the authority of the act of May 12, 1933; about $153,700,000 for taxes levied by the National Industrial Recovery Act, exclusive of certain changes in the income tax; and $174,400,000 for additional receipts from existing internal revenue taxes and customs duties on distilled spirits and fermented liquors as a result of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution. Estimated internal revenue receipts also take account of the effect of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment on taxes imposed by the National Industrial Recovery Act.¹

The estimates of receipts from processing and floor-stock taxes were prepared by the Department of Agriculture. These and related taxes which the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to levy under the agricultural adjustment title of the act of May 12, 1933, are intended to provide funds for benefit payments and other purposes of that title. The estimates of receipts are based on processing tax rates adopted, or definitely anticipated. Only minor amounts are included for compensating taxes since only a small number of these (other than compensating import taxes) have been levied.

EMERGENCY BANKING AND MONETARY MEASURES

The banking emergency which became acute in the opening months of 1933 marked the commencement of a number of banking and monetary developments of major importance.²

Banking

By March 4, banks in almost all States were either closed or operating under restrictions. On March 6, 1933, the President proclaimed a bank holiday to extend from that date to March 9, inclusive, for all banking institutions and branches located in the United States, territories, and insular possessions. All banking transactions were suspended, except those authorized by regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President. The holiday was subsequently continued until further proclamation by the President.

¹ The tax on gasoline will be reduced from 1½ cents to 1 cent per gallon in respect of sales on and after Jan. 1, 1934, and the tax of 5 percent on dividends will be terminated in respect of dividends declared on and after Jan. 1, 1934. Under provisions governing the repeal of the capital stock tax, collections will continue into the fiscal year 1935. The tax provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act are included as exhibit 25 on page 204 of this report.

² Related legislation, proclamations, and Executive orders are presented as exhibits 21 to 24 on pp. 187 to 203 of this report.

As expeditiously as possible regulations were issued by the Secretary of the Treasury permitting banks to perform certain essential functions such as making change, cashing checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States, and carrying on transactions necessary to meet the needs of the community for food, relief of distress, and payment of salaries and wages. Banks were permitted to create special accounts for the segregation and repayment of new deposits, and Federal Reserve banks were authorized to open special accounts for these deposits not only for member banks but temporarily for non-member banks. The reserve banks also were permitted to conduct certain operations as fiscal agents of the United States and to make available to member banks such limited amounts of coin and currency (other than gold or gold certificates) and such credit accommodations as were necessary to enable the member banks to exercise the restricted functions permitted by regulation.

On March 9, the President asked the Congress, called in extra session, for the immediate enactment of legislation to clarify and augment the authority of the President in a period of national emergency and to promote the reestablishment of banking facilities. Legislation was enacted on the same day granting to the President the powers requested.

One of the important features of the act is the provision that, whenever necessary to conserve the assets of any national bank, or of any bank or trust company located in the District of Columbia, the Comptroller of the Currency may appoint a conservator with powers of a receiver to take control of the bank and hold its assets intact until such time as the Comptroller deems it advisable to reopen the bank under the control of its officers and directors or to place it in the hands of a receiver. If funds are needed for organization or reorganization, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to purchase, or loan on the security of, the preferred stock of national banks, State banks, and trust companies.

The act amended the Federal Reserve Act in several respects. It broadened the authority of the Federal Reserve banks for issuing currency, modified the provisions pertaining to reserve bank loans to member banks in exigent circumstances on their time and demand notes, and authorized the reserve banks to make advances to individuals, partnerships, or corporations on their promissory notes secured by United States obligations.

On March 9, after passage of the banking act, the President issued a proclamation continuing the bank holiday until further proclamation. The following day he issued an Executive order authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to permit any member bank of the Federal Reserve System and any other banking institution organized under the laws of the United States to perform any or all of their usual banking functions, except for the prohibitions against gold payments and gold exports and against currency withdrawals for hoarding. Member banks desiring to reopen were to apply for licenses to the Secretary of the Treasury through the Federal Reserve banks. In view of the fact that neither the Treasury nor the Federal Reserve authorities had sufficient information upon which to consider applications for reopening by State nonmember banks, the President authorized the appropriate State authorities having immediate supervision of these banks to permit them to reopen. The State authorities were requested to cooperate with the Treasury in endeavoring to reopen only sound banks.

Under a schedule announced by the President on March 11, licensed banks located in Federal Reserve cities were authorized to resume operations on March 13; those in cities having an active, recognized clearing house association, on March 14; and those located elsewhere, on March 15. This progressive plan, which contemplated further reopenings on subsequent days, afforded time for shipments of currency from reserve bank centers.

By March 15, the third day of the scheduled reopenings, 5,077 member banks were licensed to resume operations on an unrestricted basis. The deposits of these licensed member banks (as of Dec. 31, 1932) aggregated about $25,500,000,000, or nearly 90 percent of the deposits of all member banks.

The number of nonmember banks (exclusive of mutual savings banks) authorized, by March 22, to resume operations on an unrestricted basis was about 6,800. By April 12, the first date for which figures were compiled showing the deposits (as of Dec. 31, 1932) of such banks, 7,392 nonmember banks (exclusive of mutual savings banks) with deposits of about $5,000,000,000—representing about 79 percent of the deposits of all such banks—were authorized to conduct normal banking operations.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has continued to make advances to banks under the original provisions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act and, under the Emergency Banking Act, it has assisted in strengthening the capital position of banks by purchases of preferred stock and capital notes and debentures and by advances collateralized by preferred stock.

A Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created by the Banking Act of 1933 to purchase, hold, and liquidate the assets of closed banks in the Federal Reserve System and to provide on January 1, 1934, a temporary deposit insurance fund, and by July 1, 1934, a permanent deposit insurance fund. All member banks in the Federal Reserve System will automatically participate in the plan and all other banks may participate if found eligible upon examination.

Currency

New currency legislation had already been enacted early in 1932. Section 3 of the so-called Glass-Steagall amendment to the Federal Reserve Act, approved February 27, 1932, authorizes the use of United States obligations as collateral for Federal Reserve notes until March 3, 1933 (subsequently extended to March 3, 1934). Furthermore, Section 29 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, approved July 2, 1932, extended the circulation privilege for a period of 3 years to all United States bonds bearing interest not in excess of 3½ percent per annum, thus increasing the collateral available for the issuance of national bank notes.

The Emergency Banking Act of March 9 further broadened the authority of the Federal Reserve banks to issue currency by an amendment to Section 18 of the Federal Reserve Act which authorized, during the emergency, the issuance of circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks, commonly termed Federal Reserve bank notes, (a) against the security of any direct obligations of the United States, or (b) against the security of (and up to 90 percent of the estimated value of) any notes, drafts, exchanges, or bankers' acceptances acquired under the Federal Reserve Act. Prompt measures were taken to prepare a supply of this currency adequate to meet the then existing emergency.

Section 45 of title III of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933, authorized the President for a period of 6 months to accept silver, at a price not to exceed 50 cents an ounce, from foreign governments in payment of principal or interest due on account of indebtedness to the United States. The law requires the issuance of silver certificates against any silver so received to the total number of dollars to which such silver was accepted from foreign governments in payment of debts.¹

The above title also gave broad authority to the President, upon determination of the existence of certain conditions, to require the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements with the Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board for the purchase of additional United States obligations in an aggregate sum of $3,000,000,000 and, under certain conditions and limitations, to require the issuance of United States notes—not to exceed

$3,000,000,000 to be outstanding at any one time—for the purpose of meeting maturing Federal obligations and of purchasing interest-bearing obligations of the United States. The President is also given authority under limitations provided in this title to take action with regard to the content and coinage of the gold and of the silver dollar. The title as amended on June 5 also gives all monetary issues of the United States the same legal tender status, providing that—all coins and currencies of the United States (including Federal Reserve notes and circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks and national banking associations) heretofore or hereafter coined or issued, shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private, public charges, taxes, duties, and dues, except that gold coins, when below the standard weight and limit of tolerance provided by law for the single piece, shall be legal tender only at valuation in proportion to their actual weight.

Gold and foreign exchange

The President's proclamation declaring the bank holiday prohibited the paying out, exporting, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion, or currency, or dealing in foreign exchange during the banking holiday.

By the Executive order of March 10, issued under authority specifically confirmed in the emergency act of March 9, foreign exchange operations were limited to normal requirements, and prohibitions on gold payments by the banks and on the export of gold or gold certificates except under license or regulation by the Secretary of the Treasury were continued in force. Gold continued to be available, however, for use in industry and the arts.

On April 5, 1933, an Executive order was promulgated which required all hoarders to deliver their gold to the Federal Reserve banks. This order permitted the holding and acquisition of gold for industrial use and for proper transactions not involving hoarding. On April 20 an order was promulgated which prohibited the export of gold and gold certificates except under license issued by the Secretary of the Treasury.¹

A joint resolution was passed by the Congress and approved by the President on June 5, 1933, declaring the inclusion, in dollar obligations, of provisions for payment in gold, or a particular kind of coin or currency, to be against public policy and forbidding the inclusion of any such provision in any obligations thereafter incurred. The resolution further provides that every dollar obligation (except currency) theretofore or thereafter incurred, whether or not any such provision was contained therein, should be discharged upon payment, dollar for dollar, in any coin or currency which at the time of payment is legal tender for public and private debts.

OBLIGATIONS OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

During the fiscal year 1933 the United States received payments aggregating $98,757,726.20 on account of the indebtedness of foreign governments, of which $31,567,518.98 was for account of principal and $67,190,207.22 was for account of interest. Since the close of the fiscal year the Treasury has received payments aggregating $11,368,688.25, representing largely silver payments on account of amounts due June 15, 1933.

Under authority of section 45 of title III of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933, the President was authorized for a period of 6 months from that date to accept silver in payment of the whole or any part of the principal or interest due within the 6 months' period from any foreign government on account of its indebtedness to the United States, such silver to be accepted at not to exceed a price of 50 cents an ounce, with a provision that the aggregate silver accepted could not exceed $200,000,000. In connection with the payments offered by certain foreign governments on account of amounts due on June 15, 1933, the President announced that he would accept such payments in silver at a price of not to exceed 50 cents an ounce. The Governments of Great Britain, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Italy, Lithuania, and Rumania took advantage of this offer.

The silver delivered to the United States on account of these payments was assayed and refined at the United States Assay Office in New York and the United States Mint at San Francisco, Calif. As this required some time, the deposit of the amount of the payments in the Treasury was delayed until the value of such silver could be determined. The assaying and refining were not completed until after the close of the fiscal year and the amount of the payments was not, therefore, taken into the Treasury's accounts until the fiscal year 1934.

The Treasury received on this account 22,734,824.35 fine ounces of silver, which, at a price of 50 cents an ounce, was valued at $11,367,412.18 as shown by the following statement:

² An advance payment of interest was made on June 15, 1933, on $1,000,000 for 1 year.

Press releases and the various notes exchanged between the Department of State and representatives of foreign governments regarding the amounts due during the fiscal year will be found in exhibits 27 to 32 on pages 208 to 264 of this report.

A statement showing the principal of the funded and unfunded indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States, the accrued and unpaid interest thereon, and payments on account of principal and interest as of November 15, 1933, will be found as table 44 on page 376 of this report.

RECEIPTS FROM GERMANY

The United States received no payments during the fiscal year from the Government of Germany on account of the costs of the American army of occupation or the awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, except interest on payments postponed under the provisions of the debt agreement of June 23, 1930.

Army costs

Payments aggregating 25,300,000 reichsmarks, due during the fiscal year on account of the costs of the army of occupation were postponed under the provisions of the debt funding agreement of June 23, 1930. In accordance with the provisions of the agreement, such postponed payments bear interest at the rate of 3½ percent per annum. During the past year Germany paid the sum of 229,-281.25 reichsmarks, or $54,764.31 on account of this interest.

There has been no change in the Army cost account as reported on page 39 of last year's annual report.

Mixed claims

Payments aggregating 40,800,000 reichsmarks due during the fiscal year from the Government of Germany on account of mixed claims awards were postponed under the provisions of the debt agreement of June 23, 1930. The amounts postponed bear interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum, payable semiannually. The payments due on account of interest in the aggregate sum of 2,550,000 reichsmarks, or $606,950.90, were made by that Government on the due dates.

Information regarding the Treasury administration of alien and mixed claims appears on pages 46 to 52 of this report.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

Administration of recent revenue legislation

A number of new and increased taxes, together with modifications in the income tax, were effected by Congress during the fiscal year. New administrative problems were presented by some of these tax measures, notably by certain sections of the National Industrial Recovery Act and the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

No serious difficulties were encountered in administering the tax features of the nonintoxicating liquor revenue act of March 22, 1933, since all special tax and administrative provisions of previously existing internal revenue laws in respect to fermented malt liquors and wines became applicable upon passage of that act.

Section 212 of the National Industrial Recovery Act amended titles IV and V of the Revenue Act of 1932 by extending for another year, that is, until June 30, 1935, the manufacturers' excise and other taxes imposed by these titles. By an amendment in the act of June 16, 1933 (Public No. 73), this extension of the effective date was made to include the gasoline tax, increased from 1 cent to 1½ cents by section 211(a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

As a result of complaints certain sections of the Revenue Act of 1932 relating to the manufacturers' excise taxes were amended by the act approved June 16, 1933 (Public No. 73), to correct alleged unwarranted discrimination against dealers in taxable articles.

Administration of processing taxes.—The Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933, authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to levy processing and related taxes. The Bureau of Internal Revenue is charged, under section 19 (a) of the act, with the duty, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, of collecting these taxes.

Processing taxes are authorized to be levied on the first domestic processing of certain basic agricultural commodities, namely, wheat, cotton, field corn, hogs, rice, tobacco, and milk and its products, to become effective in each case on the first day of the marketing year next following the date of the proclamation by the Secretary of Agriculture that rental or benefit payments are to be made with respect to that commodity. The marketing year for each commodity is ascertained and prescribed by regulations issued by the Secretary of Agriculture, who also determines the rate of tax. In addition, compensating taxes are provided for on the first domestic processing of those commodities found by the Secretary of Agriculture to be competing disadvantageously with any of the above-mentioned basic commodities. These taxes are to be paid by the processors. Compensating taxes are also authorized with respect to imported articles processed or manufactured wholly or in chief value from any commodity subject to the processing tax. The act also provides for taxes on floor stocks of articles which, on the date that the processing tax becomes effective with respect to a commodity, have already been processed wholly or in chief value from that commodity and which are on that date held for sale or disposition.

Estate tax and gift tax returns.—Estate tax returns under provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932 which impose an additional estate tax are now being filed, the first having become due during the month of June 1933. Gift tax returns under that act became due on March 15, 1933, and 1,710 gift tax returns for the calendar year 1932 subsequent to June 6, 1932, have been filed.

Income tax administration

During the fiscal year revenue agents recommended the assessment of additional taxes totaling $209,560,778, and overassessments of $20,395,475, or a net amount of recommended additional taxes of $189,165,303.

Summary of audit.—The work of the Bureau on income taxes is summarized in the following table:

² Represents taxable year returns, as distinguished from cases.

There were approximately 2,525,000 income tax returns in the Bureau for audit at the beginning of the fiscal year 1933, of which about 2,290,000 were returns for 1931, filed in March 1932. The returns filed during the fiscal year, totaling approximately 4,811,000, included for the most part calendar year returns for 1932 filed in March 1933. During the fiscal year about 90.9 percent of the previously unaudited returns for 1931 were closed as well as more than a third of the returns filed for 1932. With respect to a substantial part of the balance of the 1932 returns the administrative procedure prior to audit was incomplete on June 30, 1933.

The total number of returns in the Bureau for audit at the end of the year was approximately 3,438,000. Of the total awaiting audit, approximately 3,205,000 were returns for 1932, 208,111 were returns for 1931, and 25,412 were original or reopened returns for 1930 and prior years. Other returns involving matters still in dispute on June 30, 1933, and not included in the above figures include 2,836 returns awaiting action of the taxpayer after the sending of final notice of deficiency and 24,578 returns involved in the appeals pending before the Board of Tax Appeals.

Assessment of additional taxes.—During the fiscal year, $169,629,609 of additional taxes was made available for collection, as compared with $218,521,219 in the fiscal year 1932. This amount includes $168,150,762 of assessments and $1,478,847 of rejected abatement and credit claims.

Assessments (excluding jeopardy) of additional taxes on incomes during the fiscal year 1933

Procedure	Tax	Penalty	Interest	Total

Additional taxes were assessed under the jeopardy provisions of the several revenue acts in the amount of $109,895,997, including penalties and interest, as compared with $50,973,392 so assessed in the fiscal year 1932. The major part of these assessments is appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals.

Office of the General Counsel.—The number of cases pending before the Board of Tax Appeals and in the courts on appeals from Board decisions was reduced during the year from 20,469, as of June 30, 1932, to 18,080, as of June 30, 1933. Cases filed with the Board during the year totaled 5,997, and cases closed numbered 8,386. Sixty-eight percent of the cases closed were closed by agreed settlement, 4,614 settlements having been negotiated by the Special Advisory Committee and 1,113 by the office of the General Counsel.

There were 12,521 offers in compromise closed during the year as follows: 1,870 insolvent compromises; 518 decedents' estates, assignments, etc.; 2 liquor cases; and 10,131 interest and delinquency penalty compromises. Disposals of cases involving liability for percentage penalties for fraud, negligence or delinquency totaled 1,254; and 2,079 jacketed cases involving interpretation of internal revenue laws were disposed of during the year.

Overassessment cases disposed of totaled 1,195, including certificates allowing reductions in tax aggregating $145,959,642. Public decisions involving overassessments in excess of $20,000 were promulgated in 932 cases, and reports were submitted to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation in 58 cases involving credits and/or refunds in excess of $75,000 each.

A more detailed description of the work of the Bureau will be found on pages 102 to 119 of this report.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES OF THE TREASURY

The Public Building Act approved May 25, 1926, authorized a preliminary expenditure of $177,404,818, and provided for a nationwide survey of the Government building requirements outside of the District of Columbia. This survey was made by the Treasury and Post Office Departments, and a report based thereon was submitted to Congress early in 1927 with specific recommendations.

During the years 1928, 1929, and 1930 Congress increased by $455,891,976 the authorized limit of cost, making the total amount—authorized but not entirely appropriated—$633,296,794 plus $69,000,000. The latter amount represents the estimated proceeds of sales of obsolete buildings.

Under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act approved July 21, 1932, an additional $100,000,000 was authorized and appropriated for public building projects to be selected by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General from projects listed in a second report on Government building requirements made in 1931, but not yet specifically authorized. Pursuant to this act, 410 additional projects, with limits of cost aggregating $85,865,900, were specifically authorized; over 100 sites were purchased; and contracts were made with outside architects for 110 of the buildings. No construction contracts, however, were awarded. Under the act of March 31, 1933, providing for the emergency conservation program of the Government, any moneys previously appropriated for public works, unless obligated in connection with projects on which actual construction had been commenced or might be commenced within 90 days, were allocated to the conservation program. It was therefore necessary to transfer $92,875,200, the unobligated portion of the emergency relief public building appropriation, to the emergency conservation fund; and the awarding of contracts under the emergency relief building program was consequently suspended pending later allocation of funds.

Status of the regular program

The total general authorizations under the several public building acts covering the regular program reached a total of $702,296,794 by June 30, 1933. The specific authorizations, exclusive of certain land site appropriations in the District of Columbia, cover 817 projects at a limit of cost of $465,962,437. The specific appropriations for land sites in the District of Columbia amount to $28,680,000, making the total specific authorizations and appropriations for buildings and land under the regular program $494,642,437. At the end of the fiscal year 1933, 375 projects had been completed at a total limit of cost of $131,490,822, and 360 projects were under contract in whole or in part, amounting to $311,188,858. The remaining projects were in various stages of preparation but not yet under contract for construction. Of the 375 projects completed to June 30, 1933, 169 were completed during the fiscal year 1933.

Expenditures and outstanding contract obligations

Of the $494,642,437 specifically authorized as of June 30, 1933, $426,654,140 in the aggregate had been obligated to that date. Expenditures have been made under these obligations to the amount of $330,065,673, including expenditures for the fiscal year 1933 amounting to $100,653,973. Expenditures in 1933 included $77,383,702 for the country at large and $23,270,271 for the District of Columbia.

Status of Treasury program under the Administrator of Public Works

In view of the consideration in Congress of the National Industrial Recovery Act, proposing the consolidation of all public works under a Public Works Administrator, the awarding of construction contracts under the regular public building program in the Treasury was suspended in March 1933. With the passage of that act on June 16, 1933, new public building construction by the Treasury was made subject to the approval of the Administrator of Public Works.

The status of public building work in the Office of the Supervising Architect is set forth in detail in the section beginning on page 141 of this report.

Transfer of office

The Executive order of June 10, 1933, provided for the transfer of the Office of the Supervising Architect to the Division of Procurement¹ authorized under that order.

FEDERAL FARM LOAN BUREAU

The Federal Farm Loan Bureau, which had been a part of the Treasury Department since passage of the Federal Farm Loan Act in 1916, was transferred to the Farm Credit Administration on May 27, 1933, in a general consolidation of agricultural credit agencies. The Federal Farm Loan Board was abolished by the same Executive order, except for the office of Farm Loan Commissioner, the title of which was changed to office of Land Bank Commissioner on June 16, 1933. The activities of the bureau and of the Land Bank Commissioner were affected in important respects by agricultural credit legislation enacted in the latter half of the fiscal year 1933.

Further information regarding the activities of the Bureau is presented on pages 92 to 95 of this report.

Federal land banks

The powers of the Federal land banks were greatly increased under the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, approved May 12, 1933. The banks were authorized to make loans direct to farmers in communities where there were no national farm loan associations or where existing associations were not functioning. The maximum amount that might be loaned to one individual was increased from $25,000 to $50,000. Interest rates on both new and outstanding loans were reduced for a period of 5 years. Authority was given to issue during the 2-year period beginning May 12, 1933, a new type of bond, in an amount up to $2,000,000,000, the interest on which will be fully and unconditionally guaranteed by the United States.¹ The banks were also authorized to acquire first farm mortgages, either through the payment of cash or in exchange for the new bonds to be issued.

In addition to the new powers given to the Federal land banks, a fund of $200,000,000 was made available to the Land Bank Commissioner for the purpose of making emergency loans to farmers. Under this provision, loans may be made to any farmer, upon the security of first or second mortgages upon real or personal property in an amount not exceeding 75 percent of the normal value of the property, to be used for refinancing any indebtedness, for providing working capital for farm operations, or for enabling any farmer to redeem or repurchase his farm property foreclosed subsequent to June 30, 1931. These loans are administered by the Federal land banks as agents of the Commissioner, but the notes and mortgages evidencing the loans are not pledged as collateral for any issue of bonds and form no part of the assets of the Federal land banks.

It was necessary for the Federal land banks greatly to enlarge their personnel to handle the heavy pressure of loan applications resulting from this legislation. The number of land bank appraisers was increased from 210 on April 1 to 464 on June 30, 1933.

The volume of loans closed during the last few months of the year was substantially greater than in the same months of the preceding year. During May and June the banks closed 1,921 loans for $6,903,789, compared with 1,319 loans for $5,157,400 in the same months of 1932. In addition, the Land Bank Commissioner during

May and June of 1933 closed 77 loans for $180,150. Exclusive of the Commissioner's loans, the banks closed a total of 9,020 loans for $32,738,700 during the fiscal year 1933, compared with 7,257 loans for $27,445,700 during the preceding year.

The legislation also authorized the appropriation of funds from the Treasury for the purpose of reimbursing the banks for extensions, deferment of principal payments, and reduction of interest rates. To provide for reimbursements of extensions and principal deferments, the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized, with the approval of the Land Bank Commissioner, to subscribe on behalf of the United States to the paid-in surplus of the Federal land banks from a fund of $50,000,000 authorized for the purpose. An appropriation of $15,000,000 was authorized to compensate the banks for the reduction of interest rates during the fiscal year 1934, and such additional amounts as may be necessary were authorized for subsequent years up to June 30, 1938. As of June 30, 1933, no subscriptions to paid-in surplus and no withdrawals on account of interest reductions had been made.

During the year the banks retired $304,210 of the capital stock owned by the Government. Of this amount $242,545 represented subscriptions made during 1932. The balance, $61,665, represented retirements of stock in the Springfield and Berkeley banks originally subscribed in 1917. On June 30, 1933, the total capital stock of the Federal land banks owned by the Government was $124,871,729.25 or 66.2 percent of the entire capital stock of the banks.

Joint stock land banks

With regard to joint stock land banks, the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act provides that—

After the date of enactment of this act, no joint stock land bank shall issue any tax-exempt bonds or make any farm loans except such as are necessary and incidental to the refinancing of existing loans or bond issues or to the sale of any real estate now owned or hereafter acquired by such bank.

Federal intermediate credit banks

The new legislation also included measures which eventually will have an important effect upon the operations of the Federal intermediate credit banks. The Farm Credit Act of 1933, approved June 16, 1933, provides for a system of production credit associations, with authority to rediscount their notes with the intermediate credit banks, thus providing for the establishment of short-term credit facilities broadly paralleling those of the Federal land banks and national farm loan associations for long-term mortgage credit.

The loans to and discounts for financing institutions by the Federal intermediate credit banks during the fiscal year 1933 totaled $155,625,217.92, including renewals, compared with the total during the preceding year of $126,518,039.90. In addition, loans made by the Federal intermediate credit banks to cooperative marketing associations amounted to $39,107,239.25, comparing with a total of $128,-308,196.47 in the year preceding.

A gradual decrease in the rate of interest borne by successive issues of debentures sold during the year enabled the banks to reduce the rates charged on their loans and discounts. Debentures in the amount of $108,185,000 were sold by the banks during 1933.

The authorized and paid-in capital of the twelve Federal intermediate credit banks is $60,000,000, equally distributed. Of the total capital, all of which was subscribed by the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the United States, $32,000,000 had been paid in at the beginning of the fiscal year. During the year the remaining $28,-000,000 was paid in as the Federal intermediate credit banks of Houston and Spokane called for $2,000,000 each; and the Federal intermediate credit banks of Springfield, Baltimore, Louisville, New Orleans, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, and Wichita, for $3,000,000 each.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS

Under the Tariff Act of 1930, as supplemented by the Revenue Act of 1932, customs receipts for the fiscal year 1933 amounted to $251,000,000. This represented the smallest total for any year since 1919, and was $77,000,000, or 23 percent, less than for the fiscal year 1932, despite the fact that about $11,000,000 was collected under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932. This decrease in customs receipts in 1933 was due to a reduction in the quantity of imports, and to a general decline in values—partly as a result of the depreciation in foreign currencies.

An upward trend in receipts became apparent during the last 2 months of the fiscal year 1933.

The value of imports entered free of duty during the past year was 64.3 percent of the total value of the imports for consumption, as compared with 66.7 percent for 1932 and 69 percent for 1931.

The general trade situation and customs collections are summarized by fiscal years in the following table:

Merchandise exports and imports and customs collections, 1929 to 1933

[In millions of dollars]

Fiscal year	Exports	Imports	Excess of exports over imports	Customs receipts ¹
1929.....	5, 373	4, 292	1, 082	602
1930.....	4, 694	3, 849	845	587
1931.....	3, 083	2, 452	651	378
1932.....	1, 948	1, 730	218	328

The value of imports in 1933 amounted to approximately $1,168,000,000, or 32 percent less than in 1932. Practically all classes of general imports participated in the decline in value. The largest proportionate decreases occurred in crude materials and finished manufactures. These two classes showed decreases of 40 percent, whereas imports of semimanufactures decreased 34 percent, and of crude and manufactured foodstuffs 19 and 13 percent, respectively.

The following table shows the decreases in value of dutiable imports between 1932 and 1933 of six commodity imports, which together have produced approximately 50 percent of the customs duties received during the past several years:

Value of imports of leading revenue-producing commodities during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933

[General imports; dollars in millions]

	1932	1933	Decrease
			Percent
Cane sugar.....	56.5	37.4	34
Tobacco, unmanufactured.....	31.9	20.7	35
Wool and mohair, unmanufactured.....	11.4	4.0	65
Wool manufactures, including semimanufactures.....	18.8	11.4	39
Cotton manufactures, including semimanufactures.....	34.2	24.4	29
Silk manufactures.....	12.5	5.1	59
Other dutiable commodities.....	418.5	321.6	23
Total dutiable imports.....	583.8	424.6	27

The value of the imports of each of the above commodities declined to a greater extent than the total value of the combined dutiable commodities imported, so that the proportion of the combined value of the imports of these six leading commodities to the value of total dutiable imports declined from 28 percent in 1932 to 24 percent in 1933.

A more complete statement of the activities of the Bureau of Customs is presented on pages 83 to 88 of this report.

NONFISCAL ACTIVITIES

Coast Guard

During the year the Coast Guard performed important services along customary lines. Chief among its activities were those relating to the ice patrol of the trans-Atlantic steamship lanes in the vicinity of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland; the patrol of the coast—including aircraft patrol—in aid of vessels and persons in distress; the annual patrol of the North Pacific Ocean, Bering Sea, and southeastern Alaska; the enforcement activities in connection with customs, navigation, motorboat, and other United States laws, and with rules and regulations governing the anchorage and movements of vessels at ports and other places; and the preservation of life and property at sea and along the coasts.

Conditions were unusual during the ice observation season, no icebergs drifting far enough south to be a menace to North Atlantic lane routes, and ice observation service was discontinued June 26, 1933. In pursuance of the recommendation of the Interdepartmental Board on International Service of Ice Observation and Ice Patrol, a northern oceanographic cruise was made between June 26 and July 27, 1933, to observe ice conditions, ocean currents, bathymetry, and upper air currents in the Davis Strait area between Greenland and Labrador. The unusually ice-free situation prevailing during the season made this cruise of especial value in connection with the studies undertaken by the International Service in furtherance of its knowledge of conditions bearing upon the ice menace in the North Atlantic Ocean.

The following is a summary of the principal operations of the Coast Guard which are susceptible of statistical presentation:

	1932	1933	Increase (+) or de- crease (-)
Lives saved or persons rescued from peril.....	5,214	6,492	+1,278

Numerous activities of the Service having to do with the development of increased efficiency and effectiveness of personnel and equipment were carried forward during the year.

A more detailed account of these and other operations of the Coast Guard will be found on pages 74 to 80 of this report.

Public Health Service

The Public Health Service continued its highly important work which has to do mainly with the study, prevention, and cure of disease. During the year it continued its cooperation with State and local health authorities in the prevention of the interstate spread of disease and in demonstrations of rural sanitation.

Research activities were directed to such major problems as those concerning cancer, heart disease, leprosy, spotted fever, pellagra, plague, psittacosis, and venereal diseases. Important studies of health conditions in certain industries and among the unemployed were made. Mental hygiene activities were continued, including supervision of medical, psychiatric, and technical services for the Federal prisons under the control of the Department of Justice, and studies dealing with the medical and scientific needs of the country for narcotic drugs, and with the medico-social problems of drug addiction.

Work was continued in the prevention of the introduction of communicable disease from foreign areas, and improvements were developed in methods and control of fumigation.

The draft of the International Sanitary Convention for Air Navigation was adopted by the Permanent Committee of the International Office of Public Hygiene in Paris at its session in April and May 1932. The Government of the United States has signified its willingness to sign the convention with certain reservations, and many of the 12 countries already signatory to the convention have informally indicated acquiescence to the reservations of the United States.

The activities of the Public Health Service are more fully presented on pages 132 to 139 of this report.

Bureau of Narcotics

The policy of the Bureau of Narcotics in directing its main activities against major narcotic law violators, and toward the elimination of the sources of illicit narcotic drugs and the channels of their distribution has resulted in the suppression of illicit narcotic traffic to such an extent that the available quantity of illicit drugs was probably less during the fiscal year 1933 than at any time since 1915, when the Harrison narcotic law went into effect. Progress in the control of the narcotic traffic has been due in no small part to cooperation with other governments under an arrangement for the direct international exchange of information relating to illicit narcotic shipments between countries and to cooperation with the Bureau of Customs in confiscating illicit shipments to this country.

The uniform State narcotic law, drafted with the cooperation of the Bureau of Narcotics, was approved by the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and by the American Bar Association in October 1932. To date Florida, Nevada, New Jersey, and New York have adopted the law with little or no amendment.

The Convention for Limiting the Manufacture and Regulating the Distribution of Narcotic Drugs, first ratified by the United States on March 31, 1932, was ratified or acceded to by 38 other governments and went into effect July 9, 1933. An outstanding feature of this convention is an agreement to limit the manufacture of habit-forming derivatives of opium and coca leaves to a quantity sufficient for the world's medical and scientific needs.

A fuller account of the activities of the Bureau will be found on pages 123 and 124 of this report.

Bureau of Industrial Alcohol

The Bureau of Industrial Alcohol supervises the lawful production and distribution of alcohol and alcoholic liquors. The administration of the statutes entails supervision of the operations of the largest chemical and drug manufacturers, as well as of the use of alcohol and medicinal liquors by physicians, hospitals, schools, and laboratories, and of wines for sacramental purposes.

On June 30, 1933, there were 196,666 permits in force for the various uses of alcohol and other liquors, including 357 permits issued under the act of March 22, 1933, authorizing the manufacture and sale of beer, wine, and fruit juice containing not more than 3.2 percent of alcohol by weight.

The provisions of the National Prohibition Act relating to the prescribing of medicinal liquors were liberalized by the act of March 31, 1933. This law removed the limitation on the number of liquor prescriptions physicians were permitted to write; and under this act joint regulations were issued by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General allowing physicians to prescribe sufficient medicinal liquors to meet patients' needs for 30 days, or, upon notice to the Supervisor of Permits, up to 90 days.

A more detailed account of the activities of the Bureau is presented on pages 97 to 101 of this report.

Attention is invited to the attached reports of other bureaus and divisions of the Treasury Department and to the exhibits and tables accompanying the report on the finances.

W. H. WOODIN,
Secretary of the Treasury.

ADMINISTRATIVE REPORTS OF BUREAUS AND DIVISIONS

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF ACCOUNTS AND DEPOSITS

Daily Statement of the United States Treasury

In the Daily Statement of the United States Treasury, the Treasury Department makes available to the public daily information with respect to the receipts and expenditures of the Government, the condition of the Treasury, and the public debt. Effective July 1, 1933, several important changes were made in the form in which receipts and expenditures are exhibited in the daily statements. The more important changes involved the consolidation of transactions pertaining to the general fund and so-called special funds, heretofore classified separately; the segregation of emergency expenditures from the general expenditures of the Government; and the showing separately of certain major items of expenditures such as those for national defense, Veterans' Administration, public highway construction, and public building sites and construction. The new form of statement also shows the gross public debt outstanding each day and the important factors resulting in the daily changes therein.

A copy of the announcement of July 1, 1933, relating to the inauguration of the new form of statement, is printed as exhibit 38, on page 268 of this report.

Treasury accounts

Under the act of September 2, 1789, creating the Treasury Department, and acts amendatory thereto, the official accounts relating to the receipts, appropriations, and expenditures of the several executive departments and establishments of the Government are maintained on the books of the Treasury. Until recently the appropriation accounts of the Department reflected only the appropriations provided by the Congress for carrying on the several activities of the Government, and the warrants issued by the Treasury against such appropriations on requisitions of the several departments and establishments for the advancement of money to disbursing officers and for the payment of direct settlements of the accounting officers.

Under an Executive order issued by the President on July 27, 1933, the Treasury's system of appropriation accounts was amplified so as to show not only the warrants issued by the Treasury Department for the purpose of advancing money to disbursing officers and for the payment of claims settled by the accounting officers, but also the monthly apportionments of appropriations approved by the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to section 16 of the Executive order of June 10, 1933 (No. 6166), and the obligations incurred thereunder.

The purpose of the Executive order is to provide a centralized system of budgetary accounts through which more effective executive control may be maintained over the obligation of public funds and consequently over the cash withdrawals from the Treasury. In order that the books of the Treasury may reflect currently the status of each appropriation and fund available for expenditure, the head of each executive department, independent establishment, and governmental corporation operating on public funds is required to furnish the Treasury Department a weekly report of obligations incurred and such other reports as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time require. The order provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall furnish the Director of the Bureau of the Budget such reports covering the status of appropriations and funds available for expenditure as the Director may require.

Executive Order No. 6226 of July 27, 1933, is printed as exhibit 39 on page 269 of this report.

Treasury administration of alien and mixed claims

The Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to make payments on account of (1) awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, for claims of American nationals against the Government of Germany; (2) awards of the War Claims Arbitrator for claims of German, Austrian, and Hungarian nationals against the Government of the United States; and (3) awards of the Tripartite Claims Commission for claims of American nationals against the Governments of Austria and Hungary.

The time within which claimants receiving awards from the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, and the Tripartite Claims Commission, United States, Austria and Hungary, could file application, expired on March 10, 1933. Congress, however, by act of June 12, 1933 (Public Res. No. 11, 73d Cong.) extended the time within which such applications could be filed for a period of an additional year from March 10, 1933. A copy of the act will be found as exhibit 34, page 266 of this report.

Mixed Claims Commission: Claims against Germany.—The payments made by the Treasury to American nationals during the past year on account of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, amounted to only $181,778. These payments represented amounts due to claimants who have been prevented, for one reason or another, from filing application sooner.

Up to October 1, 1933, the Treasury had made payments in the aggregate amount of $134,650,258, on account of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, from which there has been deducted $673,252 representing one half of 1 percent authorized by the Settlement of War Claims Act, making net payments to claimants of $133,977,006. Of the deductions so made, $646,428 has been covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts in accordance with the act as reimbursement to the United States for expenses incurred, and $26,824 has been paid to the German Government or reserved for payments to that Government in accordance with the agreement of December 31, 1928, and the act of Congress approved June 21, 1930, for defraying such expenses as were incurred by that Government in connection with the adjudication of the late claims.

The following summary shows by classes, number, and amount of awards certified to the Treasury by the Secretary of State, the amount paid on account, and the balance due as of September 30, 1933:

³ This amount has been covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

⁴ Of this amount $24,150.09 has been paid to the Government of Germany. A further sum of $2,673.41 is payable in connection with the adjudication of late claims under the agreement of Dec. 31, 1928.

War Claims Arbiter.—Under the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 it was the duty of the War Claims Arbiter, within certain limitations, to hear the claims of the German, Austrian, and Hungarian nationals and to determine the fair compensation to be paid by the United States for ships seized, patents sold or used by the United States, and a radio station sold to the United States.

War Claims Arbiter: Claims of German nationals.—No payments were made during the past year to German nationals on account of awards received by them from the War Claims Arbiter under authority of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928. These claimants had received an aggregate of approximately 50 percent of the principal of their awards up to the end of the fiscal year 1932 out of appropriations provided by Congress for that purpose. No further payments can be made under the scheme of priorities specified in the act until payments aggregating 80 percent of all of the awards entered by the Mixed Claims Commission have been made, and all of the accrued interest on the 5 percent participating certificates issued by the Secretary of the Treasury under section 25 of the Trading with the Enemy Act to the Alien Property Custodian, representing the investment of 20 percent of the amount of the German property retained under the provisions of that act, has been paid. The balance due to the American claimants under paragraph 5 of section 4 (c) of the Settlement of War Claims Act is $2,000,000, or about 5½ percent of the unpaid principal still due. The accrued and unpaid interest due the Alien Property Custodian on account of the participating certificates amounted on September 30, 1933, to $3,357,133.60.

The following summary statement shows the number and amount of awards in favor of German nationals certified to the Treasury for payment by the War Claims Arbiter, and the payments made on account by the Treasury.

War Claims Arbiter: Claims of Austrian and Hungarian nationals.—As pointed out in last year's report, the War Claims Arbiter awarded to Austrian nationals, as the value of 194 patents, the sum of $663,740, together with $248,948 of interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum from July 2, 1921, to December 31, 1928, or a total of $912,688. Up to September 30, 1933, the Treasury has made payment on account of 132 awards in favor of Austrian nationals in the amount of $899,625, together with interest since December 31, 1928, at the rate of 5 percent per annum, in the amount of $146,324. There are two awards remaining unpaid amounting to $13,063.15, together with interest at the rate of 5 percent from December 31, 1928, to September 30, 1933, in the amount of $3,099, or a total of $16,162.15 due Austrian nationals as of this date.

The Arbiter also awarded to Hungarian nationals as the value of 30 patents $39,125, together with $14,675 of interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum from July 2, 1921, to December 31, 1928, or a total of $53,800.

Under the provisions of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, the Secretary of the Treasury is prohibited from making any payments on account of awards entered by the Arbiter in favor of Austrian or Hungarian nationals until those Governments have deposited in the Treasury a sufficient amount to make payments on account of the awards entered by the Tripartite Claims Commission in favor of American nationals against those Governments. The Austrian Government made its deposits to cover the claims entered by the Tripartite Claims Commission, and these claims have practically all been paid. The Hungarian Government did not make any deposits on this account until September 15, 1933. The Treasury is now in process of making payment on account of the awards of the War Claims Arbiter in favor of Hungarian nationals.

Tripartite Claims Commission: Claims against Austria.—A full statement of the payments made to American nationals on account of the awards entered by the Tripartite Claims Commission against Austria was included in the annual reports for the fiscal years 1929 to 1932. No payments were made on the awards during the past year. There is one award unpaid in the amount of $152.18.

Tripartite Claims Commission: Claims against Hungary.—Previous reports pointed out that the Treasury had received up to the end of the fiscal year 1932 from the Government of Hungary the sum of $8,250 in partial satisfaction of the awards entered by the Tripartite Claims Commission against Hungary, in favor of American nationals. It was also pointed out that Hungary had not been in a position to deposit a sufficient amount in the Hungarian special deposit account as required by the Settlement of War Claims Act, to pay these awards, because of certain "most-favored-nation" clauses contained in its debt agreements with France and Italy. The United States consulted these governments regarding the waiver of the "most-favored-nation" clauses. After extended correspondence, particularly with the Government of France, it received from those governments assurances that they would renounce the right to claim "most-favored-nation" treatment in the case under consideration. About the time that these governments agreed to renounce their rights, the financial situation in Hungary became so acute that it was necessary to suspend payments on Hungarian foreign debts and to put into effect strict foreign exchange regulations so that that government could control all foreign exchange transactions. The past year, however has witnessed the consummation of the matter. Arrangements were made between the Hungarian Government and the Liquidators of the Austro-Hungarian National Bank whereby the latter turned over to Hungary out of their funds held by the Alien Property Custodian, the sum of $191,000, which Hungary paid to the Treasury for deposit in the Hungarian special deposit account for the purpose of making payment on account of the awards entered by the Tripartite Claims Commission against Hungary in favor of American nationals. This deposit was only made on September 15, 1933. Regulations were issued under date of September 12, 1933, and transmitted to the claimants under date of September 14, 1933, together with forms of application for payment. The Department is finally prepared to make payment on account of these awards.

The following statement shows the amounts deposited in the Hungarian special deposit account, the amounts paid therefrom up to September 30, 1933, and the balance remaining therein.

The Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. defaulted on the principal of the equipment trust note due January 15, 1933, in the amount of $33,600. A reduction was made in the obligations acquired under section 210 of the Transportation Act, 1920, as amended, due to payments amounting to $443,633.33, received on account of the obligations of various carriers. For detailed statements of the obligations held and payments made on account of principal, see tables 38 and 39, pages 370 and 371.

Section 204.—There have been no transactions under section 204 since June 30, 1931. The total payments under this section have amounted to $10,967,801.80.

Sections 209 and 212.—In the annual reports of 1925, 1926, and 1927, attention was called to overpayments made to certain carriers under sections 209 and 212 of the Transportation Act, 1920, as amended, which were then in litigation. On November 7, 1932, the Supreme Court of the United States affirmed a decision of the District Court of the United States for the District of Minnesota to the effect that the Great Northern Railway Co. was not obligated to repay the United States the amount of $1,329,785.98 overpaid the carrier. This decision eliminated the claims of the United States against the Oregon Electric Railway Company, in the amount of $25,741.83, and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway Company, in the amount of $104,273.48, for overpayments under section 212. Claims against the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. and the Missouri North Arkansas Railroad Co. (receiver) in the amounts of $292,022.23 and $41,375.46, respectively, are pending in the Department of Justice.

As a result of the above decision of the Supreme Court, there was refunded to the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Co. during the fiscal year 1933 the sum of $223,066.62 growing out of a repayment to the United States of an overpayment under sections 209 and 212. Of this amount $198,484.95 represented principal and $24,581.67 represented interest. Due to this refund, the payments under sections 209 and 212 were increased to $531,954,530.66.

Section 210.—This section established a revolving fund of $300,000,000 to be used for loans to railroads under the conditions set forth in a certificate of the Interstate Commerce Commission authorizing each loan, and also for paying judgments, decrees, and awards rendered against the Director General of Railroads. No new loans are being made as the time for making application has expired. The net expenditures by the Director General during the fiscal year under this section, after deducting repayments, amounted to $115,617.60, making net expenditures by him on this account of $33,627,475.25 to June 30, 1933.

For a statement showing the principal amount of obligations held as of June 30, 1932 and 1933, on account of loans made, see table 39, page 371.

The following statement shows the amounts of principal and interest due from carriers in default as of June 30, 1933, on account of their obligations for loans under this section:

Total	13,441,591,969.60	14,776,524,896.65	+1,334,932,927.05

A decrease of $419,000 on account of principal payments during the fiscal year 1933 was offset by an increase of $419,000 on account of an adjustment in connection with the capital stock of the Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co.

There was a net decrease during the year of $80,067,924.21 in the principal amount of foreign obligations held by the United States. This decrease was due principally to payments received from the following governments: Finland, $58,000; Great Britain, $80,000,000; and Latvia, $9,200.

There was a net increase of about $6,820,000 in account of the capital stock of war emergency corporations due to the decrease of cash balances held by those corporations in the Treasury, which cash balances are offset against the capital stock of these corporations owned by the United States.

Other increases comprise $1,290,224,000 representing net payments against credits established on account of the purchase by the Secretary of the Treasury of obligations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act; $42,970,000 for capital stock of Federal home loan banks and $1,000,000 for capital stock of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation; an increase of $28,000,000 in the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks; and a net decrease of about $4,245,000 in miscellaneous securities.

A detailed statement of the securities held on June 30, 1933, will be found as table 37, page 367.

Trust funds invested by the Treasury

Adjusted service certificate fund.—Investments for the account of the adjusted service certificate fund, created by the act of May 19, 1924, were made during the fiscal year 1933 in special issues of Treasury obligations bearing interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum in accordance with the procedure outlined on pages 118-120 of the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the fiscal year 1925.

Investments made during the year amounted to $129,911,000, of which $100,000,000 represented funds appropriated by Congress under the provisions of Public No. 228, approved June 30, 1932; $129,000,000 represented the principal proceeds of maturing notes reinvested; and $3,000,000 was derived from interest on investments. During the year $242,900,000 face amount of securities were redeemed on account of the adjusted service certificate fund, the proceeds of which, together with interest thereon, were credited to the fund.

Civil service retirement and disability fund.—The civil service retirement and disability fund was created by the act of May 22, 1920. During 1933 the Treasury continued to make investments for account of the fund in special issues of Treasury notes bearing interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum in accordance with the procedure outlined in the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the fiscal year 1926.

Total credits to the fund during the fiscal year amounted to $61,246,090.74, of which $30,493,792.21 was on account of deductions from basic compensation of employees and service credit payments, $9,752,298.53 represented interest on investments, $20,850,000 was appropriated by Congress to fulfill the current liability of the United States Government in connection with the fund, and $150,000 was appropriated from the revenues of the District of Columbia to cover its liability on account of the fund. The total earnings and profits on investments to June 30, 1933, amounted to $49,230,630.28.

Canal Zone retirement and disability fund.—The Canal Zone retirement and disability fund was created by section 9 of the act of March 2, 1931 (46 Stat. L. 1477). It is under the administrative supervision of the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, but under section 10 of the act the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to make investments from time to time of such portions of the fund as in his judgment may not be immediately required for the payment of the annuities, refunds, and allowances authorized by the act, the income from such investments to be credited to the fund.

Investments for account of this fund in the face amount of $197,000 were made during the fiscal year 1933 in special issues of Treasury notes bearing interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum in accordance with the procedure outlined on page 125 of the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the fiscal year 1931. Redemptions during the year amounted to $4,000 face amount, making net investments of $193,000 for the year. Credits to the fund during the year aggregated $560,930.88, of which $475,945.57 was on account of deductions from basic compensation of employees and service credit payments, and $84,985.31 represented earnings on investments.

The Board received on account of the securities held in the donation of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge the sum of $250 representing 5 percent payment on account of $5,000 face amount of Chicago Railway 5 percent bonds. The Board also received on account of the R. R. Bowker donation $5,000, representing principal payment at maturity of the first mortgage 5 percent gold bonds of the Detroit Edison Co. During the past year the Board accepted a fund aggregating $1,350, subject to proposed future additions, to constitute an endowment under the title of "The Nicholas Longworth Foundation in the Library of Congress", the income to be applied to "the furtherance of music." The Board accepted during the year from the Bankers Trust Co., trustee, the sum of $103,666.81 in settlement of the claims of the Board under article 8 of a certain Indenture of Trust executed by the late James B. Wilbur on March 5, 1928. On February 24, 1933, the Board adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That of the amount ($103,666.81) received under Article 8 of Mr. James B. Wilbur's Indenture of Trust dated March 5, 1928, the sum of $75,000 constitute an endowment for a Chair of Geography in the Library, to be associated with the conduct of its Division of Maps, and that the balance of $28,666.81 constitute an endowment the income of which shall be applicable in the discretion of the Librarian to expert service in its Division of Manuscripts in the treatment of source material for American History.

On March 22, 1933, the shareholders of the Elgin National Watch Co. voted to decrease the capital of the company by changing the par value of the stock from $25 a share to $15 a share. Accordingly, 375 shares of stock of a par value of $25 a share, or $9,375, held for account of the Coolidge donation were exchanged for 375 shares of a par value of $15 a share, or $5,625.

United States Government life insurance fund.—Under the provisions of section 18 of the act approved December 24, 1919, as amended March 4, 1923, the Secretary of the Treasury is required to invest in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or in bonds of the Federal land banks all moneys received in payment of premiums on converted insurance in excess of authorized payments. The act approved March 3, 1927, as amended by the Emergency Adjusted Compensation Act of February 27, 1931, authorized the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs to make loans to veterans upon their adjusted service certificates out of the United States Government life insurance fund. All of the funds available for investment during the fiscal year 1933 were used to make loans to veterans. The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs reported outstanding loans to veterans from this fund, June 30, 1933, on policies and adjusted service certificates, aggregating $514,002,518.51.

Monthly reports are made by the Treasury to the Veterans' Administration of all securities in the fund and the principal cost thereof as the result of investments made by the Secretary of the Treasury, and periodic verifications of the security holdings are made through reports rendered to the Administrator by the safekeeping offices.

The investments as of June 30, 1933, were as follows:

General railroad contingent fund.—The general railroad contingent fund was created by paragraph 6 of section 15 (a) of the Interstate Commerce Act, approved June 18, 1910, as amended by the act of February 28, 1920 (41 Stat. 489). Under the provisions of this section any carrier, which received for any year a net railway operating income in excess of 6 percent of the value of the railway's property held for and used by it in the service of transportation, was required to place one half of such excess in a reserve fund established and maintained by and for use of the carrier, the other half to be paid to the Government for deposit in the general railroad contingent fund.

Moneys in the general railroad contingent fund have been invested by the Secretary of the Treasury from time to time in interest-bearing obligations of the United States in accordance with advices received from the Interstate Commerce Commission. The interest and profits on investments have amounted to $3,735,720.97, which represents an average earning rate of 5.02 percent per annum.

At the beginning of the fiscal year the Treasury held for account of the general railroad contingent fund $9,799,300 face amount of 3½ percent Treasury bonds of 1941-43 and $3,630,000 face amount of 4 percent Treasury bonds of 1944-54. During the fiscal year the Secretary purchased $461,450 face amount of 3½ percent Treasury bonds of 1941-43. On July 21, 1932, $776,100 face amount of 4 percent Treasury bonds of 1944-54 was sold to provide funds to meet a payment to the Illinois Terminal Company, and in July 1933 all bonds held for account of the fund, aggregating $13,114,650 face amount, were sold to carry out the provisions of the act of June 16, 1933.

Under the provisions of section 15 (a) of the Interstate Commerce Act as amended by section 206 (a) of the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933, approved June 16, 1933, the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to liquidate the general railroad contingent fund and to distribute the fund among the carriers which have made payments under that section.

Section 206 (a) of the act of June 16, 1933, supra, provides:

All moneys which were recoverable by and payable to the Interstate Commerce Commission, under paragraph (6) of section 15a of the Interstate Commerce Act, as in force prior to the enactment of this title, shall cease to be so recoverable and payable; and all proceedings pending for the recovery of any such moneys shall be terminated. The general railroad contingent fund established under such section shall be liquidated and the Secretary of the Treasury shall distribute the moneys in such fund among the carriers which have made payments under such section, so that each such carrier shall receive an amount bearing the same ratio to the total amount in such fund that the total of amounts paid under such section by such carrier bears to the total of amounts paid under such section by all carriers; except that if the total amount in such fund exceeds the total of amounts paid under such section by all carriers such excess shall be distributed among such carriers upon the basis of the average rate of earnings (as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury) on the investment of the moneys in such fund and differences in dates of payments by such carriers.

A statement showing the distribution by the Secretary of the Treasury of the general railroad contingent fund, pursuant to section 206 (a) of the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933, is included in this report as exhibit 40, page 270. Upon request of the Department the vouchers covering the distribution were audited by the General Accounting Office before payment.

National Institute of Health gift fund.—The National Institute of Health was created by the act of May 26, 1930 (46 Stat. 379), for the purpose of creating a system of fellowships in said institute, and to authorize the Government to accept donations for use in ascertaining the cause, prevention, and cure of diseases affecting human beings, and for other purposes.

Under the provisions of section 2 of the act the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to accept, on behalf of the United States, gifts made unconditionally by will or otherwise for study, investigation, and research in the fundamental problems of diseases of man and matters pertaining thereto, and for the acquisition of grounds or for the erection, equipment, and maintenance of buildings and premises.

The Secretary of the Treasury is also authorized to accept conditional gifts if recommended by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service and the National Advisory Health Council. Any such gifts shall be held in trust and shall be invested by the Secretary of the Treasury in securities of the United States, and the principal or income thereof shall be expended by the Surgeon General, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, for the purposes indicated in the act.

No gifts were received during the year. In order to meet expenditures of the institute, $1,000 face amount of 4¼ percent Treasury bonds of 1947-52 was sold. The receipts and expenditures during the year were as follows:

Longshoremen's and harbor workers' compensation fund.—This fund was established under the act of March 4, 1927 (44 Stat. 1444, sec. 44), to provide for the payment of compensation for disability or death resulting from injury to employees in certain maritime employments, and for the maintenance of employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation. Each employer is required to pay into the fund the sum of $1,000 as compensation for the death of an employee of such employer resulting from injury where it is determined that there is no person entitled under the act to receive compensation for such death. Fifty percent of each such payment shall be available for the payments on account of injury increasing disability and 50 percent shall be available for the payments on account of maintenance for employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation.

The fund is administered by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission. Moneys not required for immediate disbursement are invested by the Treasurer of the United States.

Special funds

Colorado River Dam fund.—This fund was established under the act of December 21, 1928, to provide for the construction of works commonly referred to as the Boulder Canyon project. All revenues received in carrying out the provisions of the act are payable into the fund. Expenditures are made out of the fund under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to advance to the fund, from time to time within the appropriations therefor, such amounts as the Secretary of the Interior deems necessary for carrying out the provisions of the act, except that the aggregate amount of such advances shall not exceed the sum of $165,000,000. Of this amount $25,000,000 shall be allocated to flood control and shall be repaid to the United States out of 62½ percent of revenues, if any, in excess of the amount necessary to meet periodical payments during the period of amortization, as provided in section 4 of the act. If the $25,000,000 is not repaid in full during the period of amortization, then 62½ percent of all net revenues shall be applied to payment of the remainder.

The Secretary of the Treasury is required to charge the fund as of June 30 each year with such amount as may be necessary for the payment of interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum accrued during the year upon the amounts advanced from the General Treasury and remaining unpaid, except that if the fund is insufficient to meet the payment of interest the Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, defer any part of such payment, and the amount so deferred shall bear interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum until paid. Under an opinion of the Attorney General of the United States, dated December 26, 1929, funds advanced from the General Treasury to the Colorado River Dam fund for construction costs of the all-American canal are not subject to the interest charge. To date, however, no funds have been advanced to the fund on account of the all-American canal.

On June 30, 1932, the liability of the Colorado River Dam fund to the General Fund of the Treasury amounted to $19,119,504.72 representing advances in the sum of $18,764,474.80, and interest in the amount of $355,029.92, payment of which had been deferred for a period of one year from June 30, 1932. Interest on the sum of $19,119,504.72 for a full year at the rate of 4 percent per annum, amounting to $764,780.19, was chargeable to the fund on June 30, 1933. Additional advances were made from time to time during the year in the aggregate amount of $19,709,297.48, the interest on which from the respective dates of advances to June 30, 1933, amounted to $396,707.99. Upon recommendation of the Secretary of the Interior and in accordance with the authority contained in section 2 (d) of the act of December 21, 1928, the Secretary of the Treasury deferred for one year the payment of the total amount of interest due on June 30, 1933, of $1,516,518.10, consisting of the above-mentioned sums of $355,029.92, $764,780.19, and $396,707.99. The liability of the Colorado River Dam fund to the General Fund on June 30, 1933, amounted to $39,990,290.38, consisting of $38,473,772.28 principal and $1,516,518.10 interest.

The status of the fund as of June 30, 1933, was as follows:

Advances to reclamation fund.—Under the act of Congress approved June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), there was established in the Treasury a special fund known as the reclamation fund, representing receipts from the sale of public lands in certain States and Territories to be used for the construction of irrigation works for the reclamation of arid lands. Pursuant to the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 835), the Secretary of the Treasury advanced to the reclamation fund from the General Fund of the Treasury $20,000,000. The act of June 12, 1917 (40 Stat. 149), provides for the reimbursement of the money so advanced through the transfer of $1,000,000 annually from the reclamation fund to the General Fund of the Treasury beginning July 1, 1920, and continuing until full reimbursement is made. Beginning with the fiscal year 1921 there has been returned to the General Fund $1,000,000 annually, making a total of $10,000,000 for the ten years ended with the fiscal year 1930. The Deficiency Act of February 6, 1931, provided for a suspension of the annual payments for a period of two years and the act of April 1, 1932, provided a further extension until the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1934.

The Deficiency Act of March 4, 1931, authorized an additional advance to the reclamation fund from the General Fund of $5,000,000 all of which was advanced between April 28, 1931, and November 30, 1931.

³ Includes 1,885 national banks and 1,242 State banks and trust companies, 1,184 of which held deposits on June 30, 1933.

The continuation of unsettled banking conditions during the first few months of the fiscal year, the President's proclamation of March 6, 1933, declaring a bank holiday, the Emergency Banking Act approved March 9, 1933, and the Banking Act of 1933, approved June 16, 1933, all directly affected the depository system of the Treasury and created an unprecedented volume of work in providing adequate depository facilities for the transaction of the essential business of the Government at points not readily accessible to the Federal Reserve banks and their branches. Prior to the bank holiday numerous liquidations and reorganizations required many changes and adjustments within the system. Following the declaration of the bank holiday 93 general depositories and approximately 350 limited depositories were operating on a restricted basis. In order to avoid the necessity of designating new depositories at these points, with the probable resultant loss of the Government deposits to the unlicensed banks upon reopening, it was necessary to adopt temporary expedients in many instances. This procedure, while increasing the work of the Department, is believed to have been beneficial to the conservators of the banks in perfecting plans for reorganization and reopening. At the end of September approximately 21 general and 135 limited depositories are operating on a restricted basis.

During the fiscal year 89 depository banks were closed for liquidation. All Government deposits with these banks have been paid in full with the exception of eight which are now in process of settlement.

Since January 1, 1913, Government depositories, with the exception of Federal Reserve banks, have been required to pay interest on daily balances. On the basis of reports received to date the interest accrued on balances carried with special depositories during the fiscal year 1933, and the interest pertaining to prior periods which was delayed in collection, was ¹ $1,910,237.77. The total amount accrued from this source from April 24, 1917, to June 30, 1933, was ¹ $90,858,013.13. Interest accrued on balances carried with other depositories during the year, and the interest pertaining to prior periods which was delayed in collection, was ¹ $131,253.56. The total interest accrued from this latter source since June 1, 1913, was ¹ $21,105,103.86, making total interest from all depositories of $111,963,116.99.

Section 11 (b) of the Banking Act of 1933 provides that, with certain exceptions, no member bank shall pay interest on deposits payable on demand. All Government deposits maintained with depositories under the supervision of the Treasury are in the nature of demand deposits and, while the act above cited made provision that interest may be paid in accordance with the terms of any contract entered into in good faith prior to the passage of the act and which was in force on the date of the enactment of this provision, the act also provides that no contract shall be renewed or extended unless it shall conform to section 11 (b), supra. Therefore, in order to conform with the spirit of the act, the Treasury determined to waive its rights to collect interest under existing contracts with depository banks effective June 15, 1933, in the case of special depositories and effective July 1, 1933, in the case of general and limited depositories.

Amendments to Department Circulars No. 92 and No. 176 in this connection will be found as exhibits 35 to 37, on pages 267 and 268.

The existing provisions of the law require that Government deposits with designated depositaries shall be secured by Government bonds or otherwise and the Treasury regulations heretofore have required collateral security equal to the maximum amount of the Government deposits carried with banks.

Section of Surety Bonds

On June 30, 1933, there were 64 domestic companies holding certificates of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury under the act of Congress approved August 13, 1894, as amended by the act of Congress approved March 23, 1910, qualifying them as sole sureties on recognizances, stipulations, bonds, and undertakings permitted or required by the laws of the United States, to be given with one or more sureties. There were also two domestic companies and five branches of foreign companies holding certificates of authority authorizing them to act only as reinsurers on bonds in favor of the United States. Further changes to Aug. 31, 1933: Certificates terminated, companies in liquidation.....	2
Companies authorized as of Aug. 31, 1933.....	69

In accordance with the practice of the Treasury, a number of departmental circulars to the heads of departments and independent establishments of the Government, bond-approving officers, and others concerned, have been issued during the past year to advise such officials of the status of the bonds in favor of the United States executed by the companies whose certificates of authority were terminated. These circulars are numbered as follows: 473 to 476, 478, 479, 483 to 487, 492, 493, 495 to 497.

DIVISION OF APPOINTMENTS

Number of employees

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1933, there was a net reduction of 458 in the number of employees in the Treasury Department in Washington. The larger part of this reduction resulted from the transfer on May 27, 1933, of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau with 139 employees to the Farm Credit Administration, and from a decrease of 198 employees in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Due to increased activities in the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency in connection with insolvent and unlicensed national banks, the force of that office was increased by 84 employees.

In the field service the force was reduced from 51,901 on June 30, 1932, to 48,922 on June 30, 1933, a net decrease of 2,979. The principal decreases were in the enlisted personnel of the Coast Guard and in the Public Health Service. Considerable increases occurred in the Custodian Service, due to the occupancy of new buildings, and in the engineering force of the Office of the Supervising Architect.

The number of employees in the departmental service of the Treasury, classified according to bureaus and offices at the end of each month from June 30, 1932, to June 30, 1933, is shown in table 50, page 386 of this report. A comparison of the number of employees in the departmental and field services of the Treasury on June 30, 1932, and June 30, 1933, is contained in table 51, page 387.

Retirement of employees

From September 1, 1932, to August 31, 1933, 313 persons were retired from the departmental service of the Treasury Department, 34 of whom were retired by their own option; and 359 persons were retired from the field services, 45 by their own option. At the present time 8 persons above the retirement age are retained in the departmental service of the Treasury and 7 in the field service under authority of the President in accordance with the provisions of section 204 of the Economy Act. Up to the present time 19 employees of the Treasury Department in Washington and 126 employees of the field service, whose services were discontinued on account of necessary reduction of force on or since June 30, 1933, and who have served 30 years or more, have made application for annuity under the provisions of section 8 (a) of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of June 16, 1933.

Table 52, page 387, shows the number of persons retired and the number retained in the departmental and field services of the Treasury under the provisions of the Civil Service Retirement Act, as amended, and of section 204 of the Economy Act of June 30, 1932.

BUDGET AND IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE

The Budget and Improvement Committee is responsible, under the direction of the Under Secretary of the Treasury and budget officer, for the preparation and examination of Treasury estimates of appropriations and for the improvement of administrative methods and procedure within the Treasury Department. In addition to examining all estimates, the committee makes inquiries as to the reserves which may be set up under the various appropriations and considers other matters affecting expenditures of the Department.

Subsequent to the submission of the regular estimates for the fiscal year 1934, supplemental and deficiency estimates aggregating $305,627,309 were received. After examination by the budget officer, with the assistance of the committee, these estimates were reduced to $305,320,108 and submitted to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget.

General reserves amounting to $946,970 were set aside from ordinary annual appropriations for the fiscal year 1933 to meet extraordinary or emergency demands that might arise. Reserves amounting to $57,800 were released, leaving $889,170 in reserve at the end of the year, which represents a part of the savings from annual appropriations.

In pursuance of the President's purpose to effect substantial reductions in all expenditures, the Director of the Bureau of the Budget indicated that the cash withdrawals from the Treasury during the fiscal year 1934 on account of appropriations for the Treasury Department, other than for interest on and retirement of the public debt, should not exceed the following amounts: $77,370,000 for public buildings construction; $49,500,000 for refund of taxes erroneously collected; $15,299,000 for indefinite appropriations; and $110,055,000 for ordinary annual appropriations, excluding the Federal Farm Loan Bureau, which had been transferred to the Farm Credit Administration—a total of $252,224,000, or $130,346,000 less than the amount available for expenditure during the year after making deductions on account of a 15 percent reduction in the compensation of all officers and employees. In general, the amounts were allocated under particular appropriations by taking as a base the appropriation for 1934 or the actual expenditures for 1932, whichever was less, and deducting the amount of the 15 percent reduction in compensation of all officers and employees and a further reduction equal to 10 percent of the remainder. To keep expenditures within the amounts so allocated it has been necessary to curtail many activities and, in case of an appropriation available for personal services where the force has not been sufficiently reduced by separations to bring expenditures within the amount allocated, it has been necessary to furlough employees without pay to make up the difference.

For the fiscal year 1935 the Director of the Bureau of the Budget directed that estimates be limited to the expenditure scale adopted for 1934, with adjustments for organizational and other changes and with salaries estimated at base rates without deduction. On this basis he made an allocation to the Treasury Department which would authorize estimates for annual appropriations and permanent and indefinite appropriations aggregating $133,349,000, exclusive of interest, debt retirements, and refunds. Heads of bureaus and offices submitted estimates of appropriations for annual and permanent and indefinite appropriations aggregating $148,620,311. After examination by the Budget and Improvement Committee, items aggregating $1,007,208 were disapproved in estimates for annual appropriations. There was approved and submitted to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, for regular annual appropriations, $132,569,000; for permanent and indefinite appropriations and special funds (exclusive of refunds of receipts), $780,000; refunds of receipts, $62,840,700; interest on the public debt, $783,000,000; public debt retirements chargeable against ordinary receipts, $621,386,485; and supplemental items, $11,264,103; making a grand total of $1,611,840,288.

OFFICE OF CHIEF CLERK AND SUPERINTENDENT

The Chief Clerk is superintendent of the Treasury Building, Treasury Annex No. 1, the Auditors' Building, and the Liberty Loan Building, and is responsible for their maintenance, operation, upkeep, and repair. He is also custodian of sites for proposed public buildings in the District of Columbia, and makes agreements for the rental of properties located on these sites. The total amount of rents collected during the fiscal year amounted to $79,384.03. There were 215 separate rental accounts at the close of the year.

COAST GUARD

The following is a summary of the principal operations of the Coast Guard for the fiscal year 1933, in which comparisons with the preceding year 1932 are indicated:

	1932	1933	Increase (+) or de- crease (-)
Lives saved or persons rescued from peril.....	5,214	6,492	+1,278
Persons on board vessels assisted.....	30,847	33,716	+2,869
Persons in distress cared for.....	659	595	-64
Vessels boarded and papers examined.....	102,268	83,031	-19,237
Vessels seized or reported for violations of law.....	2,358	1,549	-809
Fines and penalties incurred by vessels reported.....	$300,756	$244,558	-$56,198
Regattas and marine parades patrolled.....	123	155	+32
Instances of lives saved and vessels assisted.....	6,393	7,176	+783
Instances of miscellaneous assistance.....	7,346	7,476	+130
Derelicts and other obstructions to navigation removed or destroyed.....	371	300	-71
Value of derelicts recovered.....	$45,780	$55,565	+$9,785
Value of vessels assisted (including cargoes).....	$39,177,247	$40,516,220	+$1,338,973
Persons examined for certificates as lifeboat men.....	6,120	3,828	-2,292

The number of persons saved or rescued from peril during the year was 1,278 in excess of the year 1932, and the largest number in the history of the Coast Guard. The persons on board vessels assisted exceeded last year's number by 2,869. The total number of instances of assistance rendered was 913 in excess of last year. Assistance was rendered to other branches of Federal Government in 491 instances. The operations throughout the service and the service discipline were very satisfactory.

Reorganization and retrenchment

Under date of September 22, 1932, the Secretary of the Treasury authorized a general reorganization of the Coast Guard, in order to increase efficiency and make a marked reduction in expenditures. The reorganization, which was placed in effect on January 15, 1933, provides for a rearrangement of Coast Guard districts and divisions, and makes other changes so as definitely to fix authority and responsibility in any section along the coast and also to permit greater flexibility and coordination of the forces of the Coast Guard. As a result of the reorganization, the estimates for the fiscal year 1934 were reduced by over a million dollars and the efficiency of the service was markedly increased.

In the interest of further economy the equipment and personnel were curtailed as follows: 6 bases and 1 off-shore patrol force were abolished; 7 destroyers, one hundred and eleven 75-foot patrol boats, and 58 picket boats were decommissioned; 15 Coast Guard (life-saving) stations were placed in an inactive status; a large number of enlisted men were reduced in rating; and within a short time the personnel will have been reduced by approximately 170 temporary warrant officers and 1,600 enlisted men.

Other economies involving material and service facilities were effected and further reductions in operating expenses wherever practicable are in progress.

Protection to navigation

International ice observation and ice patrol.—From March 8 to June 6, 1933, six cruises were made by a service patrol boat in the ice regions of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland locating icebergs to the southward of the forty-eighth parallel and making observations of the direction and drift of the ocean currents. On June 7, 1933, a cutter sailed from New York for the Grand Banks on an ice observation cruise, particularly to guard against the unknown presence of icebergs near the North Atlantic United States steamship routes while the patrol boat was in port at St. John's, Newfoundland, its base, and also to make a final survey of ice conditions to determine the necessity for the establishment of the regular ice patrol. During this cruise only 10 icebergs were reported south of latitude 48°. Orders were issued for the discontinuance of the ice observation service on June 20, 1933. The season was an unusual one, no icebergs drifting far enough south to menace the North Atlantic lane routes-United States or to warrant the establishment of the ice patrol.

Pursuant to the recommendation of the Interdepartmental Board on International Service of Ice Observation and Ice Patrol, the patrol boat sailed June 26, 1933, from St. John's on a northern oceanographic cruise to make observations of ice conditions, ocean currents, bathymetry, and upper air currents in the Davis Strait area between Greenland and Labrador. The unusually ice-free situation which had prevailed during the season made this northern cruise of especial value in connection with the studies undertaken by the International Service in furtherance of its knowledge of conditions bearing upon the ice menace in the North Atlantic Ocean. This cruise was completed on July 27, 1933.

Winter patrol.—On November 16, 1932, the President, on the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury, designated 12 cutters to perform special winter cruising upon the coast for the season of 1932-33 to afford aid to distressed navigators. An additional cutter served as reserve. In the performance of their duties these cutters cruised 59,439 miles, afforded assistance to 21 vessels, whose value, including their cargoes, amounted to $7,269,800. There were 370 persons on board the vessels assisted. The vessels boarded in the interests of United States laws numbered 310.

Anchorage and movements of vessels.—The Coast Guard continued the enforcement of the Federal rules and regulations governing the anchorage and movements of vessels at ports, and at other places where the needs of commerce required such supervision. Coast Guard officers continued to serve as captains of the port at various places to enforce the regulations.

On August 15, 1932, the Coast Guard inaugurated a patrol of Amherstburg Channel, Detroit River, to insure the orderly and safe navigation of vessels through this waterway during the closure of Livingstone Channel for dredging operations. The regulations governing the movements of vessels through Amherstburg Channel were agreed upon by the Canadian and the United States Governments.

Enforcement of customs and other laws

The usual duties of the Coast Guard in connection with the enforcement of the customs laws and the navigation and motor boat laws of the United States were carried on during the year, and the customary assignment of Coast Guard vessels at the principal ports of the country to assist the customs authorities was continued.

Liquor smuggling.—The situation generally with respect to the smuggling of liquor into the United States from the sea was practically the same as last year. The Coast Guard vigorously continued its preventive operations against this unlawful traffic.

Patrol in northern waters.—The regular annual patrol of the waters of the North Pacific Ocean, Bering Sea, and Southeastern Alaska was conducted for the season of 1932 by six cutters and one 125-foot patrol boat. The vessels cruised nearly 52,000 miles, assisted 16 vessels, boarded 27 vessels, afforded medical and dental aid to 5,012 persons, and transported 135 persons.

The patrol for the season of 1933, which was in progress at the close of the year, is being performed by 6 cutters and one 125-foot patrol boat.

Northern Pacific halibut fishery.—This activity is conducted annually by the Coast Guard in the interests of the Bureau of Fisheries, Department of Commerce. The service was performed this year by one cutter which made one cruise covering the period October 15 to November 2, 1932.

Communications

Telephone and telegraph lines and cables.—The Coast Guard owns and operates a coastal communication system consisting of telephone and telegraph lines of approximately 1,493 miles of pole line, 2,512 miles of open wire aerial circuits, 31 miles of aerial and underground cables, and 585 miles of submarine cable.

During the year, in addition to routine overhauling and repairing of lines, major projects were undertaken involving the replacement of submarine cable at several places on the coast.

The Coast Guard continued its research and development work to improve the physical and electrical characteristics of submarine cable for uses peculiar to the service.

Radio.—The analytical study of distress cases off the coast of the United States in which radio played a part was continued during the year. A great majority of these distress calls are made direct to the Coast Guard, and the number is increasing, indicating a growing dependence of shipping upon the service.

Experimentation was carried on in the matter of the installation of radio equipment on lifeboats located at life-saving stations of the Coast Guard. Developments during the year encourage the belief that a feasible plan can be evolved and put into operation. Such a service would be of great value in directing the movements of lifeboats.

The program for the standardization and improvement of radio installations aboard vessels and aircraft of the service was continued.

An officer of the Coast Guard continued to represent the Treasury Department on the Interdepartmental Radio Advisory Committee. This officer also was designated by the State Department as technical adviser to the delegation from the United States to the International Radiotelegraph Conference in Madrid, September 1932.

Equipment

Floating equipment.—On June 30, 1933, there were in the Coast Guard in commission 37 cruising cutters, 3 Coast Guard destroyers, 30 harbor craft, 5 special craft, including 1 floating base and 1 floating workshop, nine 105-foot patrol boats, thirty-two 125-foot patrol boats, thirteen 145-foot patrol boats, six 75-foot patrol boats, sixty-nine 75-foot patrol boats, 27 miscellaneous patrol boats, 12 oiler picket boats, 50 cabin picket boats, and 12 class A picket boats. This floating equipment does not include the primarily life-saving boat equipment attached to Coast Guard vessels and stations.

The cutter authorized by the act of April 18, 1930, for service in Lake Michigan, was completed November 16, 1932, and placed in commission. The two additional 105-foot patrol boats authorized by the act of February 27, 1932, were completed and placed in service. Seven destroyers formerly obtained from the Navy were decommissioned and returned to the custody of the Navy. Alterations and improvements were made to five 125-foot patrol boats. One 125-foot patrol boat was transferred to the Navy Department in May 1933 by Presidential order.

In addition to overhauling, remodeling, and repairing certain vessels at the Coast Guard repair depot at Curtis Bay, Md., routine repairs to vessels of the service were made in the course of the year under contract with private concerns and at various navy yards.

Airplane.—During the year Coast Guard aircraft cruised 17,000 miles and searched over an area of 3,025,850 square miles. The planes were in the air 1,888 hours, and more than 1,000 vessels were identified. More than 12,000 reports of passing planes were made by Coast Guard life-saving stations through the reporting system established by the service along the Atlantic seaboard.

The construction of the five new flying boat seaplanes mentioned in last year's report was completed during the year and all have been placed in service. The Coast Guard is operating 11 seaplanes: viz. 3 Douglas amphibians, 5 General Aviation flying boats, and 3 smaller planes particularly adapted for in-shore work.

Numerous calls for assistance were received at the various air stations from vessels without medical personnel. In order to contact such vessels planes have flown from 150 to 175 miles offshore and the sick or injured have been placed on the planes and transported to the nearest hospitals.

The proposed air station at Dinner Key, Fla., near Miami, which was mentioned in last year's report, was completed and placed in commission.

Ordnance.—While gunnery training has been curtailed in some degree to the necessity for economy, much has been accomplished to promote efficiency in the maintenance of ordnance equipment and in the training of personnel. Target practice was held on a reduced basis. The number of units conducting battle practice was considerably less than a year ago. The number firing small-arms target practice has steadily decreased for the past 3 years, due to reduced funds for ammunition, but the percentage of men qualifying with the .30-caliber rifle has increased.

The Coast Guard won 13 small-arms trophies in competitions with other services and civilian organizations, showing that much skill has been developed in the use of small arms.

Work on an armory at the Coast Guard depot is progressing satisfactorily. When it is completed the overhaul and repair of all service small arms will be effected there and a considerable amount of money will thus be saved.

Experiments with line-throwing equipment have been continued and some definite improvements have been made in shoulder line-throwing gun projectiles.

A new wrecking outfit has been developed. Its use will be extended to the smaller units and will reduce the cost of small wrecking operations.

The academy, stations, bases, repair depot, reclamation plant, etc.

Coast Guard Academy.—During the fiscal year, 51 cadets were appointed to the academy, 25 cadets resigned, and 31 cadets completed the course of instruction and were graduated from the academy and commissioned as ensigns on May 15, 1933. There were 79 cadets under instruction at the end of the fiscal year.

The special practice cruise for cadets for 1932 which was in progress at the close of the last fiscal year was concluded on August 27, 1932. Two cutters composed the special practice squadron for the 1933 cruise, and left New London, Conn., on May 25, 1933. The itinerary includes calls at one United States port and a number of foreign ports. It is expected that it will terminate at New London, Conn., the latter part of August. The cutters stopped at Quantico, Va., from May 27 to June 9, where the cadets and ships' complements engaged in small-arms target practice at the Marine Corps rifle range.

The buildings for the new Coast Guard Academy were completed during the fiscal year, and were occupied in September 1932.

Stations and bases.—On June 30, 1933, there were 240 Coast Guard (life-saving) stations in an active status. There were 1 floating base and 13 shore bases, established for law-enforcement purposes. The service craft attached to these bases operate primarily against smuggling activities.

Rebuilding, repairs, alterations, additions, and improvements were completed during the year at 163 Coast Guard (life-saving) stations, 18 bases, 6 radio stations, the training station, depot, and 7 miscellaneous units, and in 6 Coast Guard divisions. Contracts were awarded and operations were begun on the major work of rebuilding, alterations, and improvements at 8 Coast Guard (life-saving) stations and 2 bases.

Contract was awarded during the year for the construction of the Coast Guard (life-saving) station authorized to be established at or near Port Orford, Oreg. The construction of the Coast Guard (life-saving) station authorized to be established at or in the vicinity of Grand Island, Mich., contract for which was awarded in the fiscal year 1932, was completed and placed in commission May 16, 1933.

Repair depot.—A number of Coast Guard vessels were overhauled, reconditioned, and repaired at the Coast Guard repair depot, Curtis Bay, Md., during the year. The boat-building shop at the depot constructed a number of standard and miscellaneous boats for assignment to various units of the service as needed.

Reclamation plant.—The reclamation plant, operated at base 9, Cape May, N.J., as an industrial unit of the service, was used during the year in the reconditioning of several types of marine engines. Aircraft engines were converted for marine use and repair parts for these engines were salvaged, stocked, and issued. This plant also served in repairing vessels operating from base 9 and from other units in the vicinity.

Personnel

On June 30, 1933, there were on the active list of the Coast Guard 462 regular commissioned officers; 2 temporary commissioned officers; 79 cadets; 84 chief warrant officers; 478 regular warrant officers; 230 temporary warrant officers, 13 of whom were on duty with the War Department in pursuance of orders contained in Executive Order 6169; 9,587 enlisted men, and 397 civilian employees in the field, of whom 352 were per diem civilian employees at the Coast Guard depot, Curtis Bay, Md. The appropriation for pay and allowances for the fiscal year 1933 permitted the carrying of an average of 11,000 enlisted men. The appropriation for the fiscal year 1934 permits the carrying of an average of 10,790 enlisted men. In pursuance of the retrenchment program, the funds available for the operation of the Coast Guard for the fiscal year 1934 were reduced approximately 25 percent.

Recruiting.—On July 1, 1932, the beginning of the fiscal year, the recruiting service of the Coast Guard comprised 9 main stations and 8 substations located at various places in the country. During the year 4 substations were closed; and, due to the suspension of recruiting for an indefinite period, all recruiting stations and substations except 7 were placed in an inactive status in June 1933.

In the course of the year there were 13,581 applicants for enlistment, of which number 832 were enlisted, 895 rejected for physical disability, and 11,854 rejected for other disabling causes.

Training.—The training of enlisted personnel was extended during the year to include several additional courses. The course for armorers in the Marine Corps Armorers School was also made available for Coast Guard men. The course in the gas aid Diesel engine school at Norfolk, Va., was extended to include lathe practice.

The Coast Guard Institute at New London, Conn., in the matter of personnel training, requires that the men qualify along certain lines before they become eligible for specialized training in the various service schools. The institute also offers the opportunity to service men to study subjects in the usual curricula of graded and high schools for which work when satisfactorily completed educational certificates are awarded. On June 30, 1933, there were 2,921 men enrolled in the various departments of the institute; there were 871 institute educational certificates, and 182 International Correspondence School diplomas awarded.

Enlisted men without prior Coast Guard service are sent to the Fort Trumbull Training Station at New London, Conn., for training before assignment to regular duty.

Welfare.—Again this year all appropriate available means were employed to afford the enlisted men the advantages ensuing from recreational diversion so essential to the efficiency of the service.

Award of life-saving medals

The Secretary of the Treasury, under the provisions of law, awarded during the year 5 gold and 16 silver life-saving medals of honor in recognition of bravery exhibited in the rescue of persons upon an American vessel or from drowning in waters over which the United States has jurisdiction.

Appropriations and expenditures

COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

Changes in the condition of national banks

Total loans and investments of the 4,902 licensed national banks on June 30, 1933, aggregated about $15,500,000,000, about $2,000,000,000 smaller than a year earlier. The decline was due principally to the fact that the number of banks licensed to do business on an unrestricted basis following the declaration of the bank holiday was 1,248 smaller than the number of active banks on June 30, 1932. The 985 unlicensed national banks still in the hands of conservators had loans and investments of $1,151,007,000 and deposits of $1,028,347,000 on June 30, 1933.

Total resources of licensed banks at the end of June 1933 aggregated $20,860,491,000, compared with $22,367,711,000 reported by the larger number of active national banks the year before. Total deposits of licensed national banks were $16,774,115,000, or $686,798,000 less than the amount reported for active national banks a year earlier.

The resources and liabilities of licensed national banks doing business on an unrestricted basis on June 30, 1933, and of active national banks for June 30, 1932, and intervening call dates, are shown in the following statement:

Reopening and reorganization of national banks

The President's proclamation of March 6, 1933, ordering a suspension of all banking activities, except as authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury, affected the 5,938 national banks that were in active operation at the time. On March 9, 1933, Congress provided relief through the Banking Act of 1933, whereby 4,509 national banks, with total deposits of about $16,180,000,000 (as of June 30, 1933), were immediately licensed to resume operations on the first three days of the scheduled reopenings and 1,429 were placed in the hands of conservators for such strengthening and reorganization as might be necessary in order to obtain licenses or for eventual liquidation.

Between March 16 and June 30 licenses had been issued to 375 additional national banks, with deposits of $381,013,000. Furthermore there had been 73 voluntary liquidations and receiverships, of which 62 were incidental to reorganizations releasing approximately $367,000,000 of deposits. The latter figure includes released deposits of $260,872,000 in two reorganized banks placed in charge of receivers. The deposits of the 13 unlicensed banks placed in receivership aggregated $314,718,000. Total released deposits of the unlicensed banks to this date were approximately $748,000,000, or 36 percent of the deposits tied up as of March 16, 1933. In addition to these, plans for reorganization of 194 more banks with deposits of $296,807,000 had been approved.

Summary of changes in membership in the national banking system

The authorized common capital of the banks in existence on June 30, 1933, was $1,597,257,175, an increase during the year of $7,261,360. Since the passage of the act of March 9, 1933, charters have been issued to 57 national banking associations, of which 41 had common stock only, aggregating $10,410,000. The remaining 16 banks had an aggregate of $10,545,000 common stock and $20,782,500 preferred stock.

During this period 125 existing national banks took advantage of the act above referred to and increased their capital by issuing preferred stock of an aggregate par value of $33,662,100. While charters were issued during the year to 98 associations, there was a net decrease of 259 in the number of banks—that is, from 6,205 to 5,946—by reason of voluntary liquidations, receiverships, and consolidations.

Changes in the number and capital of national banks during the last year are shown in the following summary:

³ Includes 31 banks with aggregate capital of $4,545,000 which had been previously reported in voluntary liquidation.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS

Receipts

Customs receipts for the fiscal year 1933 amounted to $251,000,000, a decrease of $77,000,000 below those for 1932. The decrease in receipts is attributable to a further decline in commodity prices and to a decreased volume of imports. This was the fourth year in which receipts have declined. The provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932, placing on the dutiable list certain classes of lumber, coal, petroleum, and copper, which had previously been on the free list, resulted in the collection of about $11,000,000.

The following statement shows in detail customs collections, refunds, and net receipts from all sources during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933. The total amount collected and covered into the Treasury as customs receipts does not include tonnage tax, head tax, and miscellaneous collections for other bureaus made by customs officers and deposited as receipts for the appropriate bureau or service.

Volume of business

Entries of merchandise.—The number of entries of merchandise decreased from 2,364,722 for 1932 to 2,010,068 for 1933. The entries for 1933 were less than for any year since 1922 and 15 percent less than for 1932. Practically all classes of entries participated in the decrease.

Vessels, highway traffic, etc.—Traffic from foreign countries into the United States was less in volume than in the preceding year. The number of vessels decreased 9.5 percent; automobiles and other vehicles, 11.5 percent; and airplanes, 11.5 percent.

Passenger traffic also declined, except in the case of airplane passengers which increased 7.8 percent. Passenger traffic by vessels and ferries declined 8.7 percent; by highway vehicles, 18.2 percent; and by train, 27 percent. More than 9,000,000 pedestrians entered the United States over the international borders. A total of 40,824,894 persons were subjected to the customs formalities upon entering the United States.

Drawback transactions.—About two thirds as many drawback entries were received during the year 1933 as during 1932. On the other hand, the number of notices of intent showed a decline of less than 15 percent. The number of drawback claims decreased from 11,369,588 in 1932 to 7,705,109 in 1933, or 32 percent. Drawback claims paid during the year amounted to $7,590,971 as compared with $11,455,874 in the previous year.

Under authority of section 318 of the Tariff Act of 1930, the President, by a proclamation dated December 23, 1932, declared an emergency to exist because of the general business conditions and authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to extend for 2 years after the expiration of the 3-year period prescribed by law the time within which merchandise imported during 1930 may be permitted to remain in warehouse under the provisions of sections 557 and 559 of the Tariff Acts of 1922 and 1930; the time during which proof may be furnished that wool or camels' hair imported or withdrawn from bonded warehouse conditionally free of duty, under bond, during the calendar year 1930 has been used in manufactures prescribed in paragraph 1101 of the Tariff Acts of 1922 and 1930; and the time within which articles manufactured or produced with the use of merchandise imported during the calendar year 1930 may be exported with benefit of drawback under section 313 of the Tariff Act of 1930. Pursuant to this proclamation the Secretary of the Treasury issued T.D. 46089 granting a 2-year extension of time in these cases.

As referred to in last year's report, the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to grant 2-year extensions for similar merchandise imported on or before December 31, 1929. A 1-year extension of time was granted by T.D. 45541, 45591, and 45627; and an additional year was granted by T.D. 46107.

Seizures.—The number of seizures for violations of customs laws decreased 33 percent, or from 68,183 in 1932 to 45,690 in 1933. Lottery matter and other prohibited articles which constituted more than one half of the seizures during 1932, showed an appreciable decline. Merchandise seizures decreased only 6 percent, but the value of such seizures was 57 percent less than in 1932. The number of seizures of liquor and narcotics also declined, although the quantity and value of alcohol seized were much greater than during 1932. This may be attributed to three especially large seizures at New Orleans and one at New York.

In connection with violations of the customs laws, 1,148 automobiles, 389 boats, and 30 airplanes, with an aggregate value of $1,009,759, were seized, a decrease of 557 automobiles and 40 boats from the number seized in 1932. In addition, 452 seizures were accomplished by customs officers for other agencies of the Government, and 646 persons were detained for violations of immigration, prohibition, and other laws.

Fines and penalties.—Fines and penalties collected for violations of laws pertaining to the Customs Service aggregated $648,864 which is 50 percent less than the amount collected in 1932 and the smallest amount since 1923. Failure to declare foreign purchases was responsible for the collection of almost one fourth of the fines, notwithstanding the fact that such failures to declare were 49.9 percent less than in 1932 and 83 percent less than in 1931, during which years they represented practically one half of the total fines collected.

Antidumping

During the past year the number of complaints by American manufacturers against the dumping of foreign goods into this country rose to the highest level since the passage of the Antidumping

Act of 1921. Through the cooperation of domestic and foreign offices and customs appraising offices, the antidumping unit of the bureau was able to dispose of the bulk of the cases which arose from these complaints.

In many cases foreign competition was intensified by depreciation in the exchange of the exporting country. Findings of dumping in the case of a number of important commodities were issued by the Secretary of the Treasury upon the recommendation of the Bureau of Customs.

A total of $37,807 in dumping duties was collected during the year.

Countervailing duties

Most of the countervailing duties collected during the year were the result of the provisions of the Tariff Act of 1930 which authorized the imposition of rates of duty comparable with those imposed by foreign countries on the same commodity. In some instances these duties are imposed to offset the advantage gained by foreign bounties or grants. The total countervailing duties collected during the year amounted to $203,556, as compared with $257,264 in 1932. Approximately one half of this amount was collected on coal from Canada, while two thirds of the remainder represents duty paid on automobiles and parts from Great Britain and other countries.

Smuggling

Obscene books, pamphlets, stationery, etc., abortive and preventive drugs and appliances, lottery tickets and related advertisements, and insurrectionary or treasonable literature are prohibited importations under section 305 of the Tariff Act of 1930. During the past year 14,142 seizures of lottery tickets and related advertisements and 1,103 seizures of obscene and other prohibited articles were destroyed. These figures do not include 80 seizures which were permitted to be exported under customs supervision and 95 which were released to the importers after investigation.

Miscellaneous provisions of the tariff act

Marking of imported articles.—The importations received without having been marked so as to indicate the country of origin, as required in section 304 of the Tariff Act of 1930, were disposed of as follows: In 6,151 cases the articles were released after having been marked under customs supervision; in 2,800 cases they were released as incapable of being marked; and in 289 cases they were exported. The 10 per cent additional duty imposed under this section resulted in a collection of $69,741 in 1933, as compared with $75,363 collected in 1932.

Merchandise bearing American trade marks.—Under the provisions of section 526 of the Tariff Act of 1930, prohibiting the unauthorized importation of merchandise bearing an American trade mark, 627 seizures were accomplished during the year, of which 12 were destroyed, 13 were exported, 439 were permitted importation by the removal or obliteration of the trade mark, and 163 were permitted importation on the consent of the trade-mark registrant.

New legislation

The Tariff Act of 1930 was amended by the act of March 4, 1933 (Public No. 440, 72d Cong.), by adding to the free list articles returned after having been loaned and exported for use temporarily for scientific or educational purposes.

The joint resolution of July 12, 1932 (Public Res. No. 37, 72d Cong.), construes the so-called duress entry provisions of the Tariff Acts of 1922 and 1930.

Section 5 of the act of June 16, 1933 (Public No. 73, 73d Cong.), provides for the exemption from taxes under the Revenue Act of 1932 of certain supplies for vessels.

Section 15 (e) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of May 12, 1933 (Public No. 10, 73d Cong.), authorizes compensating taxes upon imported merchandise processed or manufactured from certain agricultural commodities.

Section 3 (e) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933 (Public No. 67, 73d Cong.), empowers the President to restrict importations by license, embargo, or quota; and section 212 of this act continues for the fiscal year 1934 import taxes imposed on certain merchandise by section 601 of title IV of the Revenue Act of 1932.

Investigative unit

Port examinations.—The port examination commission of the investigative unit made examinations of the accounts and procedure in 23 customs collection districts during the year in order to maintain uniformity in the transactions of the customs business in the various districts. In addition to these examinations, personnel surveys were made in all customs collection districts which resulted in considerable savings to the Customs Service. Agents stationed in the various customs districts also made 233 semiannual examinations of the financial accounts of headquarters and ports.

An investigation by customs agents during the year disclosed a lack of uniformity at the several ports in the classification of rags, the quantity found dutiable varying from 5 to 90 percent. Standardized procedure in this matter resulted in a high uniform dutiable percentage which contributed materially to the revenue of the Government.

Undervaluation.—Investigations of undervaluation cases continued a most important factor in the work of the investigative unit, both in the United States and abroad. While the actual recoveries made during the year were somewhat less than in 1932, the number of undervaluation cases handled increased from 977 in 1932 to 1,106 in 1933.

Customs information exchange.—This branch of the investigative unit is the medium used by the Customs Service to disseminate information relative to market values and classifications. The statement following summarizes the activities of the exchange during the past year:

	Number

There was again some surplus in the number of employees in certain groups during the year which necessitated the use of rotating furloughs. During the bank holiday period in March, however, the urgent demand for early deliveries of Federal Reserve notes and Federal Reserve bank notes necessitated much overtime work, the discontinuance of all furloughs, the employment of 592 temporary employees, and the organization of three shifts of employees. One order for 15,000,000 sheets of 12-subject Federal Reserve bank notes could not be filled promptly because there were no engraved plates and no printed stock. National bank currency stock was used by overprinting the name of the bank, the bank letters, and signatures. During the emergency period $2,547,480,000 in Federal Reserve notes were shipped from the vault, an amount greater than a normal year's shipment. The demand subsided in a short time, and to the end of the fiscal year only $319,340,000 of national bank notes overprinted for Federal Reserve bank notes were shipped.

Recent legislation authorizing the manufacture and sale of 3.2 percent alcoholic beverages required the engraving and printing of special tax stamps for brewers and dealers and 21 varieties of stamps for fermented liquor and wine or fermented fruit juices.

The usual inventories of stocks on hand were conducted by auditors charged with that work. In all cases stocks agreed with the records.

COMMITTEE ON ENROLLMENT AND DISBARMENT OF ATTORNEYS AND AGENTS

The Committee on Enrollment and Disbarment of Attorneys and Agents, created by Department Circular No. 230, dated February 15, 1921, is responsible for the examination of applicants wishing to practice as attorneys, agents, or other representatives before the Treasury Department or offices thereof; and receives complaints, conducts hearings, and makes inquiries concerning violations of the regulations by enrolled practitioners. The conclusions of this committee in each case are submitted as recommendations to the Secretary of the Treasury.

During the fiscal year 1933, 2,447 applications for enrollment of attorneys and agents were approved and 10 were disapproved. In one case the applicant for enrollment was afforded a formal hearing by the committee.

On June 30, 1932, complaints were pending against 90 enrolled individuals, 61 new complaints were filed during the year, and 58 were disposed of by the Secretary, leaving 93 pending on June 30, 1933. In 16 cases the Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, accepted the answers of the respondents as sufficient and the complaints were dismissed. In 42 cases the committee, after formal hearing accorded the respondent, submitted its findings and recommendations to the Secretary, who disposed of them as follows: In 6 cases it was found that the charges were not proven and the complaints were dismissed; in 36 cases the charges were found proven in whole or in part and the Secretary imposed penalties—26 practitioners were disbarred from further practice before the Treasury Department, 3 were suspended from practice for various periods, and 7 were reprimanded. During the year one practitioner who had formerly been disbarred was reinstated to practice before the department.

It is the policy of this committee to give an enrolled attorney or agent opportunity to show cause why formal disbarment proceedings should not be instituted against him; 10 such cases occurred during the year.

FEDERAL FARM LOAN BUREAU

Under an Executive order of the President, the Federal Farm Loan Bureau was transferred to the Farm Credit Administration on May 27, 1933. Statistics through June 30, 1933, have been obtained from the administration, however, in order that data for the entire fiscal year may be available.

Operations of Federal land banks

During the fiscal year 1933 the Federal land banks made 9,020 first mortgage loans on farm properties in the aggregate amount of $32,738,737, a relatively small part of which represented purchase money mortgages approved as collateral for farm loan bonds. From the date of their organization to June 30, 1933, the land banks had closed 535,480 mortgage loans aggregating $1,741,894,652.

On June 30, 1933, a principal balance of $1,118,434,268 was outstanding on 399,495 loans. On the same date $1,141,897,220 of farm loan bonds of Federal land banks were outstanding, excluding $621,720 held by the issuing banks and $4,150 matured or called, but including $21,800,000 of bonds issued to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the fiscal year.

The combined capital stock of all Federal land banks on June 30, 1933, amounted to $188,514,499. Of this amount $124,871,729 was owned by the Federal Government, $62,847,380 by national farm loans associations, $688,055 by borrowers through the Puerto Rico branch, and $107,335 by other borrowers. On June 30, 1933, the banks had special reserves aggregating $21,769,699 against real estate, delinquent installments, and other items; legal and other reserves of $15,526,801; and undivided profits of $1,257,345 (net). Total capital stock, reserves, and undivided profits amounted to $227,068,344 (net).

National farm loan associations increased in number from 4,651 to 4,662 during 1933.

The only changes during the year in the rates of interest charged on new loans were made in July 1932, when the Baltimore bank decreased its rate to 5½ percent and the rate of the Puerto Rico branch to 6 percent. The Federal land banks of Columbia and New Or-leaves maintained their rates at 6 percent, while those of the other banks were maintained at 5½ percent.

The following table shows total assets, net mortgage loans, and principal liabilities of each of the Federal land banks as of June 30, 1933:

Operations of joint stock land banks

During the fiscal year liquidation of one of the three joint stock land banks which were in receivership at the beginning of the year was completed and one bank was placed in receivership upon default in the payment of bond interest. At the end of the year there were 46 joint stock land banks in operation, 1 in voluntary liquidation, and 3 in process of liquidation through receivership.

The reports submitted by joint stock land banks to the Farm Credit Administration as of June 30, 1933, showed that 362 loans were closed during the year, amounting to $1,130,253. Total loans closed by these banks from the date of their organization to June 30, 1933, numbered 130,272 and amounted to $901,043,009. The loans closed represented mainly mortgages taken to secure a portion of the purchase price upon the sale of real estate which had been acquired by the banks. On June 30, 1933, 80,253 loans were outstanding on which the principal balances totaled $428,833,367, including 6,575 loans amounting to $42,446,150 in the three joint stock land banks in receivership.

The reports also showed that the capital stock of the 46 operating banks on June 30, 1933, amounted to $34,985,900, while legal reserves aggregated $4,595,092, and surplus paid in, surplus earned, and undivided profits totaled $7,241,201. In addition these banks carried special reserves aggregating $16,874,740 against real estate, delinquent installments, and other items. Deficits totaling $1,411,186 were reported by 11 of the operating joint stock land banks. Farm loan bonds of joint stock land banks, not including the three banks in process of liquidation through receivership, were outstanding in the amount of $405,649,440. This figure excludes $2,842,120 of bonds held by the issuing banks and $3,000 matured or called. The three banks in receivership had a total of $81,897,300 of bonds outstanding on the respective dates on which they were placed in receivership.

The following table shows total assets, net mortgage loans, and principal liabilities of each joint stock land bank in operation as of June 30, 1933:

Operations of Federal intermediate credit banks

During the fiscal year loans made by the Federal intermediate credit banks to cooperative marketing associations amounted to $39,107,239. The total of such credit from the date of organization of the intermediate credit banks to June 30, 1933, amounted to $822,545,610, of which $3,934,177 was outstanding on June 30, 1933.

Loans to and discounts for financing institutions during the year amounted to $155,625,218. Total credit extended to financing institutions from the time of organization to June 30, 1933, was $890,214,324, of which there was outstanding $78,202,350 at the end of the fiscal year.

On June 30, 1933, the earned surplus, undivided profits, and reserves for contingencies of intermediate credit banks aggregated $2,710,437 (net).

At the beginning of the fiscal year loan and discount rates of 7 intermediate credit banks were $3\frac{1}{2}$ percent per annum; 3 banks and the Puerto Rico office, 4 percent; 1 bank, $4\frac{1}{2}$ percent; and 1 bank, $3\frac{3}{4}$ percent. A gradual decrease in the rate of interest borne by successive issues of debentures sold during the year enabled the banks to reduce the loan and discount rates charged by them, so that on June 30, 1933, the rate of 4 banks and the Puerto Rico office was $3\frac{1}{2}$ percent per annum; 6 banks, 3 percent; 1 bank, $2\frac{3}{4}$ percent; and 1 bank, $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent.

The following table shows total assets, loans, and discounts, and principal liabilities of each Federal intermediate credit bank as of June 30, 1933:

SECTION OF FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC RESEARCH

The section, which includes the office of Government Actuary, performs a combined research, editorial, actuarial, and service function for the Treasury, largely in the field of finance. Upon request or on the initiative of the section, studies and investigations in taxation, public debt, and other subjects in or related to the field of public finance are conducted, largely for use within the Department. The section engages also in estimating revenue receipts.

As in the past, the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury was edited and in part prepared by the section, under the general supervision of the Under Secretary; the section also participated in the preparation and editing of Statistics of Income for 1931, and of other Treasury publications.

The monthly publication of daily yields of Government bonds and notes, and the monthly estimate of the population of the United States (appearing on the Circulation Statement of United States Money) were continued.

Service on various governmental committees was performed by members of the section, including the service of the Government Actuary on the Board of Government Actuaries in connection with the Civil Service retirement law.

GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE

The value of the purchases reported by the various Government departments and establishments under contracts negotiated by the Secretary of the Treasury through the General Supply Committee was $7,425,337 during the fiscal year 1933 as compared with $10,178,290 for 1932. There were 3,018 bids received and, in connection therewith, 26,197 samples. The 1,521 contracts entered into involved 27,642 items.

Under the provisions of the act of February 27, 1929 (45 Stat. 1341) and the act of March 26, 1930 (Public No. 78, 71st Cong.), the General Supply Committee is authorized and directed to purchase or procure and distribute supplies to meet the consolidated requirements of the executive departments and independent establishments of the Federal Government in Washington, D.C., of the municipal government of the District of Columbia, and of the field services when request is made by the heads thereof. These supplies are paid for by the General Supply Committee out of a revolving fund and collections therefor are made from the departments and deposited in the general supply fund.

BUREAU OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL

Technical activities

The Technical Division conducts the scientific and technical work of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol as well as the work of this character for the Bureau of Prohibition, Bureau of Narcotics, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. It supervises generally the activities of the chemical laboratories of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol in the field. It also has supervision of work relating to the provisions of title III of the National Prohibition Act and regulations issued pursuant thereto, and performs work relating to the manufacture and permissive use of intoxicating liquors under title II of the National Prohibition Act. Certain features of the general internal revenue laws relating to bonded warehouses and other miscellaneous items are also administered. This division is also charged with the work in connection with the concentration of distilled spirits in accordance with the provisions of the act of February 17, 1922.

The following table shows the number of permits, issued under the National Prohibition Act, in force on June 30, 1932 and 1933, by classes:

While basic permits are issued by the various field offices, all formulas involving the use of any tax-paid intoxicating liquor are examined in this division, and recommendation is made to the supervisors of permits regarding the issuance of permits authorizing the procurement and use of these liquors in the preparation of the articles designated. The character of the formulas examined is greatly varied, but the larger portion consists of these general classifications: Medicinal, culinary, and sirups in which intoxicating liquors are incorporated. The recommendation regarding the manufacture of these products involves also the examination of labels under which they are to be distributed and the related advertising matter to insure compliance with the existing regulations interpreting title II of the act.

In all cases where authority is granted for the importation of wine, whether for medicinal or sacramental use, the specific requests, supported by satisfactory evidence, are passed upon in the Technical Division. The monthly reports of receipt and distribution of these wines are audited.

In order to insure uniform control over preparations in which tax-paid intoxicating liquors are used it has been deemed necessary to centralize all inquiries of a technical nature, and this duty is assigned the nonbeverage section, together with general inquiries relating to procedure, policy, and special processes.

During the past fiscal year 143,356 samples were examined in the field laboratories, approximately 18,000 less than were examined during 1932. The field laboratories performed an increased amount of check analyses for the field officers. These check analyses are to determine whether products manufactured by permittees conform to the formulas approved in Washington, and enable the field laboratories to furnish testimony, if necessary, in permit revocation proceedings or criminal prosecutions. This procedure relieved the Washington laboratory of that phase of the work and reduced the expenditures for travel by chemists attending revocation or court proceedings at points outside of Washington.

The Washington laboratory examined 12,627 samples during the past fiscal year, which is approximately 3,500 samples less than were examined during 1932. These samples consisted principally of preparations which were submitted by permittees or prospective permittees for approval. The formulas for all preparations and processes using pure or denatured alcohol are submitted to the Technical Division for review and approval before permits are issued by the supervisor for the withdrawal of alcohol. The policy of exercising extreme care in approving preparations manufactured with specially denatured alcohol has reduced to a minimum the illegal distillation of alcoholic preparations for the purpose of obtaining potable alcohol for illegal purposes. Preparations which are susceptible of yielding potable alcohol by simple distillation or manipulation are disapproved and the addition of bona fide essential oils or ingredients that cannot be eliminated by simple distillation or manipulation are required. The use of calol ethate, a denaturant for ethyl acetate, developed by the Technical Division over three years ago, has effectually prevented the diversion of ethyl acetate for illegal purposes.

The laboratory continued to carry on the following research work: Developing medicaments for bay rum, rubbing-alcohol compounds, and similar preparations to prevent their use for beverage purposes; further strengthening the specially denatured alcohol formulas to safeguard the alcohol from diversion and to provide legitimate industry with denatured alcohol better adapted to its needs; and developing improved or more efficient denaturants for completely denatured alcohol to prevent its diversion for beverage purposes. Completely denatured alcohol is sold without a permit to the public and must be well protected against diversion if proper protection is to be afforded to the revenue anticipated from beverage spirits in the event of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Review of production data

The policy of limiting the production of industrial alcohol to the actual needs of legitimate industry, initiated January 1, 1928, was followed during the fiscal year 1933 and continued to be successful. Each industrial alcohol plant was allotted a fixed quota of the total alcohol to be produced with a provision that only 40 percent of the total quota for the year be produced during the first 6 months of the calendar year, provided legitimate industries did not require an excess of that quantity. Very few companies manufactured their full quota of alcohol during the year, with the exception of those which produced alcohol as a by-product.

The following statement compares the production and withdrawals of alcohol, denatured alcohol, other distilled spirits, and wines during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933, together with related information.

The decrease in production of alcohol during the year is attributed to the business depression in those industries using alcohol as a raw material and to the Bureau's policy of limiting production to actual needs of industry. While there was a decrease in the quantity of both completely and specially denatured alcohol produced during the entire year, there was approximately a 30 percent increase in the quantity of specially denatured alcohol produced and withdrawn for use during the months of May, June, and July of this year over the corresponding months of last year. The specially denatured alcohol is used directly or indirectly in the manufacture of thousands of articles of commerce. The increase during these months reflects a substantially larger production of these commodities.

The manufacture of synthetic ethyl alcohol from ethylene gas is now a recognized source of industrial alcohol. Over 11,000,000 proof gallons were produced by this method during the year.

Seven distilleries were operated and produced 4,910,015.4 taxable gallons of medicinal whisky, an increase of 3,198,986.9 gallons over the production during the previous year.

At present there are 20 concentration warehouses, containing 15,435,469.3 taxable gallons of distilled spirits, original gauge, and 8 distillery and 2 general bonded warehouses, not designated as concentration warehouses, containing 5,281,226 taxable gallons of distilled spirits.

Twenty-two fruit distilleries were operated during the year in the production of brandy, wine spirits, and high-proof fruit spirits, producing 1,586,384.3 taxable gallons of such spirits, of which 599,207.8 taxable gallons of brandy were produced for medicinal and general nonbeverage purposes and 987,176.5 taxable gallons of brandy, wine spirits, and high-proof fruit spirits were produced for the fortification of wines and for nonbeverage purposes authorized under the Tariff Act of 1930. This latter amount is an increase of 456,242.7 taxable gallons over the production for similar purposes during the previous year.

During the year there was an increased production of 13,545,198 gallons of wine over the previous year. This increase was due in part to the absence of a market for grapes during the 1932 vintage season, necessitating the establishing of new wineries in order to salvage grape crops, and in part to the establishing of premises for the production of wine containing not over 3.2 percent of alcohol by weight, authorized for beverage purposes by the act of March 22, 1933. The use of this product as distilling material in the manufacture of brandy also increased materially during the year.

Administration

Each of the 12 administrative districts was examined one or more times during the past fiscal year to determine whether the organization, personnel, and procedure were functioning in accordance with Bureau instructions. Many improvements in operation were made and economies were effected. The program of coordinating ideas which might improve administrative procedure in the field was continued. The Field Office Inspection Manual used by the field inspection staff in standardizing procedure in the various divisions of each district or branch office was further improved and brought up to date.

Shortly after the passage of the act legalizing the manufacture for sale of fermented liquors containing not more than 3.2 percent of alcohol by weight, it became evident that the problem of supervising tax payments at breweries was exceedingly serious on account of the lack of men for assignment to such duty. As a consequence, districts containing large numbers of breweries were visited and plans worked out whereby the existing force of plant and permit inspectors could be used to cover all breweries. The field inspection staff is still working upon this problem in order to continue effective control over tax payments of breweries despite the rapid increase in this type of permittee. It is now investigating the possibility of using meters so that a minimum amount of time can be spent by an inspector at a brewery.

During the year, work was completed on the series of permit inspection manuals describing the technical operations of production plants and proper methods of inspection for the instruction of permit inspectors in the field. The manual pertaining to breweries, previously known as "cereal beverage plants", was published a year ago. The three other manuals relating to industrial alcohol, whisky and rum, and wine and brandy were completed, and distributed to the field.

The Law Division, at the head of which is the Chief Counsel, performs the legal work of the Bureau, coordinates the field legal work, and advises the field legal offices. The enactment of the act of March 22, 1933, which authorized the manufacture for sale of fermented liquors containing not more than 3.2 percent of alcohol by weight, and of the act of March 31, 1933, liberalizing the prescribing of medicinal liquors, increased the duties of this division.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

General

Internal revenue receipts.—Receipts from internal revenue taxes during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933 were as follows:

¹ Includes income tax on Alaska railroads (act of July 18, 1914) amounting to $7,614.31 for 1932 and $4,262.03 or 1933.

² Includes delinquent taxes collected under repealed laws amounting to $79,025.51 for 1932 and $44,612.64 or 1933.

In this summary tax receipts are classified according to the administrative organization for the audit of returns—i.e., the Income Tax Unit, the Estate Tax Division, the Tobacco Division, and the Sales Tax Division. A statement of collections by taxes in detail appears in table 8, page 317.

Refunds.—In the foregoing statement of receipts no deductions have been made on account of refunds, which during the fiscal year 1933 were paid from the several appropriations as follows:

Refunding taxes illegally collected, 1931 and prior years.....	$6,673,172.49
Refunding taxes illegally collected, 1932 and prior years.....	24,604,582.70
Refunding taxes illegally collected, 1933 and prior years.....	20,207,090.73
Total.....	51,484,845.92

In addition to the above amount, there were certain repayments as provided under specific appropriations which were not refunds of taxes erroneously paid under our present internal revenue laws. The redemption of stamps represents the return to the Government of stamps purchased by the taxpayer in excess of his requirements. The stamps so redeemed during the fiscal year, including interest, totaled $4,037,250.81. Repayments under the appropriation act "Refunding legacy taxes, act of March 30, 1928", totaling $10,000, relate to claims under repealed tax laws, the interpretation of which has been changed by court decision.

If the tax refunds during the year on account of erroneous or illegal collections for 1933 and prior years, amounting to $51,484,845.92, were deducted from the gross collections of $1,619,839,224.30, the net collections for the fiscal year would be $1,568,354,378.38. The gross collections, however, are used for comparative purposes in this report.

Additional assessments.—The additional assessments resulting from office audits and field investigations, which amounted to $357,581,305.19, were as follows:

² Includes for miscellaneous internal revenue $43,324,188.66 from the Miscellaneous Tax Unit and $9,110,653 from the Accounts and Collections Unit.

Cost of administration.—The amount expended and obligated in administering the internal revenue tax laws for the fiscal year 1933 was $30,031,722.98. This does not include the amount expended for refunding taxes illegally or erroneously collected, which is in no sense an administrative expense. The aggregate receipts of internal revenue were $1,619,839,224.30, which makes the cost of operation $1.85 for each $100 collected, as compared with $2.17 for the fiscal year 1932.

Income Tax Unit

The Income Tax Unit has charge of the auditing and closing of all income tax returns except certain returns of small incomes for which the auditing problems are not difficult. The latter are settled in the collectors' offices under the administration of the Accounts and Collections Unit. For its work, the Income Tax Unit has an organization of auditors in Washington and a field force throughout the country.

Returns audited and closed.—The number of returns audited and closed by the Income Tax Unit during the fiscal year 1933 is summarized in the following table:

Summary of work of the Income Tax Unit for the fiscal years 1932 and 1933

Involved in appeals to Board on final 60-day notice of deficiency mailed during year ⁴	7,781	5,735
Total not closed.....	264,949	334,305

² Excludes returns closed through decisions of Board of Tax Appeals.

³ Includes some returns with respect to which final notices of deficiency (60-day letters) were mailed prior to the beginning of the year.

At the beginning of the fiscal year 1933 there were 254,771 returns on hand in the unit. During the year the unit received 2,193,118 returns. Of the total received, 2,080,146 were original returns filed covering the taxable years 1931 and 1932 and 112,972 were reopened and new returns for the taxable years prior to 1931.

The total number of returns before the unit for consideration during the fiscal year was 2,447,889. The unit closed 2,113,584 returns without an appeal having been taken to the Board of Tax Appeals. (Jeopardy assessments on 1,595 of these returns can be appealed.) In addition, there were also closed during the year 6,613 returns after action by the Board of Tax Appeals on appeals pending, making a total number of 2,120,197 returns closed. The total included 1,659,418 individual and partnership and 460,779 corporation returns.

Additional revenue.—The total additional revenue made available for collection (exclusive of jeopardy assessments) was $169,629,609.96, as compared with $218,521,218.58 the previous fiscal year, a decrease of $48,891,608.62. The field forces of the Income Tax Unit secured agreements to the immediate assessment and collection of $21,361,130.31, while $148,268,479.65 was assessed after consideration in Washington.

The additional revenues are classified in the following table to show the amounts involved as additional tax, penalty, and interest, and also the procedure involved in reaching a settlement with the taxpayers.

¹ The effect of Mimeograph 3552 is to shorten the interest period when the additional tax is agreed to by taxpayer and field force. The above figures cover assessments made during periods June 1, 1931, to May 31, 1932, and June 1, 1932, to May 31, 1933.

In addition to the amount of revenue thus made available, additional taxes were also assessed under the jeopardy provisions of the several revenue acts, as follows:

*Additional revenue assessed under the jeopardy provisions of revenue acts during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933*¹

Final notices of deficiency (60-day letters).—During the year 17,772 final notices of deficiency (60-day letters) were mailed by the Income Tax Unit, as compared with 22,456 for the previous fiscal period.

Petitions were filed with the Board of Tax Appeals involving 33 percent of the returns with respect to which 60-day letters had been issued. This compares with 34 percent during the fiscal year 1932.

The following table shows the number of tax years involved in petitions filed with the Board of Tax Appeals during the fiscal years 1930 to 1933, inclusive:

NOTE.—The amount involved in claims filed during the year was $229,134,005.48 as compared with $265,479,501.06 the preceding year. Of the claims (including claims made in other years) adjusted during the year, the amounts rejected totaled $170,934,417.94 as compared with $418,268,438.95 the preceding year.

There were also allowed during the year 8,233 collectors' claims, of which 7,059 recommended abatements or credits and 1,174 recommended refunds. A collector's claim usually lists a number of items in favor of different taxpayers, and those settled during the year covered 12,227 items for abatement or credit and 51,382 for refund.

Returns on hand.—A comparative table of returns for all tax years on hand at the close of each of the past 4 fiscal years follows:

Audit in the field.—On June 30, 1933, there were 230,119 returns for 1931 and prior years pending for verification in the offices of the 38 field divisions of the Income Tax Unit, compared with 179,718 returns for 1930 and prior years on hand June 30, 1932.

Changes in tax liability were recommended by the field forces in 132,396 returns, or 28.47 percent of the 464,938 returns disposed of by the field during the year. On 104,844 returns, or 79.15 percent of those changed, taxpayers agreed with revenue agents' conclusions. The total additional tax recommended by revenue agents during the fiscal year was $209,560,777.80, compared with $275,942,496.80 the preceding fiscal year.

Special Advisory Committee

The Special Advisory Committee was organized to consider cases pending before the Bureau, the Board of Tax Appeals, or the courts for the purpose of attempting to reach settlement without litigation. In those cases in which settlement is reached the final responsibility rests with the committee subject to the approval of the Commissioner. The work of the committee over a period of approximately 6 years has demonstrated that the disposition of most problems arising out of tax disputes is and should be a matter of administration rather than of litigation.

Miscellaneous Tax Unit

The Miscellaneous Tax Unit is charged with the administration of all taxes other than income taxes. The unit is composed of three divisions, namely, Estate Tax Division, Sales Tax Division, Tobacco Division, and an Appeals and Review Section, which is attached to the office of the deputy commissioner in charge. A field force under internal revenue agents in charge throughout the country investigates estate and gift tax returns. The personnel of the Sales Tax Division was increased considerably, due to the additional work in administering the new excise taxes imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932. There were slight increases in the personnel of the Estate Tax and Tobacco Divisions. The increase in the Estate Tax Division is due to the additional work resulting from the gift tax imposed by the above-mentioned act.

Estate Tax Division.—Estate tax collections amounted to $29,693,061.89 as compared with $47,422,313 for 1932. As in other recent years, the collection of a large amount of tax was postponed because of the fact that numerous taxpayers availed themselves of the privilege provided by law to extend the time for payment of taxes due in 1933 or to file appeals with the Board of Tax Appeals. Gift tax collections resulting from taxes imposed by the Revenue Acts of 1924 and 1932 amounted to $4,616,661.96.

Deficiency tax was assessed in estate tax cases in the sum of $35,361,898.58. This amount includes an assessment of $20,044,527 with interest of $3,594,871 made in one case to protect the interests of the Government as the taxpayer had failed to furnish the evidence necessary to obtain credit for payment of State estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes prior to the running of the statute of limitations for assessment of the tax. More than $17,000,000 of this special assessment has been abated as the requisite data were subsequently filed. There was also assessed as deficiency tax in gift tax cases the sum of $3,626,914.37, all of which applied to gifts taxed under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1924.

Estate tax and gift tax refunds amounted to $6,762,887.69 (exclusive of interest) while taxes were abated in the sum of $86,175,399.06. This latter action resulted almost entirely from the allowance of credit for payment of State estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes, assessed either at the time that the return was filed or at a later date to protect the interests of the Government as the requisite data had not been filed at the end of the period for assessment of the tax. A summary of refund and abatement claims follows:

Sales Tax Division.—Total collections of taxes under the administration of the Sales Tax Division amounted to $435,456,937.68 for the year, compared with $54,449,096.40 for 1932. These are shown by specific taxes in the table appearing on page 112. The increase of $381,007,841.28 in collections is due to the additional taxes imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932 and the act of March 22, 1933.

The following table summarizes the work on Sales Tax Division claims:

There were 13 sales tax credit cases, totaling $10,241.36, on hand at the beginning of the year; 18,944 cases, amounting to $2,481,054, were received; 10,026 cases, aggregating $563,697.42, were disposed of, leaving on hand at the end of the year 9,041 cases, amounting to $1,927,597.94.

A total of $399,194,746.92, representing 1,444,965 items, was approved by the Commissioner on miscellaneous assessment lists, which relate to assessments of all internal revenue taxes, except those administered by the Income Tax Unit. These lists include all assessments, original and additional, on the miscellaneous internal revenue taxes which are not collected by the sale of stamps and the additional assessments on the latter group of taxes. There were included in the lists $43,324,188.66, representing 44,025 additional assessments resulting from office audit and field investigations, and interest totaling $6,418,871.40.

There were received and examined during the year 1,371,652 returns filed by taxpayers in connection with their liability for excise taxes.

There were received during the year 105 delinquent capital stock tax returns filed under the Revenue Act of 1924, involving $1,673.50, all of which were examined and closed. The tax imposed by this act was repealed, effective July 1, 1926.

A small amount of tax liability incurred in connection with sales, tobacco, capital stock, estate, gift, spirits, narcotics, and miscellaneous stamp and special taxes is compromised with the taxpayer. The offers in compromise received and disposed of during the year and the amounts involved are summarized in the following table:

Appeals and Review Section.—The Appeals and Review Section holds hearings in cases arising under the various tax laws administered by the Miscellaneous Tax Unit, renders on request from the heads of divisions opinions on questions arising in connection with the administration of such tax laws, and reviews the action taken by the divisions on all claims for refund or abatement and cases resulting in certificates of overassessment allowed for amounts in excess of $500. The majority of the hearings are held in connection with estate taxes. During the year the Appeals and Review Section held 902 hearings, prepared 447 formal opinions on cases in which hearings had been held or on which formal opinion had been requested by the heads of divisions, and reviewed 747 claims for refund and abatement and 1,559 estate and gift tax cases resulting in certificates of overassessment. There were 109 memoranda to the Commissioner recommending certain changes in 60-day letters routed through this section for approval.

There were 112 cases on hand at the close of the year, of which number 42 were held for hearings, 17 awaited further evidence from taxpayers, 6 were held awaiting supplemental reports from the field, 7 awaited reports from the Securities Section, Valuation Division, of the Bureau, and 40 were under consideration.

Accounts and Collections Unit

The Accounts and Collections Unit, which is the central administrative organization for the 64 collection districts, is divided into three divisions—the Collection Accounting Division; the Collectors' Personnel, Equipment, and Space Division; and the Disbursement Accounting Division.

Collection Accounting Division.—The Collection Accounting Division establishes accounting methods for use in collectors' offices and the procedure for the intensive audit of the smaller individual income tax returns; audits collectors' revenue accounts current and collectors' special deposit accounts current for offers in compromise, surplus proceeds in distraint sales, and sums offered for the purchase of real estate; issues internal revenue stamps; and compiles statistics for officials of the Treasury Department and the public. The activities of the field force of supervisors of accounts and collections are controlled and directed by this division under the general supervision of the deputy commissioner.

There were filed in collectors' offices during the year 7,288,080 tax returns compared with 5,069,594 for the previous year, an increase of 2,218,486. Of the total tax returns filed in 1933, there were 5,166,091 income tax returns compared with 4,528,335 filed during the previous year, an increase of 637,756.

There were audited and closed in collectors' offices during the year approximately 1,800,000 income tax returns of individuals on Form 1040-A which showed small income, and 4,327,762 information returns were verified. In addition, collectors' offices completed the audit of the 16,495 individual income tax returns on Form 1040¹ for the year 1930 which remained on hand at the close of the previous fiscal year. In connection with this audit work 27,610 income tax returns were investigated.

A total of 8,415,413,120 stamps, valued at $565,354,578.51, was issued to collectors of internal revenue and the Postmaster General, compared with 8,103,030,260 stamps, valued at $441,150,316.28, issued during the year 1932. Stamps returned by collectors and by the Postmaster General amounted to $5,698,164.98, compared with $16,200,288.40 for 1932.

After the appropriate administrative procedure, collectors of internal revenue transmitted to the Bureau, or otherwise disposed of, 110,519 claims as compared with 105,427 during 1932, an increase of 5,092. The number of claims on hand at the close of the fiscal year 1933 was 2,396 compared with 1,037 at the close of the previous fiscal year.

During the year field deputy collectors made 277,655 revenue-producing investigations in connection with the verification of tax returns, the discovery of delinquent taxpayers, and warrants for distraint. The total amount of tax involved in these investigations was $34,731,510, including $24,044,986 collected and $10,686,524 reported for assessment. The amounts involved for the various types of work were:

Additional taxes collected and reported for assessment by collectors' field forces during the fiscal year 1933

	Collected	Reported for asses- ment
Verification of tax returns.....	$1,457,612	$3,913,198
Delinquent taxpayers.....	5,186,575	6,773,326
Warrants for distraint.....	17,400,799
Total.....	24,044,986	10,686,524

There were 47,239 warrants for distraint served by deputy collectors during the year, and on June 30, 1933, there were 27,434 warrants in the hands of the field forces for collection as compared with 21,056 on June 30, 1932.

The supervisors of accounts and collections submitted 120 reports covering their examinations of the accounts of the various collectors' offices compared with 117 reports submitted during 1932. With the exception of one district, every collector's office was examined at least once and most of them twice during the year.

Collectors' Personnel, Equipment, and Space Division.—The Collectors' Personnel, Equipment, and Space Division is charged with the consideration and granting of allowances to collection districts covering the employment of personnel and miscellaneous operating expenses and the keeping of adequate records thereof. The division passes upon collectors' requisitions for nonexpendable supplies, mechanical equipment, and office furniture, and procures space for collectors' offices and branch offices.

Disbursement Accounting Division.—The Disbursement Accounting Division is charged with the duty of keeping the internal revenue appropriation accounts and expenditures and is responsible for the administrative examination required by law of the accounts of 64 collectors of internal revenue and 38 internal revenue agents in charge of divisions, including internal revenue salary accounts of the collector of customs at San Juan, P.R.

The division administratively examined and recorded 1,236 monthly accounts of collectors of internal revenue and internal revenue agents in charge, including internal revenue salary payments made by the collector of customs, San Juan, P.R., together with 46,152 supporting vouchers, in addition to which 2,733 expense vouchers of employees and 7,527 vouchers covering passenger and freight transportation and miscellaneous expenses were audited and passed to the disbursing clerk of the Treasury Department and General Accounting Office for payment.

Office of the General Counsel

The activities of the several divisions of the office of the General Counsel are shown under their respective titles.

Civil Division.—The Civil Division in cooperation with, and at the request of, the Department of Justice and the various United States attorneys assists the latter in handling all civil internal revenue cases arising in the Federal district courts, the United States Court of Claims, and the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, together with a limited number of cases originating in State courts. The division also assists in the preparation of briefs and arguments in the Circuit Courts of Appeals, and prepares drafts of briefs in support of and in opposition to petitions for certiorari in the Supreme Court of the United States.

The division's major activities during the fiscal year are shown in the following tables:

Offers in compromise of pending suits received during the year numbered 55. Compromise offers disposed of, including those pending at the beginning of the fiscal year, numbered 46, of which 27 were accepted and 19 were rejected. The total amount of taxes sought to be recovered in cases finally compromised was $1,619,954.11 and the sum of $695,197.71 was secured.

The number of cases tried and decided during the fiscal year is shown in the following table. It will be observed that the number of decisions exceeds the number of cases tried. This discrepancy is due to the fact that a case may be tried in one year but not decided until a subsequent year.

The work of the division for the fiscal year 1933, in bankruptcy and receivership cases, is summarized as follows:

Bankruptcy and receivership cases closed during the fiscal year 1933

Cases	Number

Received during year.....	1,285
Total to be disposed of.....	3,154
Closed during year.....	980

In the 980 cases closed relating to bankruptcy and receivership, claims were filed in the amount of $8,770,728.94 and the sum of $1,561,780.25 was collected.

Interpretative Division.—The work of this division during the fiscal year 1933 was considerably amplified by the necessity of completing, as far as possible, the series of regulations made necessary by the passage of the Revenue Act of 1932, and of preparing the regulations dealing with the enforcement of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of May 12, 1933.

Because of the new or increased taxes imposed by recent revenue laws—the Revenue Act of 1932, the Nonintoxicating Liquor Act of March 22, 1933, the Agricultural Adjustment Act of May 12, 1933, and the National Industrial Recovery Act of June 16, 1933—this division also had an unusually large amount of interpretative work during the year.

Review Division.—This division reviews cases involving refunds, credits, and abatements of internal-revenue taxes; prepares public decisions in accordance with Treasury Decision 4264 in all cases where the overassessments exceed $20,000; prepares reports to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation in cases involving credits and/or refunds in excess of $75,000, as required by section 710 of the Revenue Act of 1928; and also participates in conferences and negotiations in other bureau agencies involving proposed overpayments.

There were 1,195 overassessment cases disposed of during the year, including certificates allowing reductions in tax aggregating $145,959,641.67. The adjustments made by this division in 90 of these cases totaled $2,741,980.86. Some of the principles involved in these adjustments also affected the disposition of other cases pending elsewhere in the Bureau. Public decisions were promulgated in 932 cases, and in 58 cases reports were submitted to the Joint Committee.

Appeals Division.—Cases filed by taxpayers with the Board of Tax Appeals for the redetermination of proposed deficiencies in income, profits, estate, and gift taxes, are in the immediate charge of the Appeals Division. Since the organization of the board, appeals have been taken from approximately one third (by number) of all deficiencies proposed by the Commissioner in final deficiency notices (60-day letters). During this fiscal year 6,997 such appeals were filed with the board. At the close of the year 18,080 cases, involving proposed deficiencies aggregating $772,476,433.84, were undetermined before the board and on appeal from board decisions. Of all cases disposed of during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933, 68.18 percent were closed by agreed settlements.

¹ The figures in this table include a large amount of duplicate deficiency proposals and assessments made in order to protect the interest of the Government in the case of transfers of property and corporation subsidiaries.

Penal Division.—The Penal Division, in cooperation with the Department of Justice and the various United States attorneys, passes upon criminal internal revenue cases; prepares opinions on liability for percentage penalties for fraud, negligence, or delinquency, and on acceptance or rejection of offers in compromise of tax cases in which such questions are involved. The Division also prepares opinions interpreting or construing percentage penalty and criminal statutes, and opinions on all questions of law involved in a case where there is also a question of percentage penalty or crime. The Division also passes upon questions as to whether cases that have been closed by agreement under section 606 of the Revenue Act of 1928, and similar provisions of the other revenue acts, should be reopened because of "fraud or malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact", and informers' reward claims under section 3463 of the Revised Statutes.

The following table shows the work of the Division during the last two fiscal years:

Administrative Division.—The activities of the Administrative Division include the review of offers in compromise and the holding of conferences on difficult and complicated or protested cases. The division is charged with the supervision of the personnel, library, manuscripts, mail, and records; and devises and inaugurates methods of procedure, assembles and reviews efficiency ratings, interviews applicants, and performs other varied and miscellaneous duties pertaining to the work of the General Counsel's office.

The Compromise Section of the Administrative Division passes upon compromise offers of income and miscellaneous taxes, except criminal or fraud cases, and recommends to the Commissioner acceptance or rejection of interest and penalty cases prepared in the Income and Miscellaneous Tax Units. The volume of work of this section is summarized in the following table:

There were 1,870 cases closed involving insolvent taxpayers. Offers in compromise were accepted in 753 cases in the sum of $4,942,031.79 for assessments aggregating $15,398,548.88; in 1,051 cases offers in compromise were rejected. Sixty-six cases were disposed of by transfer or otherwise. There were 518 cases closed involving claims against estates, assignments, and miscellaneous cases. Claims were filed in the aggregate amount of $2,139,842.11, and the sum of $718,161.69 was collected.

MINT BUREAU

Institutions of the Mint Service

During the fiscal year 1933, 10 Mint Service institutions were in operation: Coinage mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Denver; an assay office at New York City, which makes large sales of fine gold bars; mints at New Orleans and Carson City conducted as assay offices; and assay offices at Boise, Helena, Seattle, and Salt Lake City. The six last-named institutions are, in effect, bullion-purchasing agencies for the large institutions and also serve the public by making assays of ores and bullion. Electrolytic refineries are operated at the New York, Denver, and San Francisco institutions.

The assay offices at Boise, Helena, and Salt Lake City and the mint at Carson City were closed at the end of the fiscal year, no appropriation having been provided for their support. These institutions were established between 1863 and 1874, except the one at Salt Lake City, which was established in 1908. With present improved transportation facilities, the remaining bullion-receiving institutions of the Government provide adequate facilities for the prompt handling of either newly mined bullion or that reclaimed from industry.

Coinage

Coinage executed by the mints during the fiscal year 1933 totaled 38,076,100 pieces, of which 32,154,300 were domestic, consisting principally of 1-cent coins, and 5,921,800 were foreign coins, principally silver, made at the Philadelphia Mint for Panama, Honduras, and Cuba. The total value of the domestic coinage was $27,861,420, of which $26,450,000 was gold, $1,158,200 silver quarter dollars of the Washington bicentennial design, and $253,220 bronze 1-cent pieces.

During 1932 coinage executed totaled 36,333,816 pieces, of which 26,801,500 were domestic coins with a value of $111,999,580 and 9,532,316 were foreign coins.

Bullion deposits

Bullion deposits again greatly increased in number over the prior year, the 1933 total being 73,238 as compared with 54,105 in 1932 and 36,098 in 1931—more than a 100 percent increase during the two years. The many small parcels of newly mined gold from placer miners and those of secondary materials returned from industry to monetary use continued to be material factors.

Gold and silver operations

Gold acquired by the Government at the mint service institutions during the fiscal year 1933 totaled $465,109,665.22; United States gold coin received by the mints for recoinage amounted to $1,637,139.39; transfers of gold between mint offices totaled $10,365,655.35; the aggregate amount of gold received by the mint service institutions, including transfers, during the fiscal year 1933 was $477,112,459.96, which compares with $427,695,309.11 during the prior year.

Receipts of purchased silver during the fiscal year totaled 1,306,915.11 fine ounces, the average cost of which was 27.52+ cents per ounce, the total cost being $359,713.62. Silver received in exchange for bars bearing the Government stamp totaled 622,163.49 fine ounces; United States silver coin received for recoinage totaled 5,580,855.07 fine ounces, the recoinage value being $7,715,023.79; silver deposited in trust by other governments totaled 1,218,116.39 fine ounces; and transfers between mint service offices totaled 104,777.23 fine ounces, making the aggregate quantity of silver, including transfers, received by the mint service offices during the fiscal year 8,832,827.29 fine ounces, as compared with 11,562,350.28 ounces during the prior year.

The New York market price of silver during the fiscal year averaged $0.28714; the lowest price was $0.245625 on December 29, 1932; and the highest price $0.375625 on April 24, 1933.

Refineries

The refineries at the San Francisco and Denver mints produced during the year under review 2,236,943 fine ounces (80.1 tons) of electrolytically refined gold, which compares with 1,602,238 fine ounces (54.9 tons) in the prior year; and 872,249 fine ounces (29.9 tons) electrolytically refined silver, which compares with 1,855,387 fine ounces (63.6 tons) in the prior year. The electrolytic refinery at the New York assay office remained closed.

The aggregate stock of gold and silver in unrefined bullion on hand at the several institutions increased during the past year by about 165 tons to 830 tons, as compared with the prior year's increase of 136 tons.

Gold and silver in the United States

Stock of coin and monetary bullion.—On June 30, 1933, the estimated stock of domestic coin in the United States was $2,807,487,340, of which $1,842,099,589 was gold; $540,007,398, standard silver dollars; $298,634,122, subsidiary silver coin; and $126,746,231, minor coin.

The stock of gold bullion in the mints, assay offices, and Federal Reserve banks on the same date was valued at $2,475,454,755, an increase during the year of $350,687,392; the stock of silver bullion in the mints and assay offices was 27,756,897 fine ounces, an increase of 6,035,674 fine ounces.

Production of gold and silver.—Domestic gold production during the calendar year 1932 was $50,626,000, as compared with $49,527,200 in 1931. The output was about 50 percent of that for the record year 1915, when the total was $101,035,700.

Silver of domestic production during 1932 totaled 23,980,773 ounces, valued at $6,762,578. This compares with 30,932,050 ounces, valued at $8,970,294, for 1931, and with the record production of 74,961,075 fine ounces, valued at $37,397,300, for 1915.

Industrial consumption of gold and silver.—Gold consumption in the industrial arts during the calendar year 1932 was estimated at $20,105,102. The return from industrial use exceeded the total used by industry by $6,489,667. This was a reversal of the usual situation.

Silver used in the arts was estimated at 24,257,967 fine ounces, of which 14,461,011 fine ounces were new material.

As compared with the prior year, silver consumption was about 9,400,000 ounces less and gold consumption about $9,000,000 less.

Net import and export of domestic gold coin.—The net import of domestic gold coin during the fiscal year 1933, according to statistics compiled by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, was $1,343,538; during the prior fiscal year there was net import of $32,675,722. During the 19 fiscal years 1915–1933, since the opening of the World War, there has been a net export of $774,867,260.

Appropriations, expenses, and income

Appropriations available for the mint service during the fiscal year 1933 totaled $1,387,870, and reimbursements to appropriations for services rendered amounted to $71,584.44, making a total of $1,459,454.44.

Expenses amounted to $1,208,354.70, of which $1,207,598.35 was chargeable to appropriations and $756.35 chargeable to income.

The income realized by the Treasury from the mint service aggregated $1,664,861.06, of which $867,569.94 was seigniorage. The seigniorage on subsidiary silver coin was $696,475.63, and on bronze coin, $171,094.31.

The number and value of deposits, transfers, gross income, and expenses for the fiscal year 1933 and the number of employees on June 30, 1933, at each institution are shown in the following table:

Deposits of gold and silver, income, expenses, and employees, by institutions, fiscal year 1933

BUREAU OF NARCOTICS

Enforcement activities

The Bureau of Narcotics continued the policy of directing major enforcement effort against the larger sources of supply of illicit narcotic drugs and the channels through which such drugs are distributed, as well as exercising control over the legitimate manufacture and distribution of drugs for medical purposes.

On account of the reduction in the supply of illicit narcotics drug peddlers and addicts continued their attempts to tap the legitimate medical-supply channels. The Bureau has not neglected this phase of enforcement, but the nature of the work requires, and the Bureau continues its efforts to obtain, the cooperation of the State authorities in such matters as the forging of prescriptions, which cannot conveniently be dealt with under the Federal law.

The Bureau availed itself of the cooperation of enforcement officers of other countries and of the Bureau of Customs in preventing the unlawful importation of narcotics into the United States. It solicited the cooperation of State and municipal agencies in detecting and punishing unlawful intrastate sales and transfers of narcotics, and in many cases received helpful cooperation. But, in the matter of obtaining the suspension or revocation of the licenses of practitioners and pharmacists who were guilty of narcotic irregularities, the Bureau was able to obtain only a reasonable degree of cooperation in a few States.

The final draft of the uniform State narcotic law, evolved with the assistance of representatives of the Bureau and designed to supplement and assist in Federal narcotic law enforcement, was approved by the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws on October 8, 1932, and by the American Bar Association on October 12, 1932. Copies of this law were distributed to interested public-spirited citizens and to the governments of the several States with the urgent recommendation that the proposed measure be enacted into law. An educational campaign was also instituted to arouse public interest in this measure. To date, the law has been adopted with little or no amendment in four States—Florida, Nevada, New Jersey, and New York.

The Bureau continued to limit importations of crude opium and coca leaves to those quantities necessary to supply medical and scientific needs, and in this work continued to receive the cooperation of the Division of Mental Hygiene of the Public Health Service which has afforded technical advice on this and other narcotic-law enforcement problems. Exports of narcotic drugs and preparations have been authorized only upon a showing of medical need therefor in the country of destination and shipments in transit from one foreign country through the United States to another foreign country have been subjected to similar limitations.

The following table shows the number of cases of violation, by registered and nonregistered persons, of the narcotic laws and the cases disposed of during the year:

¹ Includes 15 cases involving tax liability which were closed on payment of taxes and penalties.

Fines imposed during the year for violations of the narcotic laws amounted to $119,335.95. There were 181 cases compromised, resulting in payment into the Treasury of $18,294.

Extent and trend of narcotic traffic

On June 30, 1933, there were 323,192 registrations under the Harrison Narcotic Law, as amended, 226 as importers and manufacturers, 1,467 as wholesale dealers, 51,744 as retail dealers, 146,632 as practitioners, and 123,123 as dealers in and manufacturers of untaxed narcotic preparations, the latter number including registrants not required to pay occupational tax in this special classification by reason of paying another occupational tax under the act.

During the year 112,654.375 pounds of opium were imported as compared with importations of 145,458.33 pounds during the previous year, or a decrease of 32,803.955 pounds. Coca leaves were imported for medicinal purposes only and amounted to 131,512.325 pounds as compared with importations of 223,388.70 pounds during the previous year, or a decrease of 91,876.375 pounds.

Exports of narcotic drugs of all kinds amounted to 4,402 ounces in 1932 and 1,871 ounces in 1933, or a decrease of 2,531 ounces. The drugs exported during 1933 involved 38,006 taxable ounces of products.

The net quantity of pure drugs of all kinds sold to domestic purchasers by manufacturers amounted to 338.759 ounces as compared with sales of 350,932 ounces of such drugs during the previous year.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION OFFICER

During the fiscal year there were 147 appeals from classification allocations to be disposed of, 65 of these having been carried over from the previous year. The personnel classification officer approved 18 appeals, disapproved 33, and canceled 3, leaving 93 to be carried forward to the next year. In addition to work in connection with the investigation of appeals, 1,448 classification sheets were handled by the personnel classification officer.

As of May 15, 1933, 8,741 employees were rated as to efficiency, the average rating for the entire Department being 88.26 per cent.

PUBLIC DEBT SERVICE

Division of Loans and Currency

This division is the active agent of the Secretary for the issue of all public debt obligations of the United States and for conducting transactions in such obligations after issue. It is also responsible for the issue of bonds or other obligations of Puerto Rico and the Philippine Islands, for which the Treasury Department acts as fiscal agent. The division undertakes the safe-keeping of public debt and insular loan securities for certain Government offices. It also counts and delivers to the Destruction Committee United States currency canceled as unfit and mutilated paper (spoilage etc.) received from the Division of Paper Custody and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Issue and retirement of securities.—The following is a summary of the issues and retirements of securities conducted through this division during the fiscal year. Complete details of all transactions in public debt securities are presented in formal statements elsewhere in the report:

There were 93,370 individual accounts closed for registered Liberty bonds, Victory notes, and Treasury bonds, and 33,557 accounts were decreased, representing the retirement of securities amounting to $443,630,800 par value. In connection with the same loans, 78,295 new accounts amounting to $690,177,100 principal were opened. Thirty-nine thousand three hundred and twenty-two changes of address for the mailing of interest checks were made on the registered accounts during the year.

Interest on registered Liberty and Treasury bonds was paid on due dates in the form of 1,726,227 checks, amounting to $98,529,275.15. On registered securities of the pre-war loans 57,840 checks for $16,309,059.75 were issued and there was certified to the Treasurer interest payable amounting to $11,897,128.54 on registered Treasury notes and certificates of indebtedness. There were received from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing 1,999,300 checks as stock, and there were canceled and delivered to the Destruction Committee stock consisting of 147,488 checks.

Claims.—Claims for relief on account of lost, stolen, destroyed, and mutilated securities handled by the division during the fiscal year were as follows:

Safe-keeping of securities.—At the beginning of the year there were securities amounting to $362,996,250 in safe-keeping for various Government offices, against which formal audited receipts were outstanding. Throughout the year securities amounting to $578,408,500 were received for safe-keeping and receipts therefor issued, and securities amounting to $564,526,500 were delivered from safe-keeping upon the surrender of outstanding receipts, leaving a balance of securities amounting to $376,878,250 in safe-keeping June 30, 1933.

Mutilated paper and redeemed currency.—Mutilated paper verified and delivered to the Destruction Committee consisted of 17,077,162 sheets and coupons, of which 16,455,124 sheets and coupons were received from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and 622,038 sheets from the Division of Paper Custody.

Redeemed currency, unfit for circulation, counted and delivered to the Destruction Committee during the year amounted to 554,060,675 pieces, representing $925,341,997.31, detailed as follows:

¹ Slight excess of pieces is due to redemption of exact half notes at half value.

Publicity.—The division maintains a mailing list, in addition to its list of holders of registered securities, for the purpose of placing new public debt offerings, notices of redemption, and such matters before the public. Approximately 106,515 printed circulars were distributed to the public during the year.

Register of the Treasury

The Register of the Treasury conducts the final audit and has custody of all retired Federal securities, including interest coupons. The Register renders monthly certification to the Comptroller General of all public debt securities redeemed by the Treasurer of the United States and establishes credits due the Federal Reserve banks and the Division of Loans and Currency for securities forwarded by them on account of exchanges, replacements, transfers of registration, etc.

During the fiscal year 1933, 30,667,607 security documents, aggregating $19,871,675,903, were retired in the Register's Office. The following comparative statement sets forth, by class of security, the total number of documents, together with the face value thereof, which were received, examined, and filed during the fiscal year 1933:

During the year the Register's Office answered inquiries received from various agencies of the Federal Government and the public involving over 100,000 items. This work was facilitated by the maintenance of numerical ledgers, in which are recorded by code the source and various transactions connected with each bearer security received in the Register's Office.

Division of Public Debt Accounts and Audit

This Division maintains administrative control accounts for all official transactions in the public debt conducted by the various Treasury offices and the Federal Reserve banks as fiscal agents of the United States, and also for transactions involving paper used for printing public debt securities, United States currency, stamps, etc., and other miscellaneous securities and documents in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Numerous administrative audit functions are performed in connection with the foregoing. The Division also maintains control accounts for various classes of unissued currency in reserve stocks of the Treasurer of the United States and the Comptroller of the Currency, and conducts administrative examinations and physical audits of such unissued stocks of currency and of cash balances in custody and collateral securities held in trust in the offices of the Treasurer of the United States.

During the year 133 physical audits were conducted, involving securities, currency, paper, interest checks, etc., amounting to about $53,000,000,000 in face value and over 100,000,000 in number of pieces.

The Division determined and certified credits to the cumulative sinking fund and amounts in the sinking fund available for expenditure from time to time, interest on all classes of public debt securities which became due and payable on their respective interest-payment dates, and the amount of each form of public debt securities and unpaid interest outstanding each month. It prepared estimates of interest to become payable on public debt securities in future fiscal years and expenditures to be made on account of retirements for the sinking fund and other special accounts, and prepared statements showing the accountability of Federal Reserve banks for public debt securities for the use of Federal Reserve Board examiners in their periodical examinations of those banks. Numerous data pertaining to public debt transactions for various interested offices and individuals were also compiled.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics

Reports to the Public Health Service from the health departments of 27 States indicate a death rate of 10.8 per 1,000 population for the calendar year 1932—the lowest rate ever recorded—as compared with the previous low rate of 11 per 1,000 in 1931. The death rate for infants under 1 year of age for 26 States was 58 per 1,000 live births—also the lowest rate ever recorded by the Public Health Service.

Information on the prevalence of diseases in the United States and foreign countries was made available to health officers and other sanitarians. The weekly Public Health Reports, reduced in size, was issued regularly. The number of publications of the Service was reduced, but an effort has been made to supply as much essential basic data as possible. Copies of publications distributed during the fiscal year 1933 numbered 130,802, as compared with 350,391 during 1932. Exhibits were prepared for display at the Century of Progress at Chicago, at the Third International Congress on Eugenics, and at other scientific meetings.

Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration

Quarantine transactions.—During the fiscal year 14,096 vessels and 1,837,797 persons from foreign ports were inspected by quarantine officers, as shown in the following table:

Inspections by quarantine officers during the fiscal year 1933

Inspections at—	Vessels	Passengers	Seamen
Stations in continental United States	10,935	555,726	852,536
Insular stations.....	2,982	133,446	222,218
Foreign ports, prior to embarkation.....	179	69,301	4,570
Total.....	14,096	758,473	1,079,324

In addition, 4,186 airplanes arrived at airports of entry in the United States from foreign ports, requiring quarantine inspection. These planes carried 25,767 persons, 20,396 of whom were examined by medical officers of the Public Health Service prior to entry.

Of the passengers who embarked at European ports, 13,515 were vaccinated and 5,887 were deloused under the surveillance of medical officers of the Public Health Service, and 12,928 pieces of baggage were disinfected.

A total of 1,758 vessels was fumigated, and 6,088 dead rats were found following fumigation, of which number 3,589 were examined for plague infection.

There was no importation into the United States or its dependencies of any quarantinable disease. Effective measures stopped at quarantine the few cases arriving here.

Regulations relating to the importation of parrots were revised to include all birds of the parrot family, and now require that commercial importation of such birds be accompanied by a certificate from the sanitary authority at the place of origin. As a result of the strict enforcement of these regulations, only one shipment of birds received in the United States was found to be infected with psittacosis.

On March 3, 1933, the President rescinded Executive Order No. 5143, restricting the transportation to the United States of passengers from certain ports in the Orient on account of epidemics of cerebrospinal meningitis.

The Government of the United States, through the State Department, signified its willingness to sign the International Sanitary Convention for Air Navigation adopted by the Permanent Committee of the International Office of Public Hygiene at its April-May 1932 session, with reservations similar to those made in ratifying the International Sanitary Convention of Paris (1926). Representatives of many of the 12 countries already signatory to the convention have informally indicated that there would be no objection on the part of their respective governments, and it is believed that the convention will soon be ratified by this Government.

Medical examination of aliens.—There were 398,574 alien passengers and 805,028 alien seamen examined by medical officers at the various ports of entry. Of this number 13,942 passengers and 991 seamen were certified as being afflicted with some mental or physical defect.

In previous years third-class aliens were brought to Ellis Island for medical examination, but since August 19, 1932, in accordance with an order issued by the Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, they have been given medical inspection on board the vessels. Results under the new system indicate that the efficiency is approximately only 40 percent of that attained under the old system.

Examination of prospective immigrants abroad.—There were 26,543 applicants for immigration visas examined by medical officers in American consulates in foreign countries. Of this number 17,107 were examined in Europe and 9,436 were examined in the Western Hemisphere. Of the total number examined in foreign countries, 549 were reported as being afflicted with one or more of the defects or diseases requiring mandatory exclusion, and 5,065 were reported as afflicted with a disease or condition which was likely to affect their ability to earn a living. Only 4 were certified subsequently upon arrival at a United States port as being afflicted with a defect or disease requiring mandatory deportation.

The marked decrease in the number of applications for immigration visas abroad permitted a material reduction in the personnel engaged in the medical examination of immigrants abroad.

Division of Domestic Quarantine

In cooperation with State health authorities the Public Health Service inspected and controlled 95 percent of the 2,214 sources of drinking water used by railroads and bus lines, 97 percent of the 253 sources used by vessels, and 97 percent of the 116 sources used by airplanes. Municipal health authorities have cooperated by collecting and examining approximately 5,000 samples of drinking water taken from common carriers.

Sixty-one percent of the vessels engaged in interstate commerce were issued certificates showing that their drinking and culinary water systems complied with the regulations; and 19 percent were issued temporary certificates pending inspection. A continued reduction in typhoid fever cases on vessels under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Quarantine Regulations is noted, and in no instances could the cases be traced to drinking-water supplies.

Surveys of the efficiency of State control over the sanitation of the shellfish industry have continued, with inspections of growing areas and shellfish establishments. Approval was given 1,301 State certificates issued during the year.

An office of stream sanitation was established during the year to assist in the correlation of data and to advise the States as to methods of procedure where the problems are interstate in character.

Services rendered other branches of the Government, such as the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the National Park Service, and the Forest Service, required about a quarter of the time of the engineers, and included surveys, demonstrations, review of plans, and designing of water, sewage, and garbage devices. Assistance was rendered the Lighthouse Service in developing small and effective water-treatment systems applicable to tenders and lightships on the Great Lakes.

Studies of the health problems of rural areas and cooperation with the States in demonstrating the value of organized public health service were continued. Five hundred and eighty-one counties were maintaining effective health organizations. Financial and technical assistance was rendered by the Public Health Service to 172 of these local units in 28 States. Trachoma eradication in certain endemic areas in Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Missouri was continued in cooperation with the State health authorities. Examinations were given 18,646 persons; more than 1,900 new cases of trachoma were discovered; 7,900 treatments were given in field clinics and dispensaries; and 777 cases were admitted to the two hospitals.

Cooperation with the State authorities in the eradication of rodent plague in California was continued. No human case was reported during the year, although rodent plague was reported in ground squirrels in San Benito County.

Division of Scientific Research

Cancer research continued as a major research activity. Studies are being undertaken in an effort to furnish a rational basis for the chemical treatment of cancer.

Laboratory studies of rheumatic heart disease, begun during the last fiscal year, include a search for a suitable experimental animal, tests of the streptococcal hypothesis, and epidemiological studies of the prevalence of the disease in Washington.

At the leprosy investigation station at Honolulu, Hawaii, clinical studies were undertaken in an effort to improve and devise new methods of treatment.

In connection with studies of malaria control, experiments have demonstrated that a 10-day interval of paris green dusting almost completely controls the incidence of Anopheles quadrimaculatus, when applied on a county-wide basis in the manner developed during the study, and that a 21-day interval between applications was insufficient in the average climate of the Mississippi Valley.

Laboratory studies of pellagra have been principally concerned with the determination of the probable pellagra-preventive value of various foods by tests in the dog, correlated with the human tests.

Plague studies in the Hawaiian Islands were continued. In the two plague regions in the islands the disease is endemic among field rats; therefore the intensive distribution of poison appears to be the only measure which will reduce the number of rodents to a point where plague may be adequately controlled. A new species of flea, identified for the first time during the year, is evidently the plague-transmitting agent responsible for the endemic type of rural infection found in the Hawaiian Islands.

Psittacosis has been found to be endemic in the parrakeet-breeding aviaries of California, and in October 1932 a laboratory for psittacosis research was established in Pasadena. Thirty-seven cases of human psittacosis with nine deaths were reported in the United States during the year.

The Public Health Service prepared 205,000 cubic centimeters of vaccine for the prevention of Rocky Mountain spotted fever for the season of 1933, as compared with 153,000 cubic centimeters for 1932. The entire net output for 1933 has been distributed. Officers of the Public Health Service have been the first to establish the identity of the so-called "Sao Paulo typhus" of Brazil with Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Child hygiene investigations included studies in vision, hearing, physical status, growth, and development in school children, the mental status of children of various types of birth, dental caries in relation to diet and climate, a comparison of dental decay among Negro and white children of the same locality, and maternal, fetal, and neonatal mortality among the Indians.

A survey by the Public Health Service shows that there are close to 200 known areas in the United States located in 22 States where mottled enamel is found. Laboratory studies are being conducted on the subject.

Investigations on industrial dermatoses were made during the year in the rubber, tanning, cigar-making, cotton-milling, sirup-manufacturing, and rayon industries, and a study of the effects of the dusts of coal mining on the health of workers in the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania was begun during the year.

Investigations in milk sanitation included studies of the bactericidal treatment of milk containers and equipment, studies on pasteurization and the transmission of milk-borne diseases, specifications for effective pasteurization machinery, and studies to determine the proper treatment of udders prior to milking.

Studies of public health methods were pursued with the dual purpose of determining the effectiveness and economy of public health procedures in relation to the needs of the people and of informing local health departments.

It is believed that the economic depression has had an effect on health which is not shown in mortality statistics. In an attempt to measure sickness among the unemployed population the Public Health Service undertook a canvass of about 1,000 families in 10 representative localities in the United States. Preliminary data seem to indicate higher sickness rates among the lower economic classes, particularly in the case of the more serious illnesses. It also appears that families moderately comfortable in 1929 but unemployed and reduced in income for the subsequent 2 to 3 years had more sickness than those only recently unemployed.

Studies are being undertaken of lapses in the efficiency of the activated sludge process at the Stream Pollution Investigations Station.

A survey of the rodent situation and a collection of rat parasites were undertaken at Savannah, Ga., and a study of typhus control measures was begun at Dothan and Enterprise, Ala.

The grouping of hemolytic streptococci from a great variety of disease sources, from many parts of the world, according to sensitiveness to three races of bacteriophage, gives promise of results which may be useful in tracing the source of epidemics.

Laboratory observations show that animals previously immunized to one disease were more resistant to later infection with entirely unrelated diseases than were nonimmunized animals.

Studies to develop a practical method for the manufacture of a scarlet fever prophylactic (toxoid), in progress for several years, have been completed. By this method sufficient toxoid may be given in three doses to induce immunity in over 80 percent of those tested, ordinarily with only a slight reaction following the injections.

Experimental production of meningitis in animals was carried out chiefly with the object of improving the present method of testing therapeutic sera.

The rate of hydrolysis and the disintegration products of the phosphoric and phosphorous ester under certain conditions in vitro have been studied in relation to their pharmacologic action. Sugar researches, besides yielding data of value in the study of the physiological chemistry of sugars, have also led to the development of improved methods for the preparation of these sugars and the isolation of a number of new sugar derivatives.

Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief

The marine hospitals were filled to capacity until shortly after the enactment of the act of March 20, 1933, when the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs discontinued admitting his patients to these institutions. Expenditures were reduced proportionately as the expendable reimbursement for their maintenance ceased. The number of merchant seamen and other old-line beneficiaries applying for treatment has increased. The appropriation for this service has been reduced from $5,600,000 to $4,320,000, requiring further economies and a reduction in personnel.

The daily average of patients in hospital was 4,830; 1,202 deaths occurred. The daily average number of out-patient treatments was 2,862. The average per diem cost of care in marine hospitals, including salaries, food, equipment, supplies, fuel, and upkeep was reduced from $3.77 in 1932 to $3.34 in 1933. The amount of relief reflects chiefly the requirements of American merchant seamen and the growth of the merchant marine.

Division of Venereal Diseases

Studies at the venereal disease research laboratory at Stapleton, N. Y., include a continuation of the experimental resurvey in the field of personal prophylaxis in syphilis. Work has also been conducted to explain the peculiarities of various phenomena of experimental syphilis on the basis of a life cycle of the Spirocheta pallida. A clinical study of the late effects of untreated syphilis in the Negro was undertaken in cooperation with the Tuskegee Institute for the principal purpose of obtaining a measure for evaluating treatment of similar racial groups. Clinical studies conducted in cooperation with five of the leading venereal disease clinics of the country, and, with the financial assistance of a large philanthropic foundation, comprise a thorough consideration of the subject of latent syphilis and a detailed report on the toxic effects following the clinical use of the arsenical drugs. Studies pertaining to syphilis in pregnancy and syphilis of the central nervous system have been started.

One prevalence survey was made during the year. Analysis of the resurveys made during the preceding year shows a general increase in the number of early cases of syphilis and acute cases of gonorrhea seeking treatment.

The Public Health Service is providing, to a continuously increasing number of institutions caring for the insane, a satisfactory strain for the induction of malaria in the treatment of syphilis of the central nervous system. The practicability of the employment of the quartan strain of malaria in inducing malaria in Negro patients has been well established.

Reports of the prevalence of the venereal diseases have been received from 47 States and local officials cooperating with the Public Health Service.

The publication of the monthly abstract journal Venereal Disease Information constitutes the chief informative activity in relationship with practicing physicians.

The Public Health Service clinic at Hot Springs, Ark., is the sole project participating in the program against the interstate spread of the venereal diseases. Two thousand eight hundred and eighty-three cases infected with the venereal diseases received treatment at this clinic during the year; approximately two thirds of these were from States other than Arkansas.

Division of Mental Hygiene

The Division of Mental Hygiene continued the special studies of the nature of narcotic drug addiction at the United States Penitentiary Annex, Fort Leavenworth, Kans. Collection of data concerning the medico-social aspects of drug addiction was continued, as well as special studies with reference to the legal distribution of narcotic drugs incident to determining the medicinal and scientific needs.

The foundations for the first United States Narcotic Farm, Lexington, Ky., were completed, and construction of the superstructure was begun on March 25, 1933. Title to the site for the second institution located at Forth Worth, Tex., was acquired on May 26, 1933.

The supervision and furnishing of medical and psychiatric services in Federal penal and correctional institutions under the control of the Department of Justice were continued. The work was expanded to embrace five additional institutions during the year, viz: The United States Penitentiary, Lewisburg, Pa.; the United States Detention Headquarters, New York City; the United States Detention Farm, Milan, Mich.; the United States Southwestern Reformatory, El Reno, Okla.; and the Hospital for Defective Delinquents, Springfield, Mo.

Division of Personnel and Accounts

Personnel.—The withdrawal from marine hospitals of the beneficiaries of the Veterans' Administration caused a considerable loss of income to the Public Health Service. This loss, together with the greatly reduced appropriations, made it necessary to dismiss more than a thousand employees, reduce the compensation of the remaining force, close a number of stations, and curtail scientific research work.

On July 1, 1933, the regular commissioned corps of the Public Health Service consisted of 371 commissioned officers, of which number 30 were on waiting orders. The reserve officers on active duty numbered 30. Other personnel of the service totaled 4,911, not including 4,640 collaborating and assistant collaborating epidemiologists who served at nominal compensation and who were for the most part officers or employees of State and local health organizations.

SECRET SERVICE DIVISION

During the fiscal year 1933, 3,003 persons were arrested by agents of the Service, or by their direction, on charges involving counterfeiting of the obligations and coins of the United States and forgery, as well as miscellaneous offenses against the Federal statutes relating to the Treasury Department. Of this number, 1,539 were note counterfeiters and note passers, 74 were note raisers and passers of altered currency, 956 were coin counterfeiters and coin passers, 340 were check forgers, 11 were apprehended for negotiating stolen or forged bonds, 33 were held for fraudulent negotiation of adjusted service certificates, and 50 arrests were made for miscellaneous offenses.

The division detected 11 new counterfeit-note issues, photo-mechanical productions which warranted distribution of descriptive warning circulars, and approximately 100 unidentified notes of varying types and denominations which circulated in different sections of the country for short periods, some being hand-drawn and photographic specimens of extremely crude workmanship.

Counterfeit notes aggregating $921,499 were seized during the year by operatives of the Service. These included $14,220 of altered notes, of which $5,290 were made and passed in foreign countries, and $185 of fractional currency. Counterfeit coins totaling $72,818 were confiscated.

Of the counterfeit notes seized during the year, a total of $349,127 was used in evidence against the makers and passers, while altered notes aggregating $2,865 were likewise used in evidence in the prosecution of note raisers and passers.

In connection with investigations and arrests, operatives captured or seized 409 plates, 613 film and glass negatives for printing counterfeit obligations and securities, together with 60 lithograph stones and 2 rubber plates; 487½ plaster moulds, 39½ metal moulds, and 41½ steel dies for counterfeiting coins, together with a large quantity of miscellaneous materials and paraphernalia.

Of the total number of persons arrested during the year, 1,563 were convicted and sentenced, 162 were acquitted, 739 are awaiting action of the courts, while others were variously disposed of.

Agents conducted investigations of 1,406 check cases, 95 bond cases, and 8 war saving stamp cases. In check case investigations, $1,439 was received in restitution and transmitted to the Department.

The Veterans' Administration forwarded to the service for investigation 191 cases involving violation of the World War Adjusted Compensation Act and 302 reports in this connection were submitted to the administration. Inquiries in 166 cases by the General Supply Committee for information concerning prospective bidders on Government supplies were received and 137 reports were forwarded to the committee at the conclusion of investigations. Three requests were received from the Farm Loan Board for investigation of offenses against the Farm Loan Act and as many reports were made to the Board.

OFFICE OF THE SUPERVISING ARCHITECT

During the fiscal year 1933 the Office of the Supervising Architect continued its work on the program of public building construction authorized by the so-called Keyes-Elliott Act, approved May 25, 1926, and the several amendatory acts of Congress enlarging the program thereby initiated. This work constituted the major function of the office during the year, but in addition the office performed its other usual functions, including the inspection, maintenance, and repair of public buildings throughout the country, totaling 1,658 on June 30, 1933.

Under the several public building acts the total general authorizations covering the regular building program to June 30, 1933, amounted to $702,296,794, including both buildings and sites. The following table gives these authorizations in detail:

Total general authorizations for all buildings, extensions, etc., up to June 30, 1933, including all land authorizations outside of the District of Columbia and certain ones in the District of Columbia, also $69,000,000 expected to be realized from the sale of property now owned by the Government.....	$649, 000, 000

Total general authorizations to June 30, 1933.....	702, 296, 794

Under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, approved July 21, 1932, an additional $100,000,000 was authorized and appropriated for public building projects to be selected by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General from House Document 788, Seventy-first Congress, third session. Pursuant to the provisions of this act, 410 projects with limits of cost aggregating $85,865,900 were specifically authorized up to March 4, 1933. Contracts were made with outside architects for the preparation of working drawings, etc., for 110 of these projects. Subsequent to that time, however, $92,875,200 was transferred to the emergency conservation fund in compliance with the act of March 31, 1933. In addition to this amount, it was necessary to transfer $308,241.65 to certain office appropriations, such transfer being permitted by the act approved June 30, 1932. This left only $6,816,558.35 available for the purposes for which the original appropriation was made. Of this amount, $6,611,520.55 was obligated for more than one hundred sites, etc., up to June 30, 1933, leaving an unobligated balance of $205,037.80. These obligations were liquidated up to that time to the extent of $2,849,432.21. The amount to be subsequently liquidated is therefore $3,762,088.34.

The following table shows the status of work under the emergency relief program as of June 30, 1933:

Status of work under the relief program

	Limit of cost

Due to the transfer of funds above mentioned, no contracts for construction work have been awarded under this program.

Regular public building program

Under the regular program, that is, under the previously mentioned general authorizations aggregating $702,296,794, Congress has specifically authorized 817 building projects and made specific appropriations for land in the District of Columbia involving a total limit of cost of $494,642,437.

Specific authorizations of projects.—The following tabulation classifies the specific authorizations as of June 30, 1933, and indicates the limits of cost in each group.

Annual appropriations for maintenance, repairs, etc., of public buildings

The 1933 appropriations for operating force, operating supplies, repairs and preservation, mechanical equipment, furniture and furniture repairs, and vaults and safes aggregated $17,261,500. The Office of the Supervising Architect has charge of 1,606 courthouses, post offices, customhouses, etc., and 52 quarantine stations and marine hospitals, making a total of 1,658 buildings throughout the country, to which new buildings and extensions are added every year. The expenditures under these appropriations increase accordingly and practically the entire appropriations have been expended.

Total expenditures

Total expenditures for all purposes for the Office of the Supervising Architect during the fiscal year 1933, together with outstanding contract liabilities and remaining unencumbered balances of appropriations, are shown in the following table:

DIVISION OF SUPPLY

The Division of Supply is the central procuring or purchasing agency of the Treasury Department, and as such does the purchasing for all local and field activities, with the exception of purchases from appropriations for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing (exempted by law), the Coast Guard, and, to some extent, the Bureau of the Mint. The division is charged also with certain duties closely related to purchasing, such as accounting for funds appropriated or allotted to it; supervision over printing and binding for the Treasury Department and engraving work by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for all departments and establishments, unless money, bonds, or stamps are involved; control over newspaper and periodical advertising for the department; routing of all freight, express, and parcel post shipments; and warehousing and distribution of stationery and miscellaneous supplies, including blank books and forms, to Washington and field offices of the Treasury Department. The appropriations to the Department for purchases of stationery, and for printing and binding are under the administrative control of the division.

Expenditures from various appropriations

The total cost of purchases made by the Division of Supply during each of the past four fiscal years from specified appropriations from which allotments were made to the division to cover expenditures made by it, and also purchases chargeable to appropriations from which no allotments were made, are shown in the following table:

¹ Appropriation accounting by bureaus and offices for which purchases were made.

The foregoing expenditures involved the preparation of specifications, the solicitation of quotations, the writing of purchase orders, and the examination and audit of vouchers for payment through the Disbursing Clerk of the Treasury Department. The purchase orders in 1933 required the preparation of 9,365 sets of specifications and the circulation of 80,942 invitations to dealers to submit quotations, as compared with 9,800 sets of specifications in 1932.

Stationery supplies

The appropriations, reimbursements, and expenditures for articles of stationery for the past four years are summarized in the following table:

Appropriations, reimbursements, and expenditures for stationery for the fiscal years 1930 to 1933, inclusive

Printing and binding

The appropriation for printing and binding for the fiscal year 1933 was $670,000, but, due to the provisions of the Economy Act, a restriction was placed on printing and binding by the Bureau of the Budget which permitted an expenditure of only $608,000. Of this amount $582,651.23 was expended, which included $32,358.28 expended from funds other than the printing and binding appropriation made by Congress, thus leaving a balance of $119,707.05 from the original appropriation of $670,000.

Expenditures for printing and binding, by bureaus, offices, and services, for each of the last four fiscal years are shown in the following table:

² Original appropriation was $715,000; transfer of $21,100 was made to Department of Justice ($19,000 for prohibition, $1,600 for Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, $500 for Customs Court), leaving an available balance of $693,900.

⁴ Reimbursed to printing and binding appropriation.

Department advertising

Authorizations to publish advertising were issued to 3,480 newspapers and periodicals in the fiscal year 1933, compared with 3,774 in 1932, a decrease of 294; while expenditures thus authorized increased from $39,174.65 in 1932 to $41,863.42 in 1933, an increase of $2,688.77.

Engraving work

A total of 71,918,243 certificates, checks, commissions, drafts, liquor permits, transportation requests, and warrants was approved by this office for execution by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the several departments and establishments of the Government during the fiscal year 1933, compared with 68,423,775 in the preceding year.

TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

Total ordinary receipts from all sources, exclusive of postal revenues, and expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts are shown for the fiscal years 1932 and 1933 in the following table, classified according to fund accounts. The figures used in this table and throughout this section of the report (pp. 149 to 152, inclusive) are on the basis of daily Treasury statements, revised. (For explanation of fund accounts, see p. 276; and for explanation of bases, see p. 275.)

Interest at the rate of one half of 1 percent per annum accrued on balances held by general and limited depository banks, including foreign, in the amount of $131,253.56 and on balances in special depository banks arising from the sales of Treasury bonds, notes, and certificates of indebtedness in the amount of $1,910,237.77, making a total of $2,041,491.33.

Pursuant to the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Banking Act of 1933, interest ceased to accrue after June 14, 1933, on balances held by special depository banks and after June 30, 1933, on balances in general and limited depository banks. Additional collections on account of interest accrued on balances held by restricted special, general, and limited depository banks will be made upon settlement of the indebtedness of such restricted banks to the Government.

United States paper currency (gold certificates, silver certificates, and United States notes) shipped during 1933 from the Treasury in Washington to Treasury offices, Federal Reserve banks and branches, and others amounted to $798,651,071, as compared with $1,227,811,885 in the previous year.

United States paper currency, issued during the fiscal year 1933 amounted to $831,992,000; and the redemptions of such currency, including Treasury notes of 1890, amounted to $939,578,642, leaving $2,577,363,046 outstanding at the end of the year.

The proceeds of currency counted into the Treasurer's cash by the National Bank Redemption Agency amounted to $451,168,865.22, of which $372,992,745.50 was in national bank notes, $676,810 in Federal Reserve bank notes, $77,359,515 in Federal Reserve notes, and $139,794.72 in United States currency.

Canceled Federal Reserve notes amounting to $833,409,000 were received from Federal Reserve banks and branches for credit of Federal Reserve agents.

During the year the Treasurer's office authorized and directed shipments or transfers of gold bars and of current gold, silver, and minor coins to or from the Treasury, the mints, the assay office in New York, and the Federal Reserve banks and branches for use in public disbursements and for special purposes in an aggregate amount of $160,958,042.99. Shipments and transfers of uncurrent and lightweight coins to the mints from the Treasury in Washington and from the Federal Reserve banks and branches were authorized in the amount of $12,771,484.99.

Government and other securities held in custody on June 30, 1933, amounted to $16,831,891,905, whereas the amount held on June 30, 1932, was $15,052,690,273, an increase during 1933 of $1,779,201,632. Of this increase $185,906,640 was pledged to secure national bank circulation, $2,323,073 to secure public deposits in depository banks, $300,562,179 to secure postal savings funds in depository banks, and $1,290,409,740 was held for special trust accounts.

The number of pieces of public debt obligations examined, verified, and redeemed during the fiscal year 1933 was 600,181, whereas during the previous year the number was 501,051.

Checks in payment of interest on the registered obligations of the United States verified and paid during the fiscal year 1933 numbered 1,741,394 and amounted to $113,771,868.69. Interest coupons detached from United States obligations examined, verified, and paid during the fiscal year 1933 numbered 17,269,549 and amounted to $556,008,944.32.

Checks issued during the fiscal year 1933 by the Treasurer of the United States in payment of interest on the registered obligations of the insular governments numbered 6,410 and amounted to $1,214,527.50. Coupons from obligations of the insular governments paid during the fiscal year numbered 145,832 and amounted to $3,427,292.50.

Funds were advanced to United States disbursing officers by accountable warrants issued in an aggregate amount of $3,083,871,744.47. Warrants aggregating $8,564,796,185.41 were also issued covering public debt principal and interest payments by the Treasurer. Treasurer's checks aggregating $75,619,487.17 were issued on settlement warrants in payment of claims settled by the Comptroller General. Drafts were purchased in payment of claims settled in foreign currencies by the Comptroller General and for other departments and bureaus of the Government at a total cost of $111,798.65.

Checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States by Government disbursing officers and paid during the fiscal year 1933 numbered 39,816,394, an increase of 1,885,018 checks as compared with the previous fiscal year. Balances to the credit of disbursing officers and Government agencies in 3,215 accounts on June 30, 1933, amounted to $320,227,466.71, a decrease of $44,995,243.86 from the total of such balances in 3,151 accounts on June 30, 1932.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION

(In liquidation)

The liquidation of the War Finance Corporation, which began on January 1, 1925, was continued during the year. By the act approved March 1, 1929, the liquidation of the corporation's assets remaining at the close of April 4, 1929, and the winding up of the affairs of the corporation thereafter were transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Only $10,000 of the corporation's original capital of $500,000,000 is outstanding, $499,990,000 of capital stock having been canceled and retired at par. In addition, the corporation has paid into the Treasury $64,531,271.70 on account of earnings.

The amount advanced by the corporation for all purposes, from its creation, not including such part of new applications as represent proceeds used to retire other advances, was $690,431,100, of which $688,444,885 has been repaid. The amount carried on the corporation's books on October 15, 1933, was $163,368.48, of which $150,000 represented war loans and $13,368.48 agricultural and livestock loans (including expense advances of $375). During the year ended October 15, 1933, no expense advances were made. The repayments during this period aggregated $21,198.33, of which $718.33 applied on account of the corporation's agricultural and livestock loans and $20,480 on account of war loans.

Issues of Treasury bonds, Treasury notes, and certificates of indebtedness

Offering of Treasury notes, series B-1936 (2¾ percent), and certificates of indebtedness, series TD-1933 (¾ percent)

On December 7, 1932, the Treasury offered for subscription Treasury notes and Treasury certificates of indebtedness as described in the following circulars. In the related press release it was stated that about $600,000,000 of Treasury notes and about $100,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt became due and payable on December 15, 1932.

[Department Circular No. 471]

The Secretary of the Treasury offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, $350,000,000, or thereabouts, 2¾ percent Treasury notes of series B-1936, of an issue of gold notes of the United States authorized by the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended.

DESCRIPTION OF NOTES

The notes will be dated December 15, 1932, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 2¾ percent per annum, payable semiannually on June 15 and December 15 in each year. They will mature December 15, 1936, and will not be subject to call for redemption prior to maturity.

The principal and interest of the notes will be payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value.

Bearer notes with interest coupons attached will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. The notes will not be issued in registered form.

The notes shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except estate or inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority.

The notes will be accepted at par, during such time and under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed or approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, in payment of income and profits taxes payable at the maturity of the notes.

The notes will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys, but will not bear the circulation privilege.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks.

Subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in Treasury notes of series 1932, maturing December 15, 1932, will be given preferred allotment up to not less than $210,000,000.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, and to allot less than the amount of notes applied for and to close the subscriptions at any time without notice; the Secretary of the Treasury also reserves the right to make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts, to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, and to make classified allotments and allotments upon a graduated scale; and his action in these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of the allotment will be publicly announced.

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for notes allotted must be made on or before December 15, 1932, or on later allotment. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for notes allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury notes of series 1932, maturing December 15, 1932, will be accepted at par in payment for any notes of the series now offered which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of the interest accrued, if any, on the notes so paid for.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve banks of the respective districts. After allotment and upon payment Federal Reserve banks may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive notes.

OGDEN L. MILLS,

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 7, 1932.

To the Investor:

Almost any banking institution in the United States will handle your subscription for you, or you may make subscription direct to the Federal Reserve bank of your district. Your special attention is invited to the terms of subscription and allotment as stated above. If you desire to purchase, at the market price, notes of the above issue after the subscriptions close, or notes of any outstanding issue, you should apply to your own bank, or, if it cannot obtain them for you, to the Federal Reserve bank of your district, which will then endeavor to fill your order in the market.

[Department Circular No. 472]

The Secretary of the Treasury, under the authority of the act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, $250,000,000, or thereabouts, Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TD-1933.

DESCRIPTION OF CERTIFICATES

The certificates of this series will be dated December 15, 1932, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of three quarters of 1 percent per annum, payable semiannually. They will be payable on December 15, 1933.

The principal and interest of the certificates will be payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value.

Bearer certificates will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. The certificates will have two interest coupons attached, payable on June 15, 1933, and December 15, 1933.

The certificates of this series shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except estate and inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority.

The certificates of this series will be accepted at par, during such time and under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed or approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, in payment of income and profits taxes payable at the maturity of the certificates.

The certificates of this series will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys, but will not bear the circulation privilege.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Application will be received at the Federal Reserve banks.

Subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in Treasury notes of series 1932, maturing December 15, 1932, will be given preferred allotment up to not less than $150,000,000.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, and to allot less than the amount of certificates applied for and to close the subscriptions at any time without notice; the Secretary of the Treasury also reserves the right to make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts, to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, and to make classified allotments and allotments upon a graduated scale; and his action in these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of the allotment will be publicly announced.

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on or before December 15, 1932, or on later allotment. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury notes of series 1932, maturing December 15, 1932, will be accepted at par in payment of any certificates of the series now offered which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of the interest accrued, if any, on the certificates so paid for.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve banks of the respective districts. After allotment and upon payment Federal Reserve banks may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive certificates.

Offering of Treasury notes, series A-1938 (2½ percent)

On January 23, 1933, the Treasury offered for subscription Treasury notes as described in the following circular. In the related press release it was stated that about $145,000,000 of Treasury certificates and about $13,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt became due and payable on February 1, 1933.

[Department Circular No. 477]

The Secretary of the Treasury offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, $250,000,000, or thereabouts, 2½ percent Treasury notes of series A-1938, of an issue of gold notes of the United States authorized by the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended.

DESCRIPTION OF NOTES

The notes will be dated February 1, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 2½ percent per annum, payable semiannually, on August 1, 1933, and thereafter on February 1 and August 1 in each year. They will mature February 1, 1938, and will not be subject to call for redemption prior to maturity.¹ * * *

The notes will not be acceptable in payment of taxes. * * *

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks.

Subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in 3¾ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series A-1933, maturing February 1, 1933, will be given preferred allotment up to not less than $75,000,000. * * *

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for notes allotted must be made on or before February 1, 1933, or on later allotment. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for notes allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series A-1933, maturing February 1, 1933, will be accepted at par in payment for any notes of the series now offered which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of the interest accrued, if any, on the notes so paid for. * * *

Subscriptions and allotments, Treasury notes, series A-1938 (from press releases, January 24 and 27 and February 3, 1933)

Secretary Mills announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 5-year, 2½ percent Treasury notes of series A-1938, maturing February 1, 1938, closed at the close of business January 23, 1933.

Reports received from the Federal Reserve banks show that for the offering of notes, which was for $250,000,000, or thereabouts, total subscriptions aggregated $7,802,843,600. Of these subscriptions, $123,920,900 represents exchange subscriptions, in payment for which Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing February 1 were tendered. Such exchange subscriptions were allotted 62 percent. Allotments on cash subscriptions were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts not exceeding $1,000 were allotted 20 percent, but not less than $100 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $1,000 but not exceeding $10,000 were allotted 10 percent, but not less than $200 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 but not exceeding $100,000 were allotted 6 percent, but not less than $1,000 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $100,000 but not exceeding $1,000,000 were allotted 3 percent, but not less than $6,000 on any one subscription; and subscriptions in amounts over $1,000,000 were allotted 2 percent, but not less than $30,000 on any one subscription.

Attention was called to the fact that the large oversubscription for recent Treasury offerings was not to be regarded as an indication that idle funds were available in an amount even remotely approaching the total subscribed for. This great volume of subscriptions was due in large measure to the fact that many subscribers were deliberately applying for amounts far in excess of their requirements, anticipating that under the Treasury's percentage allotment they would receive a reduced amount approximating their actual needs. This practice of padding steadily increased until it reached such proportions that the Department had to consider measures to deal with it in the interest both of subscribers and of the Treasury.

Subscriptions and allotments for the Treasury notes of series A-1933 were divided among the several Federal Reserve districts and the Treasury as follows:

Federal Reserve district	Total cash subscriptions received	Total exchange subscriptions received	Total subscriptions received	Total subscriptions allotted
Boston.....	$576,281,700	$4,532,000	$580,813,700	$22,302,100

Offering of certificates of indebtedness, series TAG-1933 (4 percent) and series TD2-1933 (4¼ percent)

On March 12, 1933, the Treasury offered for subscription two series of Treasury certificates of indebtedness as described in the following circular. In the related press release it was stated that about $695,000,000 of Treasury certificates and about $59,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt became due and payable on March 15, 1933.

[Department Circular No. 481]

The Secretary of the Treasury, under the authority of the act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, $800,000,000, or thereabouts, Treasury certificates of indebtedness, in two series. The amount of each series to be issued will be in the proportion that the total subscriptions for that series bears to the total subscriptions received for both series. The aggregate amount of the two series to be issued will be $800,000,000, or thereabouts.

DESCRIPTION OF CERTIFICATES

The certificates of series TAG-1933 will be dated March 15, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 4 percent per annum, payable on an annual basis. They will be payable on August 15, 1933.

The certificates of series TD2-1933 will be dated March 15, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 4¼ percent per annum, payable on a semiannual basis. They will be payable on December 15, 1933.

The principal and interest of the certificates will be payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value.

Bearer certificates will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. The certificates of series TAG-1933 will have one interest coupon attached, payable August 15, 1933, and the certificates of series TD2-

1933, will have two interest coupons attached, payable to June 15, 1933, and December 15, 1933.¹ * * *

The certificates will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks.

Subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in 3¾ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TM-1933 and 2 percent United States Treasury certificates, first series, both maturing March 15, 1933, will be given preferred allotment. * * *

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on or before March 15, 1933, or on later allotment. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TM-1933 and United States Treasury certificates, first series, both maturing March 15, 1933, will be accepted at par in payment for any certificates of the series now offered which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of the interest accrued, if any, on the certificates so paid for. * * *

W. H. WOODIN,

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, March 13, 1933.

Exhibit 6

Subscriptions and allotments, certificates of indebtedness, series TAG-1933 and series TD2-1933 (from press releases, March 14, 15, and 20, revised²)

Secretary Woodin announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 5-month, 4 percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness, series TAG-1933, maturing August 15, 1933, and 9-month, 4¼ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness, series TD2-1933, maturing December 15, 1933, closed at the close of business March 13, 1933. The amount of the combined offering was $800,000,000, or thereabouts.

Due to the bank holiday it was not possible to announce this offering until March 12, 3 days before the date when payment for the new certificates would have to be made; and in order to have payment made on March 15 it was necessary to close the subscription books on March 13 and fix the basis of allotment upon subscriptions. The books were so closed, subject to the acceptance for allotment of subscriptions placed in the mails not later than 9 p.m., March 13.

The percentage of allotment on cash subscriptions was thus fixed on the evening of March 13 on the basis of subscriptions then received by the banks, without information as to the amount of the subscriptions later placed in the mail. The allotment on subscriptions made on March 13, on the basis of telegraphic reports received from Federal Reserve banks up to the close of business on that day, indicated total accepted subscriptions of $870,000,000. The amounts required to be allotted on subscriptions later placed in the mail brought the total amount of subscriptions accepted, including exchange subscriptions, up to $942,417,000.

Total subscriptions for the two issues aggregated $1,831,815,600, of which over $568,401,400 represents exchange subscriptions in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing March 15, 1933, were tendered.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS, SERIES TAG-1933

For the offering of 4 percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TAG-1933 total subscriptions aggregated $913,593,600. Of these subscriptions,

² Revised Mar. 31 and Apr. 5, 1933.

$297,924,100 represents exchange subscriptions, in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing March 15, 1933, were tendered. Such exchange subscriptions were allotted in full. Allotments on cash subscriptions for the Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TAG-1933 were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts not exceeding $10,000 were allotted in full; subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 26 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS, SERIES TD2-1933

For the offering of 4½ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TD2-1933 total subscriptions aggregated $918,222,000. Of these subscriptions, $270,477,300 represents exchange subscriptions, in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing March 15, 1933, were tendered. Such exchange subscriptions were allotted in full. Allotments on cash subscriptions for the Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TD2-1933 were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts not exceeding $10,000 were allotted in full; subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 28 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription.

Subscriptions and allotments for the two issues were divided among the several Federal Reserve districts and the Treasury as follows:

Offering of Treasury notes, series C-1936 (2½ percent)

On April 24, 1933, the Treasury offered for subscription Treasury notes as described in the following circular. In the related press release it was stated that about $239,000,000 of Treasury certificates and about $6,500,000 in interest on the public debt became due and payable on May 2, 1933.

[Department Circular No. 482]

The Secretary of the Treasury offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, 2½ percent Treasury notes of series C-1936, of an issue of gold notes of the United States authorized by the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended. The amount of the offering is $500,000,000, or thereabouts, with the right reserved to the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the offering by an amount sufficient to allot in full all subscriptions up to $10,000.

DESCRIPTION OF NOTES

The notes will be dated May 2, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 2½ percent per annum, payable on a semiannual basis, on October 15, 1933, and thereafter on April 15 and October 15 in each year. They will mature April 15, 1936, and will not be subject to call for redemption prior to maturity.

The principal and interest of the notes will be payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value.

Bearer notes with interest coupons attached will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. The notes will not be issued in registered form.

The notes shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except estate or inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority.

The notes will be accepted at par during such time and under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed or approved by the Secretary of the Treasury in payment of income and profits taxes payable at the maturity of the notes.

The notes will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys, but will not bear the circulation privilege.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks and branches and at the Treasury Department, Washington. Banking institutions generally will handle applications for subscribers, but only the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies. Banking institutions which have been licensed to resume their normal banking functions are permitted to handle subscriptions in the usual manner. Unlicensed banking institutions are authorized to accept applications for subscribers and to hold in segregated accounts funds tendered in payment pending transmittal to a Federal Reserve bank or branch.

Subscriptions for amounts up to $10,000, and subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series B-1933, maturing May 2, 1933, will be allotted in full.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, and to allot less than the amount of notes applied for and to close the books as to any or all subscriptions at any time without notice; the Secretary of the Treasury also reserves the right to make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts, to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, and to make classified allotments and allotments upon a graduated scale; and his action in these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of the allotment will be publicly announced.

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for notes allotted must be made on or before May 2, 1933, or on later allotment. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for notes allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series B-1933, maturing May 2, 1933, will be accepted at par in payment for any notes which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of the interest accrued, if any, on the notes so paid for. Subscriptions, unless made by an incorporated bank or trust company, or by a responsible and recognized dealer in Government securities, must be accompanied by payment of 10 percent of the amount of notes applied for, provided, however, that cash subscriptions may be accompanied by payment in full.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve banks of the respective districts. After allotment and upon payment Federal Reserve banks may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive notes.

W. H. WOODIN,
Secretary of the Treasury.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
April 24, 1933.

Subscriptions and allotments, Treasury notes, series C-1936 (from press releases, April 26, 28, and 29, and May 4, 1933)

Secretary Woodin announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 3-year, 2½ percent Treasury notes of series C-1936, maturing April 15, 1936, closed at the close of business April 25, except for the receipt of subscriptions for amounts of $10,000 or less, for which the time was extended to the close of business April 27, 1933.

Reports received from the Federal Reserve banks show that for the offering of notes, which was for $500,000,000, or thereabouts, total subscriptions aggregated $1,202,043,500. Of these subscriptions, $143,643,000 represents exchange subscriptions, in payment for which Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing May 2, 1933, were tendered. As previously announced, such exchange subscriptions, as well as cash subscriptions in amounts of $10,000 or less, were allotted in full. Allotments on cash subscriptions exceeding $10,000 were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 but not exceeding $100,000 were allotted 80 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $100,000 but not exceeding $1,000,000 were allotted 50 percent, but not less than $80,000 on any one subscription; and subscriptions in amounts over $1,000,000 were allotted 35 percent, but not less than $500,000 on any one subscription.

Subscriptions and allotments were divided among the several Federal Reserve districts and the Treasury as follows:

Subscriptions and allotments, Treasury notes, series B-1938, and certificates of indebtedness, series TM-1934 (from press releases, June 8, 9, 10, and 16, 1933, revised¹)

Secretary Woodin announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 5-year, 2½ percent Treasury notes of series B-1938, maturing June 15, 1938, and 9-month, ¾ percent certificates of indebtedness of series TM-1934, maturing March 15, 1934, closed at the close of business June 7, 1933, except for the receipt of cash and exchange subscriptions for amounts of $10,000 or less, for which the time was extended to the close of business June 8, 1933.

The amount of the offering of Treasury notes was $500,000,000, or thereabouts, and the amount of the offering of the Treasury certificates of indebtedness was $400,000,000, or thereabouts, with the right reserved by the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the offering by an amount sufficient to allot in full all subscriptions up to and including $10,000.

TREASURY NOTES, SERIES B-1938

Reports received from the Federal Reserve banks show that for the offering of 2½ percent Treasury notes of series B-1938, total subscriptions aggregated $3,306,415,900. Of these subscriptions, $178,998,000 represents exchange subscriptions, in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing June 15, 1933, were tendered. As previously announced, such exchange subscriptions, as well as cash subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000, were allotted in full. Allotments on cash subscriptions exceeding $10,000 were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 but not exceeding $100,000 were allotted 45 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $100,000 but not exceeding $1,000,000 were allotted 20 percent, but not less than $45,000 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $1,000,000 but not exceeding $25,000,000 were allotted 10 percent, but not less than $200,000 on any one subscription; and subscriptions in amounts over $25,000,000 were allotted 5 percent, but not less than $2,500,000 on any one subscription.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS, SERIES TM-1934

For the offering of ¾ percent Treasury certificates of series TM-1934, total subscriptions aggregated $2,353,184,000. Of these subscriptions, $152,673,000 represents exchange subscriptions, in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing June 15, 1933, were tendered. Such exchange subscriptions, as well as cash subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000, were allotted in full. Allotments on cash subscriptions exceeding $10,000 were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts over $10,000, but not exceeding $100,000 were allotted 70 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $100,000 but not exceeding $1,000,000 were allotted 35 percent, but not less than $70,000 on any one subscription; subscriptions in amounts over $1,000,000 but not exceeding $25,000,000 were allotted 10 percent, but not less than $350,000 on any one subscription; and

Offering of Treasury bonds of 1941 (3¼ percent) and Treasury notes, series B-1935 (1⅞ percent)

On July 30, 1933, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin issued the following statement:

"Tomorrow morning the Treasury Department will announce its August financing. The announcement will include an offering of about $500,000,000 of bonds for public subscription as well as a smaller amount of short-term obligations.

"These are the first bonds, as distinguished from short-term securities, to be issued by the Government since 1931. The issue is not a very large one, but it is an important one. It marks a further step in placing Government finance on a broader and more stable base. It gives the public generally a wider opportunity to participate in the Government's recovery program.

"The President in his address over the radio last Monday night made it clear that the success of the Government's plans depends upon the fullest possible cooperation from all the people. It is a source of satisfaction that the improvement in banking and financial conditions and the greater assurance as to the future now make it possible for the Government to issue a security which will be attractive to individual investors as well as to financial institutions. The coming issue will be made available in denominations as low as $50 so that people with limited amounts to invest, as well as large investors, may buy them. The amount of the issue, the rate of interest, and the maturity, which will be announced from the Treasury Department tomorrow, will make the bonds attractive investments.

"Congress and the administrative departments have made remarkable headway in reducing ordinary expenses which have been brought within current revenues. New sources of revenue have been provided for interest on and repayments of funds borrowed for emergency purposes. These emergency expenditures are essentially of a constructive character, and are being administered with a view to promoting a maximum of improvement in employment and in economic conditions generally. A considerable part of the funds so expended will eventually return to the Treasury.

"I am confident that tomorrow's offering of bonds will be recognized by individual and corporate investors, large and small, as tangible evidence of improved economic conditions and as an opportunity for investment.

"The subscription books will be opened tomorrow and may be closed at any time. Applications for bonds of the new issue should be made promptly. Banking institutions generally will be in a position to inform purchasers as to how to proceed."

On July 31, 1933, the Treasury offered for subscription the bonds and notes, which are described in the following circulars. In a press release of the same date it was stated that about $470,000,000 of Treasury certificates and about $9,400,000 in interest payments on the public debt became due and payable on August 15, 1933.

[Department Circular No. 490]

The Secretary of the Treasury invites subscriptions, at par and accrued interest, from the people of the United States, for $3\frac{1}{4}$ percent Treasury bonds of 1941, of an issue of bonds of the United States authorized by the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended. The amount of the offering is \$500,000,000, or thereabouts, with the right reserved to the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the offering by an amount sufficient to accept all subscriptions for which $1\frac{1}{4}$ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness, series TS-1933, are tendered in payment.

DESCRIPTION OF BONDS

The bonds will be dated August 15, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of $3\frac{1}{4}$ percent per annum, payable on a semiannual basis on February 1 and August 1 in each year. They will mature August 1, 1941, and will not be subject to call for redemption prior to maturity.

Bearer bonds with interest coupons attached will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. Bonds registered as to principal and interest will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $50,000, and $100,000. Provision will be made for the interchange of bonds of different denominations and of coupon and registered bonds and for the transfer of registered bonds, without charge by the United States, under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes, and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess-profits and war-profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations. The interest on an amount of bonds authorized by said act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, the principal of which does not exceed $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

The bonds will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys, and will bear the circulation privilege as provided in the act approved July 22, 1932, as amended. They will not be entitled to any privilege of conversion.

The bonds will be subject to the general regulations of the Treasury Department, now or hereafter issued, governing United States bonds.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks and branches and at the Treasury Department, Washington. Banking institutions generally will handle applications for subscribers, but only the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies. Banking institutions which have been licensed to resume their normal banking functions are permitted to handle subscriptions in the usual manner. Unlicensed banking institutions are authorized to accept applications for subscribers and to hold in segregated accounts funds tendered in payment pending transmittal to a Federal Reserve bank or branch.

Cash subscriptions for amounts up to and including $10,000 will be allotted in full; subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TAG-1933, maturing August 15, 1933, will be given preferred allotment; and subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1933, maturing September 15, 1933, will be allotted in full. All cash subscriptions for amounts over $10,000 will be allotted on an equal percentage basis.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, and to allot less than the amount of bonds applied for and to close the books as to any or all subscriptions at any time without notice; the Secretary of the Treasury also reserves the right to make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts, to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, and to make classified allotments and allotments upon a graduated scale; and his action in these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of the allotment will be publicly announced.

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for bonds allotted must be made on or before August 15, 1933, or on later allotment. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for bonds allotted to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposit, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TAG-1933, maturing August 15, 1933, will be accepted at par in payment for any bonds which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of the interest accrued, if any, on the bonds so paid for. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1933, maturing September 15, 1933 (with coupon dated Sept. 15, 1933, attached), will be accepted at par in payment for any bonds which shall be subscribed for and allotted, with an adjustment of accrued interest as of August 15, 1933. Applications, unless made by an incorporated bank or trust company or by a responsible and recognized dealer in Government securities, must be accompanied by payment in full or by payment of 10 percent of the amount of bonds applied for. The forfeiture of the 10-percent payment may be declared by the Secretary of the Treasury if payment in full is not completed on the prescribed date in the case of subscriptions allotted.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve banks of the respective districts. After allotment and upon payment Federal Reserve banks may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive bonds.

Any further information which may be desired as to the issue of Treasury bonds under the provisions of this circular may be obtained upon application to a Federal Reserve bank or branch, or to the Treasury Department, Washington. The Secretary of the Treasury may at any time, or from time to time, prescribe supplemental or amendatory rules and regulations governing the offering.

DEAN ACHESON,

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 31, 1933.

[Department Circular No. 491]

The Secretary of the Treasury offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, under the authority of the act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, Treasury notes of series B-1935. The amount of the offering is $350,000,000, or thereabouts.

DESCRIPTION OF NOTES

The notes will be dated August 15, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 1½ percent per annum, payable on a semiannual basis on February 1 and August 1 in each year.

They will mature August 1, 1935, and will not be subject to call for redemption prior to maturity.

Bearer notes with interest coupons attached will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. The notes will not be issued in registered form.¹ * * *

The notes will not be acceptable in payment of taxes. * * *

The forfeiture of the 10 percent payment may be declared by the Secretary of the Treasury if payment in full is not completed on the prescribed date in the case of subscriptions allotted. * * *

DEAN ACHESON,

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 31, 1933.

Exhibit 12

Subscriptions and allotments, Treasury bonds of 1941 and Treasury notes, series B-1935 (from press releases, August 1, 3, 5, 7, and 15, 1933, revised²)

Acting Secretary Acheson announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 2-year, 1½ percent Treasury notes of series B-1935, maturing August 1, 1935, closed at the close of business July 31, 1933.

The subscription books for the offering of 8-year, 3¼ percent Treasury bonds of 1941, maturing August 1, 1941, also closed at the close of business July 31, 1933, for cash subscriptions for amounts over $10,000. The time was extended to the close of business August 2, 1933, for cash subscriptions for amounts up to and including $10,000 and for subscriptions for which payment was tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing August 15, 1933; and to the close of business August 4, 1933, for subscriptions for which payment was tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing September 15, 1933.

TREASURY BONDS OF 1941

Reports received from the Federal Reserve banks show that for the offering of 3¼ percent Treasury bonds of 1941 total subscriptions aggregated $3,224,379,150. The offering was for $500,000,000, or thereabouts, with the right reserved to the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the offering by an amount sufficient to allot in full all subscriptions for which payment was tendered in 1¼ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1933, maturing September 15, 1933. A total of $231,057,500 of such subscriptions was received. As previously announced, cash subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000, were allotted in full; and cash subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 12½ percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription. Exchange subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000, in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing August 15, 1933, were tendered were allotted in full; and exchange subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 50 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription.

TREASURY NOTES, SERIES B-1935

For the offering of 1½ percent Treasury notes of series B-1935, which was for $350,000,000, or thereabouts, total subscriptions aggregated $1,577,189,300. Of these subscriptions, $181,364,000 represents exchange subscriptions in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing August 15, 1933, were tendered. Exchange subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000 were allotted in full; and exchange subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 62½ percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription. As previously announced, cash subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000 were allotted in full; and cash subscriptions in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 16½ percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription.

Subscriptions and allotments for the two issues were divided among the several Federal Reserve districts and the Treasury as follows:

Offering of certificates of indebtedness, series TJ-1934 (¼ percent)

On September 8, 1933, the Treasury offered for subscription Treasury certificates of indebtedness as described in the following circular. In the related press release it was stated that about $220,000,000 of Treasury certificates and about $45,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt became due and payable on September 15, 1933.

[Department Circular No. 498]

The Secretary of the Treasury offers for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, under the authority of the act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934 in exchange for Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1933, maturing September 15, 1933. The amount of the offering is limited to the amount of Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1933, maturing September 15, 1933, tendered and accepted.

DESCRIPTION OF CERTIFICATES

The certificates will be dated September 15, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of one quarter of 1 percent per annum, payable on a semiannual basis. They will be payable on June 15, 1934.

Bearer certificates will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. The certificates will have two interest coupons attached, payable on December 15, 1933, and June 15, 1934.¹ * * *

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks and branches and at the Treasury Department, Washington. Banking institutions generally will handle applications for subscribers, but only the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies. * * *

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on or before September 15, 1933, or on later allotment, and may be made only in 1¼ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1933, maturing September 15, 1933, which will be accepted at par. * * *

Partial redemption of fourth Liberty Loan bonds before maturity and offering of Treasury bonds of 1943-45 (4¼-3¼ percent)

On October 12, 1933, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin issued a statement which follows in part:

"The Secretary of the Treasury today announced that approximately one third of the outstanding fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38 are called for redemption on April 15, 1934. At the same time it was announced that an issue of 10-12 year Treasury bonds, dated October 15, 1933, and bearing interest at the rate of 4¼ percent per annum from that date to October 15, 1934, and thereafter at the rate of 3¼ percent per annum, will be offered for subscription on October 16, and for a few days thereafter. The new bonds will be offered in exchange at par for any bonds of the fourth 4¼ Liberty Loan issue, whether called or uncalled, and in the approximate amount of $500,000,000, for cash at 101½. * * *

"The fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ percent bonds were originally issued in the amount of about $6,965,000,000 and were dated October 24, 1918. Since that time about $696,000,000 of these bonds have been retired, leaving about $6,268,000,000 outstanding. * * * The bonds called for redemption aggregate about $1,900,000,000.

"The current offering affords to the present holders of Fourth 4¼'s, which must be retired on or before October 15, 1938, an opportunity to exchange their bonds for a new long-term issue, callable in 1943 and maturing in 1945, which will bear the same rate of interest as the bonds they now hold, until October 15, 1934, and a rate of 3¼ percent thereafter. At the same time cash subscribers are offered an investment at a price which will yield a return in line with current yields on similar Government obligations. The offering should prove attractive both to present holders of Fourth 4¼ percent Liberty bonds and to individuals and corporations with funds to invest.

"The present bond issue will provide the Treasury with about $500,000,000 of cash funds to meet current needs. The primary importance of the operation lies, however, in the fact that it constitutes the commencement of the refunding of more than six and a quarter billions of bonds which, unless previously called, would mature in 1938, when $900,000,000 of Treasury notes also mature. The exchange of the new bonds for a substantial portion of the outstanding 4¼ percent Liberty bonds will not only affect a material reduction in the annual interest charge on the public debt, but will improve the structure of the debt by reducing the volume of near-term maturities.

"This financing is an important and constructive step in the Government's program and an essential contribution to the sound process of recovery. While there continues to be a disparity between the unusually low level of short-term open market rates and the level of rates on funds for long-term investment, improvement has been apparent in the market for long-term Government obligations. The present offering of Treasury bonds and the conditions which warrant it, mark progress toward a greater availability of funds for long-term uses. * * *

Partial redemption of fourth Liberty Loan bonds before maturity

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, October 12, 1933.

To Holders of fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ Percent Bonds of 1933-38, and Others Concerned:

I. NOTICE OF CALL FOR PARTIAL REDEMPTION OF FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN 4¼ PERCENT BONDS OF 1933-38 (FOURTH 4¼'S) BEFORE MATURITY

1. Pursuant to the provision for redemption contained in the bonds and in Treasury Department Circular No. 121, dated September 28, 1918, under which the bonds were originally issued, all outstanding Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38, hereinafter referred to as Fourth 4¼'s, bearing the serial numbers which have been determined by lot in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, are called for redemption on April 15, 1934, as follows:

All outstanding permanent coupon bonds bearing serial numbers the final digit of which is 9, 0, or 1, such serial numbers being prefixed by a corresponding distinguishing letter J, K, or A, respectively;

All outstanding temporary coupon bonds bearing serial numbers the final digit of which is 9, 0, or 1; and

All outstanding registered bonds bearing serial numbers the final digit of which is 9, 0, or 1.

2. Interest on all such outstanding Fourth 4¼'s so called for redemption will cease on said redemption date, April 15, 1934.

3. Fourth 4¼'s bearing serial numbers (and prefix letters) other than those designated are not included in or affected by this call for partial redemption.

II. TRANSACTIONS IN CALLED AND UNCALLED BONDS

1. Pursuant to such call for partial redemption, effective this date, the outstanding Fourth 4¼'s are divided into two separate and distinct classes: Called bonds, and uncalled bonds, and hereafter the Treasury Department, and the Federal Reserve banks as fiscal agents of the United States, will observe this division between called and uncalled bonds in all transactions affecting Fourth 4¼'s including exchanges of denominations, exchanges of coupon bonds for registered bonds, exchanges of registered bonds for coupon bonds, and transfers of registered bonds. Hereafter, only bonds bearing distinguishing serial numbers or letters falling within the class "uncalled bonds" will be issued upon exchange or transfer of uncalled bonds, and only bonds bearing distinguishing serial numbers or letters falling within the class "called bonds" will be issued upon exchange or transfer of called bonds. Exchanges or transfers as between called bonds and uncalled bonds will not be permitted. Denominational exchanges of coupon bonds within the class "called for redemption on April 15, 1934", will terminate on that date. Transfers and exchanges of registered bonds falling within the class "called for redemption on April 15, 1934", will terminate on March 15, 1934, the date of closing the transfer books.

2. In accordance with the provisions of Treasury Department Circular No. 121, dated September 28, 1918, the provisions of Treasury Department Circular No. 300, dated July 31, 1923, prescribing regulations with respect to United States bonds and notes, are modified accordingly with respect to transactions in Fourth 4¼'s.

III. OPTIONAL EXCHANGE OFFERING

1. Holders of Fourth 4¼'s will be offered the privilege, for a limited period beginning on October 16, 1933, of exchanging all or part of their bonds (whether called or uncalled) at par, for a new issue of 10-12 year Treasury bonds, dated October 15, 1933, and bearing interest from that date at the rate of 4¼ percent per annum until October 15, 1934, and thereafter at the rate of 3¾ percent per annum. The new bonds will mature on October 15, 1945, but may be called for redemption, in whole or in part, at par and accrued interest, on and after October 15, 1943, on 4 months' notice.

2. The optional exchange offering is fully set forth in Treasury Department Circular No. 502, dated October 12, 1933. As the privilege of exchanging Fourth 4¼'s for the new Treasury bonds will be accorded for a limited period only, and may be terminated at any time without notice, holders of Fourth 4¼'s who desire to take advantage of this offering should act promptly, following the instructions given in Treasury Department Circular No. 502.

IV. RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING REDEMPTION

Pursuant to the call for partial redemption, as set forth in section I of this circular, the following rules and regulations are hereby prescribed to govern the surrender of Fourth 4¼'s called for redemption on April 15, 1934:

1. Payment of called bonds on April 15, 1934.—Holders of any outstanding Fourth 4¼'s included in the call for partial redemption on April 15, 1934, will be entitled to have their bonds redeemed and paid at par on April 15, 1934, with interest in full to that date. After April 15, 1934, interest will not accrue on any bonds included in the call for partial redemption.

2. Presentation and surrender of coupon bonds.—Any Fourth 4¼'s in coupon form, which are included in the call for partial redemption, should be presented and surrendered to any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D.C., for redemption on April 15, 1934. (Note: If to be presented for exchange under Treasury Department Circular No. 502, follow instructions given in that circular.) The bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of the holder, and should be accompanied by appropriate written advice (see form P.D. 1363 attached hereto). Facilities for transportation of bonds by registered mail insured may be arranged between incorporated banks and trust companies and the Federal Reserve banks, and holders may take advantage of such arrangements, when available, utilizing such incorporated banks and trust companies as their agents. Incorporated banks and trust companies are not agents of the United States under this circular. Checks in payment of principal will be delivered to the address given in the form of advice accompanying the bonds surrendered.

3. Coupons dated April 15, 1934, which become payable on that date, should be detached from any Fourth 4½'s included in the call for partial redemption before such bonds are presented for redemption on April 15, 1934, and such coupons should be collected in regular course when due. All coupons pertaining to such bonds bearing dates subsequent to April 15, 1934, must be attached to any such bonds when presented for redemption, provided, however, if any such coupons are missing from bonds so presented for redemption the bonds nevertheless will be redeemed, but the full face amount of any such missing coupons will be deducted from the payment to be made on account of such redemption, and any amounts so deducted will be held in the Treasury to provide for adjustments or refunds on account of such missing coupons as may subsequently be presented.

4. The final coupon attached to temporary coupon bonds became due on October 15, 1920. The holders of any such bonds which are included in the call for partial redemption on April 15, 1934, will receive all past-due interest from October 15, 1920, when the bonds are redeemed pursuant to such call.

5. Presentation and surrender of registered bonds.—Any Fourth 4½'s in registered form, which are included in the call for partial redemption, must be assigned by the registered payee or assigns thereof, or by their duly constituted representatives, to "The Secretary of the Treasury for redemption" in accordance with the general regulations of the Treasury Department governing assignments, and should thereafter be presented and surrendered to any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or to the Division of Loans and Currency, Treasury Department, Washington, D.C., for redemption on April 15, 1934. (Note: If to be presented for exchange under Treasury Department Circular No. 502, follow instructions given in that circular.) The bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of holders, and should be accompanied by appropriate written advice (see form P.D. 1364 attached hereto).

6. If the registered holder of record, or an assignee holding under proper assignment from the registered holder of record, or a duly constituted representative of such registered holder or assignee, desires that payment of the principal be made to him, the bonds should be assigned to "The Secretary of the Treasury for redemption." In case it is desired to have payment of the registered bonds made to someone other than the registered holder of record, without intermediate assignment, the bonds may be assigned to "The Secretary of the Treasury for redemption for account of _____," and in such case the name and address of the payee for whose account the redemption is to be made must be inserted. Assignments in this form must be completed before acknowledgment and not left in blank.

7. Assignment in blank, or other assignment having similar effect, will be recognized, but in that event payment will be made to the person surrendering the bond for redemption, since under such assignment the bond becomes in effect payable to bearer. Assignments in blank or assignments having similar effect should be avoided, if possible, in order not to lose the protection afforded by registration. In all cases checks in payment of principal will be delivered to the address given in the form of advice accompanying the bonds surrendered.

8. Final interest due on April 15, 1934, on any Fourth 4½'s in registered form, which are included in the call for partial redemption and presented for redemption on April 15, 1934, will be paid by checks issued in regular course in the same manner as if no part of the loan had been called for redemption.

V. TIME OF PRESENTATION OF FOURTH 4½'S FOR REDEMPTION

1. In order to facilitate the redemption of Fourth 4½'s included in the call for partial redemption on April 15, 1934, any such bonds may be presented and surrendered in the manner herein prescribed in advance of that date but not before February 15, 1934. Such early presentation by holders, on and after February 15, 1934, and well in advance of April 15, 1934, will insure prompt payment of principal when due. This is particularly important with respect to registered bonds, for payment cannot be made until registration shall have been discharged at the Treasury Department.

2. It will expedite redemption if bonds included in the call for partial redemption are presented to Federal Reserve banks or branches, and not direct to the Treasury Department.

3. As herein provided, coupons due April 15, 1934, should be detached from any permanent coupon bonds included in the call for partial redemption when such bonds are presented for redemption on that date, such coupons to be collected when due; and final interest due on any registered bonds included in the call for partial redemption will be paid by check issued in regular course. Accordingly, early presentation of bonds will not affect the payment of final interest due on April 15, 1934.

VI. FURTHER INFORMATION

Any further information which may be desired regarding the partial redemption of Fourth 4½'s under this circular may be obtained from any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or from the Treasury Department, Washington, D.C., where copies of the Treasury Department's regulations governing assignments may also be obtained. The Secretary of the Treasury may at any time, or from time to time, provide supplemental or amendatory rules and regulations governing the matters covered by this circular.

W. H. WOODIN,
Secretary of the Treasury.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Fourth 4½'s called for redemption on April 15, 1934, should be presented well in advance of that date but not before February 15, 1934, and the instructions given in this circular should be followed. If Fourth 4½'s are to be presented for exchange under the Treasury Department Circular No. 502, the instructions given in that circular should be followed. Information concerning the partial redemption of Fourth 4½'s on April 15, 1934, and information concerning the optional exchange offering may be obtained from the officers of banks and trust companies generally. As those banks and trust companies may offer their facilities in the matter of arranging redemption or exchange, it is suggested that holders of Fourth 4½'s consult their own bank or trust company.

[Department Circular No. 502]

Treasury bonds of 1943-45 offered for cash and in exchange for fourth Liberty Loan bonds

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, October 12, 1933.

The Secretary of the Treasury invites subscriptions, from the people of the United States, for a series of Treasury bonds of 1943-45, of an issue of bonds of the United States authorized by the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended.

Cash subscriptions are invited at 101½, which includes accrued interest from October 15 to November 1, 1933. The books for the cash subscriptions will open on October 16, 1933, and may be closed without notice within a few days thereafter. Delivery of new bonds on allotted cash subscriptions will not be made before November 1, 1933, at which time payment must be made. The amount of the issue for cash will be $500,000,000, or thereabouts.

Exchange subscriptions, in payment of which only fourth Liberty Loan $4\frac{1}{4}$ percent bonds of 1933-38 (hereinafter referred to as Fourth $4\frac{1}{4}$'s), whether or not called for redemption, may be tendered, are invited, at par. The books for exchange subscriptions will open on October 16, 1933, and will remain open for a limited period, but may be closed at any time without notice. The amount of the issue upon exchange subscriptions will be limited to the amount of Fourth $4\frac{1}{4}$'s tendered and accepted.

DESCRIPTION OF BONDS

The bonds will be dated October 15, 1933, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of $4\frac{1}{4}$ percent per annum to October 15, 1934, and thereafter at the rate of $3\frac{1}{4}$ percent per annum until the principal amount becomes payable.

Interest will be payable semiannually on April 15 and October 15 in each year. The bonds will mature October 15, 1945, but may be redeemed at the option of the United States on and after October 15, 1943, in whole or in part, at par and accrued interest, on any interest day or days, on 4 months' notice of redemption given in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe. In case of partial redemption the bonds to be redeemed will be determined by such method as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. On the date of redemption designated in any such notice interest on the bonds called for redemption shall cease.

Bearer bonds with interest coupons attached and bonds registered as to principal and interest will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. Provision will be made for the interchange of bonds of different denominations and of coupon and registered bonds and for the transfer of registered bonds under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes, and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess profits and war profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations. The interest on an amount of bonds authorized by said act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, the principal of which does not exceed $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

The bonds will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys, and will bear the circulation privilege only to the extent provided in the act approved July 22, 1932, as amended. They will not be entitled to any privilege of conversion.

The bonds will be subject to the general regulations of the Treasury Department, now or hereafter issued, governing United States bonds.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks, fiscal agents of the United States, and at branches thereof, and at the Treasury Department, Washington. Banking institutions generally will handle applications for subscribers, but only the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, and to allot less than the amount of bonds applied for and to close the books as to any or all subscriptions at any time without notice; the Secretary of the Treasury also reserves the right to make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts, to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, and to make classified allotments and allotments upon a graduated scale; and his action in these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of the allotment will be publicly announced.

PAYMENT

Cash subscriptions.—Payment at 101½ (which includes accrued interest from Oct. 15 to Nov. 1, 1933) for any bonds allotted on cash subscriptions, must be made on or before November 1, 1933. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for bonds allotted (on cash subscriptions) to it for itself and its customers, up to any amount for which it may be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Applications, unless made by an incorporated bank or trust company, or by a responsible and recognized dealer in Government securities, must be accompanied by payment of 10 percent of the amount of bonds applied for. The forfeiture of the 10 percent payment may be declared by the Secretary of the Treasury if payment in full for bonds allotted is not completed on the prescribed date.

Exchange subscriptions.—Payment for bonds allotted on exchange subscriptions may be made only in Fourth 4¼'s, which will be accepted at par as of October 15, 1933, without payment of accrued interest. Both called and uncalled Fourth 4¼'s are acceptable for such payment. Payment for bonds subscribed for (through surrender of Fourth 4¼'s) must be made when the exchange subscription is tendered. If any exchange subscription is rejected, in whole or in part, any bonds which may have been tendered and not accepted will be returned to the subscriber.

SURRENDER OF BONDS ON EXCHANGE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Surrender of coupon bonds.—Fourth 4¼'s in coupon form tendered in exchange for Treasury bonds issued hereunder, should be presented and surrendered to a Federal Reserve bank or to the Treasurer of the United States, and must accompany the application. Bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of the holder. Facilities for transportation of bonds by registered mail insured may be arranged between incorporated banks and trust companies and the Federal Reserve banks and holders may take advantage of such arrangements when available, utilizing such incorporated banks and trust companies as their agents. Incorporated banks and trust companies are not agents of the United States under this circular. Coupons dated April 15, 1934, and all coupons bearing dates subsequent thereto, must be attached to permanent coupon bonds when presented.

Surrender of registered bonds.—Fourth 4¼'s in registered form tendered in exchange for Treasury bonds issued hereunder, should be assigned by the registered payee or assigns thereof to "The Secretary of the Treasury for exchange", in accordance with the general regulations of the Treasury Department governing assignments, and thereafter should be presented and surrendered to a Federal Reserve bank, or to the Treasury Department, Division of Loans and Currency, Washington. The bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of the holder.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions and to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve banks of the respective districts. After allotment and upon payment Federal Reserve banks may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive bonds.

Any further information which may be desired as to the issue of Treasury bonds under the provisions of this circular may be obtained upon application to a Federal Reserve bank or branch or to the Treasury Department, Washington. The Secretary of the Treasury may at any time or from time to time, prescribe supplemental or amendatory rules and regulations governing the offering and the exchanges of Fourth 4¼'s hereunder.

W. H. WOODIN,
Secretary of the Treasury.

NOTE.—Fourth 4¼'s bearing serial numbers ending with the digit 9, 0, or 1, are called for redemption April 15, 1934. In the case of permanent coupon bonds the serial numbers of the called bonds are prefixed by the letter J, K, or A, respectively. For details regarding the partial call of Fourth 4¼'s see Treasury Department Circular No. 501, copies of which may be obtained from any Federal Reserve bank or branch or from the Treasury Department, Washington.

Exhibit 16

Cash subscriptions and allotments, Treasury bonds of 1943-45 (from press releases, October 18, 24, 26, and November 2 and 8, 1933)

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 10-12-year Treasury bonds of 1943-45, due October 15, 1945, closed at the close of business October 17 for the receipt of cash subscriptions. It was stated that the books would remain open until further notice for the receipt of exchange subscriptions in payment of which fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38 were tendered.

The total amount of cash subscriptions received for the Treasury bonds was $1,989,024 200, and the total amount allotted was $500,421,650. Allotments on cash subscriptions were made as follows: Subscriptions in amounts up to and including $1,000 were allotted in full, and subscriptions in amounts over $1,000 were allotted 25 percent, but not less than $1,000 on any one subscription.

Cash subscriptions and allotments were divided among the several Federal Reserve districts and the Treasury as follows:

Federal Reserve district	Total cash subscriptions received	Total cash subscriptions allotted	Federal Reserve district	Total cash subscriptions received	Total cash subscriptions allotted
Boston.....	$281,976,700	$70,724,300	Minneapolis.....	$20,464,500	$5,217,850
New York.....	869,949,000	217,928,800	Kansas City.....	22,533,450	5,914,250
Philadelphia.....	115,109,650	29,036,300	Dallas.....	32,169,000	8,137,750
Cleveland.....	104,919,650	26,554,150	San Francisco.....	179,210,100	45,050,150
Richmond.....	53,382,300	13,607,850	Treasury.....	65,100	28,000
Atlanta.....	$94,479,650	23,713,800
Chicago.....	176,694,950	44,668,900	Total.....	1,989,024,200	500,421,650
St. Louis.....	38,070,150	9,839,550

On October 26 it was announced that over $650,000,000 in fourth Liberty Loan bonds had been tendered in exchange for Treasury bonds, and on November 2 a further announcement stated that over $800,000,000 in Liberty bonds had been tendered in exchange.

Issues of Treasury bills

Inviting tenders for Treasury bills dated November 9, 1932, and maturing February 8, 1933 (press release, November 2, 1932)

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that tenders are invited for Treasury bills to the amount of $75,000,000, or thereabouts. They will be 91-day bills; and will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. Tenders will be received at the Federal Reserve banks, or the branches thereof, up to 2 p.m., eastern standard time, November 4, 1932. Tenders will not be received at the Treasury Department, Washington.

The Treasury bills will be dated November 9, 1932, and will mature on February 8, 1933, and on the maturity date the face amount will be payable without interest. They will be issued in bearer form only, and in amounts or denominations of $1,000, $10,000, $100,000, $500,000, and $1,000,000 (maturity value).

It is urged that tenders be made on the printed forms and forwarded in the special envelopes which will be supplied by the Federal Reserve banks or branches upon application therefor.

No tender for an amount less than $1,000 will be considered. Each tender must be in multiples of $1,000. The price offered must be expressed on the basis of 100, with not more than three decimal places, e.g., 99.125. Fractions must not be used.

Tenders will be accepted without cash deposit from incorporated banks and trust companies and from responsible and recognized dealers in investment securities. Tenders from others must be accompanied by a deposit of 10 percent of the face amount of Treasury bills applied for, unless the tenders are accompanied by an express guaranty of payment by an incorporated bank or trust company.

Immediately after the closing hour for receipt of tenders on November 4, 1932, all tenders received at the Federal Reserve banks or branches thereof up to the closing hour will be opened and public announcement of the acceptable prices will follow as soon as possible thereafter, probably on the following morning. The Secretary of the Treasury expressly reserves the right to reject any or all tenders or parts of tenders, and to allot less than the amount applied for, and his action in any such respect shall be final. Those submitting tenders will be advised of the acceptance or rejection thereof. Payment at the price offered for Treasury bills allotted must be made at the Federal Reserve banks in cash or other immediately available funds on November 9, 1932.

The Treasury bills will be exempt, as to principal and interest, and any gain from the sale or other disposition thereof will also be exempt, from all taxation, except estate and inheritance taxes. No loss from the sale or other disposition of the Treasury bills shall be allowed as a deduction, or otherwise recognized, for the purposes of any tax now or hereafter imposed by the United States or any of its possessions.

Treasury Department Circular No. 418, as amended, and this notice prescribe the terms of the Treasury bills and govern the conditions of their issue. Copies of the circular may be obtained from any Federal Reserve bank or branch thereof.

Acceptance of tenders for Treasury bills dated November 9, 1932, and maturing February 8, 1933 (press release, November 5, 1932)

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ballantine announced today that the tenders for $75,000,000, or thereabouts, of 91-day Treasury bills, dated November 9, 1932, and maturing February 8, 1933, which were offered on November 2, were opened at the Federal Reserve banks on November 4.

The total amount applied for was $229,939,000. The highest bid made was 99.962, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.15 percent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.941, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.23 percent on an annual basis. Only part of the amount bid for at the latter price was accepted. The total amount of bids accepted was $75,056,000. The average price of Treasury bills to be issued is 99.945. The average rate on a bank discount basis is about 0.22 percent.

Legislation authorizing additional appropriations for the cumulative sinking fund

SECTION 308 OF THE EMERGENCY RELIEF AND CONSTRUCTION ACT OF 1932 (PUBLIC NO. 302, 72D CONG., APPROVED JULY 21, 1932)

SEC. 308. For each fiscal year beginning with the fiscal year 1934, there is authorized to be appropriated, for the purposes of the sinking fund provided in section 6 of the Victory Liberty Loan Act, as amended, in addition to amounts otherwise appropriated, an amount equal to 2½ per centum of the aggregate amount of the expenditures made, out of appropriations made or authorized in this title, on or after the date of the enactment of this act and on or before the last day of the fiscal year for which the appropriation is made.

SECTION 210 OF THE NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT (PUBLIC NO. 67, 73D CONG., APPROVED JUNE 16, 1933)

SEC. 210. (a) The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow, from time to time, under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, such amounts as may be necessary to meet the expenditures authorized by this act, or to refund any obligations previously issued under this section, and to issue therefor bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness, or Treasury bills of the United States.

(b) For each fiscal year beginning with the fiscal year 1934 there is hereby appropriated, in addition to and as part of, the cumulative sinking fund provided by section 6 of the Victory Liberty Loan Act, as amended, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of such fund, an amount equal to $2\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the aggregate amount of the expenditures made out of appropriations made or authorized under this act as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury.

MONEY AND BANKING

[Public No. 1, 73d Cong., H.R. 1491]

An Act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking, and for other purposes

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Congress hereby declares that a serious emergency exists and that it is imperatively necessary speedily to put into effect remedies of uniform national application.

TITLE I

SECTION 1. The actions, regulations, rules, licenses, orders and proclamations heretofore or hereafter taken, promulgated, made, or issued by the President of the United States or the Secretary of the Treasury since March 4, 1933, pursuant to the authority conferred by subdivision (b) of section 5 of the Act of October 6, 1917, as amended, are hereby approved and confirmed.

SEC. 2. Subdivision (b) of section 5 of the Act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411), as amended, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"(b) During time of war or during any other period of national emergency declared by the President, the President may, through any agency that he may designate, or otherwise, investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit between or payments by banking institutions as defined by the President, and export, hoarding, melting, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, by any person within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof; and the President may require any person engaged in any transaction referred to in this subdivision to furnish under oath, complete information relative thereto, including the production of any books of account, contracts, letters or other papers, in connection therewith in the custody or control of such person, either before or after such transaction is completed. Whoever willfully violates any of the provisions of this subdivision or of any license, order, rule or regulation issued thereunder, shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, may be imprisoned for not more than ten years, or both; and any officer, director, or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation may be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both. As used in this subdivision the term 'person' means an individual, partnership, association, or corporation."

SEC. 3. Section 11 of the Federal Reserve Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(n) Whenever in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury such action is necessary to protect the currency system of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, may require any or all individuals, partnerships, associations, and corporations to pay and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States any or all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned by such individuals, partnerships, associations, and corporations. Upon receipt of such gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay therefor an equivalent amount of any other form of coin or currency coined or issued under the laws of the United States. The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay all costs of the transportation of such gold bullion, gold certificates, coin, or currency, including the cost of insurance, protection, and such other incidental costs as may be reasonably necessary. Any individual, partnership, association, or corporation failing to comply with any requirement of the Secretary of the Treasury made under this subsection shall be subject to a penalty equal to twice the value of the gold or gold certificates in respect of which such failure occurred, and such penalty may be collected by the Secretary of the Treasury by suit or otherwise."

SEC. 4. In order to provide for the safer and more effective operation of the national banking system and the Federal Reserve System, to preserve for the people the full benefits of the currency provided for by the Congress through the national banking system and the Federal Reserve System, and to relieve interstate commerce of the burdens and obstructions resulting from the receipt on an unsound or unsafe basis of deposits subject to withdrawal by check, during such emergency period as the President of the United States by proclamation may prescribe, no member bank of the Federal Reserve System shall transact any banking business except to such extent and subject to such regulations, limitations, and restrictions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President. Any individual, partnership, corporation, or association, or any director, officer, or employee thereof, violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or, if a natural person, may, in addition to such fine, be imprisoned for a term not exceeding ten years. Each day that any such violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense.

TITLE II

SEC. 201. This title may be cited as the "Bank Conservation Act."

SEC. 202. As used in this title, the term "bank" means (1) any national banking association, and (2) any bank or trust company located in the District of Columbia and operating under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency; and the term "State" means any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, and the Canal Zone.

SEC. 203. Whenever he shall deem it necessary in order to conserve the assets of any bank for the benefit of the depositors and other creditors thereof, the Comptroller of the Currency may appoint a conservator for such bank and require of him such bond and security as the Comptroller of the Currency deems proper. The conservator, under the direction of the Comptroller, shall take possession of the books, records, and assets of every description of such bank, and take such action as may be necessary to conserve the assets of such bank pending further disposition of its business as provided by law. Such conservator shall have all the rights, powers, and privileges now possessed by or hereafter given receivers of insolvent national banks and shall be subject to the obligations and penalties, not inconsistent with the provisions of this title, to which receivers are now or may hereafter become subject. During the time that such conservator remains in possession of such bank, the rights of all parties with respect thereto shall, subject to the other provisions of this title, be the same as if a receiver had been appointed therefor. All expenses of any such conservatorship shall be paid out of the assets of such bank and shall be a lien thereon which shall be prior to any other lien provided by this Act or otherwise. The conservator shall receive as salary an amount no greater than that paid to employees of the Federal Government for similar services.

SEC. 204. The Comptroller of the Currency shall cause to be made such examinations of the affairs of such bank as shall be necessary to inform him as to the financial condition of such bank, and the examiner shall make a report thereon to the Comptroller of the Currency at the earliest practicable date.

SEC. 205. If the Comptroller of the Currency becomes satisfied that it may safely be done and that it would be in the public interest, he may, in his discretion, terminate the conservatorship and permit such bank to resume the transaction of its business subject to such terms, conditions, restrictions and limitations as he may prescribe.

SEC. 206. While such bank is in the hands of the conservator appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency, the Comptroller may require the conservator to set aside and make available for withdrawal by depositors and payment to other creditors, on a ratable basis, such amounts as in the opinion of the Comptroller may safely be used for this purpose; and the Comptroller may, in his discretion, permit the conservator to receive deposits, but deposits received while the bank is in the hands of the conservator shall not be subject to any limitation as to payment or withdrawal, and such deposits shall be segregated and shall not be used to liquidate any indebtedness of such bank existing at the time that a conservator was appointed for it, or any subsequent indebtedness incurred for the purpose of liquidating any indebtedness of such bank existing at the time such conservator was appointed. Such deposits received while the bank is in the hands of the conservator shall be kept on hand in cash, invested in the direct obligations of the United States, or deposited with a Federal reserve bank. The Federal reserve banks are hereby authorized to open and maintain separate deposit accounts for such purpose, or for the purpose of receiving deposits from State officials in charge of State banks under similar circumstances.

SEC. 207. In any reorganization of any national banking association under a plan of a kind which, under existing law, requires the consent, as the case may be, (a) of depositors and other creditors or (b) of stockholders or (c) of both depositors and other creditors and stockholders, such reorganization shall become effective only (1) when the Comptroller of the Currency shall be satisfied that the plan of reorganization is fair and equitable as to all depositors, other creditors and stockholders and is in the public interest and shall have approved the plan subject to such conditions, restrictions and limitations as he may prescribe and (2) when, after reasonable notice of such reorganization, as the case may require, (A) depositors and other creditors of such bank representing at least 75 per cent in amount of its total deposits and other liabilities as shown by the books of the national banking association or (B) stockholders owning at least two-thirds of its outstanding capital stock as shown by the books of the national banking association or (C) both depositors and other creditors representing at least 75 per cent in amount of the total deposits and other liabilities and stockholders owning at least two-thirds of its outstanding capital stock as shown by the books of the national banking association, shall have consented in writing to the plan of reorganization: Provided, however, That claims of depositors or other creditors which will be satisfied in full under the provisions of the plan of reorganization shall not be included among the total deposits and other liabilities of the national banking association in determining the 75 per cent thereof as above provided. When such reorganization becomes effective, all books, records, and assets of the national banking association shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of the plan and the affairs of the national banking association shall be conducted by its board of directors in the manner provided by the plan and under the conditions, restrictions and limitations which may have been prescribed by the Comptroller of the Currency. In any reorganization which shall have been approved and shall have become effective as provided herein, all depositors and other creditors and stockholders of such national banking association, whether or not they shall have consented to such plan of reorganization, shall be fully and in all respects subject to and bound by its provisions, and claims of all depositors and other creditors shall be treated as if they had consented to such plan of reorganization.

SEC. 208. After fifteen days after the affairs of a bank shall have been turned back to its board of directors by the conservator, either with or without a reorganization as provided in section 207 hereof, the provisions of section 206 of this title with respect to the segregation of deposits received while it is in the hands of the conservator and with respect to the use of such deposits to liquidate the indebtedness of such bank shall no longer be effective: Provided, That before the conservator shall turn back the affairs of the bank to its board of directors he shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in the city, town or county in which such bank is located, and if no newspaper is published in such city, town or county, in a newspaper to be selected by the Comptroller of the Currency published in the State in which the bank is located, a notice in form approved by the Comptroller, stating the date on which the affairs of the bank will be returned to its board of directors and that the said provisions of section 206 will not be effective after fifteen days after such date; and on the date of the publication of such notice the conservator shall immediately send to every person who is a depositor in such bank under section 206 a copy of such notice by registered mail addressed to the last known address of such person as shown by the records of the bank, and the conservator shall send similar notice in like manner to every person making deposit in such bank under section 206 after the date of such newspaper publication and before the time when the affairs of the bank are returned to its directors.

SEC. 209. Conservators appointed pursuant to the provisions of this title shall be subject to the provisions of and to the penalties prescribed by section 5209 of the Revised Statutes (U. S. C., Title 12, sec. 592); and sections 112, 113, 114, 115, 116 and 117 of the Criminal Code of the United States (U. S. C., Title 18, secs. 202, 203, 204, 205, 206 and 207), in so far as applicable, are extended to apply to contracts, agreements, proceedings, dealings, claims and controversies by or with any such conservator or the Comptroller of the Currency under the provisions of this title.

SEC. 210. Nothing in this title shall be construed to impair in any manner any powers of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Comptroller of the Currency, or the Federal Reserve Board.

SEC. 211. The Comptroller of the Currency is hereby authorized and empowered, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary in order to carry out the provisions of this title. Whoever violates any rule or regulation made pursuant to this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

TITLE III

SEC. 301. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any national banking association may, with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency and by vote of shareholders owning a majority of the stock of such association, upon not less than five days' notice, given by registered mail pursuant to action taken by its board of directors, issue preferred stock in such amount and with such par value as shall be approved by said Comptroller, and make such amendments to its articles of association as may be necessary for this purpose; but, in the case of any newly organized national banking association which has not yet issued common stock, the requirement of notice to and vote of shareholders shall not apply. No issue of preferred stock shall be valid until the par value of all stock so issued shall be paid in.

SEC. 302. (a) The holders of such preferred stock shall be entitled to cumulative dividends at a rate not exceeding 6 per centum per annum, but shall not be held individually responsible as such holders for any debts, contracts, or engagements of such association and shall not be liable for assessments to restore impairments in the capital of such association as now provided by law with reference to holders of common stock. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the holders of such preferred stock shall have such voting rights, and such stock shall be subject to retirement in such manner and on such terms and conditions, as may be provided in the articles of association with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency.

(b) No dividends shall be declared or paid on common stock until the cumulative dividends on the preferred stock shall have been paid in full; and, if the association is placed in voluntary liquidation or a conservator or a receiver is appointed therefor, no payments shall be made to the holders of the common stock until the holders of the preferred stock shall have been paid in full the par value of such stock plus all accumulated dividends.

SEC. 303. The term "common stock" as used in this title means stock of national banking associations other than preferred stock issued under the provisions of this title. The term "capital" as used in provisions of law relating to the capital of national banking associations shall mean the amount of unimpaired common stock plus the amount of preferred stock outstanding and unimpaired; and the term "capital stock", as used in section 12 of the Act of March 14, 1900, shall mean only the amount of common stock outstanding.

SEC. 304. If in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury any national banking association or any State bank or trust company is in need of funds for capital purposes either in connection with the organization or reorganization of such association, State bank or trust company or otherwise, he may, with the approval of the President, request the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to subscribe for preferred stock in such association, State bank or trust company, or to make loans secured by such stock as collateral, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may comply with such request. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, sell in the open market or otherwise the whole or any part of the preferred stock of any national banking association, State bank or trust company acquired by the Corporation pursuant to this section. The amount of notes, bonds, debentures, and other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to issue and to have outstanding at any one time under existing law is hereby increased by an amount sufficient to carry out the provisions of this section.

TITLE IV

SEC. 401. The sixth paragraph of section 18 of the Federal Reserve Act is amended to read as follows:

"Upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States (a) of any direct obligations of the United States, or (b) of any notes, drafts, bills of exchange, or bankers' acceptances acquired under the provisions of this Act, any Federal Reserve bank making such deposit in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes in blank, duly registered and countersigned. When such circulating notes are issued against the security of obligations of the United States, the amount of such circulating notes shall be equal to the face value of the direct obligations of the United States so deposited as security; and, when issued against the security of notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and bankers' acceptances acquired under the provisions of this Act, the amount thereof shall be equal to not more than 90 percent of the estimated value of such notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and bankers' acceptances so deposited as security. Such notes shall be the obligations of the Federal Reserve bank procuring the same, shall be in form prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, shall be receivable at par in all parts of the United States for the same purposes as are national bank notes, and shall be redeemable in lawful money of the United States on presentation at the United States Treasury or at the bank of issue. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and empowered to prescribe regulations governing the issuance, redemption, replacement, retirement, and destruction of such circulating notes and the release and substitution of security therefor. Such circulating notes shall be subject to the same tax as is provided by law for the circulating notes of national banks secured by 2-percent bonds of the United States. No such circulating notes shall be issued under this paragraph after the President has declared by proclamation that the emergency recognized by the President by proclamation of March 6, 1933, has terminated, unless such circulating notes are secured by deposits of bonds of the United States bearing the circulation privilege. When required to do so by the Secretary of the Treasury, each Federal Reserve agent shall act as agent of the Treasurer of the United States or of the Comptroller of the Currency, or both, for the performance of any of the functions which the Treasurer or the Comptroller may be called upon to perform in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph. Appropriations available for distinctive paper and printing United States currency or national bank currency are hereby made available for the production of the circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks herein provided; but the United States shall be reimbursed by the Federal Reserve bank to which such notes are issued for all expenses necessarily incurred in connection with the procuring of such notes and all other expenses incidental to their issue, redemption, replacement, retirement, and destruction."

TITLE V

SEC. 501. There is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $2,000,000, which shall be available for expenditure, under the direction of the President and in his discretion, for any purpose in connection with the carrying out of this Act.

SEC. 502. The right to alter, amend, or repeal this Act is hereby expressly reserved. If any provision of this Act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstances, is held invalid, the remainder of the Act, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

Approved March 9th, 1933.

Title III of the act of May 12, 1933 (Public No. 10, 73d Cong.)—Financial—and Exercising power conferred by Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution: To coin money and to regulate the value thereof

SEC. 43. Whenever the President finds, upon investigation, that (1) the foreign commerce of the United States is adversely affected by reason of the depreciation in the value of the currency of any other government or governments in relation to the present standard value of gold, or (2) action under this section is necessary in order to regulate and maintain the parity of currency issues of the United States, or (3) an economic emergency requires an expansion of credit, or (4) an expansion of credit is necessary to secure by international agreement a stabilization at proper levels of the currencies of various governments, the President is authorized, in his discretion—

(a) To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements with the several Federal Reserve banks and with the Federal Reserve Board whereby the Federal Reserve Board will, and it is hereby authorized to, notwithstanding any provisions of law or rules and regulations to the contrary, permit such reserve banks to agree that they will, (1) conduct, pursuant to existing law, throughout specified periods, open market operations in obligations of the United States Government or corporations in which the United States is the majority stockholder, and (2) purchase directly and hold in portfolio for an agreed period or periods of time Treasury bills or other obligations of the United States Government in an aggregate sum of $3,000,000,000 in addition to those they may then hold, unless prior to the termination of such period or periods the Secretary shall consent to their sale. No suspension of reserve requirements of the Federal Reserve banks, under the terms of section 11(c) of the Federal Reserve Act, necessitated by reason of operations under this section, shall require the imposition of the graduated tax upon any deficiency in reserves as provided in said section 11(c). Nor shall it require any automatic increase in the rates of interest or discount charged by any Federal Reserve bank, as otherwise specified in that section. The Federal Reserve Board, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may require the Federal Reserve banks to take such action as may be necessary, in the judgment of the Board and of the Secretary of the Treasury, to prevent undue credit expansion.

(b) If the Secretary, when directed by the President, is unable to secure the assent of the several Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board to the agreements authorized in this section, or if operations under the above provisions prove to be inadequate to meet the purposes of this section, or if for any other reason additional measures are required in the judgment of the President to meet such purposes, then the President is authorized—

(1) To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be issued in such amount or amounts as he may from time to time order, United States notes, as provided in the Act entitled "An act to authorize the issue of United States notes and for the redemption of funding thereof and for funding the floating debt of the United States", approved February 25, 1862, and Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof, in the same size and of similar color to the Federal Reserve notes heretofore issued and in denominations of $1, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $500, $1,000, and $10,000; but notes issued under this subsection shall be issued only for the purpose of meeting maturing Federal obligations to repay sums borrowed by the United States and for purchasing United States bonds and other interest-bearing obligations of the United States: Provided, That when any such notes are used for such purpose the bond or other obligation so acquired or taken up shall be retired and canceled. Such notes shall be issued at such times and in such amounts as the President may approve but the aggregate amount of such notes outstanding at any time shall not exceed $3,000,000,000. There is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an amount sufficient to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to retire and cancel 4 per centum annually of such outstanding notes, and the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to retire and cancel annually 4 per centum of such outstanding notes. Such notes and all other coins and currencies heretofore or hereafter coined or issued by or under the authority of the United States shall be legal tender for all debts public and private.

(2) By proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar in grains nine tenths fine and also to fix the weight of the silver dollar in grains nine tenths fine at a definite fixed ratio in relation to the gold dollar at such amounts as he finds necessary from his investigation to stabilize domestic prices or to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to provide for the unlimited coinage of such gold and silver at the ratio so fixed, or in case the Government of the United States enters into an agreement with any government or governments under the terms of which the ratio between the value of gold and other currency issued by the United States and by any such government or governments is established, the President may fix the weight of the gold dollar in accordance with the ratio so agreed upon, and such gold dollar, the weight of which is so fixed, shall be the standard unit of value, and all forms of money issued or coined by the United States shall be maintained at a parity with this standard and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain such parity, but in no event shall the weight of the gold dollar be fixed so as to reduce its present weight by more than 50 per centum.

SEC. 44. The Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, is hereby authorized to make and promulgate rules and regulations covering any action taken or to be taken by the President under subsection (a) or (b) of section 43.

SEC. 45. (a) The President is authorized, for a period of 6 months from the date of the passage of this Act, to accept silver in payment of the whole or any part of the principal or interest now due, or to become due within 6 months after such date, from any foreign government or governments on account of any indebtedness to the United States, such silver to be accepted at not to exceed the price of 50 cents an ounce in United States currency. The aggregate value of the silver accepted under this section shall not exceed $200,000,000.

(b) The silver bullion accepted and received under the provisions of this section shall be subject to the requirements of existing law and the regulations of the mint service governing the methods of determining the amount of pure silver contained, and the amount of the charges or deductions, if any, to be made; but such silver bullion shall not be counted as part of the silver bullion authorized or required to be purchased and coined under the provisions of existing law.

(c) The silver accepted and received under the provisions of this section shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States, to be held, used, and disposed of as in this section provided.

(d) The Secretary of the Treasury shall cause silver certificates to be issued in such denominations as he deems advisable to the total number of dollars for which such silver was accepted in payment of debts. Such silver certificates shall be used by the Treasurer of the United States in payment of any obligations of the United States.

(e) The silver so accepted and received under this section shall be coined into standard silver dollars and subsidiary coins sufficient, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, to meet any demands for redemption of such silver certificates issued under the provisions of this section, and such coins shall be retained in the Treasury for the payment of such certificates on demand. The silver so accepted and received under this section, except so much thereof as is coined under the provisions of this section, shall be held in the Treasury for the sole purpose of aiding in maintaining the parity of such certificates as provided in existing law. Any such certificates or reissued certificates, when presented at the Treasury, shall be redeemed in standard silver dollars, or in subsidiary silver coin, at the option of the holder of the certificates: Provided, That, in the redemption of such silver certificates issued under this section, not to exceed one third of the coin required for such redemption may in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury be made in subsidiary coins, the balance to be made in standard silver dollars.

(f) When any silver certificates issued under the provisions of this section are redeemed or received into the Treasury from any source whatsoever, and belong to the United States, they shall not be retired, canceled, or destroyed, but shall be reissued and paid out again and kept in circulation; but nothing herein shall prevent the cancellation and destruction of mutilated certificates and the issue of other certificates of like denomination in their stead, as provided by law.

(g) The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to make rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of this section.

SEC. 46. Section 19 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, is amended by inserting immediately after paragraph (c) thereof the following new paragraph:

"Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, the Federal Reserve Board, upon the affirmative vote of not less than five of its members and with the approval of the President, may declare that an emergency exists by reason of credit expansion, and may by regulation during such emergency increase or decrease from time to time, in its discretion, the reserve balances required to be maintained against either demand or time deposits."

Exhibit 23

[Public Resolution No. 10, 73d Cong., H.J.Res. 192]

Joint Resolution to assure uniform value to the coins and currencies of the United States

Whereas the holding of or dealing in gold affect the public interest, and are therefore subject to proper regulation and restriction; and

Whereas the existing emergency has disclosed that provisions of obligations which purport to give the obligee a right to require payment in gold or a particular kind of coin or currency of the United States, or in an amount in money of the United States measured thereby, obstruct the power of the Congress to regulate the value of the money of the United States, and are inconsistent with the declared policy of the Congress to maintain at all times the equal power of every dollar, coined or issued by the United States, in the markets and in the payment of debts. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That (a) every provision contained in or made with respect to any obligation which purports to give the obligee a right to require payment in gold or a particular kind of coin or currency, or in an amount in money of the United States measured thereby, is declared to be against public policy; and no such provision shall be contained in or made with respect to any obligation hereafter incurred. Every obligation, heretofore or hereafter incurred, whether or not any such provision is contained therein or made with respect thereto, shall be discharged upon payment, dollar for dollar, in any coin or currency which at the time of payment is legal tender for public and private debts. Any such provision contained in any law authorizing obligations to be issued by or under authority of the United States, is hereby repealed, but the repeal of any such provision shall not invalidate any other provision or authority contained in such law.

(b) As used in this resolution, the term "obligation" means an obligation (including every obligation of and to the United States, excepting currency) payable in money of the United States; and the term "coin or currency" means coin or currency of the United States, including Federal Reserve notes and circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks and national banking associations.

SEC. 2. The last sentence of paragraph (1) of subsection (b) of section 43 of the Act entitled "An Act to relieve the existing national economic emergency by increasing agricultural purchasing power, to raise revenue for extraordinary expenses incurred by reason of such emergency, to provide emergency relief with respect to agricultural indebtedness, to provide for the orderly liquidation of joint stock land banks, and for other purposes", approved May 12, 1933, is amended to read as follows:

"All coins and currencies of the United States (including Federal Reserve notes and circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks and national banking associations) heretofore or hereafter coined or issued, shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private, public charges, taxes, duties, and dues, except that gold coins, when below the standard weight and limit of tolerance provided by law for the single piece, shall be legal tender only at valuation in proportion to their actual weight."

Approved June 5, 1933.

Exhibit 24

Proclamations and Executive orders issued by the President in connection with the banking emergency

PROCLAMATION, MARCH 6, 1933

Whereas there have been heavy and unwarranted withdrawals of gold and currency from our banking institutions for the purpose of hoarding; and

Whereas continuous and increasingly extensive speculative activity abroad in foreign exchange has resulted in severe drains on the Nation's stocks of gold; and

Whereas these conditions have created a national emergency; and

Whereas it is in the best interests of all bank depositors that a period of respite be provided with a view to preventing further hoarding of coin, bullion, or currency or speculation in foreign exchange and permitting the application of appropriate measures to protect the interests of our people; and

Whereas it is provided in section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411) as amended, "That the President may investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange and the export, hoarding, melting, or earmarkings of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency * * *"; and

Whereas it is provided in section 16 of the said act "that whoever shall willfully violate any of the provisions of this act or of any license, rule, or regulation issued thereunder, and whoever shall willfully violate, neglect, or refuse to comply with any order of the President issued in compliance with the provisions of this act, shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, imprisoned for not more than ten years, or both; * * *";

Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in view of such national emergency and by virtue of the authority vested in me by said act and in order to prevent the export, hoarding, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, do hereby proclaim, order, direct and declare that from Monday, the sixth day of March, to Thursday, the ninth day of March, nineteen hundred and thirty-three, both dates inclusive, there shall be maintained and observed by all banking institutions and all branches thereof located in the United States of America, including the territories and insular possessions, a bank holiday, and that during said period all banking transactions shall be suspended. During such holiday, excepting as hereinafter provided, no such banking institution or branch shall pay out, export, earmark, or permit the withdrawal or transfer in any manner or by any device whatsoever, of any gold or silver coin or bullion or currency or take any other action which might facilitate the hoarding thereof; nor shall any such banking institution or branch pay out deposits, make loans or discounts, deal in foreign exchange, transfer credits from the United States to any place abroad, or transact any other banking business whatsoever.

During such holiday the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President and under such regulations as he may prescribe, is authorized and empowered (a) to permit any or all of such banking institutions to perform any or all of the usual banking functions, (b) to direct, require or permit the issuance of clearing house certificates or other evidences of claims against assets of banking institutions, and (c) to authorize and direct the creation in such banking institutions of special trust accounts for the receipt of new deposits which shall be subject to withdrawal on demand without any restriction or limitation and shall be kept separately in cash or on deposit in Federal Reserve banks or invested in obligations of the United States.

As used in this order the term "banking institutions" shall include all Federal Reserve banks, national banking associations, banks, trust companies, savings banks, building and loan associations, credit unions, or other corporations, partnerships, associations or persons, engaged in the business of receiving deposits, making loans, discounting business paper, or transacting any other form of banking business.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the city of Washington this 6th day of March, 1 a.m., in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-seventh.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

CORDELL HULL,

Secretary of State.

PROCLAMATION, MARCH 9, 1933

Whereas, on March 6, 1933, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, by proclamation declared the existence of a national emergency and proclaimed a bank holiday extending from Monday the 6th day of March to Thursday the 9th day of March, 1933, both dates inclusive, in order to prevent the export, hoarding or earmarking of gold or silver coin, or bullion or currency, or speculation in foreign exchange; and

Whereas, under the act of March 9, 1933, all proclamations heretofore or hereafter issued by the President pursuant to the authority conferred by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended, are approved and confirmed; and

Whereas, said national emergency still continues, and it is necessary to take further measures extending beyond March 9, 1933, in order to accomplish such purposes:

Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in view of such continuing national emergency and by virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411) as amended by the act of March 9, 1933, do hereby proclaim, order, direct and declare that all the terms and provisions of said Proclamation of March 6, 1933, and the regulations and orders issued thereunder are hereby continued in full force and effect until further proclamation by the President.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia, this 9th day of March, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-seventh.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

CORDELL HULL,

EXECUTIVE ORDER, MARCH 10, 1933

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411) as amended by the act of March 9, 1933, and by section 4 of the said act of March 9, 1933, and by virtue of all other authority vested in me, I hereby issue the following Executive order.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and empowered under such regulations as he may prescribe to permit any member bank of the Federal Reserve System and any other banking institution organized under the laws of the United States, to perform any or all of their usual banking functions, except as otherwise prohibited.

The appropriate authority having immediate supervision of banking institutions in each State or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States is authorized and empowered under such regulations as such authority may prescribe to permit any banking institution in such State or place, other than banking institutions covered by the foregoing paragraph, to perform any or all of their usual banking functions, except as otherwise prohibited.

All banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System, desiring to reopen for the performance of all usual and normal banking functions, except as otherwise prohibited, shall apply for a license therefor to the Secretary of the Treasury. Such application shall be filed immediately through the Federal Reserve banks. The Federal Reserve bank shall then transmit such applications to the Secretary of the Treasury. Licenses will be issued by the Federal Reserve bank upon approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Federal Reserve banks are hereby designated as agents of the Secretary of the Treasury for the receiving of application and the issuance of licenses in his behalf and upon his instructions.

Until further order, no individual, partnership, association, or corporation, including any banking institution, shall export or otherwise remove or permit to be withdrawn from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, except in accordance with regulations prescribed by or under license issued by the Secretary of the Treasury.

No permission to any banking institution to perform any banking functions shall authorize such institution to pay out any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates except as authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury, nor to allow withdrawal of any currency for hoarding, nor to engage in any transaction in foreign exchange except such as may be undertaken for legitimate and normal business requirements, for reasonable traveling and other personal requirements, and for the fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to March 6, 1933.

Every Federal Reserve bank is authorized and instructed to keep itself currently informed as to transactions in foreign exchange entered into or con-summed within its district and shall report to the Secretary of the Treasury all transactions in foreign exchange which are prohibited.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
March 10, 1933.

EXECUTIVE ORDER, MARCH 18, 1933

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411) as amended by the act of March 9, 1933, and by section 4 of the said act of March 9, 1933, and by virtue of all other authority vested in me, I hereby issue the following Executive order.

Whenever the appropriate authority having immediate supervision of any banking institution located in any State or place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, which is a member of the Federal Reserve System and which has not been licensed by the Secretary of the Treasury to resume its usual banking functions, shall deem it necessary or advisable in order to conserve the assets of such banking institution for the benefit of the depositors or other creditors, such authority may, in accordance with the provisions of the applicable laws of such State or place, appoint such appropriate official as may be authorized under such laws to conserve the assets of such banking institutions pending further disposition of its business as provided by such laws.

This order shall not authorize any such member bank to reopen for the performance of usual and normal functions until it shall have received a license from the Secretary of the Treasury as provided in Executive order of March 10, 1933.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
March 18, 1933.

EXECUTIVE ORDER, APRIL 5, 1933,¹ FORBIDDING THE HOARDING OF GOLD COIN, GOLD BULLION, AND GOLD CERTIFICATES

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended by section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking, and for other purposes", in which amendatory act Congress declared that a serious emergency exists, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that said national emergency still continues to exist and pursuant to said section do hereby prohibit the hoarding of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates within the continental United States by individuals, partnerships, associations, and corporations and hereby prescribe the following regulations for carrying out the purposes of this order:

SECTION 1. For the purposes of this regulation, the term "hoarding" means the withdrawal and withholding of gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates from the recognized and customary channels of trade. The term "person" means any individual, partnership, association, or corporation.

SEC. 2. All persons are hereby required to deliver on or before May 1, 1933, to a Federal Reserve bank or a branch or agency thereof or to any member bank of the Federal Reserve System all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates now owned by them or coming into their ownership on or before April 28, 1933, except the following:

(a) Such amount of gold as may be required for legitimate and customary use in industry, profession, or art within a reasonable time, including gold prior to refining and stocks of gold in reasonable amounts for the usual trade requirements of owners mining and refining such gold.

(b) Gold coin and gold certificates in an amount not exceeding in the aggregate $100 belonging to any one person; and gold coins having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coins.

(c) Gold coin and bullion earmarked or held in trust for a recognized foreign government or foreign central bank or the Bank for International Settlements.

(d) Gold coin and bullion licensed for other proper transactions (not involving hoarding) including gold coin and bullion imported for reexport or held pending action on applications for export licenses.

SEC. 3. Until otherwise ordered any person becoming the owner of any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates after April 28, 1933, shall, within 3 days after receipt thereof, deliver the same in the manner prescribed in section 2; unless such gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates are held for any of the purposes specified in paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of section 2; or unless such gold coin or gold bullion is held for purposes specified in paragraph (d) of section 2 and the person holding it is, with respect to such gold coin or bullion, a licensee or applicant for license pending action thereon.

SEC. 4. Upon receipt of gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates delivered to it in accordance with sections 2 or 3, the Federal Reserve bank or member bank will pay therefor an equivalent amount of any other form of coin or currency coined or issued under the laws of the United States.

SEC. 5. Member banks shall deliver all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned or received by them (other than as exempted under the provisions of sec. 2) to the Federal Reserve banks of their respective districts and receive credit or payment therefor.

SEC. 6. The Secretary of the Treasury, out of the sum made available to the President by section 501 of the act of March 9, 1933, will in all proper cases pay the reasonable costs of transportation of gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates delivered to a member bank or Federal Reserve bank in accordance with sections 2, 3, or 5 hereof, including the cost of insurance, protection, and such other incidental costs as may be necessary, upon production of satisfactory evidence of such costs. Voucher forms for this purpose may be procured from Federal Reserve banks.

SEC. 7. In cases where the delivery of gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates by the owners thereof within the time set forth above will involve extraordinary hardship or difficulty, the Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, extend the time within which such delivery must be made. Applications for such extensions must be made in writing under oath, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury and filed with a Federal Reserve bank. Each application must state the date to which the extension is desired, the amount and location of the gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates in respects of which such application is made and the facts showing extension to be necessary to avoid extraordinary hardship or difficulty.

SEC. 8. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and empowered to issue such further regulations as he may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of this order and to issue licenses thereunder, through such officers or agencies as he may designate, including licenses permitting the Federal Reserve banks and member banks of the Federal Reserve System, in return for an equivalent amount of other coin, currency, or credit, to deliver, earmark, or hold in trust gold coin and bullion to or for persons showing the need for the same for any of the purposes specified in paragraphs (a), (c), and (d) of section 2 of these regulations.

SEC. 9. Whoever willfully violates any provision of this Executive order or of these regulations or of any rule, regulation, or license issued thereunder may be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, may be imprisoned for not more than 10 years, or both; and any officer, director, or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in any such violation may be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both.

This order and these regulations may be modified or revoked at any time.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

April 5, 1933.

EXECUTIVE ORDER, APRIL 20, 1933.¹ RELATING TO FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND THE EARMARKING AND EXPORT OF GOLD COIN OR BULLION OR CURRENCY

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended by section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking, and for other purposes," in which amendatory act Congress declared that a serious emergency exists, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that said national emergency still continues to exist and pursuant to said section and by virtue of all other authority vested in me, do hereby issue the following Executive order:

1. Until further order, the earmarking for foreign account and the export of gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof are hereby prohibited, except that the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion and subject to such regulations as he may prescribe, may issue licenses authorizing the export of gold coin and bullion (a) earmarked or held in trust for a recognized foreign government or foreign central bank or the Bank for International Settlements, (b) imported for reexport or gold in reasonable amounts for usual trade requirements of refiners importing gold bearing materials under agreement to export gold, (c) actually required for the fulfillment of any contract entered into prior to the date of this order, by an applicant who in obedience to the Executive order of April 5, 1933, has delivered gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, and (d) with the approval of the President, for transactions which he may deem necessary to promote the public interest.

2. Until further order, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized, through any agency that he may designate, to investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit from any banking institution within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof to any foreign branch or office of such banking institution or to any foreign bank or banker, and the export or withdrawal of currency from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof; and the Secretary of the Treasury may require any individual, partnership, association, or corporation engaged in any transaction referred to herein to furnish under oath, complete information relative thereto, including the production of any books of account, contracts, letters, or other papers, in connection therewith in the custody or control of such individual, partnership, association, or corporation either before or after such transaction is completed.

3. The provisions relating to foreign exchange transactions contained in the Executive order of March 10, 1933, shall remain in full force and effect except as amended or supplemented by this order and by regulations issued hereunder.

4. Applicants who have gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates in their possession, or who in obedience to the Executive order of April 5, 1933, have delivered gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates shall be entitled to licenses as provided in section 8 of said Executive order for amounts not exceeding the equivalent of such coin, bullion, or certificates held or delivered. The Secretary may in his discretion issue or decline to issue any other licenses under said Executive order, which shall in all other respects remain in full force and effect.

5. Whoever willfully violates any provision of this Executive order or of any rule, regulation or license issued thereunder may be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, may be imprisoned for not more than 10 years, or both; and any officer, director, or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in any such violation may be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both.

This order may be modified or revoked at any time.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

April 20, 1933.

EXECUTIVE ORDER, AUGUST 28, 1933,¹ RELATING TO THE HOARDING, EXPORT, AND EARMARKING OF GOLD COIN, BULLION, OR CURRENCY AND TO TRANSACTIONS IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended by section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking and for other purposes", I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that a period of national emergency exists, and by virtue of said authority and of all other authority vested in me, do hereby prescribe the following provisions for the investigation and regulation of the hoarding, earmarking, and export of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates by any person within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof; and for the investigation and regulation of transactions in foreign exchange and transfers of credit and the export or withdrawal of currency from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof by any person within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

SEC. 2. Definitions.—As used in this order the term "person" means an individual, partnership, association, or corporation; and the term "the United States" means the United States and any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

SEC. 3. Returns.—Within 15 days from the date of this order every person in possession of and every person owning gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates shall make under oath and file as hereinafter provided a return to the Secretary of the Treasury containing true and complete information relative thereto, including the name and address of the person making the return; the kind and amount of such coin, bullion, or certificates held and the location thereof; if held for another, the capacity in which held and the person for whom held, together with the post-office address of such person; and the nature of the transaction requiring the holding of such coin, bullion, or certificates and a statement explaining why such transaction cannot be carried out by the use of currency other than gold certificates; provided that no returns are required to be filed with respect to—

(a) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates in an amount not exceeding in the aggregate $100 belonging to any one person;

(b) Gold coin having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin;

(c) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates acquired or held under a license heretofore granted by or under authority of the Secretary of the Treasury; and

Such return required to be made by an individual shall be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the collection district in which such individual resides, or, if such individual has no legal residence in the United States, then with the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Md. Such return required to be made by a partnership, association, or corporation shall be filed with the collector of internal revenue of the collection district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office or agency of such partnership, association, or corporation, or, if it has no principal place of business or principal office or agency in the United States, then with the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Md. Such return required to be made by an individual residing in Alaska shall be filed with the collector of internal revenue at Seattle, Wash. Such return required to be made by a partnership, association, or corporation having its principal place of business or principal office or agency in Alaska shall be filed with the collector of internal revenue at Seattle, Wash.

The Secretary of the Treasury may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing a return, under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe. No such extension shall be for more than 45 days from the date of this Executive order. An extension granted hereunder shall be deemed a license to hold for a period ending 15 days after the expiration of the extension.

The returns required to be made and filed under this section shall constitute public records; but they shall be open to public inspection only upon order of the President and under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

A return made and filed in accordance with this section by the owner of the gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates described therein, or his duly authorized agent, shall be deemed an application for the issuance under section 5 hereof of a license to hold such coin, bullion, and certificates.

SEC. 4. Acquisition of gold coin and gold bullion.—No person other than a Federal Reserve bank shall after the date of this order acquire in the United States any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates except under license therefor issued pursuant to this Executive order, provided that member banks of the Federal Reserve System may accept delivery of such coin, bullion, and certificates for surrender promptly to a Federal Reserve bank, and provided further that persons requiring gold for use in the industry, profession, or art in which they are regularly engaged may replenish their stocks of gold up to an aggregate amount of $100, by acquisitions of gold bullion held under licenses issued under section 5 (b), without necessity of obtaining a license for such acquisitions.

The Secretary of the Treasury, subject to such further regulations as he may prescribe, shall issue licenses authorizing the acquisition of—

(a) Gold coin or gold bullion which the Secretary is satisfied is required for a necessary and lawful transaction for which currency other than gold certificates cannot be used, by an applicant who establishes that since March 9, 1933, he has surrendered an equal amount of gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates to a banking institution in the continental United States or to the Treasurer of the United States;

(b) Gold coin or gold bullion which the Secretary is satisfied is required by an applicant who holds a license to export such an amount of gold coin or gold bullion issued under subdivisions (c) or (d) of section 6 hereof, and

(c) Gold bullion which the Secretary, or such agency as he may designate, is satisfied is required for legitimate and customary use in industry, profession, or art by an applicant regularly engaged in such industry, profession, or art, or in the business of furnishing gold therefor.

Licenses issued pursuant to this section shall authorize the holder to acquire gold coin and gold bullion only from the sources specified by the Secretary of the Treasury in regulations issued hereunder.

SEC. 5. Holding of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates.—After 30 days from the date of this order no person shall hold in his possession or retain any interest, legal or equitable, in any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates situated in the United States and owned by any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, except under license therefor issued pursuant to this Executive order; provided, however, that licenses shall not be required in order to hold in possession or retain an interest in gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates with respect to which a return need not be filed under section 3 hereof.

The Secretary of the Treasury, subject to such further regulations as he may prescribe, shall issue licenses authorizing the holding of—

(a) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates, which the Secretary is satisfied are required by the person owning the same for necessary and lawful transactions for which currency, other than gold certificates, cannot be used;

(b) Gold bullion which the Secretary, or such agency as he may designate, is satisfied is required for legitimate and customary use in industry, profession, or art by a person regularly engaged in such industry, profession, or art or in the business of furnishing gold therefor;

(c) Gold coin and gold bullion earmarked or held in trust since before April 20, 1933, for a recognized foreign government or foreign central bank or the Bank for International Settlements; and

(d) Gold coin and gold bullion imported for reexport or held pending action upon application for export licenses.

SEC. 6. Earmarking and export of gold coin and gold bullion.—After the date of this order no person shall earmark or export any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates from the United States, except under license therefor issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to the provisions of this order.

The Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion and subject to such regulations as he may prescribe, may issue licenses authorizing—

(a) The export of gold coin or gold bullion earmarked or held in trust since before April 20, 1933, for a recognized foreign government, foreign central bank, or the Bank for International Settlements;

(b) The export of gold, (i) imported for reexport, (ii) refined from gold-bearing materials imported by the applicant under an agreement to export gold, or (iii) in bullion containing not more than five ounces of gold per ton;

(c) The export of gold coin or gold bullion to the extent actually required for the fulfillment of a contract entered into by the applicant prior to April 20, 1933; but not in excess of the amount of the gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates surrendered by the applicant on or after March 9, 1933, to a banking institution in the continental United States or to the Treasurer of the United States; and

(d) The earmarking for foreign account and/or export of gold coin or gold bullion, with the approval of the President, for transactions which the Secretary of the Treasury may deem necessary to promote the public interest.

SEC. 7. United States possessions—Shipments thereto.—The provisions of sections 3 and 5 of this order shall not apply to gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates which are situated in the Philippine Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Panama Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands of the United States, and are owned by a person not domiciled in the continental United States. The provisions of section 4 shall not apply to acquisitions by persons within the Philippine Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Panama Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands of the United States of gold coin or gold bullion which has not been taken or sent thereto since April 5, 1933, from the continental United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

SEC. 8. Until further order, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized, through any agency that he may designate, to investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit from any banking institution within the United States to any foreign branch or office of such banking institution or to any foreign bank or banker, and the export or withdrawal of currency from the United States, by any person within the United States; and the Secretary of the Treasury may require any person engaged in any transaction referred to herein to furnish under oath complete information relative thereto, including the production of any books of account, contracts, letters, or other papers, in connection therewith in the custody or control of such person either before or after such transaction is completed.

SEC. 9. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and empowered to issue such regulations as he may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of this order. Such regulations may provide for the detention in the United States of any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates sought to be transported beyond the limits of the continental United States, pending an investigation to determine if such coin, bullion, or certificates are held or are to be acquired in violation of the provisions of this Executive order. Licenses and permits granted in accordance with the provisions of this order and the regulations prescribed hereunder, may be issued through such officers or agencies as the Secretary may designate.

SEC. 10. Whoever willfully violates any provision of this Executive order or of any license, order, rule, or regulation issued or prescribed hereunder, shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, may be imprisoned for not more than 10 years, or both; and any officer, director, or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation may be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both.

SEC. 11. The Executive orders of April 5, 1933, forbidding the hoarding of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates, and April 20, 1933, relating to foreign exchange and the earmarking and export of gold coin or bullion or currency, respectively, are hereby revoked. The revocation of such prior Executive orders shall not affect any act done, or any right accruing or accrued, or any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil or criminal cause prior to said revocation, but all liabilities under said Executive orders shall continue and may be enforced in the same manner as if said revocation had not been made. This Executive order and any regulations or licenses issued hereunder may be modified or revoked at any time.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
August 28, 1933.

EXECUTIVE ORDER, AUGUST 29, 1933,¹ RELATING TO THE SALE AND EXPORT OF GOLD RECOVERED FROM NATURAL DEPOSITS

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended by section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking and for other purposes", I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that a period of national emergency exists, and by virtue of said authority and of all other authority vested in me, do hereby issue the following Executive order:

¹ Revoked by Executive order of Oct. 25, 1933.

The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to receive on consignment for sale, subject to such rules and regulations and upon such conditions as he shall prescribe, gold recovered from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof. Sales may be made:

(a) To persons licensed to acquire gold for use in the arts, industries or professions, or

(b) By export to foreign purchasers.

Such sales shall be made at a price which the Secretary shall determine to be equal to the best price obtainable in the free gold markets of the world after taking into consideration any incidental expenses such as shipping costs and insurance.

Such sales may be made through the Federal Reserve banks or such other agents as the Secretary may from time to time designate, and shall be subject to such charges as the Secretary may from time to time in his judgment determine.

Every person depositing gold for sale as provided herein shall be deemed to have agreed to accept as conclusive without any right of recourse or review, the determination of the Secretary or his duly authorized agent as to the amount due such person as a result of any sale.

Consignments shall be sold as nearly as may be in the order of their receipt.

The Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion and subject to such regulations as he may prescribe, is hereby authorized to issue licenses permitting the export of articles fabricated from gold sold pursuant to this Executive order.

This Executive order may be modified or revoked at any time.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

August 29, 1933.

EXECUTIVE ORDER, OCTOBER 25, 1933, RELATING TO GOLD RECOVERED FROM NATURAL DEPOSITS

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended by section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking and for other purposes", I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that a period of national emergency exists, and by virtue of said authority and of all other authority vested in me, do hereby issue the following Executive order:

SECTION 1. The Executive order of August 29, 1933, relating to the sale and export of gold recovered from natural deposits, is hereby revoked; provided, however, that the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to sell in accordance therewith gold received on consignment for sale on or before the date of this Executive order.

SEC. 2. The United States mints and assay offices are hereby authorized, subject to such regulations as may from time to time be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, to receive on consignment gold which the mint or assay office to which the gold is delivered is satisfied has been recovered from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

SEC. 3. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized, subject to such regulations as may from time to time be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, to acquire gold which has been received on consignment by a United States mint or assay office, and to hold, earmark for foreign account, export, or otherwise dispose of such gold.

SEC. 4. The Executive order of August 28, 1933, relating to the hoarding, export, and earmarking of gold coin, bullion, or currency, and to transactions in foreign exchange, is hereby amended to permit, subject to such regulations as may from time to time be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, the export of articles fabricated from gold.

SEC. 5. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and empowered to issue such regulations as he may deem necessary to carry out the purpose of this Executive order.

SEC. 6. This Executive order and any regulations issued hereunder may be modified or revoked at any time.

TAXATION

Exhibit 25

Sections 211 to 219 of the National Industrial Recovery Act (Public No. 67, 73d Cong., approved June 16, 1933) providing for reemployment and relief taxes

REEMPLOYMENT AND RELIEF TAXES

SEC. 211. (a) Effective as of the day following the date of the enactment of this Act, section 617 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out "1 cent" and inserting in lieu thereof "1½ cents."

(b) Effective as of the day following the date of the enactment of this Act, section 617 (c) (2) of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof a new sentence to read as follows: "As used in this paragraph the term 'benzol' does not include benzol sold for use otherwise than as a fuel for the propulsion of motor vehicles, motor boats, or airplanes, and otherwise than in the manufacture or production of such fuel."

SEC. 212. Titles IV and V of the Revenue Act of 1932 are amended by striking out "1934" wherever appearing therein and by inserting in lieu thereof "1935." Section 761 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is further amended by striking out "and on July 1, 1933" and inserting in lieu thereof "and on July 1, 1933, and on July 1, 1934."

SEC. 213. (a) There is hereby imposed upon the receipt of dividends (required to be included in the gross income of the recipient under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932) by any person other than a domestic corporation, an excise tax equal to 5 per centum of the amount thereof, such tax to be deducted and withheld from such dividends by the payor corporation. The tax imposed by this section shall not apply to dividends declared before the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) Every corporation required to deduct and withhold any tax under this section shall, on or before the last day of the month following the payment of the dividend, make return thereof and pay the tax to the collector of the district in which its principal place of business is located or, if it has no principal place of business in the United States, to the collector at Baltimore, Maryland.

(c) Every such corporation is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payment made in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(d) The provisions of sections 115, 771 to 774, inclusive, and 1111 of the Revenue Act of 1932 shall be applicable with respect to the tax imposed by this section.

(e) The taxes imposed by this section shall not apply to the dividends of any corporation enumerated in section 103 of the Revenue Act of 1932.

SEC. 214. Section 104 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out the words "the surtax" wherever occurring in such section and inserting in lieu thereof "any internal revenue tax." The heading of such section is amended by striking out "surtaxes" and inserting in lieu thereof "internal revenue taxes." Section 13(c) of such Act is amended by striking out "surtax" and inserting in lieu thereof "internal revenue tax."

SEC. 215. (a) For each year ending June 30 there is hereby imposed upon every domestic corporation with respect to carrying on or doing business for any part of such year an excise tax of $1 for each $1,000 of the adjusted declared value of its capital stock.

(b) For each year ending June 30 there is hereby imposed upon every foreign corporation with respect to carrying on or doing business in the United States for any part of such year an excise tax equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of the adjusted declared value of capital employed in the transaction of its business in the United States.

(c) The taxes imposed by this section shall not apply—

(1) to any corporation enumerated in section 103 of the Revenue Act of 1932;

(2) to any insurance company subject to the tax imposed by section 201 or 204 of such Act;

(3) to any domestic corporation in respect of the year ending June 30, 1933, if it did not carry on or do business during a part of the period from the date of the enactment of this Act to June 30, 1933, both dates inclusive; or

(4) to any foreign corporation in respect of the year ending June 30, 1933, if it did not carry on or do business in the United States during a part of the period from the date of the enactment of this Act to June 30, 1933, both dates inclusive.

(d) Every corporation liable for tax under this section shall make a return under oath within one month after the close of the year with respect to which such tax is imposed to the collector for the district in which is located its principal place of business, or, if it has no principal place of business in the United States, then to the collector at Baltimore, Maryland. Such return shall contain such information and be made in such manner as the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary may by regulations prescribe. The tax shall, without assessment by the Commissioner or notice from the collector, be due and payable to the collector before the expiration of the period for filing the return. If the tax is not paid when due, there shall be added as part of the tax interest at the rate of 1 per centum a month from the time when the tax became due until paid. All provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of the taxes imposed by section 600 of the Revenue Act of 1926 shall, insofar as not inconsistent with this section, be applicable in respect of the taxes imposed by this section. The Commissioner may extend the time for making the returns and paying the taxes imposed by this section, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe with the approval of the Secretary, but no such extension shall be for more than sixty days.

(e) Returns required to be filed for the purpose of the tax imposed by this section shall be open to inspection in the same manner, to the same extent, and subject to the same provisions of law, including penalties, as returns made under title II of the Revenue Act of 1926.

(f) For the first year ending June 30 in respect of which a tax is imposed by this section upon any corporation, the adjusted declared value shall be the value, as declared by the corporation in its first return under this section (which declaration of value cannot be amended), as of the close of its last income-tax taxable year ending at or prior to the close of the year for which the tax is imposed by this section (or as of the date of organization in the case of a corporation having no income-tax taxable year ending at or prior to the close of the year for which the tax is imposed by this section). For any subsequent year ending June 30, the adjusted declared value in the case of a domestic corporation shall be the original declared value plus (1) the cash and fair market value of property paid in for stock or shares, (2) paid-in surplus and contributions to capital, and (3) earnings and profits, and minus (A) the value of property distributed in liquidation to shareholders, (B) distributions of earnings and profits, and (C) deficits, whether operating or non-operating; each adjustment being made for the period from the date as of which the original declared value was declared to the close of its last income-tax taxable year ending at or prior to the close of the year for which the tax is imposed by this section. For any subsequent year ending June 30, the adjusted declared value in the case of a foreign corporation shall be the original declared value adjusted, in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, to reflect increases or decreases (for the period specified in the preceding sentence) in the capital employed in the transaction of its business in the United States.

(g) The terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in the Revenue Act of 1932.

SEC. 216. (a) There is hereby imposed upon the net income of every corporation, for each income-tax taxable year ending after the close of the first year in respect of which it is taxable under section 215, an excess profits tax equivalent to 5 per centum of such portion of its net income for such income-tax taxable year as is in excess of $12\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the adjusted declared value of its capital stock (or in the case of a foreign corporation the adjusted declared value of capital employed in the transaction of its business in the United States) as of the close of the preceding income-tax taxable year (or as of the date of organization if it had no preceding income-tax taxable year) determined as provided in section 215. The terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in the Revenue Act of 1932.

(b) The tax imposed by this section shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties), as the taxes imposed by title 1 of the Revenue Act of 1932.

SEC. 217. (a) The President shall proclaim the date of—

(1) the close of the first fiscal year ending June 30 of any year after the year 1933, during which the total receipts of the United States (excluding public debt receipts) exceed its total expenditures (excluding public debt expenditures other than those chargeable against such receipts), or

(2) the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution, whichever is the earlier.

(b) Effective as of the 1st day of the calendar year following the date so proclaimed section 617(a) of the Revenue Act of 1932, as amended, is amended by striking out "1½ cents" and inserting in lieu thereof "1 cent".

(c) The tax on dividends imposed by section 213 shall not apply to any dividends declared on or after the 1st day of the calendar year following the date so proclaimed.

(d) The capital stock tax imposed by section 215 shall not apply to any taxpayer in respect of any year beginning on or after the 1st day of July following the date so proclaimed.

(e) The excess profits tax imposed by section 216 shall not apply to any taxpayer in respect of any taxable year after its taxable year during which the date so proclaimed occurs.

SEC. 218. (a) Effective as of January 1, 1933, sections 117, 23 (i), 169, 187, and 205 of the Revenue Act of 1932 are repealed.

(c) Effective as of January 1, 1933, section 23 (r) (3) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out all after the word "Territory" and inserting a period.

(d) Effective as of January 1, 1933, section 182 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by inserting at the end thereof a new sentence as follows: "No part of any loss disallowed to a partnership as a deduction by section 23 (r) shall be allowed as a deduction to a member of such partnership in computing net income."

(e) Effective as of January 1, 1933, section 141 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out "except that for the taxable years 1932 and 1933 there shall be added to the rate of tax prescribed by sections 13 (a), 201 (b), and 204 (a), a rate of three fourths of 1 per centum" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "except that for the taxable years 1932 and 1933 there shall be added to the rate of tax prescribed by sections 13 (a), 201 (b), and 204 (a), a rate of three fourths of 1 per centum and except that for the taxable years 1934 and 1935 there shall be added to the rate of tax prescribed by sections 13 (a), 201 (b), and 204 (a), a rate of 1 per centum."

(f) No interest shall be assessed or collected for any period prior to September 15, 1933, upon such portion of any amount determined as a deficiency in income taxes as is attributable solely to the amendments made to the Revenue Act of 1932 by this section.

(g) In cases where the effect of this section is to require for a taxable year ending prior to June 30, 1933, the making of an income tax return not otherwise required by law, the time for making the return and paying the tax shall be the same as if the return was for a fiscal year ending June 30, 1933.

(h) Section 55 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof a semicolon and the following: "and all returns made under this Act after the date of enactment of the National Industrial Recovery Act shall constitute public records and shall be open to public examination and inspection to such extent as shall be authorized in rules and regulations promulgated by the President."

SEC. 219. Section 500 (a) (1) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended, is amended by striking out the period at the end of the second sentence thereof and inserting in lieu thereof a comma and the following: "except that no tax shall be imposed in the case of persons admitted free to any spoken play (not a mechanical reproduction), whether or not set to music or with musical parts or accompaniments, which is a consecutive narrative interpreted by a single set of characters, all necessary to the development of the plot, in two or more acts, the performance consuming more than 1 hour and 45 minutes of time."

[Public No. 73, 73d Cong., H.R. 5040]

An Act to extend the gasoline tax for one year, to modify postage rates on mail matter, and for other purposes

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 629 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out the following: “, or after June 30, 1933, in the case of articles taxable under section 617, relating to the tax on gasoline.”

SEC. 2. The President is authorized during the period ending June 30, 1934, to proclaim such modifications of postage rates on mail matter (except that in the case of first-class matter the rate shall not be reduced to less than 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof) as, after a survey by him, he may deem advisable by reason of increase in business, the interests of the public, or the needs of the Postal Service, and such modifications shall be in effect on and after such date as he shall proclaim and until July 1, 1934. In case a modification of the rate of postage on first-class matter is proclaimed, the President shall also make a corresponding modification in the percentages of gross postal receipts specified in section 1001 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1932 as amended by this Act, which percentages shall be in effect during the period such modification of the rate of postage on first-class matter is in effect. Nothing in this section shall be construed as giving the President authority to change the rate fixed by law on first-class matter mailed for local delivery, postal cards, and private mailing or post cards.

SEC. 3. (a) Section 1001 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by striking out the period at the end thereof and inserting a colon and the following: “Provided, That such additional rate shall not apply on or after July 1, 1933, to first-class matter mailed for local delivery.”

(b) The first sentence of section 1001 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended, effective July 1, 1933, by striking out the period at the end thereof and inserting a comma and the following: “except that in the case of such post offices as have city or village letter-carrier service 90 per centum of the gross postal receipts shall be counted for such purpose.”

SEC. 4. (a) Effective 15 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, section 620 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 620. Tax-free sales.—Under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, no tax under this title shall be imposed with respect to the sale of any article—

“(1) for use by the vendee as material in the manufacture or production of, or as a component part of, an article enumerated in this title;

“(2) for resale by the vendee for such use by his vendee, if such article is in due course so resold;

“(3) for resale by the vendee to a State or political subdivision thereof for use in the exercise of an essential governmental function, if such article is in due course so resold.

For the purposes of this title the manufacturer or producer to whom an article is sold under paragraph (1) or resold under paragraph (2) shall be considered the manufacturer or producer of such article. The provisions of paragraphs (1) and (2) shall not apply with respect to tires or inner tubes or articles enumerated in section 604, relating to the tax on furs.”

(b) Effective 15 days after the date of the enactment of this act, section 601 (c) (1) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

“Under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, no tax shall be imposed under this section upon lubricating oils sold to a manufacturer or producer of lubricating oils for resale by him, but for the purposes of this title such vendee shall be considered the manufacturer or producer of such lubricating oils.”

(c) Effective 15 days after the date of the enactment of this act, section 621 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by inserting after paragraph (2) thereof the following new paragraph:

“(3) to a manufacturer, producer, or importer in the amount of tax paid by him under this title with respect to the sale of any article to a dealer, if the manufacturer, producer, or importer has in his possession such evidence as the regulations may prescribe that (A) such article has after the date this paragraph takes effect been delivered by the dealer to a State or political subdivision thereof for use in the exercise of an essential governmental function and (B) the manufacturer, producer, or importer has repaid or agreed to repay the amount of such tax to the dealer or has obtained the consent of the dealer to the allowance of the credit or refund."

SEC. 5. Effective 15 days after the date of the enactment of this act, title IV of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended by adding at the end thereof a new section to read as follows:

"SEC. 630. Exemption from tax of certain supplies for vessels.—Under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, no tax under this title shall be imposed upon any article sold for use as fuel supplies, ships' stores, sea stores, or legitimate equipment on vessels of war of the United States or of any foreign nation, vessels employed in the fisheries or in the whaling business, or actually engaged in foreign trade or trade between the Atlantic and Pacific ports of the United States or between the United States and any of its possessions. Articles manufactured or produced with the use of articles upon the importation of which tax has been paid under this title, if laden for use as supplies on such vessels, shall be held to be exported for the purposes of section 601 (b)."

SEC. 6. (a) Effective September 1, 1933, section 616 of the Revenue Act of 1932 is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 616. Tax on electrical energy for domestic or commercial consumption.—(a) There is hereby imposed upon electrical energy sold for domestic or commercial consumption and not for resale a tax equivalent to 3 per centum of the price for which so sold, to be paid by the vendor under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe. The sale of electrical energy to an owner or lessee of a building, who purchases such electrical energy for resale to the tenants therein, shall for the purposes of this section be considered as a sale for consumption and not for resale, but the resale to the tenant shall not be considered a sale for consumption.

"(b) The provisions of sections 619, 622, and 625 shall not be applicable with respect to the tax imposed by this section.

"(c) No tax shall be imposed under this section upon electrical energy sold to the United States or to any State or Territory, or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia. None of the provisions of this section shall apply to publicly owned electric and power plants. The right to exemption under this subsection shall be evidenced in such manner as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may, by regulation, prescribe."

(b) Despite the provisions of this section the tax imposed under section 616 of the Revenue Act of 1932 before its amendment by this section on electrical energy furnished before September 1, 1933, shall be imposed, collected, and paid in the same manner and shall be subject to the same provisions of law (including penalties) as if this section had not been enacted.

Approved June 16, 1933.

OBLIGATIONS OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

Exhibit 27

Statement by Secretary of the Treasury Mills announcing the postponement of the payment due from Austria on January 1, 1933, on account of its indebtedness to the United States (press release, Dec. 1, 1932)

The Treasury was advised under date of November 30, 1932, that the secretary of the trustees of the Austrian Government guaranteed loan of 1923-43 has telegraphed the Austrian Finance Minister at Vienna as follows:

"The trustees of the Austrian guaranteed loan 1923-1943 acting in virtue of the right conferred upon them in agreements concluded between Austrian Government and International Relief Bonds Committee, dated June 15, 1928, on the one hand, and the United States of America, dated May 8, 1930, on the other hand, have the honor to inform Your Excellency that they oppose payment of all annuities contemplated in the agreements payable the first of January 1933.

"The trustees have taken this measure in the hope that it will facilitate in the near future the resumption of the transfer of the service of the guaranteed loan."

The lien upon the assets and revenues of Austria pledged for the payment of the Austrian relief bonds has been subordinated to the lien upon such assets and revenues pledged for the payment of the Austrian reconstruction loan of 1923. The foregoing objection by the trustees to the payments due from Austria on account of the relief bonds is in accordance with the agreements concluded between Austria and the International Relief Bonds Committee and the agreement of May 8, 1930, between Austria and the United States. The debt funding agreement between Austria and the United States provides that—

"* * * the obligation of Austria to pay annuities during the years 1929 to 1943 will in the case of each annuity not arise if the trustees of the reconstruction loan of 1923 prior to the preceding December first have raised objection to the payment of the annuity in question on the due date."

In accordance with the provisions of the debt funding agreement between the Republic of Austria and the United States, bond No. 5 in the face amount of $287,556, due January 1, 1933, will be postponed, which, together with interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum compounded annually to December 31, 1943, shall be repaid, together with further interest at 5 percent per annum, in 25 equal annuities on January 1 of each of the years 1944 to 1968, inclusive.

Statement by Secretary of the Treasury Mills relative to the status of obligations due from Greece and Hungary on November 10 and December 15, 1932, respectively (press release, Nov. 10, 1932)

There was due and payable today under the terms of the debt-funding agreement with the Government of Greece on account of the 4 percent 20-year loan made on May 10, 1929, the sum of $444,920, of which $227,000 represents an installment due on account of principal, and $217,920 represents semiannual interest. The payment has not been received.

The Hungarian Government has officially notified the United States Government that it does not have the necessary foreign exchange with which to make the payment due the United States on December 15, 1932, under the debt funding agreement. The amount due on December 15, 1932, is $40,729.35, of which $12,285 represents principal and $28,444.35 represents semiannual interest.

Statement by Secretary of the Treasury Mills announcing the payment by Greece of a portion of its indebtedness due November 10, 1932 (press release, Jan. 14, 1933)

On January 7, 1933, the Greek Government transferred to the United States Treasury the sum of $65,376, representing 30 percent of the semiannual interest of $217,920 due November 10, 1932, on the 4 percent 20-year gold loan of May 10, 1929. By the transfer of this sum the Greek Government has accorded to the United States treatment equal to that accorded to the bondholders of the Greek stabilization and refugee loan of 1928. Such equal treatment is provided for by the terms of the American-Greek debt funding agreement of May 10, 1929.

On several occasions the Greek Government has called attention to the difficulties with which it is faced in endeavoring to maintain its obligations to the United States and has emphasized its inability to provide the foreign exchange necessary for the service on the sinking funds of Greek external loans and to meet more than a limited amount of the interest charges on those loans during the Greek fiscal year ending March 31, 1933.

Statement by Secretary of the Treasury Mills announcing the postponement of the payment due from Germany on March 31, 1933, on account of mixed claims and army costs (press release, Jan. 5, 1933)

The German Government has advised the Treasury that it has taken advantage of the option granted in paragraph 5 of the debt funding agreement of June 23, 1930, by postponing the payments falling due on March 31, 1933, under paragraph 1 (a) of the agreement on account of awards entered by the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, in the principal amount of 20,400,000 reichsmarks, and under paragraph 1 (b) of the agreement for reimbursement on account of the costs of the United States Army of Occupation in the principal sum of 12,650,000 reichsmarks. In accordance with the terms of the agreement, the amount payable under paragraph 1 (a) of the agreement so postponed will bear interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum, payable semi-annually, and the amount payable under paragraph 1 (b) of the agreement so postponed will bear interest at the rate of 3½ percent per annum, payable semiannually.

Exhibit 31

Statement of the Treasury Department covering payments received from foreign governments on account of their indebtedness to the United States (press release, Dec. 15, 1932)

The Treasury today received payments amounting to $98,685,910.63 from the following foreign governments on account of their funded indebtedness to the United States, of which $31,567,200 was on account of principal, and $67,118,710.63 on account of accrued interest:

Great Britain.—The payment received from the Government of Great Britain amounted to $95,550,000, of which $30,000,000 represented principal, and $65,550,000 represented semiannual interest. The payment was made in gold at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Italy.—The payment received from the Government of Italy amounted to $1,245,437.50, and represented semiannual interest due on its indebtedness to the United States. As authorized by the terms of the debt funding agreement, the payment was made in obligations of the United States which were accepted at par and accrued interest to December 15. The obligations were $1,236,100 face amount of 3 percent Treasury bonds of 1951–55, $9,321.97 was accrued interest on the Treasury bonds, and a cash adjustment of $15.53.

Czechoslovakia.—The payment received from the Government of Czechoslovakia amounted to $1,500,000, and represented semiannual installment of principal. As authorized by the terms of the debt funding agreement, the payment was made in obligations of the United States which were accepted at par and accrued interest with a small cash adjustment. The obligations accepted were $1,488,750 face amount of 3 percent Treasury bonds of 1951–55, accrued interest on such bonds amounting to $11,227.31, and a cash adjustment of $22.69.

Finland.—The payment received from Finland amounted to $186,235, of which $58,000 represented annual installment of principal and $128,235 represented semiannual installment of interest. As authorized by the terms of the debt funding agreement, the payment was made in obligations of the United States which were accepted at par and accrued interest, with a small cash adjustment. The obligations accepted were $184,800 face amount of 3 percent Treasury bonds of 1951–55, accrued interest on such bonds amounting to $1,393.66, and a cash adjustment of $11.34.

Latvia.—The payment received from the Government of Latvia amounted to $111,852.12, of which $9,200 represented annual installment of principal, and $102,652.12 represented semiannual installment of interest. The payment was made in cash at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Lithuania.—The payment received from the Government of Lithuania amounted to $92,386.01 and represented semiannual installment on account of interest. The payment was made in cash at the Treasury.

The amounts due today from foreign governments which were not received are as follows:

Country	Principal	Interest
Belgium.....		$2, 125, 000. 00
Estonia.....	$21, 000	245, 370. 00

Correspondence exchanged between the Government of the United States and various foreign governments concerning foreign debts owing to the United States (Department of State and White House press releases)

BELGIUM

To the Secretary of State from the Belgian Ambassador, November 15, 1932—Memorandum (translation)

The British and French Governments, moved by a desire to alleviate the serious difficulties resulting from the economic depression, have, in their notes dated the tenth and the eleventh, respectively, of the present month, proposed to the Government of the United States that it cooperate in a reexamination of the problems arising from the intergovernmental debts. Basing their action upon the principles adopted during the recent Conference of Lausanne, they suggested that the period of suspension on payments due to the United States be extended for the duration of this reexamination. The Belgian Government has the honor to make the same request in respect to payments due from Belgium. Although the rights of Belgium to obtain complete material restoration have been unanimously recognized from the beginning, the Belgian Government did not hesitate in July 1931 to accept the proposal for a moratorium which was made by the President of the United States. A year later, in the interests of peace and economic recovery, it adhered to the Lausanne Agreements. In so doing, it consented to make sacrifices which were particularly heavy and which have profoundly affected the financial situation of Belgium. The Belgian Government remains convinced that the difficulties with which the world is faced today cannot be overcome unless the nations pursue a resolute policy of cooperation and mutual assistance. With this idea in mind and in a spirit of friendship, the Belgian Government requests the Government of the United States to examine the proposals which it has the honor to submit.

To the Belgian Ambassador, November 23, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I fully appreciate the importance of the situation presented by the request for an examination of the problem of the intergovernmental debts contained in the memorandum of the Belgian Government dated November 15, 1932. The fact that such a suggestion is made by your Government in itself makes this a matter meriting the most careful consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

In this connection you will appreciate that your present suggestion goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this Government. You will also permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government any new study of the debt question and might affect its results. Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but from the beginning the Congress has itself provided in the past the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The Executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

Furthermore, from the time of their creation, under President Wilson, this Government has uniformly insisted that in its handling of these obligations running to itself, they must be treated as entirely separate from reparation claims arising out of the War. Its insistence upon this difference is quite natural in view of its refusal after the War to accept reparations for itself and also in view of the difference of its position as a creditor from that of all other nations. Not only did this Government not receive any compensation in the form of territory, economic privileges, or governmental indemnity at the close of the War, but from the fact that it owed no obligations of any kind to others, treatment of the debts and reparations as though they were connected could only operate to the disadvantage of the United States. No concession made in respect to a payment owed to it could either in whole or in part be set off or balanced against claims owed by it to any of its creditors. On the contrary, every such concession would result in the inevitable transfer of a tax burden from the taxpayers of some other country to the taxpayers in our own without the possibility of any recoupment from others. The debts owed to the United States thus naturally fell into the category of ordinary debt obligations between individual nations and were treated as such. The American Congress has made, with each of its debtors, settlements which were intended to be and were deemed to be liberal and wholly within the capacity of the debtor to pay without jeopardizing its finances and currency or preventing it from maintaining and, if possible, improving the standard of living of its citizens.

I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your memorandum which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious to the fact, moreover, that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described. I confess that I cannot see any controlling reasons which would be likely to induce the Congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past. And I believe it would be inadvisable to attempt to enter into discussions on the subject except in that manner and under those principles.

The attitude of the President therefore is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to, should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. As he has several times said publicly, he also believes that some basis might be found for bringing to the American people some adequate compensation in forms other than cash payment. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute such an agency to examine the whole subject.

As to the suspension of the installment of the Belgian debt due on December 15th, which is requested in your memorandum, no authority lies in the Executive to grant such an extension and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration under the principles to which I have referred. In the memorandum of the Belgian Government reference is made to the action of the Conference at Lausanne. It seems to me that the situation which confronted the Conference at Lausanne in its consideration of the question of reparations by Germany was quite different from that presented here in that the conference had before it the report of the meeting of experts at Basle.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15th as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

Accept [etc.]

HENRY L. STIMSON.

*To the Secretary of State from the Belgian Ambassador, December 6, 1932

I. The Belgian Government has been pleased to note that the Government of the United States is disposed to take into consideration the proposal to submit the question of the settlement of the intergovernmental debts to a reexamination. On the other hand, with respect to the suggestion for extending the suspension of the payments due to the United States during this examination, the Government of the United States has observed that no new fact had been brought to its knowledge which might be submitted to Congress in justification of this suggestion. The Belgian Government accordingly believes that it is meeting the desire of the Government of the United States in setting forth its views on this subject.

II. Belgium cannot refrain from recalling in the first place her special situation. Her restoration was one of the fourteen points laid down by President Wilson and it was unanimously accepted by all the belligerents as one of the necessary bases of peace. From this fact she acquired a moral right which she desires hereby to reaffirm. The Belgian Government nevertheless found itself constrained to take account of economic realities. In view of these realities, it consented to the moratorium proposed by the President of the United States, in June, 1931, and adhered to the Lausanne agreements. These economic realities have been authoritatively set forth by the experts of all countries who have made clear that debtors can, in the long run, meet their obligations with respect to foreign countries only by the exportation of goods or by services. The present paralysis of the money market hardly permits any other form of payment. But the obstacles in the way of exchange have increased and have resulted in the throttling of exportation. No country has suffered more in this respect than Belgium, whose national economy is principally based on international trade. She has continued to adhere to one of the most liberal tariff policies now in effect and for years she has continued to strive against excessive protectionism. Furthermore, after the failure of the attempts to organize international action to this end, she recently took the initiative in concluding a convention with other States open to the adherence of all countries with a view to the progressive lowering of customs barriers. The American Government was good enough to express the sympathetic interest with which it followed this move. The Belgian Government is, therefore, in no wise responsible for the present paralysis of international commerce and it feels that it has done everything in its power to prevent it.

III. The depression made evident that the transfers necessary for the payment of the intergovernmental debts threatened to throw the balance of payments still further out of adjustment and to aggravate the disorganization in which the world is engulfed. In the hope of contributing thereby to economic recovery, the Belgian Government therefore accepted the moratorium which the Government of the United States proposed in June 1931. It abandoned temporarily, in a spirit of international solidarity, a claim which the country considered as sacred, notwithstanding the fact the consequences were certain to fall particularly heavily on Belgium. Before this, at the Conferences of London in 1924, and at The Hague in 1929 and 1930, Belgium had, in the same spirit, through her adherence to the Dawes Plan and to the Young Plan, accepted appreciable reductions in reparations.

The payments which were due to Belgium from Germany and of which she was deprived by the moratorium of 1931, amounted to nearly a billion francs, or about ten per cent of the total budget of Belgium. This loss was, however, partially compensated for by the fact that, at the same time, Belgium was relieved of the obligation of paying the annuities due from her to the Government of the United States and to the British Government. Nevertheless, the net loss of which the Belgian Treasury was thus deprived remained high, amounting to almost a half billion francs.

IV. During the conference which met at Lausanne in the month of June last—the purpose of which was to seek by united action the final settlement of the financial problems bequeathed by the war, and to obviate the dangers which more and more menace the world—Belgium agreed to extend the suspension of the German reparations payments. In line with the proposal which the President of the United States had made the year before, it was her understanding that this suspension was to be extended to all the intergovernmental debts, and was in no case to involve for Belgium more onerous conditions than those which the moratorium of the preceding year had entailed. This understanding was based on the fact that since the month of June 1931 the economic and financial situation had become more and more disturbing and that consequently the measures which had seemed necessary at the time were, a fortiori, necessary under present conditions. These measures were in conformity with the conclusions submitted by the Consultative Committee which met at Basle in December 1931; they were in harmony with the suggestions expressed after the interview between the President of the United States and M. Laval in October of that year.

V. The obligation to make the payments due the United States would add a new sacrifice to the loss which the Belgian treasury already suffered as a result of the moratorium of last year and would raise the total sacrifice which would be required of her to nearly one billion francs. The Belgian Government is not unaware that, in the opinion of the United States Government, the problem of war debts is distinct from that of reparations. But it does not see how, if Belgium is to pay her intergovernmental debts, she can avoid turning to her own debtor, claiming from the latter the payment of the sums due her. This action would lead to new international complications. In the last analysis, it would make it evident that while, on the one hand, it is impossible to bring about the transfer of the funds necessary for the payment of the intergovernmental debts without causing dangerous economic and political complications, it is, on the other hand, impossible to raise internally in Belgium the sums needed for the payment without dangerously increasing the dis-equilibrium of the budget and the difficulties of the treasury. The Belgian Government has already emphasized how deeply the depression has affected the economic life of the nation by paralyzing international trade. Unemployment has increased alarmingly, affecting approximately 40 percent of the registered laboring population. As a result, expenditures for relief have increased, while the receipts of the treasury have markedly declined. The deficit in the budget has increased considerably during the past two years, notwithstanding stringent measures of economy. The Belgian Government desires at this point to recall to mind that it did not hesitate to support the proposals made in July by the President of the United States in regard to the reduction of armaments. To cover the deficit, Belgium has had to resort to borrowing, both at home and abroad. New loans for large amounts will be necessary. Belgium could not resume service on her intergovernmental debts by her own resources and would be obliged to appeal to foreign credit. But that would be merely to substitute one creditor for another; and, moreover, the possibilities for a small country to borrow under present conditions are limited.

The Belgian Government is convinced that a careful examination of the situation—for which it is prepared to furnish all necessary information—would show that the depression, by occasioning the collapse of its own debtors, has brought it face to face with serious difficulties and that Belgium would be exposed to grave dangers if she were asked to resume payments, the suspension of which was considered imperative a year ago.

BELGIAN EMBASSY.

To the Belgian Ambassador, December 13, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

My Government has considered with the greatest care the note of December 6, 1932, from the Belgian Government, in which it has set forth at length the reasons it advances for a reconsideration of the whole question of intergovernmental war debts, and for the postponement of the payment due by the Belgian Government to the Government of the United States on December 15, next.

Whatever part debt payments may have played in the economic history of the post-war years, it is clear that in the present conditions of world-wide depression, accompanied by a sweeping fall of prices, their weight has greatly increased, and that they have a very definite relationship to the problem of recovery in which both the Belgian and the American people have so vital an interest.

The President of the United States is prepared, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, to cooperate with the Belgian Government in surveying the entire situation and in considering what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade, and the recovery of prices.

I believe that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. Such an examination does not imply cancellation.

My Government, however, has not been able to reach the conclusion that a postponement of the December 15th payment from the Belgian Government to the United States is necessary because of its effect on the problem of recovery. Although we recognize the serious economic and financial difficulties which the Belgian Government, in common with all other governments, is now facing, the maintenance of these agreements in their operation pending due opportunity for analysis of all matters bearing upon your request for revision and its consideration by the American Congress and people still appears to us to outweigh any reasons presented for a delay.

In his declaration of the 23rd of November last, the President of the United States recalled the bases on which the debt agreements had been made. The settlements made, he said, took account of economic conditions and of the capacity to pay of each debtor nation. In his annual report for 1924-1925, the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States defined the idea of capacity to pay. Such capacity does not imply the obligation, on the part of the foreign debtor, to pay to the full limit of his present or future capacity. The debtor government, he said, must be able to preserve and improve its economic position, assure the balancing of its budget and place its finances, as well as its monetary system, on sound bases. It must also be able to maintain, and, if possible, improve, the standard of living of its citizens.

In its note of December 5th,¹ the Belgian Government set forth what were the effects for Belgium of the moratorium, the initiative for which was taken by the President of the United States in 1931, and of the Lausanne agreement which resulted therefrom. Actuated by a spirit of solidarity, Belgium, being desirous of contributing to general economic recovery, sacrificed a credit which was guaranteed to her by the most solemn engagements, and which constituted an essential element for the balancing of her public finances. This sacrifice to which she consented, added to the effects of the general paralysis of economic activity, has brought her face to face with the most serious financial difficulties. Belgium had hoped that a friendly arrangement taking account of this situation might have been reached before the payment date of December 15th. The Government of the United States has judged it to be impossible.

Under such conditions, the Belgian Government cannot but state that these circumstances prevent it from resuming, on December 15th, the payments which were suspended by virtue of the agreements made in July 1931. Belgium is still disposed to collaborate fully in seeking a general settlement of intergovernmental debts and of the other problems arising from the depression.

EMBASSY OF BELGIUM.

To the Secretary of State from the Belgian Ambassador, June 14, 1933

MR. SECRETARY OF STATE:

In reply to the letter which Your Excellency addressed to me on the 9th of this month, I have the honor to advise you that the Belgian Government is not in a position to modify, for the due date of June 15, the attitude which circumstances constrained it to adopt on the 15th of December last. It desires to renew the assurance of its entire good will in seeking a satisfactory settlement.

I take this opportunity [etc.]

PAUL MAY

To the Belgian Ambassador, June 17, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

The Government of the United States acknowledges receipt of the note of the Belgian Government setting forth its attitude concerning the debt obligation due on June 15th to this Government. It notes that the Belgian Government has failed to meet in whole or in part the installment due on existing debt agreement between the Belgian Government and the Government of the United States.

¹Correct reference, December 6.

The Government of the United States must, in all frankness, call attention to the problems raised by the failure of the Belgian Government to meet the payment due on December 15th, 1932, which have not yet been solved or even discussed between the two nations.

The Government of the United States notes further that the failure to pay this installment is based by the Belgian Government upon the principle of inability to pay.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

*To the Secretary of State from the Minister of Czechoslovakia, November 21, 1932—
Memorandum*

The Czechoslovak Government sharing the views and concerns of the British and French Governments, as expressed in their notes from the tenth and eleventh of this month, in regard to the present serious situation arising from the difficult and complex problem of intergovernmental debts, particularly in its present acute stage in view of the next installments to be paid on December 15th, joins in the suggestions of the above mentioned governments for the reconsideration of this problem, and an extension of the suspension on payments for the duration of this reconsideration.

The Czechoslovak Government fully subscribing to all reasons and conclusions concerning the obstructive function and effect of this problem in the general economic situation, and in the world's recovery, cannot omit to stress some specific causes which aggravate the financial situation of Czechoslovakia, already suffering under the general repercussions of the universal world's economic crisis.

Situated in a part of Europe which has been most heavily afflicted by the collapse of prices of agricultural produces, by monetary and credit difficulties, Czechoslovakia has been unable to escape serious effects on her position as an exporting and creditor nation. The best evidence of this situation is the enormous decline of the Czechoslovak foreign trade, so vital to Czechoslovakia as an exporting nation, a decline which paralyzes beyond belief every effort to constantly meet larger obligations in foreign currency. All these difficulties and evils necessarily reflect themselves in the budgetary situation resulting, in spite of the most honest determination to the contrary, in an inevitable deficit.

In the humble opinion of the Czechoslovak Government, all these general and specific causes cannot reasonably be alleviated, and the way towards recovery and revival of prosperity through expansion of trade, both international and national, and through restoration of confidence, cannot be resumed without immediately approaching the problem of intergovernmental debts with utmost serenity, broadminded foresight, understanding, and with a sense of mutual cooperation. It is in this spirit and hope that the Czechoslovak Government adheres to the request of preceding governments.

The CZECHOSLOVAK LEGATION.

SIR:

I fully appreciate the importance of the situation presented by the requests contained in the memorandum of the Czechoslovakian Government dated November 21, 1932. The mere fact that your Government suggests the necessity of a review of the intergovernmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

With this end in view, you will permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government such a review and might affect its result. Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but the Congress in the past has itself provided the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The Executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

I am not oblivious to the fact that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country can not be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described.

The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to, should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject.

As to the suspension of the installment of the Czechoslovak debt due on December 15th, no authority lies within the Executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15th as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

Accept [etc.]

W. R. CASTLE, JR.,
Acting Secretary of State.

To the Secretary of State from the Minister of Czechoslovakia, December 5, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

The Czechoslovak Government gratefully appreciates that the Government of the United States is not on principle unsympathetic to the idea of re-examination of the debt problem and is at the same time seeking practical ways and means for the carrying out of this rearrangement. The Czechoslovak Government welcomes also the suggestion implied in the note of November 26th, 1932, to submit additional facts and reflections which in its opinion tend to corroborate the request for the suspension of the payment due on December 15th, 1932.

The Czechoslovak Government desires to stress at the beginning that Czechoslovakia has always considered it as her duty to fulfill and meet all her obligations in the fullest measure and without hesitation, and that the present request does not cast the slightest doubt on the legality and validity of the existing agreement.

In the same spirit, Czechoslovakia, guided and moved by the gratitude towards the American nation who came first after the Great War to her aid and assistance, immediately and without bargaining accepted and bound herself in the debt settlement of 1925 to pay fully without any reductions or alleviations both the principal and interest as the terms of the settlement were laid before her by the World War Foreign Debt Commission. Czechoslovakia accepted also to pay the highest interest of all the debtor nations. From the time of the contracting of the debt, Czechoslovakia continued to meet her obligations in gold although the sums lent to her were entirely spent for goods manufactured and produced in the United States and bought at prices of the highest level in history, and although it was evident that the nature of these purchases, i. e. agricultural products, war materials and transport services, will prevent her from repaying in kind and thus enable her to take advantage of the decline in prices. And all this was done during a time when Czechoslovakia was laboring under the weight of an adverse balance of trade with the United States as a logical sequel to the system of the unconditional most favored nation clause which worked in favor of the United States trade in regard to Europe. Thus, in the last years the exports from the United States to Czechoslovakia, including indirect shipments via foreign transit ports, were approximately twice as large as the exports from Czechoslovakia to the United States.

In the light of figures, Czechoslovakia bound herself to repay her original indebtedness of $91,879,671.03 in the funded sum of $185,071,023.07 at a time when the favorable trade balance of Czechoslovakia amounted to approximately seventy-six million dollars, which, in this period of expansion of foreign trade did not represent an intolerable burden as it certainly does today when our trade balance became adverse during the first nine months of the current year.

This strict fulfillment of assumed obligations under such adverse conditions, a fulfillment which in fact represented with other payments to the United States the exporting of an integral part of the late excesses of favorable trade balances with other European countries to the United States, may be considered a conclusive proof that the Czechoslovak Government would not lay before the Government of the United States a request for postponement if the situation in which these obligations have been accepted and assumed had not substantially and fundamentally changed as to entitle it to a re-iteration of this request in view of the present insurmountable difficulties. Moreover, the interpretative statement of the Secretary of the Treasury made at a time of the settlement seemed to imply and foresee such a request under basically changed circumstances.

If, Czechoslovakia today is laying again before the Government of the United States the request that the payment of the December installment, which in the most candid opinion of the Czechoslovak Government could not be effectuated without endangering her present economic and financial structure, be transferred and included in the eventual rearrangement of the debt problem, she is acting in the spirit of this conception and interpretation of the capacity to pay.

If, however, this request of postponement be not granted, the tendency to restrict importation will fatally, spontaneously and immediately be imposed on nations importing from the United States in order to correct and counteract the menacing adverse trade balance, and in this vicious circle the volume of international trade will be again diminished creating further unemployment, which is the most distressing and ominous phenomenon of the present crisis, and the way to recovery, both economically and psychologically, will be automatically barred.

This state of affairs would create exceptionally serious repercussions in Central Europe in the economic structure of which Czechoslovakia assumes an integral part as an industrial, exporting and creditor country.

Being wedged in the bloc of Central European states so heavily hit by the present world's crisis of credit so that they were compelled to introduce various exchange restrictions, transfer moratoriums, and agreements concerning postponements, and being geographically and economically so closely connected with Central and Eastern Europe, Czechoslovakia has been seriously affected by these external influences exceeding the extent of the effects of the general economic crisis. The economic depression in Central and Eastern Europe deprived Czechoslovakia of approximately $180,000,000.00, which include frozen credits in the neighboring countries and payments on debts abroad. These two exigencies created by strict fulfillment of our obligations on one side, and the impossibility of collecting our credits abroad on the other side, compelled Czechoslovakia to face these difficulties in order to maintain her sound currency. The restoration of normal conditions is impossible as long as the Central European states, influenced by monetary and financial fears, see their economic salvation only in the drastic restriction of imports in order to maintain their balance of payments.

It is generally admitted that without the recovery of Central Europe, the whole process of economic restoration would be greatly impaired and delayed. Czechoslovakia undertook most drastic measures to reduce her budgetary expenditures and to maintain the soundness and stability of her currency in the interest of this part of Europe and in the interest of international trade. It is the profound conviction of the Czechoslovak Government that just now on the eve of the forthcoming World Economic Conference, it is in the common interest of all nations to maintain and support the stability of those currencies which remain in the present crisis intact and sound, based on gold standard.

In the face of the foregoing facts and observations, the question occurs whether not only the capacity to pay should be taken into most careful consideration, but also the advisability of receiving large transfers of payments without present consideration or any present equivalent in manufactured goods, raw materials and services, especially in the actual state of the already so dislocated and paralyzed trade relations and world economy.

The Czechoslovak Government, therefore, ventures to hope that the United States Government in this most serious moment will not refuse to grant this present request.

EXCELLENCY:

In reply to Your Excellency's note of December 13th, 1932, and following the suggestion contained therein, I have the honor to state that the Czechoslovak Government, in view of circumstances presented in this note, has decided to pay the December installment.

In bringing this decision to your attention, I am instructed to recall and stress again all the considerations, conclusions and serious consequences mentioned in my previous notes.

I also take the liberty to point out that this payment constitutes in the utmost self-denial of the Czechoslovak people their final effort to meet the obligation under such extremely unfavorable circumstances.

It is, therefore, the profound conviction of the Czechoslovak Government that only negotiations entered into at the earliest possible date concerning the reconsideration and revision, and also the inclusion of this last installment into the forthcoming arrangement can bring some alleviation to the present most distressing situation.

EXCELLENCY:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of Your Excellency's note of June 9th, and beg to inform you that I am instructed by my Government to reply to this note as follows:

In my last note of December 15th, I had the honor to state the position of my Government, stressing the fact that the December payment constituted in the utmost self-denial of the Czechoslovak people, their final effort to meet the obligation. It was at that time also the hope of the Czechoslovak Government that a settlement would be reached before the next installment was due.

As the complex and difficult economic and financial situation has not permitted as yet that such a final settlement be arrived at, the Czechoslovak Government in an effort to manifest its utmost willingness to meet existing obligations, has decided upon paying a sum of $180,000.00, a sum expressing the highest limit of payment which could be made at present without impairing the budgetary and monetary equilibrium so laboriously attained and maintained.

This sum which is being paid without any prejudice to the final settlement, and as a payment on account of it, is also destined to confirm and acknowledge the existing obligation until that final settlement is made possible. This, in addition to all observations mentioned in the previous notes and which have not lost their substance and justification, seems to be a sufficient reason to the Czechoslovak Government for renewing the request for negotiations at the earliest possible moment with the view to initiate the final reconsideration and settlement of the whole of the intergovernmental Czechoslovak debt to the United States.

The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your note of June 15, 1933, in which you set forth the decision of the Czechoslovak Government to pay the Government of the United States the sum of $180,000.00, as a payment on account and as an acknowledgment by the Czechoslovak Government of the debt due the United States. The presentation made in your note that this sum is "the highest limit of payment which could be made at present without impairing the budgetary and monetary equilibrium" of your country, has been noted.

In accordance with your request, the representations of the Government of Czechoslovakia with regard to the entire debt question between our two countries will be gladly heard at a date to be agreed upon between us.

ESTONIA

To the Secretary of State from the Estonian Minister for Foreign Affairs, November 28, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I have the honour to submit to Your Excellency that the Agreement made the 28th October, 1925, at the City of Washington between the Republic of Estonia and the United States of America regarding the settlement of the indebtedness of Estonia incurred during her War of Independence, was mutually based on the capacity under normal conditions of Estonia to pay, as estimated at that time. The above basic principle has subsequently been authoritatively confirmed by public statements made by the United States President as well as by the approbation given by the Congress to well-known measures of the United States Government.

It is in these facts that the Estonian Government seeks authority to invite the friendly attention of the United States Government to the circumstance that as a result of the grave economic depression the basis of the settlement of 1925, contrary to the wishes and expectations, and to the greatest regret of the Estonian Government no longer exists.

An earlier request to this effect was postponed by the generous proposition of the President of the United States of June 20, 1931, to suspend during one year all payments on intergovernmental debts, reparations and relief debts, a well-timed measure accepted by the Estonian Government with the sense of deepest appreciation and gratitude.

The many hopes raised in connection with the said initiative have unfortunately not been realized, and the universal depression, on the contrary, has still aggravated. In particular the depreciation of the sterling-pound and the subsequent universal restrictions of foreign trade and currency movement have placed the national economy of Estonia into many new difficulties, especially affecting the Bank of Estonia and restricting the exports of the country, which latter mainly give the means of meeting foreign commitments. In connection therewith the budgetary year of 1931/32, notwithstanding the suspension of payments to foreign Governments, ended on March 31, 1932, with a deficit of Kr. 3.381.276.71, gross expenditure amounting to Kr. 82.308.348.81 and gross receipts to Kr. 78.927.072.10.

Confronted with such difficulties the Estonian Government in June last requested the British Government to agree to a further suspension of payments due from Estonia on the 1st of July last and the 1st of November in respect of the Relief Debt and the Debt for War Supplies respectively, to which the British Government generously agreed until the 31st of December next, in spite of the letter of the corresponding agreements.

The economic and financial difficulties of the world and those of Estonia, however, have since then not been alleviated, and in particular the estimated state revenue of the current financial year has in reality already shown a decrease of no less than 20.5%. The Estonian Government has not failed to make, and is further making, most serious efforts to balance its budget, but is unfortunately not yet in a position to see a definite solution of this difficult task.

In view of all those circumstances, the Estonian Government now has the honour most earnestly to request the United States Government to see its way to enter into a friendly exchange of views regarding the position which arises from the unquestionable change of the capacity of Estonia to pay the debts incurred during her War of Independence, and to agree in the first place to the suspension of the payment due from Estonia on December 15, though this request in respect of interest may not be based on the letter of the Agreement of 1925.

MONSIEUR LE CHARGÉ D'AFFAIRES:

On November 29 last I had the honour to hand you a copy of the note addressed the day before to the Secretary of State of the United States of America and requesting the United States Government to see its way to enter into a friendly exchange of views regarding the question which arises from the change of the capacity of Estonia to pay the debts incurred during her War of Independence, and to agree in the first place to a suspension of the next payment due from Estonia to the United States Government under the Debt Funding Agreement of 1925.

A reply of the United States Government having not yet reached the Estonian Government, but this day being the date on which the payment referred to is due to be made, I have the honour to present you herewith a memorandum setting forth the circumstances in which the Estonian Government does not see its way to effect the said payment, and feels justified in requesting the United States Government to agree to a friendly exchange of views regarding the possibility of a reconsideration of the Debt Funding Agreement of 1925.

I avail myself [etc.]

A. REI.

[Memorandum]

In view of the fact that the Agreement made the 28th October, 1925, at the City of Washington between the Republic of Estonia and the United States of America regarding the settlement of the indebtedness of Estonia incurred during her War of Independence, was based on the capacity under normal conditions of Estonia to pay, as estimated at that time, and, moreover, thus as to permit Estonia as any other debtor country to preserve and improve its economic position, to bring its budget into balance, and to place its finances and currency on a sound basis, and to maintain and, if possible, to improve the standard of living of its citizens,—it is proposed to show below by presenting detailed figures the considerable and unforeseen changes that have taken place in the economic and financial position of Estonia, which conclusively prove that the basis of the settlement of 1925 no longer exists.

As international debts in general and those of Estonia in particular can only be paid in the form of exported goods, the foreign trade figures of Estonia in the first place deserve attention.

Table of general commodity imports and exports of Estonia in 1925-32

[In American dollars]

	Imports to Estonia	Exports from Estonia		Imports to Estonia	Exports from Estonia
1924	21, 090, 488	20, 220, 565	1929	32, 791, 200	31, 325, 600
1925	25, 953, 225	25, 980, 108	1930	26, 197, 070	25, 681, 491
1926	25, 485, 333	25, 662, 933	1931	16, 296, 414	18, 918, 085
1927	25, 711, 200	28, 206, 933	1932 (9 months)	7, 420, 099	8, 674, 571
1928	35, 126, 471	33, 986, 363

The above figures show a striking parallel with the course and phases of universal post-war economic developments. They prove that Estonia, while not failing to share the general economic progress of 1925-1929, has since fallen a victim of the collapse of world trade, the application of protectionist and mercantilistic principles, depreciation of currencies and heavy fall of commodity prices, for which Estonia herself, one of the smallest economic units of the world, bears no responsibility. The practical effect of these changes, however, has been that the value of commodity exports from Estonia has since 1928 fallen by about 8, 25, 45, and 67 per cent. in the years 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932, respectively. Unfortunately at the present moment a further decline, rather than a recovery, must be anticipated.

Moreover, increasing objections are being raised against selling across the exchange obtained on the market of a given country in order to meet obligations elsewhere. It follows that a foreign debt can nowadays be paid indeed in the form of exports to the creditor country herself. The trade figures between Estonia and the United States of America are, however, as follows:

[In American dollars]

	Imports to Estonia from U.S.A.	Exports from Estonia to U.S.A.		Imports to Estonia from U.S.A.	Exports from Estonia to U.S.A.
1924	2, 532, 133	72, 493	1929	4, 402, 066	631, 466
1925	6, 131, 183	267, 086	1930	3, 317, 177	516, 644
1926	3, 056, 533	355, 200	1931	1, 446, 671	484, 176
1927	3, 663, 733	335, 733	1932 (9 months)	787, 367	320, 558
1928	6, 309, 358	800, 535

These figures show a trade balance constantly adverse to Estonia. They further show that in 1932 the value of her exports to the United States is only about equal to the instalment due under the Debt Funding Agreement, leaving her without an American cent to pay for imported American goods. They also demonstrate that in the course of the last eight years about $28,000,000 net, or twice as much as the total of the funded indebtedness, has been paid by Estonia to the American producer, in addition to the net balance of trade in favour of the United States also in earlier years, and in addition to the sum of $1,001,441.88 already paid by the Estonian Treasury to the United States Treasury on account of the Estonian debt.

The heavy decline of Estonian general foreign trade referred to above has not failed to affect Estonian State budgets, which show an equally clear parallel with post-war world economic developments. Having shown for many consecutive years of recovery (1925-1929) a surplus of receipts, they have since 1929—the year marking the turning point from economic progress to universal depression—no more ended with balanced accounts. The decline of commodity exports having compelled the Estonian Government to resort to a drastic cut-down of imports, this could not fail to result in a considerable fall in custom duties. Again, the drop of prices having been particularly marked in agriculture, on which about two-thirds of the Estonian population depend for their livelihood and income, the purchasing power of the population has fallen to the extent of severely affecting receipts from state monopolies (spirit, railways, postal service, etc.) and from excise duties, which together with custom duties amount to about 70 per cent, of the total estimated income for the fiscal year 1932/33.

Taking as a basis the actual receipts of the last budgetary year, expenditure for the current year 1932/33 was fixed at Ekr. 82 millions. Actual receipts of this year, however, for reasons stated above, have during the first eight months shown a decline of no less than 20.5 per cent. This has placed the Estonian Government correspondingly before a prospective deficit of not less than about Ekr. 16 millions, whereof the sum of Ekr. 4,651,922.—required this year to settle payments due from Estonia to foreign governments represents approximately one quarter. The Estonian Government is sincerely endeavouring to balance its budget both by introducing new taxes and by curtailing even most urgent expenditures, but it is not in the position to see its way to balance definitely its accounts, if the suspension generously initiated in 1931 on debt payments due from Estonia to foreign governments can not be further extended. Even such favour, it will be noticed, will leave the Estonian Government with a prospective deficit of about Ekr. 12 millions to be met by increased taxation and decreased expenditure at a time when expenditure has been allowed only for most pressing needs.

It must be added here that Estonian budgetary figures represent amounts of gross income and expenditure, whereof net budgetary figures for the current financial year will amount to no more than Ekr. 46 millions. Of this sum the Foreign Debt Service would require more than 10 per cent. The net budget for the coming financial year 1933/34 will be limited to Ekr. 40 millions, whereof the Debt Service would exact no less than 30 per cent.

In conclusion there remain to be taken into consideration the present serious exchange difficulties. In 1927/28 Estonia succeeded in carrying out a Banking and Currency Reform, stabilising Estonian currency on a gold exchange basis. Owing, again, to the depression in world economic developments, the exchange reserves of the Central Bank, having been well over 50 per cent. and nearing 60 per cent. in proportion to current liabilities, began in their turn to decrease, and in September 1931 the Bank suffered heavy and unexpected losses on its sterling holdings. These losses amounted to more than Ekr. 7 millions, leaving the reserves on approximately Ekr. 19 millions today, or just above the legal minimum of 40 per cent. in proportion to current liabilities. The universal loss of confidence in currency values experienced everywhere since the last year was of course felt also in Estonia, and the value of national currency has since then been maintained only by severe restrictions and by application of the principle of selling no more foreign exchange than is coming in. It is relevant to recall here particularly the figures given above in respect of trade between Estonia and the United States of America. A claim at present on exchange reserves of the Central Bank on account of governmental debts to other governments would therefore, seriously jeopardize the position of the Bank as well as that of the Government in their struggle for the maintenance of the national currency value which is to be considered of primary importance, the Estonian population having already suffered all the disastrous consequences of the collapse of Russian, German and their own earlier currency.

It is in these circumstances which all the world hopes will be of a transient nature that the Estonian Government does not see its way to effect payment of the amount due to the United States Government from Estonia on this December 15, and feels justified in requesting the United States Government to agree to a friendly exchange of views regarding the possibility of reconsideration of the Debt Funding Agreement of 1925.

With regard to the latter request, the relative increase in the burden of Estonian obligations, in addition to the changes of Estonian capacity to pay, would seem of particular importance. The wholesale price index in the United States of America during the year when the Estonian debt was incurred was 199, and is now less than 94. The Estonian debt therefore represents at present in terms of goods more than twice the amount which was received in 1919. This is proved to be more than true by following figures relating to some of the goods received:

Goods sold to Estonia	Weight	Price charged to Estonia	Price on $\frac{1}{2}$ Oct. 1932	Total difference

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Acting Consul General of Estonia in New York City, in charge of Legation, June 13, 1933

SIR:

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your note of June 9th, in reference to the June 15th payment. My Government regrets very much that on account of existing depressed economic conditions in Estonia it is not in position to effect the payment of the amount due on June 15th from Estonia to the United States. I have been instructed to ask the United States Government to agree to a friendly exchange of views regarding the possibility of reconsideration of the Debt Funding Agreement of 1925, as requested in our note of December 15, 1932.

Accept [etc.].

To the Acting Consul General of Estonia in New York City, in charge of Legation, June 21, 1933

SIR:

The Government of the United States acknowledges receipt of the note of the Estonian Government setting forth its attitude concerning the debt obligation due on June 15th to this Government. It notes that the Estonian Government has failed to meet in whole or in part the installment due on the existing debt agreement between the Estonian Government and the Government of the United States.

The Government of the United States must, in all frankness, call attention to the problems raised by the failure of the Estonian Government to meet the payment due on December 15, 1932, which have not yet been solved or even discussed between the two nations.

The Government of the United States notes further that the failure to pay this installment is based by the Estonian Government upon the principle of inability to pay.

Acting Secretary of State.

FINLAND

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Minister of Finland, June 14, 1933

SIR:

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your note of June 9, 1933, by which you were good enough to inform me that the Secretary of the Treasury had requested you to advise me that he would courteously waive the requirement of thirty days advance notice contained in the debt agreement of May 1, 1923, for the case that my Government should wish to make payment on June 15 next in United States obligations.

Highly appreciating this courtesy I wish to state that my Government, when making payment in full of the interest, due to-morrow the fifteenth of June in the amount of $148,592.50, will prefer the method for effecting payment in silver provided for in Section 45 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of May 12, 1933, since my conversations at the Department of State have disclosed that this form of payment will be agreeable to the Government of the United States. My understanding is that the American Government will accept silver at a price of 50 cents an ounce, and that the silver should be delivered on June 15th at the Assay Office in New York.

I should be greatly obliged to you if you would kindly confirm the correctness of my above understanding.

Accept [etc.]

To the Minister of Finland, June 17, 1933

SIR:

The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of the payment by your Government of the June fifteenth installment of the debt owed to the United States Government. The Government of Finland, by this action, has justified the high regard with which it has always been held by the Government of the United States. It is significant that the people of Finland have regarded this payment as an important national obligation and have discharged its terms in full. This Government will be ready to discuss at the pleasure of the Government of Finland the entire debt question.

Acting Secretary of State.

FRANCE

From the French Government, November 10, 1932—Memorandum (translation)

The French Government, seriously concerned with the effect that the problems arising from the intergovernmental debts are having on the world-wide depression, deems it of vital importance to approach the Government of the United States, asking it to cooperate in examining this question in a spirit of frankness and true friendliness.

During the months of June and July last, the Governments of Europe assembled in Lausanne with a view to averting to the very best of their ability the difficulties arising from the payments which these debts entail.

Basing its action upon the principles which were expressed in the joint communiqué issued on October 25, 1931, by President Hoover and Mr. Laval at the conclusion of their discussions, and which were the logical development of the proposal made by the President of the United States in June, 1931, the French Government, certain of being in close accord with the ideas of the American Government, voluntarily agreed to very heavy sacrifices at Lausanne, hoping thereby to appease resentment existing among nations, and at the same time to make a contribution toward economic recovery and toward the consolidation of peace.

Important as were the effects of the Lausanne Conference, it must be said that the economic and financial difficulties which stand in the way of a resumption of normal relations between nations are still present, and that a further effort must be made to put an end to them in the interest of all.

The attitude which France displayed at Lausanne and at Stresa is proof of the active interest which she attaches to the prompt economic recovery of Europe and of the effort which she still contemplates making toward fulfilling this task. France is no less anxious to cooperate in bringing about the success of the world-wide Economic and Monetary Conference.

It is in this very same spirit that the French Government today proposes to the Government of the United States to join with it in a further study of the debt question. Inasmuch as such a study will, by virtue of circumstances, require too much time for a speedy conclusion to appear probable, the French Government asks that, in accordance with the process followed at Lausanne, an extension of the suspension of payments may be granted to the French Government in order that the study of the present serious problems now under discussion may be continued and completed in the necessary atmosphere of mutual trust. The French Government is further convinced that such a step would have the most helpful effect on the monetary crisis which threatens so many nations.

Trusting in the high wisdom and the spirit of justice of the American Government, the French Government is convinced that its point of view will be understood and that the request contained herein will be favorably received.

To the French Ambassador, November 23, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I fully appreciate the importance of the situation presented by the request for an examination of the problem of the intergovernmental debts contained in the memorandum of the French Government dated November 10, 1932. The fact that such a suggestion is made by your Government in itself makes this a matter meriting the most careful consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

In this connection you will appreciate that your present suggestion goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this Government. You will also permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government any new study of the debt question and might affect its results. Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but from the beginning the Congress has itself provided in the past the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The Executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

Furthermore, from the time of their creation, under President Wilson, this Government has uniformly insisted that in its handling of these obligations running to itself, they must be treated as entirely separate from reparation claims arising out of the War. Its insistence upon this difference is quite natural in view of its refusal after the War to accept reparations for itself and also in view of the difference of its position as a creditor from that of all other nations. Not only did this Government not receive any compensation in the form of territory, economic privileges, or governmental indemnity at the close of the War, but from the fact that it owed no obligations of any kind to others, treatment of the debts and reparations as though they were connected could only operate to the disadvantage of the United States. No concession made in respect to a payment owed to it could either in whole or in part be set off or balanced against claims owed by it to any of its creditors. On the contrary, every such concession would result in the inevitable transfer of a tax burden from the taxpayers of some other country to the taxpayers in our own without the possibility of any recoupment from others. The debts owed to the United States thus naturally fell into the category of ordinary debt obligations between individual nations and were treated as such. The American Congress has made, with each of its debtors, settlements which were intended to be and were deemed to be liberal and wholly within the capacity of the debtor to pay without jeopardizing its finances and currency or preventing it from maintaining and, if possible, improving the standard of living of its citizens.

I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your memorandum which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious to the fact, moreover, that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange.

I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described. I confess that I cannot see any controlling reasons which would be likely to induce the Congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past. And I believe it would be inadvisable to attempt to enter into discussions on the subject except in that manner and under those principles.

The attitude of the President therefore is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to, should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. As he has several times said publicly, he also believes that some basis might be found for bringing to the American people some adequate compensation in forms other than cash payment. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute such an agency to examine the whole subject.

As to the suspension of the installment of the French debt due on December 15th, which is requested in your memorandum, no authority lies in the Executive to grant such an extension and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration under the principles to which I have referred. In the memorandum of the French Government reference is made to the action of the conference at Lausanne. It seems to me that the situation which confronted the conference at Lausanne in its consideration of the question of reparations by Germany was quite different from that presented here in that the conference had before it the report of the meeting of experts at Basle.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15th as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

Accept [etc.]

HENRY L. STIMSON.

To the Secretary of State from the French Ambassador, December 1, 1932 (translation)

The careful and considered study of the problems raised by intergovernmental debts and the payments due on December 15 next, contained in Your Excellency's note of November 23, has prompted the French Government to formulate certain statements of fact and considerations of principle which it has instructed me to present without delay for the careful scrutiny of the Federal Government.

My Government has noted with satisfaction, to begin with, that the President has declared his readiness to recommend to the Congress a new study of the question in its entirety, which implies that in his opinion such a study is called for.

The French Government is not unaware, moreover, of the reaction that a reduction of the debts contracted by the European Powers toward the United States might have on America's national economy. Finally, it is far from forgetting that a first readjustment of its debts was accorded it by the American Government in 1926.

On the other hand, it can not be denied that since that date, the seriousness of the economic and financial crisis which has prevailed throughout the world has forced the interested governments to modify their attitudes with respect to the problem of intergovernmental debts; it has led them to take a series of concerted measures, related alike to reparations and debts and destined to meet the exigencies required by circumstances.

Without prejudice to the nature and form of a new study of the problems arising from a settlement of intergovernmental debts, my Government is glad to note the agreement of the Federal Government with its justifying reasons, namely: the reductions of revenue which the nations, creditors to Germany, agreed to at Lausanne, the increase in the burden of debts resulting from the world-wide economic depression and the parallel drop in prices, the difficulty of obtaining foreign exchange, and finally the influence which the settlement of this question could have on the development of the world crisis.

The weight of these reasons is so obvious and the need of a new arrangement is so urgent that it would be difficult to believe that, once a revision is agreed to in principle, the execution of an agreement which is no longer considered as applying to the situation should nonetheless be carried through.

The French Government desires to emphasize that it has never considered controverting the juridical validity of the various obligations by which the war debts originated.

Moreover, my Government desires to emphasize that the request for delaying payment which it made implies a mere postponement, leaving the rights of the parties untouched. It does not appear to my Government to go beyond the request made by President Hoover himself in June, 1931. On the contrary, it seems, in its opinion, to be the normal, equitable and necessary sequel.

It was at the request of the President of the German Reich that President Hoover in June, 1931, made his proposal for postponing for the duration of one year all payments on intergovernmental debts, including reparations.

On this occasion the Federal Government specified that it would only contemplate a moratorium of debts due to it "on condition that there take place a similar postponement for one year of all payments of intergovernmental debts due to the important creditor Powers". The American memorandum specified that the fabric of intergovernmental debts, while supportable in normal times weighed heavily in the midst of this depression. This initiative, as the French Government pointed out, affected directly all existing agreements, and in particular suspended the working of the mechanism which the Young Plan had set up for taking care of the problem of reparations. Subsequent events have shown that this suspension, once it was granted, had to be extended beyond the period originally determined.

Furthermore, at the time of his trip to Washington, the French President of the Council agreed with the President of the United States on the terms of a communiqué, stating that in the matter of intergovernmental debts, a new arrangement, covering the period of the depression might be necessary, provided that the initiative came from the European Powers principally concerned.

In conformity with this text, which seems to constitute a novation in equity in the regime of international debts, this initiative was taken. Within the sphere where only the European Powers were involved the arrangement provided for has been brought about.

Germany, as a debtor, in addition to a diminution of its debt to a lump sum of three billion marks, or a reduction in size of approximately ninety per cent, obtained a moratorium of three years.

As, in the opinion of the European creditor Powers, this settlement should be integrated in a general arrangement, they were unanimous in agreeing that in any event the payments due them by virtue of intergovernmental debts should be withheld pending the conclusion of a general settlement. It would create a very serious situation if a regime obtained with such difficulty at Lausanne should have to be reconsidered.

Would it not be equitable for the Federal Government in a like spirit of international solidarity and with a view both to consolidating the results already obtained and to permitting the completion of the task undertaken, in its turn to agree to the withholding of the payment of December 15?

The pressing need which prompts this action has surely not been unobserved by the Federal Government.

In making his proposal for a moratorium in 1931, the President of the United States stated that the attitude of the Federal authorities indicated their intention of contributing to the speedy reestablishment of world-wide prosperity in which the American nation is so deeply interested. "The duty of statesmen," said the Washington communiqué of October 1931, "is to neglect no means of practical collaboration for the common good. This principle is of particular importance at a time when the world awaits leadership to overcome the present depression which is destructive to so many homes."

The economic depression which motivated both the proposal of the President of the United States and his appeal for the collaboration of nations, has grown more serious since the Spring of 1931. Everywhere poverty and unemployment are increasing; this depression cannot but grow worse if the payment of intergovernmental debts must be resumed before the conclusion of a general arrangement.

The French Government is familiar with the formal reservations made at the time of the ratification of the Hoover Moratorium by the American Congress, whose prerogatives it fully recognizes. But it must recall that the approval of the French Parliament likewise was subordinated to its own interpretation of the moratorium proposed by President Hoover. It must further recall that the Committee of Experts which met at Basle in December 1931, following the Washington interview, and which included in its membership an eminent American citizen, did not confine itself to recognizing the momentary impossibility of Germany to meet its reparations obligations. It unanimously and formally condemned as peculiarly damaging to the restoration of world-wide economic equilibrium, the transfers of funds without counterpart which the payment of war debts involved. The report concludes as follows:

"In the first place, transfers from one country to another on a scale so large as to upset the balance of payments can only accentuate the present chaos * * *

"It should also be borne in mind that the release of a debtor country from a burden of payments which it is unable to bear may merely have the effect of transferring that burden to a creditor country which, in its character as a debtor, it, in its turn, may be unable to bear.

"Again, the adjustment of all intergovernmental debts, reparations and other war debts, to the existing troubled situation of the world—and this adjustment should take place without delay if new disasters are to be avoided—is the only lasting step capable of reestablishing confidence which is the very condition of economic stability and real peace."

It was on the basis of this general consideration that the French Government, subject to the approval of the French Parliament, signed the Lausanne agreements.

Despite a budgetary deficit of nearly five hundred million dollars, and despite the very severe measures which have already been taken and will still have to be taken to balance its budget, France will have voluntarily given up in the interest of world-wide economic recovery a net annual balance, over and above the payments for its war debts, of nearly eighty-five million dollars.

France agreed to this heavy sacrifice in the belief that the payments provided for in existing agreements could not be made without producing profound financial and economic disturbances.

The situation in this respect, insofar as France is concerned, has often been misunderstood and should be clarified.

The inflow of gold to France which has taken place during the past years was caused or rendered inevitable, in the last analysis by virtue of conditions existing throughout the world.

This gold does not in any sense belong to the French Treasury. It is not a source of permanent wealth for France. It is the guarantee for all the deposits made in France whether by Frenchmen or foreigners. Its normal redistribution which is desirable can only follow a general recovery of confidence and the needs which will follow such a recovery.

The slight improvement which took place following the Lausanne agreements evidenced the hope of the nations for a world-wide settlement. The recovery that was then just perceptible could not be advanced further if the next payment of intergovernmental debts were to be insisted upon.

It is pertinent to observe that lacking a radical reversal of the trade balance between the United States and Europe—a balance which is today heavily in favor of the former—these payments in the face of progressive diminution of foreign revenues for the debtors, would become increasingly ruinous to the credit and exchange markets of the entire world.

The French Government cannot believe that in the last analysis the American people will consider their interests best served by the carrying out of an obligation, the strict application of which would result in creating further chaos and poverty throughout the world, inasmuch as the transfer of sums without corresponding exchange cannot but unbalance yet more profoundly international relations. It was under the influence of these very serious preoccupations, and with a consciousness of the responsibility that devolves upon the great Powers for the maintenance of social and economic order, that the French Government asked the Federal Government on November 11 last to postpone the payment due on December 15.

In urging the American Government to reexamine its request in the light of the foregoing, the French Government believes that it is fulfilling not merely a national but an international duty.

It is fully conscious of the role which circumstances have called upon France to play in Europe. It has no intention of stressing as an argument the efforts it has already made for the recovery of economic stability and the improvement of business nor the willingness it still manifests to cooperate toward this result in the future. But it queries, with apprehension, how France can continue along this path if, contrary to its expectation, the cooperation of the United States on which it has felt it could count to second its efforts, should be lacking. Such are the considerations which today lead the French Government to renew to Your Excellency through me its urgent and reasoned appeal to reconsider its request for the postponement of payments of December 15.

The reception which will be given this appeal is confidently awaited by my Government, which weighs all the consequences which the decision of the President of the United States may entail toward either improving or aggravating the situation which is a tragic legacy of the war.

To the French Ambassador, December 8, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

My Government has considered with the greatest care the note of December 1, 1932, from the French Government, in which it has set forth at length the reasons it advances for a reconsideration of the whole question of intergovernmental war debts, and for the postponement of the payment due by the French Government to the Government of the United States on December 15, next.

Whatever part debt payments may have played in the economic history of the post-war years, it is clear that in the present conditions of world-wide depression, accompanied by a sweeping fall of prices, their weight has greatly increased, and that they have a very definite relationship to the problem of recovery in which both the French and the American people have so vital an interest.

The President of the United States is prepared, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, to cooperate with the French Government in surveying the entire situation and in considering what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade, and the recovery of prices.

I believe that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. Such an examination does not imply cancellation. In such an examination there would necessarily be consideration of other forms of tangible compensation available for the expansion of markets for products of American agriculture and labor. And you will understand that the problem of foreign debts has in the American mind very definite relationship with the problem of disarmament and the continued burden which competitive armament places upon the entire world.

My Government, however, has not been able to reach the conclusion that a postponement of the December 15 payment from the French Government to the United States is necessary because of its effect on the problem of recovery. Although we recognize the serious budgetary difficulties which the French Government, in common with all other governments, is now facing, the sum involved in this case and the transfer thereof would hardly seem to my Government to be of disturbing weight or difficulty in respect to world economy or the reestablishment of prosperity. The maintenance of these agreements in their operation pending due opportunity for analysis of all matters bearing upon your request for revision and its consideration by the American Congress and people still appears to us to outweigh any reasons presented for a delay.

I appreciate the significance of your explanation with respect to the gold inflowing into France. The existence of these French gold holdings, however, does appear relevant to the present problem of meeting the immediate difficulties of transfer with special reference to the December 15 payment.

In view of the position which I feel my Government must take, I trust that the French Government will appreciate the importance of making the December 15 payment in accordance with its terms and thereby, in my judgment, bringing about a more favorable situation for any subsequent examination of the problem between our two Governments.

MR. SECRETARY OF STATE:

The President of the Council requests me to inform Your Excellency that, as his Government was overthrown this morning by a vote of the Chamber refusing authorization to make the payment of December fifteenth in connection with the war debts, he is no longer able, under the terms of the Constitution, to continue the negotiations entered into with the American Government, as his authority now extends only to the despatch of current business.

Mr. Herriot requests me to express to Your Excellency his deep regret, together with his sincere thanks for your great courtesy in your diplomatic relations with him.

Enclosure (Translation)

Resolution voted by the French Chamber on December 14, 1932

The Chamber invites the Government to convoke as soon as possible, in agreement with Great Britain and the other debtors, a general conference for the purpose of adjusting all international obligations and putting an end to all international transfers for which there is no compensating transaction. This conference, in connection with the World Economic Conference, will have as its task the improvement of the monetary situation and the restoration of credit.

As far as the particular question of payment on December 15 is concerned, the Chamber despite legal and economic considerations, would have authorized settlement, had the United States been willing to agree in advance to the convening of the conference for the purposes indicated above.

The reply of the Secretary of State of the United States to the British Government on December 11 no longer permits the Chamber, as a practical measure, to maintain this point of view. Consequently the Chamber, pending the necessary general negotiations, invites the Government to defer payment of the installment of December 15.

To the Acting Secretary of State from the French Ambassador, June 15, 1933
(translation)

MR. SECRETARY OF STATE:

In reply to your letter of June 9, my Government has instructed me to address to you the following communication:

"The French Government had hoped that the due date of June 15 would not arrive before the conclusion of an arrangement on the settlement of the war debts, responding to the considerations set forth in the resolution voted by the Chamber of Deputies on December 13.

"Circumstances, unfortunately, have not yet permitted the realization of that hope, but the French Government still thinks that in the nearest future a solution ought to be found for the problem of intergovernmental debts in the interest of world economic recovery and particularly for the purpose of maintaining as well as of developing the results already obtained, which results are due in so large a measure to the sacrifices of France with respect to her own claims.

"The French Government therefore finds itself obliged to postpone the payment due on June 15. But it by no means intends to break, unilaterally, engagements freely entered into and desires to renew to the Federal Government the assurance that it is always ready to bring in all appropriate ways its most active cooperation in seeking a satisfactory solution."

To the French Ambassador, June 17, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

The Government of the United States acknowledges receipt of the note of the French Government setting forth its attitude concerning the debt obligation due on June 15th to this Government. It notes that the French Government has failed to meet in whole or in part the installment due on existing debt agreement between the French Government and the Government of the United States.

The Government of the United States must, in all frankness, call attention to the problems raised by the failure of the French Government to meet the payment due on December 15th, 1932, which have not yet been solved or even discussed between the two nations.

GREAT BRITAIN

To the Secretary of State from the British Government, November 10, 1932

SIR:

It will be remembered that on June 22nd, 1931, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom subscribed wholeheartedly to the principle of the proposal made by the President of the United States on the preceding day for the postponement during one year of all payments on intergovernmental debts. The object of this proposal, as stated at the time, was to relieve the pressure of the difficulties resulting from the fall in prices and lack of confidence in economic and political stability, and to assist in the reestablishment of confidence.

2. The hopes which were early raised by the President's initiative have unfortunately not been realised, and the economic troubles which it was designed to alleviate have not come to an end. Indeed in October of last year, the communiqué published at Washington on the occasion of Monsieur Laval's visit already recognized that "prior to the expiration of the Hoover year some agreement on intergovernmental obligations may be necessary covering the period of the business depression. The initiative in this matter should be taken early by the European Powers principally concerned within the framework of the agreements existing prior to July 15th, 1931." To-day many thoughtful men throughout the world are convinced that if the depression is to be overcome, further remedial measures must be sought.

3. It was in accordance with the recommendation quoted above that in June last the European Creditor Powers met at Lausanne to agree on a lasting settlement of the problem created by intergovernmental payments in respect of reparations. The series of agreements reached on July 9th aims at the ultimate termination of all reparation payments. It represents the maximum contribution in the field of intergovernmental finance which the governments concerned have so far been able to make towards that early restoration of world prosperity in which the people of the United States, no less than those of the British Commonwealth of Nations, have so deep an interest, and for the achievement of which the co-operation of the United States is essential.

4. On the nature of the remedial measures that may have to be adopted it is not proposed now to say more than that, in the recent past, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have frequently expressed their view, and that neither in the realm of theory nor in that of fact are they able to find any reason for amending it. They believe that the régime of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing must be reviewed. They are profoundly impressed with the importance of acting quickly; and they earnestly hope that the United States Government will see its way to enter into an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment.

5. The immediate objective of the present note, however, is of a more limited nature. On December 15th the next instalment of the British war debt is due to be paid. It is not possible to hope that agreement can be achieved in five weeks on matters of such vast scope. Confronted last summer with a similar difficulty the Conference of Lausanne found it necessary, in order to allow its work to proceed undisturbed, to reserve, during the period of the Conference, the execution of the payments due to the participating Powers. His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom hope that a similar procedure may now be followed, and ask for a suspension of the payments due from them for the period of the discussions now suggested, or for any other period that may be agreed upon.

6. His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom believe that the proposed discussions could best begin in Washington and if this suggestion meets with concurrence, they are prepared to provide me with the necessary instructions. On this point, however, as well as on the other points touched upon in the present note, they await an expression of the views of the United States Government.

I have [etc.]

R. C. LINDSAY.

To the British Ambassador, November 23, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I fully appreciate the importance of the proposal contained in your note of November 10th and the seriousness of the situation upon which it is predicated. The mere fact that your Government suggests the necessity of a review of the intergovernmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

With this end in view, you will permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government such a review and might affect its result. Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but the Congress in the past has itself provided the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The Executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

You will also appreciate that your present suggestion of a general review goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this Government and that even the suggestion quoted in your note was not adopted by the Congress of the United States.

In view of these facts and in the light of the historic position of the United States that reparations are solely an European question in which the United States are not involved, I am sure that no inference can be intended that the settlement of German reparations at Lausanne was made in reliance upon any commitments given by this Government.

I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your note which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious to the fact that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described. I confess that I cannot see any presentation in your note which would be likely to induce the Congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past.

The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to, should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject.

As to the suspension of the installment of the British debt due on December 15th, which is one of the objectives in your note, no authority lies within the Executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15th as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

Accept [etc.]

HENRY L. STIMSON.

To the Secretary of State from the British Ambassador, December 1, 1932

1. In their note of November 10th His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom put forward a request to the United States Government to enter upon discussions with a view to the adjustment of the British War Debt, and at the same time they suggested a suspension of the payment due on December 15th, their purpose being to avoid the financial and political unsettlement which must follow a resumption of war debt payments, to avert the intensification of the present world depression by the further disturbance of the exchanges, to foster the revival of commercial confidence—of which some hesitating signs have recently appeared—and finally to allow of a close examination between the United States and Great Britain of the whole subject in preparation for the International Economic Conference.

2. His Majesty's Government warmly welcome that part of the reply of the United States Government in which they express their willingness to facilitate such discussions and, noting that it does not appear to the United States Government that sufficient reasons have been given for their request for a suspension of the December instalment, they now propose to set out in greater detail the consideration which actuated them in presenting their previous note.

3. The war produced a profound disorder in the course of international trade and after fourteen years this disorder has culminated in a crisis of unparalleled severity. It has resulted in a general collapse of trade throughout the civilised world with widespread unemployment and a disastrous fall in all national incomes including those of both the United States of America and of the United Kingdom. The causes of the depression may be manifold but it has been generally recognized that war debts and reparations have been one of the major causes and that a settlement of these debts, which will relieve world anxieties under this head is an indispensable condition of a revival of general prosperity. As the Bâle committee declared in December last, "the adjustment of all reparations and war debts to the troubled situation of the world is the only lasting step capable of establishing confidence, which is the very condition of economic stability and real peace." The Committee proceeded "We appeal to the Governments on whom the responsibility for action rests to permit of no delay in coming to decisions which will bring an amelioration of this grave crisis which weighs so heavily on all alike." While in some respects it may be difficult for Governments to remedy the troubles of the world, there are certain steps which it is clearly within their powers and their responsibility to take.

4. The system of war debts was called into being by the war requirements of the belligerent nations. The resources in man-power and production of the Allied Countries had from 1914 been wholly employed in the prosecution of the war; their normal trading activities were to a large extent suspended and they had therefore less than their normal resources available for purchases abroad. But the vast requirements for war purposes in any case far exceeded any normal means to pay and could only be financed by means of loans from producing countries. The loans raised, whether they were market loans or government loans, were taken not in the form of money but in the form of goods and enormously augmented the volume of the exports of the lending countries. For example, before 1915 the United States export surplus normally varied from $200,000,000 to $600,000,000. In 1917 and 1918 it exceeded $3,000,000,000 and in 1919 it was about $4,000,000,000. The United States made loans to the Allies (including the United Kingdom) totalling approximately $10,000,000,000 (£2,055,000,000 at par); the United Kingdom made loans to its European Allies amounting to £1,600,000,000 equivalent (at par) to $7,800,000,000; the French Government had made similar loans equivalent (at par) to $2,237,000,000. In the aggregate these loans reach the colossal total of approximately $20,000,000,000 (equivalent at par to over £4,000,000,000).

5. If the course of commerce were deflected to the extent required to repay these war-time debts, it would entail a radical alteration in the economy both of debtor and of creditor countries. During the first few years after the war this was recognized and no attempt was made to collect them. But it proved impossible to secure a general agreement for their remission and the debtor Powers were called upon to fund their engagements. From 1923 onward a series of agreements were concluded providing for their repayment on varying terms, and in 1924 a provisional settlement was reached of German reparations on the basis of the Dawes Plan. The annuities provided for in most of these agreements were low during the earlier years, and their payment was rendered possible by the flow of investment capital from the United States of America to the Continent of Europe, which was then taking place. But the prosperous period from 1923 to 1929 was to a large extent illusory and the seeds of future trouble had already been sowed.

6. In the summer of 1929 the storm that was brewing was not yet visible, and it was hoped that conditions were sufficiently stabilized for a final settlement of reparations in the form of the Young Plan under which Germany undertook to pay annuities of about $500,000,000 (£100,000,000 at par) of which the major part was passed on as war debt payments. Unhappily almost before the ink had dried on the agreements embodying the Young Plan the storm had burst upon the world. Startled and alarmed, lenders who for five years so liberally poured their capital into the Continent of Europe withdrew such funds as were immediately recoverable. The debtors made desperate efforts to meet their liabilities, but confidence became more and more shaken and towards the middle of 1931 something like a panic prevailed. Since then the world has been living under the stress of repeated shocks which have completely undermined the confidence on which the system of investment depended. The process of disintegration has been pursued to the point where it has become an attempt to liquidate not only private fortunes and industries, but whole countries. Currencies are threatened with instability if not with collapse and controls and restrictions intended to remedy the trouble have merely aggravated it. Everywhere taxation has been ruthlessly increased and expenditure drastically curtailed and yet budgets are in deficit or are balanced with ever increasing difficulty. In all directions there are signs of paralysis of trade and the threat of bankruptcy and of financial collapse. The international monetary mechanism without which the modern world cannot effectively conduct its daily life is being broken into pieces with all the manifold forms of privation and distress which this involves. The countries of the world cannot even begin to consider how to restore this mechanism until the causes which undermined confidence have been removed. One of the most important of these is the system of intergovernmental debts.

7. These intergovernmental debts are radically different from commercial loans raised by foreign governments on the market for productive purposes. Such commercial loans are normally self-liquidating. The market loans thus raised during the last hundred years have converted whole territories from desolate swamps or uninhabited plains to flourishing provinces teeming with human life and producing great additions to the wealth of the world. Such productive loans directly afford means whereby the borrower can repay them with interest and at the same time become more prosperous. But reparations and war loans represent expenditure on destruction. Fertile fields were rendered barren and populous cities a shattered ruin. Such expenditure instead of producing a slow and steady accumulation of wealth destroys in a few hours stored-up riches of the past. Like the shells on which they were largely spent these loans were blown to pieces. They have produced nothing to repay them and they have left behind nothing but fresh complications and perplexities.

8. Repayment of these war debts necessitates unnatural transfers which provoke widespread economic evil. In so far as they have been paid in the past their payment was made possible directly or indirectly by further foreign lending on the part of creditor countries which temporarily conceal but eventually aggravate the difficulties. In the long run international debts can only be paid in the form of goods or services. But as the Bâle report of August 18th, 1931, truly pointed out "In recent years the world has been endeavouring to pursue two contradictory policies in permitting the development of an international financial system which involves the annual payment of large sums by debtor to creditor countries while at the same time putting obstacles in the way of the free movement of goods. So long as these obstacles remain such movements of capital must necessarily throw the world's financial balance out of equilibrium".

9. The creditors in so far as they have refused acceptance of payment in goods have compelled their debtors to pay in gold. This has led to a drain on the gold reserves of many countries, and this in turn has forced up the price of gold in terms of commodities or in other words has forced down the price of commodities in terms of gold currencies. This fall in prices has caused widespread ruin to producers in debtor and creditor countries alike and threatens disastrous social and political repercussions. It has seriously increased the burden of commercial debts; but it has rendered intolerable the pecuniary burden of unproductive war debts.

10. The difficulties of maintaining payments fixed under existing agreements first became acute in the case of Germany and despite the moratorium adopted as the result of Mr. Hoover's initiative last year, apprehensions created by the situation in that country caused large withdrawals of credits which in turn involved London as a leading international centre. Consequent movements of capital forced the United Kingdom to abandon the gold standard and while sterling has remained more stable in terms of goods than gold currencies, the events of September 1931 gave a profound shock to confidence in the monetary system throughout the world. Thus the baneful effects of these unnatural transfers in respect of reparations and war debts have gravely accentuated the difficulties of all five continents including many countries which were neither debtors nor creditors in "the tragic bookkeeping" which resulted from the war.

Confidence and credit cannot revive until an end has been put to these attempts to force the stream of capital to flow up-hill.

11. In this connection it is pertinent to recall the statement made by the Secretary of the United States Treasury in his annual report for 1924-1925 that the principle of capacity to pay does not require the foreign debtor to pay to the full extent of its present or future capacity. The debtor government must, he continued, "be permitted to preserve and improve its economic position, to bring its budget into balance and to place its finances and currency on a sound basis, and to maintain and if possible to improve the standard of living of its citizens. No settlement which is oppressive and retards the recovery and development of the foreign debtor is to the best interests of the United States or of Europe." The resumption of war debt payments in present circumstances appears altogether inconsistent with the principles here laid down.

Experience has in fact shown that when dealing with international transfers of the character and of the unprecedented magnitude of the post-war intergovernmental obligations, the principle of "capacity to pay" of the debtor—even if thus applied—can only be regarded as of secondary importance compared with an even wider principle, viz: that of the capacity of the world to endure the economic and financial consequences which those transfers would involve.

12. It is in the light of these wider economic and financial consequences that successive British governments have framed their well-known policy on this question which is referred to in a later passage of this note. His Majesty's Government are aware that any remission of the war debts may be criticized as transferring liability from the taxpayer in the borrowing country to the taxpayer in the lending country, and in this respect taxpayers in the United Kingdom and in the United States are in much the same position. Both are already bearing a large share of the burden of the war debts and would continue to bear it even if all existing war debt arrangements between the governments could be maintained. For example in the case of the United Kingdom the effect of its reparation and war debt arrangements was to provide the sum sufficient to cover current payments to the United States Government. But this does not mean that the British taxpayer was relieved from his burdens in respect of the advances made to the Allies during the war; on the contrary he was left to find over £80,000,000 a year ($390,000,000 at par) for interest on internal loans out of which those advances had been made. For all the reparation and war debt receipts of the United Kingdom are required to cover the current payments due on its own War Debt to the United States Government and the United Kingdom taxpayer has had each year to find from his own resources the amount required for interest on advances made by the United Kingdom to the Allies which, as stated above, amounted to a total of about £1,600,000,000—$7,800,000,000 at par. In the case of the United States the amount due from foreign governments in respect of War Debt payments is now $270,000,000 a year, and if this were not received, it would increase by that amount the burden on the American taxpayer. It will be seen therefore that the policy which His Majesty's Government have consistently advocated is one which, if it involves sacrifices on the part of American taxpayers, has involved similar sacrifices on the part of their own taxpayers.

The interests of the two countries looked at from this standpoint are the same. But it would be taking altogether too narrow a view to regard those interests as being limited to securing payment of these War Debts from the borrowing Governments.

13. Payments across exchange, restricted as they are by the effect of tariffs and trade barriers, are essentially different from payments made by the taxpayer in his own currency, and the burden of these vast intergovernmental debts must be judged by comparison, not with the volume of internal revenue, but with the balance of trade. So long as the debtor nations are compelled by every means to augment their export surpluses in order to meet intergovernmental debt burdens they cannot play their part in the normal economic operations of commerce and their diminished purchasing power will reflect itself in diminished receipts for producers in the creditor country with consequent fall in prices, depression of industry and unemployment. Even a partial recovery of business activity in creditor countries as a consequence of the removal of these abnormal conditions would result in additional receipts from tax on the existing scale which would compensate the exchequers of creditor countries many times over for the loss of revenues involved in revision of the war debt settlements.

14. The loss which both the United Kingdom and the United States taxpayers would suffer from reconsideration of the war debts cannot be measured in the same scales as the untold loss of wealth and human misery caused by the present economic crisis. The value of international trade had already six months ago decreased in three years by fifty percent or by the equivalent of $5,000,000 for every hour, night and day, that passes and the situation has since deteriorated even further. It will not profit a creditor country to collect a few million pounds or dollars if it thereby perpetuates a world disorder which reacting on itself involves losses of revenue many times greater; and a settlement, however generous it may seem, which relieves the economic machinery of the world by clearing up these intergovernmental payments, would be repaid again and again by the contribution which it would make to world revival.

15. For this loss and suffering is not due to the niggardliness of nature. The triumphs of physical science are ever growing and the vast potentialities of the production of real wealth remain unimpaired. It is in the power of the governments of the world and particularly of the United States and of the United Kingdom as the two greatest creditor nations, if they unite in cooperating, to make the first and essential step towards averting disaster, financial, economic and political.

16. For the reasons given in the preceding paragraphs His Majesty's Government base their request for a re-examination of the whole situation on the fact that payment of the war debts has in their view been proved to be inconsistent with the present economic organisation of the world and that any resumption of these payments is bound to accentuate the gravity of the present crisis and to compromise fatally all efforts to counteract it. But apart from these general considerations, His Majesty's Government hold the sincere conviction that this request is fully justified on the grounds of the past record of the United Kingdom in the matter of intergovernmental debts and of their present position.

17. In the first place they would draw attention to the unprecedented efforts which have been made by the United Kingdom. The total British war expenditure in the United States amounted to approximately $12,000,000,000 (£2,400,000,000). Of this total only about one third was financed by borrowing from the United States Government. Approximately $3,000,000,000 (£600,000,000) was obtained by the sale of gold and of securities representing available capital assets which His Majesty's Government had at its disposal the transfer of which has of course reduced the permanent wealth of this country. In addition His Majesty's Government raised commercial loans on the United States market before the entry of the United States into the war to the amount of about $1,480,000,000 (£304,000,000 at par). The balance of the British war expenditure in the United States was financed by the export of British goods and by the reimbursement on the part of the United States Government of expenditure incurred by His Majesty's Government on behalf of the Allies and of sterling supplied by His Majesty's Government to the United States troops. Of these market borrowings $1,340,000,000 (£275,000,000) have been repaid. In respect of the debt to the United States Government payments have been made amounting to $1,352,000,000 (£278,000,000 at par), of which $202,000,000 (£42,000,000 at par) were in respect of the principal of the debt as funded. Furthermore in addition to the payments under the funding agreement His Majesty's Government have paid $233,000,000 (£48,000,000) in respect of war debt before funding and they have repaid in full both the loan for the purchase of silver amounting to $122,000,000 and the debt of $16,000,000 for relief supplies to Austria. The total of these debt payments which His Majesty's Government have made to the United States since the war amount to the sum $3,063,000,000 (£629,000,000).

18. Meanwhile the United Kingdom had claims on its Allies in respect of the war loans it had made. The advances made by this country amounted, as stated above, to £1,600,000,000 ($7,800,000,000) and had increased subsequently by the addition of unpaid interest to the capital. Shortly after the war His Majesty's Government offered to join in any equitable arrangement for the reduction or cancellation of inter-allied debts provided it was of an all-round character. That proposal was not accepted and His Majesty's Government were called upon to fund their debt to the United States of America. They then announced that they would limit their demands on their own debtors to the amount that they were themselves required to pay to their creditor. The fact that His Majesty's Government were the first to fund their debt to the United States of America, and that some time elapsed before their debtors completed funding agreements with them, has resulted in their receipts from their debtors being less than half their payments to their creditor. The relative position is that the United States of America made loans amounting to $10,000,000,000 (£2,055,000,000) and the United Kingdom made similar loans amounting to $7,800,000,000 (£1,600,000,000); the United States have received for the benefit of their taxpayers $2,112,000,000 (£434,000,000) and the United Kingdom have received for the benefit of their taxpayers nothing, have passed on all their receipts to the United States and have paid out of the pockets of their taxpayers to the United States $651,000,000 (£134,000,000). In fact when interest has been taken into account, some £200,000,000 ($973,000,000 at par) has been found by the British taxpayer. It may be observed that while the British share of the total indebtedness to the United States is only 40% of the total debt payments made to the United States 80% has come from Great Britain. The efforts which this has involved to the British nation, coming as they did after the losses resulting from the war, constitute in the view of His Majesty's Government a strong claim to consideration on the part of the United States Government.

19. Moreover His Majesty's Government feel justified in calling attention to the changes of circumstances which have increased the burden of their obligations.

In the first place the British debt is expressed in terms of gold but the burden on the British people is measured in terms of sterling. The payment due on December 15th is owing to this circumstance increased from 19¼ million pounds to approximately 30 million pounds. The importance of this from the national standpoint needs no emphasis. In fact however, as already stated, the discharge of all international debts must in the long run take the form of a transfer of goods or services. The average wholesale price index in the United States during the period when the debt was incurred was 189 and is now under 94 (taking 1913 as a basis in each case). The debt therefore represents today in terms of goods not less than twice the amount which was borrowed.

In this connection His Majesty's Government would point out that the effect of the American tariff has been to restrict rather than to facilitate the import of manufactured goods which the United Kingdom produces and the difficulties in this respect have not decreased in recent years. In 1923 when the British war debt was funded the war debt annuity amounted to £33,000,000 or approximately half the value of British domestic exports to the United States (£60,000,000).

From 1923 onward the annuity which we should have to pay in respect of the war debt would amount at the present rate of exchange to approximately £60,000,000, whereas British domestic exports to America amounted to only £18,000,000 in 1931 and are not likely to exceed £16,000,000 for 1932.

Imports into the United Kingdom from the United States show an equally remarkable fall from £211,000,000 in 1923 to £104,000,000 in 1931 and £59,000,000 in the first nine months of 1932. The total trade between the two countries from the time of the funding agreement has fallen from about £300,000,000 a year to £100,000,000.

20. If therefore war debt payments had to be resumed, it is apparent that the exchange position of this country would need to be strengthened by a reduction of the very heavy adverse balance of the visible trade of the United Kingdom and the United States which amounted to £78,000,000 in 1931. In present circumstances this could only be done by adopting measures which would further restrict British purchases of American goods. The United Kingdom has up to the present generally been the best customer of the United States and the result of such restrictions would inevitably be to reduce specially the market in the United Kingdom for American farm products. To the extent therefore that payments were resumed to the United States Treasury a definite and unfavourable reaction must follow to the United States producer.

Moreover His Majesty's Government would also have to guard against the effects which would follow if the facilities offered by the British market were used by other debtors of America to obtain sterling which they would then sell across the exchange in order to meet their obligations to the United States Government. After the war the United Kingdom attempted to maintain its traditional trading system of free imports with the result that debtor countries throughout the world sold their goods on the British market and took the proceeds away over the exchange or in gold to meet their obligations elsewhere. Under the stress of the present crisis His Majesty's Government have had to modify their system and to adopt tariffs; but the United Kingdom still imports from abroad goods to the value of several hundreds of million pounds in excess of what it exports and it would be necessary to consider what action could be taken to secure that the sterling proceeds of these imports were used more largely for the benefit of the British market.

21. President Hoover in explaining his proposal for a suspension of inter-governmental payments for a year beginning July 1st, 1931, stated that its object was "to relieve the pressure of the difficulties resulting from the fall in prices and the lack of confidence in economic and political stability and to assist in the re-establishment of confidence thus forwarding political peace and economic stability in the world". The action then taken gave a much needed respite but it was not sufficient to restore confidence. Depression still continues and a resumption of war debt payments to-day would for the reasons outlined above involve economic reactions which must intensify the instability of the world. If President Hoover's hopes are to be realized definite remedial action requires to be taken to deal not merely with the British war debt to America but with the whole system of intergovernmental obligations with which it is related.

22. The initiative in devising a settlement of reparations was taken by the creditor governments of Germany at Lausanne with the cognizance and approval of the United States Government. An arrangement was there signed under which Germany would be substantially relieved of a burden which had become intolerable and the participating creditors agreed provisionally among themselves to a waiver of their intergovernmental debts. It was in the nature of things inevitable that that settlement was provisional and that its completion was dependent upon a satisfactory settlement in respect of the debts for which the creditor Powers themselves were liable to the United States Government.

23. The United States Government have frequently reiterated that they do not admit any connection between reparations and war debts; but this differentiation in the matter of intergovernmental obligations arising out of the war is not accepted by other countries which have creditor claims on the German Government and whose ability to meet their own debt payments to the United States and to the United Kingdom is undoubtedly affected by the extent to which they themselves are paid by Germany. Whichever view is academically correct, there is a de facto connection between these two sets of intergovernmental obligations and this was by implication admitted by the United States Government when they proposed a moratorium on all intergovernmental obligations last year. Moreover His Majesty's Government take it for granted that preferential treatment would never be claimed for war debts due to the United States as compared with those due to this country; and a situation in which this country was required to continue war debt payments while foregoing war debt payments due to it would be admitted at once to be unthinkable. Thus if payment of the sums due in respect of the British war debt to the United States Government were to be resumed, His Majesty's Government would be obliged to reopen the question of payments from their own debtors—France, Italy, Portugal, Yugoslavia, Roumania, Greece, and also the British Dominions. The debtor countries would in turn have to demand payment by Germany of her obligations under the Young Plan and the United Kingdom would have to do likewise. Without a readjustment of war debt obligations the Lausanne agreement could not be ratified; the question of reparations would remain unsettled; the improvement in confidence which followed the Lausanne agreements would be undone and fatal results might well be found to have accrued to the solution of many grave political as well as financial problems now under discussion.

24. His Majesty's Government understand that the Government of the United States have already appreciated the force of these considerations in the light of which they have recognised the desirability of a discussion of the major point stressed in a previous communication, namely, the revision of the existing debt obligations. But His Majesty's Government wish to emphasise their conviction that their proposal for a suspension of the December payment, a proposal which would in no way affect any ultimate settlement, is necessary in order to create conditions favourable to a successful issue of subsequent conversations. The difficulties of making transfer in present circumstances are so great and would involve such far-reaching reactions both financial and political, that the resulting doubts and anxieties in regard to the immediate situation would distract the attention of Governments and peoples when the chief need was an objective and systematic approach to the problem to be solved.

25. Allusion has been made in the last paragraph to the difficulty of any attempt to meet the payment on December 15th by transfer across exchange. It has been the object of His Majesty's Government to take all possible steps to mitigate fluctuations in the relative value of sterling and gold currencies. To this end, having in the first place repaid in full large temporary credits borrowed in connection with the financial crisis of the preceding year, they have acquired certain reserves in gold and in foreign exchange, but though these reserves are adequate for the purpose for which they were designed, they were not intended and would not suffice to cover as well the payment of $95,500,000 due on December 15th. The Exchange difficulty would remain even if the device were adopted of payment in sterling to a blocked account; for the existence of a large sum awaiting transfer would affect the market almost as seriously as an actual purchase of exchange. The only remaining alternative would be payment in gold. Such a method of payment would involve the sacrifice of a considerable part of the gold reserves of the Bank of England which are widely regarded as no more than sufficient for the responsibilities of London as a financial centre.

26. His Majesty's Government trust that the full statement of their views which they have now made will demonstrate clearly the ground upon which their request was based, namely their own profound conviction that a resumption of the war debt payments as they existed before the Hoover moratorium would inevitably deepen the depression in world trade and would lead to further falls in commodity prices with disastrous consequences from which no nation would be exempt. They believe that a discussion between the United States Government and themselves upon these matters might bear fruitful issue for revival of world prosperity. They are convinced that the prospects of success would be materially improved by the postponement of the December instalment and they are prepared to consider with the Government of the United States of America any manner in which that postponement might be most conveniently arranged.

BRITISH EMBASSY.

To the British Ambassador, December 7, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

My Government has considered with the greatest care the note of December 1, 1932, from the British Government in which it has set forth at length the reasons which it advances for a reconsideration of the whole question of intergovernmental war debts, and for the postponement of the payment due by the British Government to the Government of the United States on December 15th, next.

Whatever part debt payments may have played in the economic history of the post-war years, it is clear that in the present conditions of world-wide depression, accompanied by a sweeping fall of prices, their weight has greatly increased, and that they have a very definite relationship to the problem of recovery, in which both the British and the American people have so vital an interest.

The President of the United States is prepared, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, in cooperation with the British Government, to survey the entire situation and to consider what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade, and the recovery of prices.

I welcome the suggestion contained in the note of your Government of a close examination between the United States and Great Britain of the whole subject in preparation for the International Economic Conference, for I believe that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. Such an examination does not imply cancellation. In such an examination there would necessarily be consideration of other forms of tangible compensation available for the expansion of markets for products of American agriculture and labor. And you will understand that the problem of foreign debts has in the American mind very definite relationship with the problem of disarmament and the continued burden which competitive armament imposes upon the entire world.

In order that you may understand more fully the attitude of the American people, I feel that I should refer briefly to certain implications in your note as to which the facts are viewed by our people differently from the understanding set forth by you.

Your note seems to carry the thought that the loans made by the United States Government represent in their entirety expenditures on destruction; that the payments heretofore made to the United States have been largely responsible for the existing world depression and the concentration of a large amount of gold in the United States; and that complete cancellation of war debts, as indicated in the Balfour Note, is essential to world recovery. We cannot agree with these conclusions.

Many of the loans made before the armistice and substantially all the loans made after the armistice were not for destruction. Of the amount expended in the United States by our debtors after we entered the war, both before and after the armistice, most of which was borrowed from the United States Government on war and relief loans, less than a third was spent for munitions and remounts. Very large amounts were spent for food, tobacco, etc., for cotton and exchange, for relief and surplus supplies sold on credit, for repayments of commercial loans, and for interest. Much of the food, tobacco, cotton, relief and other supplies sold on credit were resold by the governments for use of their own civilian population. In certain cases these supplies were actually resold and the funds turned into the treasury of the debtor governments. The amounts used to purchase exchange were in reality loans by the United States to the allied countries which were no doubt expended by them in part at least in countries other than the United States; they served to maintain the value of allied currencies. Some of the loans made after the armistice were vital to the recovery, and indeed, to the very existence of the borrowing nations.

It does not seem accurate, therefore, to treat all of what are termed in the United States "War Debts" as representing sums devoted in their entirety to expenditures on destruction and totally unproductive in so far as the borrowing governments are concerned.

The United States Government in reaching the settlements with its debtors has combined loans made during the war period and loans made after the armistice, including commercial credits, funding all in the debt agreements. It is our understanding that a different practice has prevailed in Europe. The figures cited in the note of the British Government covering advances made by the United States of America and advances made by the United Kingdom, as well as receipts to date on these advances, are not therefore strictly comparable.

The note of the British Government also seems to us to over-emphasize the influence which war debt payments may have had in the past on world economy. With various observations and figures presented by the British Government in that regard the American Government is not in accord, but it does not desire to enter into detailed discussion in the face of the larger immediate issues. In general it is our view that the causes of this depression lie in much more potent forces than these debt transactions. We notice that similar conclusions have been indicated in the careful study published by the League of Nations entitled, "The Course and Phases of the World Economic Depression."

Furthermore, in its inferences as to the difficulties of payment, the British Government treats merely some of the items of the balance of payments, leaving out of account service items. It may be pointed out that the expenditures of American tourists in foreign lands during the period 1924 to 1930 have totalled approximately $3,900,000,000, and that during that period immigrant remittances have aggregated net $1,495,000,000. This is in comparison to the total receipts of $1,673,000,000 on account of debt settlements during the same period. Again in measuring the transfer question, account must be taken not only of trade directly with the United States but of the whole area of international dealings. In the total of receipts and outgo arising from the international transactions of both our debtors and ourselves, debt payments have been a relatively minor item.

The argument that the payment of these debts to the United States has drained the gold reserves of other countries to the United States, does not seem to us borne out by actual experience. The gold holdings of the United States at the time these payments upon debts began were about $4,028,000,000, and they stand now at about $4,338,000,000. It is true that our gold supply has at times exceeded this sum but this extra gold was demonstrably temporary deposits by other nations not related to debt payments. The main fault in the distribution of gold supplies seems to us to have occurred as between the different countries of Europe as the gold supplies of Europe increased from about $3,018,000,000, on January 1st, 1924, to about $6,963,000,000 at present; the distribution of which as between the countries of Europe cannot be attributed to forces originating in the United States.

I feel I must also call attention to the misunderstanding which might arise from the following statement in your note:

"The initiative in devising settlement of reparations was taken by the creditor governments of Germany, at Lausanne with the cognizance and approval of the United States Government."

The facts in this connection were more accurately set out in a statement issued by the British Treasury on July 14th last:

"Misunderstanding has arisen regarding Mr. Chamberlain's reference in his speech to the House of Commons on Monday, referring to conversations with representatives of the United States. He did not suggest, and of course had no intention of suggesting that representatives of the United States had approved, either tacitly or explicitly, what was done at Lausanne. The proceedings there were throughout on the basis that the course was to seek European solution of reparations without involving the United States in the discussion."

In 1923 when the British Government sent a mission to settle the debt of Great Britain to the United States, the United States Treasury held demand obligations of Great Britain calling for interest at the rate of 5 per cent. As a result of the negotiations these obligations were refunded on an interest basis of 3½ per cent, which was a lower rate of interest than the credit of either country at that time commanded. The policy adopted by the United States in its settlement was stated by the Debt Funding Commission:

"The Commission in its settlement with Great Britain, made on June 19, 1923, and in subsequent negotiations or settlements has adhered to the principle that the adjustments made with each government must be measured by the ability of the particular government to put aside and transfer to the United States the payments called for under the funding agreement. Nor does the principle of capacity to pay require the foreign debtor to pay to the full limit of its present or future capacity. It must be permitted to preserve and improve its economic position, to bring its budget into balance, and to place its finances and currency on a sound basis, and to maintain, and if possible, to improve the standard of living of its citizens. No settlement which is oppressive and retards the recovery and development of the foreign debtor is to the best interests of the United States or of Europe."

The representatives of no country have set their hands to any agreement which they believed at the time did not fulfill this policy.

While it seems desirable to state these facts from the standpoint of historical accuracy and as necessary to explain the point of view of the American people towards these obligations, the real question raised by the British note is how can the problems which arise from the existence of these obligations best be dealt with under the conditions in the world today.

As to the payment due on December 15th, I appreciate the cogency of the difficulties which you present as to the transfer of these monies in the present state of foreign exchanges. In an endeavor to meet this situation, it already has been suggested to you that the President might be willing to recommend to the Congress the acceptance of deposits in sterling in England, to be guaranteed as to dollar value and transferred at such time as would not interfere with the stability of exchange. This I understand your Government has declined in the belief that the existence of a large sum of sterling awaiting transfer would affect the exchange markets almost as seriously as the actual purchase of exchange. Accordingly further informal suggestions have been made to your Government of methods of minimizing these difficulties which it has not been able to find acceptable.

Recognizing these difficulties of effecting transfer I am confident that the Congress will be willing to consider any reasonable suggestion made by your Government which will facilitate payment of the sum due on December 15th.

Accept [etc.]

HENRY L. STIMSON.

To the Secretary of State from the British Ambassador, December 11, 1932

1. His Majesty's Government having received the note addressed to them by the United States Government on December 7th observe with satisfaction that the United States Government welcome the suggestion for a close examination between the two countries of the whole subject dealt with in the British Note of December 1st. His Majesty's Government feel that it will be appropriate to reserve for this joint examination their comments on certain of the views expressed in the United States note of December 7th, but they think it right to state that after further careful consideration they see no reason to modify their general conclusions set forth in their Note of December 1st.

2. His Majesty's Government will, therefore, in the present communication, deal only with the last portion of the United States Government's note which relates to the immediate question of the payment on December 15th. His Majesty's Government observe that the United States Government recognize the difficulties of effecting transfer but they remain convinced that no solution other than suspension would obviate these difficulties. They note therefore with profound regret that—withstanding the arguments contained in the British Note of December 1st—the United States Government have decided not to recommend this solution to Congress.

3. In view of this decision His Majesty's Government have determined to make payment of the amount due on December 15 under the Funding Agreement of June 18, 1923 but they think it desirable to take the opportunity of stating clearly their position in regard to this payment and of explaining the circumstances in which they have arrived at that conclusion.

4. For reasons which have already been placed on record His Majesty's Government are convinced that the system of intergovernmental payments in respect of the War Debts as it existed prior to Mr. Hoover's initiative on June 20th, 1931, cannot be revived without disaster. Since it is agreed that the whole subject should be re-examined between the United States and the United Kingdom this fundamental point need not be further stressed here.

5. In the view of His Majesty's Government therefore the payment to be made on December 15th is not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement. It is made because there has not been time for discussion with regard to that agreement to take place and because the United States Government have stated that in their opinion such a payment would greatly increase the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question.

6. His Majesty's Government propose accordingly to treat the payment on December 15th as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement and they are making arrangements to effect this payment in gold as being in the circumstances the least prejudicial of the methods open to them.

7. This procedure must obviously be exceptional and abnormal and His Majesty's Government desire to urge upon the United States Government the importance of an early exchange of views with the object of concluding the proposed discussion before June 15th next in order to obviate a general breakdown of the existing intergovernmental agreements.

BRITISH EMBASSY.

To the British Ambassador, December 11, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I learn with satisfaction of the decision of your Government "to make payment of the amount due on December 15 under the Funding Agreement of June 18, 1923." But in view of the statement in your note that "in the view of His Majesty's Government therefore the payment to be made on December 15th is not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement", I must call attention to the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury has no authority to accept payment from your Government except as provided under the terms of the Funding Agreement.

As I pointed out in my note of November 23, 1932, there is reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect of the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration. The Executive has no power to amend or to alter them either directly or by implied commitment. Accordingly, it should be understood that acceptance by the Secretary of the Treasury of funds tendered in payment of the December 15 installment cannot constitute approval of or agreement to any condition or declaration of policy inconsistent with the terms of the agreement. The sum so received must be credited to principal and interest as provided therein.

I therefore assume that in paragraphs five and six of your note you are not proposing to make this payment otherwise than in accordance with the terms of the Funding Agreement but that you are stating your views as to steps which your Government may desire to propose subsequently after a reexamination of the entire problem.

I have emphasized these facts with a view to avoiding any possible future misunderstanding. I believe that our future course as pointed out by our correspondence is clear. In your first note of November 13 you asked for an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment with respect to the regime of intergovernmental financial obligations and, in your second note, you welcomed the expression of our willingness to facilitate such discussions, and referred to the desirability of a close examination between our Governments of the whole subject in preparation for the International Economic Conference. In my last note of December 8 I replied that the President of the United States was prepared through whatever agency may seem appropriate, in cooperation with your Government to survey the entire situation (in which the debt of the British Government to the United States necessarily plays a part) and to consider what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade and the recovery of prices.

But in the meanwhile, as I informed you in my note of November 23, great importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original debt agreement in force and that a satisfactory approach to the whole question would be greatly increased by the pursuance of such a policy.

It would seem to me therefore to be undesirable that any steps be taken which, by causing misunderstanding, would increase the difficulties that must be overcome in finding an ultimate solution satisfactory to both nations.

Accept [etc.]

HENRY L. STIMSON.

To the Secretary of State from the British Ambassador, December 12, 1932

In replying to the note of the United States Government of December 11th His Majesty's Government desire to emphasize that the purpose of their note of even date was to state clearly their own position in regard to payment on December 15th, and to explain the circumstances in which they had decided to make payment. It was not of course the intention of their note to touch upon any matter affecting the Constitutional position of the United States Government.

Their note should therefore be read solely as relating to their own position, which they have taken after mature consideration, viz: that they are prepared to make payment on December 15th in the light of the considerations set out in their note of December 11th, and they must reserve the right to recur to those considerations in the examination of the whole question to which the United States Government have agreed. They would again emphasize the importance of entering upon that examination without loss of time.

Statement from the White House, January 20, 1933, relative to the discussion of the British debt with representatives of Great Britain

The conference between the President and the President-elect this morning was attended by Secretaries Stimson and Mills and Messrs. Norman Davis and Moley. The discussions were devoted mainly to a canvass of the foreign situation and the following statement covering the procedure to be followed was agreed upon:

"The British Government has asked for a discussion of the debts. The incoming Administration will be glad to receive their representative early in March for this purpose. It is, of course, necessary to discuss at the same time the world economic problems in which the United States and Great Britain are mutually interested and therefore that representatives should also be sent to discuss ways and means for improving the world situation."

It was settled that these arrangements will be taken up by the Secretary of State with the British Government.

To the Secretary of State from the British Ambassador, January 25, 1933

We have received with great satisfaction the communication sent by the President Elect of the United States through you in reply to our proposal of November 10th for a discussion on the American debt question. We note that Mr. Roosevelt would like to receive a representative or representatives of His Majesty's Government at Washington as soon as possible after March 4th. His Majesty's Government are happy to accept this invitation. The effect of the debt situation upon a wide range of world economic problems is crucial to every government and in the course of the discussion at Washington on the debt we shall be glad to take the opportunity of exchanging views with Mr. Roosevelt on those other matters in which the two governments are so closely interested. It will be recognized that decisions on matters which constitute the subject of the approaching world economic conference and which affect other States cannot be reached before discussions take place at that Conference between all the States represented there.

To the British Ambassador, June 9, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

I am requested by the Secretary of the Treasury to notify you that $75,950,000 interest is due and payable on June 15, 1933, on account of the indebtedness of your Government to the United States pursuant to the debt agreement of June 19, 1923.

The debt agreement of June 19, 1923, requires thirty days advance notice in case your Government desires to make payment in obligations of the United States issued since April 6, 1917, but I am requested by the Secretary of the Treasury to advise you that he will be glad to waive the requirement of thirty days advance notice if your Government wishes to pay in that manner.

Accept [etc.]

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,
Acting Secretary of State.

To the Acting Secretary of State from the British Ambassador, June 13, 1933

SIR:

In reply to the Note handed to me by the State Department on June 9th, I am directed by my Government to make the following communication to you:—

It will be recalled that the general views of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom on war debts and on their relation to present world difficulties were explained in notes exchanged in November and December last. His Majesty's Government at that time decided to make payment of the amount due on December 15th but they indicated clearly that this payment "was not to be regarded as a resumption of annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement" and they announced their intention of treating this payment "as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement."

Finally they pointed out that the procedure adopted "must obviously be exceptional and abnormal" and they urged upon the United States Government "the importance of an early exchange of views with the object of concluding the proposed discussions before June 15th next in order to obviate a general breakdown of existing intergovernmental agreements."

His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom adopted this procedure because they recognized the peculiar position in which the then United States Administration was placed, and the impossibility of their undertaking any effective discussion of the problem at that time. His Majesty's Government acted, however, on the understanding that the discussion would take place without delay, upon the provisions of the existing agreement in all its aspects, so as to arrive at a comprehensive and final settlement and in the belief that payment on December 15th would greatly increase the prospect of a satisfactory approach to the whole question.

Negotiations were accordingly started even before the new Administration was inaugurated; and His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have been most anxious to pursue them as rapidly as possible. On the occasion of the Prime Minister's visit to Washington the President and his advisers made preliminary explorations as to the basis of a clearer understanding of the situation. For reasons not within the control of either Government, however, it has not yet been possible to arrive at a definite conclusion of these negotiations.

A speedy conclusion is, however, urgently needed. The treatment of intergovernmental obligations must closely affect the solution of the problems with which the World Conference has to deal, because they cannot be separated from influences which have brought the world to its present plight. For instance, it is generally agreed that one of the first and the most essential of our aims should be to increase the general level of commodity prices. It may be recalled that after the Lausanne Conference there was a marked tendency for prices to rise, but that this tendency was reversed when the prospects of a final settlement of intergovernmental obligations receded, while the December payment was accompanied by a sharp fall in prices which was felt in America at least as much as in Europe. Experience, therefore, appears to show that the effect of these payments upon prices is very direct.

In the opinion of His Majesty's Government it is essential for the success of the Conference that the delegates should not be hampered and harassed by doubts about the possibility of a satisfactory settlement of war debts. Payment of a further instalment of the debt at this juncture would inevitably be judged to mean that no progress whatever had been made towards such a settlement and would, therefore, deal a damaging blow at the confidence of the delegates.

In the circumstances and in view of their action last December, His Majesty's Government had hoped that the United States Government would have been able to accede to the request of His Majesty's Government to postpone payment of the June instalment pending discussion of war debts as a whole. Since, however, this does not appear to have been found possible, His Majesty's Government are obliged to decide upon their course of action.

Such a decision must in any case be of an extremely difficult character and in considering it His Majesty's Government have felt their deep responsibility not only to their own people, but to the whole world which is awaiting the deliberations and recommendations of the Conference with the utmost anxiety.

The conclusion at which His Majesty's Government have arrived is that payment of the June instalment could not be made at this juncture without gravely imperilling the success of the Conference and involving widespread political consequences of a most serious character. In their view the instalment should be considered and discussed as part of the general subject of war debts upon which they are anxious to resume conversations as soon as they can be arranged.

In the meantime, in order to make it perfectly clear that they do not regard the suspension of the June payment as in any way prejudicing an ultimate settlement, His Majesty's Government propose to make an immediate payment of ten million dollars as an acknowledgement of the debt pending a final settlement. If, as they trust, the Government of the United States is thereafter prepared to enter upon formal negotiations for an ultimate settlement of the whole war debt question, His Majesty's Government would gladly be informed of the time and place at which the United States Government would desire such negotiations to be begun.

I have [etc.]

R. C. LINDSAY.

To the British Ambassador, June 14, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

In reply to the note handed to me by Your Excellency on the 13th instant, I am directed by the President to make the following reply:

The President understands that His Majesty's Government have concluded that payment of the June fifteenth installment "could not be made at this juncture without gravely imperilling the success of the Conference and involving widespread political consequences of a most serious character." He notes also that accompanying this communication is a payment of ten million dollars "as an acknowledgement of the debt pending a final settlement," and notes the characterization of the circumstances with which the British Government accompanies this payment, although he, by no means, concedes some of the statements concerning the world wide economic cause and effect contained in His Majesty's Government's communication, especially in so far as they affect the Economic Conference.

The President points out to His Majesty's Government the well known fact that it is not within his discretion to reduce or cancel the existing debt owed to the United States, nor is it within his power as President to alter the schedule of debt payments contained in the existing settlement. Such power rests with the Congress.

He notes likewise the suggestion of His Majesty's Government that they desire to make further representations concerning the entire question of the debt, and that His Majesty's Government requests that a time and place be indicated where such representations can be made to the President or the appropriate representative of the Executive. The President suggests that His Majesty's Government provide for such representations to be made in Washington as soon as convenient.

Any results of such a discussion of the debt question can be submitted for the information or the consideration of the Congress when it next meets.

Accept [etc.]

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,
Acting Secretary of State.

Statements by the President and the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, November 7, 1933, at the conclusion of conversations concerning the British debt

Statement by the President:

"For some weeks representatives of the British Government have been conferring with representatives of this Government on the subject of the British debt to this country growing out of the World War. The conversations were requested by the British Government in its notes of last June and December, a request to which I gladly acceded in view of the policy which I announced in November 1932, that a debtor may at any time approach a creditor with representations concerning the debt and ask for readjustment of the debt or its terms of payment.

"The conversations, now concluded, have in no sense prejudiced the position which either Government has taken in the past or may take in any subsequent discussion of the entire debt question. They have, however, given an opportunity for a full and frank discussion of the representations which the British Government has made.

"These discussions have made clear the great difficulty, if not impossibility, of reaching sound conclusions upon the amounts of international payments practicable over any considerable period of time in the face of the unprecedented state of world economic and financial conditions.

"It has, therefore, been concluded to adjourn the discussions until certain factors in the world situation—commercial and monetary—become more clarified. In the meantime, I have as Executive noted the representations of the British Government. I am also assured by that Government that it continues to acknowledge the debt without, of course, prejudicing its right again to present the matter of its readjustment, and that on December 15, 1933, it will give tangible expression of this acknowledgment by the payment of 7½ million dollars in United States currency.

"In view of these representations, of the payment, and of the impossibility, at this time, of passing finally and justly upon the request for a readjustment of the debt, I have no personal hesitation in saying that I shall not regard the British Government as in default."

Coincident with the issuance of the President's statement in Washington, the Right Honorable Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was to address the House of Commons in the following terms:

"The discussions in regard to war debt have been concluded.

"It has unfortunately not proved possible to reach an agreement for a final settlement. His Majesty's Government recognize, however, the difficulties which exist at the present time by reason of the unsettled economic and financial situation and they have accordingly informed the United States Government that they are prepared to make on December 15 next a further payment of seven and a half million dollars in American currency in acknowledgement of the debt pending a final settlement. His Majesty's Government have stated that they are ready to resume negotiations on the general question whenever after consultation with the President it may appear that this can usefully be done.

"President Roosevelt is making a statement in Washington today in regard to the discussions. After briefly referring to the origin and the result of the conversations the statement concludes as follows:"

(NOTE.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer at this point was to read from the statement issued by the President beginning, "It has, therefore, been concluded", and continuing to the end.)

HUNGARY

Aide-Mémoire of the Hungarian Minister, November 1, 1932

The Minister of Hungary has been instructed to bring the following to the attention of the American Government:

The so-called Hoover Moratorium having expired, there will be due on December 15, 1932, the amount of $40,729.35 on the funded indebtedness of the Hungarian Government to the United States, representing payment on principal and semi-annual interest.

On account of insurmountable difficulties in procuring the necessary foreign exchange for the service on Hungary's foreign loans, the Hungarian Government was forced to put certain measures into effect on December 23, 1931, with a view to accumulating the required foreign exchange for the payment of its foreign obligations. These measures, however, have not brought the hoped for results and no improvement can be noted as yet in this condition. Consequently, the Hungarian Government does not have at its disposal the necessary foreign exchange and it regrets exceedingly its inability to make the payment due on December 15, 1932.

ITALY

To the Secretary of State from the Italian Charge d'Affaires, December 15, 1932

The Chargé d'Affaires of Italy presents his compliments to His Excellency the Secretary of State and has the honor, by order of his Government, to inform the Department of State that, in conformity with the deliberation of December 5, 1932, by the Grand Council of Fascism, the Italian Ministry of Finance has remitted today to the United States Treasury the sum of $1,245,437 (one million, two hundred forty five thousand, four hundred thirty seven dollars) being the amount of the quota of the Italian war debt towards the United States, due December 15, 1932.

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Italian Ambassador, June 14, 1933

SIR:

With reference to your note of the 9th of this month, concerning the amounts due on June 15th by the Italian Government to the Government of the United States in accordance with the debt agreement of November 14th, 1925, I have been instructed to inform you that on June 13th the Fascist Great Council has passed the following Resolution:

"In view of the payment due to the United States on June 15th and of the opening of the Economic Conference in London, the Fascist Great Council decides that a payment of one million dollars shall be made in order to show the goodwill of the Italian Government and at the same time the limitations imposed upon it by the existing situation. The Council invites the Minister of Foreign Affairs to start negotiations for the final solution of this problem before the payment of next December falls due as provided by the existing debt agreement".

I am also instructed to inform you that, in accordance with the above Resolution and in view of the representations already made by Finance Minister Signor Jung during his recent visit to Washington in regard to Italy's capacity to pay, the Italian Government propose to make an immediate payment of one million dollars as an acknowledgement of the debt pending a final settlement and that they would be glad to enter upon negotiations for such a final settlement of the war debt question at the earliest date convenient to the Government of the United States.

Accept [etc.].

To the Italian Ambassador, June 17, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

In reply to Your Excellency's note of June 14th, the President directs me to say that the Government of the United States notes that the payment of one million dollars has been made on account and as an acknowledgment by your Government of the debt due the United States. This Government notes also the request of the Italian Government for an opportunity to present representations concerning the entire debt question and in reply desires to inform you that it will be glad to confer with you in regard to this matter.

Furthermore it is noted that the Italian Government has not made full payment at this time for the reasons which were presented to this Government by Finance Minister, Mr. Jung, during his recent visit to Washington, at which time he discussed Italy's capacity to pay.

The Government of the United States, however, would not be entirely candid if it did not express its thought that a payment of one million dollars on a total payment due of $13,545,437.50 may be regarded in the United States as unsubstantial, and may occasion disappointment on the part of the Congress and the people of the United States.

LATVIA

To the Secretary of State from the Consul General of Latvia in New York City, in Charge of Legation, November 23, 1932

SIR:

Under instructions from my Government, I have the honor to call your attention to the serious concern of the Government of Latvia, as to the possible effect on the country's financial and economic situation, of a transfer to the United States Treasury, of the payment due December 15, 1932, of the semi-annual interest in the amount of $102,660, as well as of the payment of a Bond maturing December 15, 1932, in the principal amount of $9,200, which are not postponable under the terms of the debt funding agreement of September 24, 1925, between the Government of the Republic of Latvia and the Government of the United States.

My Government has already been necessitated to take advantage of the provision contained in Article 2 of the funding agreement, in declaring its intention to postpone the principal payment due on the same date, in the amount of $37,000, but feels that the present precariousness of Latvia's situation as regards foreign exchange reserves, and the continued depressed condition of the country's export trade, dictate a necessity for further and full relief from its financial obligations under the aforementioned debt funding agreement, during the period of acute crisis,—which is still without noticeable abatement, notwithstanding the emergency measures which have been taken by the Latvian Government, to stem the abnormal outflow of foreign exchange, and to regulate and balance foreign trade. No doubt the United States Government is informed that the Government of the Republic of Latvia, since the beginning of the present crisis, has made drastic cuts in its budget expenditures also, and pursued a policy of strictest economy. It is to be feared lest further steps in this direction will serve only to undermine the vital forces of the country's financial and economic life.

If the earnest efforts of my Government, have not yet been adequate to overcome the crisis and to cope with the rising difficulties, it is because of reasons deeply rooted in the general World situation, which have obstructed the quick recovery of any single country, and have made it impossible for my country to attain such degree of restoration to normalcy of its finances, as would permit the resumption of its intergovernmental obligations, agreed upon under considerably more favorable circumstances, when the prospect was for uninterrupted progress on the road of recovery.

The Government of the Republic of Latvia has, with satisfaction, noted that the powers principally concerned in the matter of intergovernmental obligations, have taken the initiative in requesting the United States Government to further study the debt question with a view to finding additional remedies to alleviate the present situation. It is to be expected that some period of time would be required to find a satisfactory solution, and until the suggested remedial measures could be enacted. It is the earnest hope of the Government of the Republic of Latvia that, in the meantime, the Government of the United States of America will find it possible to extend the beneficial effects of President Hoover's announcement of June 20, 1931, by granting a further moratorium for payments due under the debt funding agreement of September 24, 1925.

As of immediate urgency, I have the honor, Sir, to renew the request of my Government for a postponement of the whole amount payable on December 15, 1932, on the principal, as well as on the interest.

I trust that the United States Government will receive this request of the Government of Latvia, in a spirit of high understanding and comprehension of the exigencies of the present situation, and will grant it their favorable consideration.

With assurances [etc.]

ARTHUR B. LULE.

Aide-Mémoire of the Latvian Minister for Foreign Affairs to the American Minister, December 3, 1932

In connection with the payment of the next instalment of the Latvian debt to the United States falling due on December 15th, and with reference to the Note No. R. 763.00 of the 13th September last and the reply of the American Chargé d'Affaires of September 24th, the Minister for Foreign Affairs has the honor to inform His Excellency, the American Minister, that Mr. Lule, Latvian Consul General in New York and in charge of the Latvian Legation in the United States, has been instructed to address himself once more to the Government of the United States with the request to postpone the payment of interest as well as principal.

The reasons for asking for such a postponement are the following:

Owing to the catastrophal fall of the prices obtained for Latvian agricultural produce, of which the exports are mainly composed, the influx of foreign currency into Latvia has diminished to such an extent that about a year ago already extraordinary measures had to be adopted to protect the small reserves of gold and foreign currency at the disposal of the Latvijas Banka. So, for instance, Latvian exports to the United States show the following figures:

January to September 1930.....	Ls. 1, 609, 000
During the same period in 1931 they fell to.....	1, 033, 000
While for that period in the current year they amount to barely.....	562, 000

The total exports, which reached Ls. 225,000,000 during the first nine months of 1930, fell to Ls. 143,400,000 in 1931 and to Ls. 59,100,000 during the same period of the current year.

The reserves of foreign currency at the disposal of the Latvijas Banka have reached such a low level that, unless this downward movement can be stopped, it is to be feared that there will be no possibility in the near future to provide the necessary foreign currency to pay for the goods which have to be imported.

The above is illustrated by the fact that, according to the statement of the Latvijas Banka, the assets of foreign currency at the disposal of that Bank on

November 28th, 1932, amounted to.....	Ls. 11, 355, 232. 88
While, on an average, in 1930.....	42, 500, 000. 00
In 1929.....	68, 200, 000. 00
And in 1928.....	72, 500, 000. 00

were still available.

Although these reserves at the disposal of the Latvijas Banka are so inconsiderable, there are still outstanding sums to be paid for previously imported goods. As the American Legation is aware, there have been many cases where the Currency Commission has been unable to satisfy in full the demands presented to it for the transfer of dollars to the United States.

In spite of the extraordinary measures taken by the Latvian Government in order to prevent the outflow of foreign currency during the last months and weeks, a constant decrease can be observed every week, and the only possible course of action seems to be the introduction of additional and severer restrictions than those that are in force already.

Notwithstanding the fact that the budget of the State has been reduced to the utmost and that the Government has even been obliged to cut down the salaries of the State officials which, in many cases, hardly reached the indispensable minimum, it seems that the Government will have to cope with a heavy budgetary deficit. They are, so far, at a loss to devise the means by which this deficit could be covered.

Contrary to comments in the American press, according to which the American people consider that many European nations are spending too much on unproductive armaments, in Latvia all expenditure for the requirements of the army has been reduced to the utmost. Her expenditure for the purposes of national defense is exceedingly moderate and even insufficient for protecting the country against any kind of unprovoked aggression.

The Latvian army does not, in fact, amount to 20,000 men, manifestly possessing insufficient equipment and war material.

Among others, the American Representatives at the World Disarmament Conference have recognized the point of view of the Latvian authorities on the subject.

Finally, the Latvian Government hope that the Government and the Congress of the United States, in dealing with the question of the Latvian debt, will also consider the devastations wrought in the country by wars and revolution. The most fertile parts of the country had to be evacuated by the Latvian population, while afterwards the economic life of Latvia had to be reconstructed without any help from abroad. The Latvian nation has not only sustained heavy material losses during the Great war and its fights for liberation, but it has also lost a proportionally very important number of human lives (about 40,000 killed), the country being in the direct line of battle the whole time the world war lasted. Even now, 18 years after the beginning of the war, there are regions in Latvia where, owing to the lack of means, it has been impossible to remove all traces of the trenches and to turn the waste into arable land once more. Although the nation has been subjected to such severe sufferings, Latvia has received no reparations at all, unlike all the other nations of Western Europe that had been involved in a similar way during the world war.

It is the earnest desire of the Minister for Foreign Affairs that Mr. Skinner should kindly undertake to inform his Government of the above-mentioned facts. Mr. Zarins hopes that the particular circumstances existing in Latvia, which constitute a decided change for the worse since 1925, date when the debt agreement was made, will be taken into consideration, and that the Congress of the United States will find it possible to postpone the payment which falls due on December 15th on account of the Latvian debt to the United States for a period covering the business depression and until the question of the Latvian debt can be settled in all its aspects.

MINISTRY FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS,
Riga.

To the American Minister from the Latvian Minister for Foreign Affairs, December 15, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I have the honour to refer to my Note of the 13th of September last, to the Note which was handed over to the American Secretary of State on the 23rd of November and, lastly, to the Aide-Memoire I transmitted to you on December 3rd, concerning the payment of the next instalment due to the United States in virtue of the debt funding agreement concluded on September 24th, 1925.

I have the honour to inform Your Excellency that, taking into consideration the refusal of the United States Government to grant a postponement of the payment falling due to-day, which refusal was communicated to Mr. Lule, Latvian Consul General in New York and in charge of the Latvian Legation in the United States, on the 10th of December by the Assistant Secretary of State and by Mr. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, the Latvian Government have decided to pay the United States Treasury the sum of $111,852.12, which sum was mentioned as not to be postponed in the Note of the American Charge d'Affaires in Riga of September 24th. The Minister of Finance has to-day advised the Federal Reserve Bank in New York by telegraph to effect the above payment.

In the name of the Latvian Government I have to declare in this connection that this payment has been made out of the inalienable reserves of the State, and only in view of the categorical demand of the United States Government.

Notwithstanding this, Latvia maintains the point of view expressed in the Notes of September 13th and November 23rd, and the Aide-Memoire of December 3rd, and requests that the revision of the debt funding agreement of September 24th, 1925, be accomplished in any case before the next instalment falls due, i.e. before June 15th, 1933.

The payment in question has further been made out of the conviction of the Latvian Government that it will facilitate considerably a satisfactory approach to the settlement and the final liquidation of the whole question of war and intergovernmental debts.

Finally, I have the honour to state that this payment is not regarded by the Latvian Government as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the agreement of 1925. It is made, because there has not been sufficient time to discuss and explain to the United States Government and Congress the financial and economic situation of Latvia.

I avail myself [etc.]

CH. ZARINS

To the Consul General of Latvia in New York City, in Charge of Legation, December 22, 1932

SIR:

By your note of December 15, 1932, I have learned with satisfaction of the payment by your Government to the order of the Treasury of the United States of the sum due December 15 under the Debt Funding Agreement of September 24, 1925. However, in view of the statement in your note that "the Government of the Republic of Latvia do not regard this payment as a resumption of payments under the Debt Funding Agreement of September 24, 1925", I must call attention to the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury has no authority to accept payment from your Government except as provided under the terms of the Debt Funding Agreement.

There is reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect of the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration. The Executive has no power to amend or to alter them either directly or by implied commitment. Accordingly, it should be understood that acceptance by the Secretary of the Treasury of funds tendered in payment of the December 15 installment cannot constitute approval of or agreement to any condition or declaration of policy inconsistent with the terms of the agreement. The sum so received must be credited to principal and interest as provided therein.

I note the request of the Government of Latvia that a full survey of the matter of Latvia's indebtedness to the United States be made, and that a revision of the Debt Funding Agreement of September 24, 1925, take place before the next payment date. The President of the United States is disposed, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, in cooperation with the Latvian Government, to survey the entire situation. Such an examination does not imply cancellation but I believe that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. At an opportune time I shall communicate further with your Government in this regard.

Accept [etc.]

HENRY L. STIMSON.

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Consul General of Latvia in New York City, in Charge of Legation, June 15, 1933

SIR:

Under instructions from my Government, I have the honor to refer to the viewpoint of the Government of Latvia, concerning the indebtedness of Latvia to the United States of America, as expressed in the note of the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Latvia to the American Minister to Latvia, dated December 15, 1932, and in my note of the same date to the Secretary of State of the United States, to which a reply, dated December 22, 1932, was received from the then Secretary of State, indicating the willingness of the President of the United States to survey the entire debt situation. Further I have the honor to call your attention to the Aide Memoire handed me by the Honorable Henry L. Stimson, on January 26, 1933, concerning a discussion of the debt question, and containing a statement to the effect that an appropriate date for such discussion would be suggested by the United States Government. The willingness of the Latvian Government to send a delegate or delegates to participate in these discussions was expressed by the note of the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Latvia to the American Minister to Latvia, dated February 9th, as well as by my note of the same date to the Secretary of State of the United States. However, up to the present time, no notice proposing a date for the said discussions has been received by the Government of Latvia. My Government state with regret that no opportunity for a survey of the debt situation has been given them, to the present date, June 15th, when a new interest payment has become due under the Debt-Funding Agreement of September 24, 1925.

I am directed, Sir, to inform you that the Government of Latvia still adhere to the motivation and viewpoint as contained in their note of December 15, 1932. Inasmuch as the international situation has become even more complicated and involved since that date, due to exchange and transfer difficulties, and inasmuch as the foreign trade of Latvia has suffered a further, considerable decline, and the budget problem presents increasing difficulties, the Government of Latvia is faced with the necessity, which they sincerely regret, of refraining from payment of interest due on June 15, 1933, until the proposed negotiations concerning a revision of the Debt-Funding Agreement, have been brought to a conclusion.

However, I have the honor to advise you, Sir, that my Government has not the slightest intention of interfering with or barring the negotiations which they anticipate with the Government of the United States, regarding Latvia's indebtedness, by an unilateral decision or action. It is to avoid such an impression that the Government of Latvia have this day transferred to the United States Treasury, the amount of $6,000 (six thousand dollars), constituting approximately 5% (five per cent) of the interest payment due June 15, 1933, with the same reservation, however, as was made in connection with the last payment, that of December 15, 1932 to the effect that the Government of Latvia do not consider this transfer as resumption of payments under the Agreement of September 24, 1925.

May I request, Sir, that the Department of the Treasury of the United States, be advised accordingly.

Please accept [etc.]

ARTHUR B. LULE.

To the Consul General of Latvia in New York City, in charge of Legation, June 21, 1933

SIR:

The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your note of June 15, in which you set forth the decision of the Latvian Government to pay the Government of the United States the sum of $6,000., an amount which you point out represents approximately five per cent of the interest payment due on June 15, as a payment on account and as an acknowledgment by the Latvian Government of the debt due the United States.

In accordance with your request, the representations of the Government of Latvia with regard to the entire debt question between our two countries will be gladly heard at a date to be agreed upon between us.

Accept [etc.]

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,

LITHUANIA

To the Secretary of State from the Lithuanian Minister, December 10, 1932

SIR:

I have the honor to submit, for the consideration of the United States Government, the enclosed Memorandum presenting the position of the Lithuanian Government on the question of its obligations under the terms of the Debt Funding Agreement entered into between Lithuania and the United States of America on September 22, 1924.

The Lithuanian Government will greatly appreciate the favor of a reply to the questions raised in the said Memorandum.

Accept [etc.]

BRONIUS K. BALUTIS.

[Memorandum]

The Lithuanian Government, fully conscious of its duty in relation to the fulfillment of international obligations and firm in its determination to discharge them to the best of its ability, heretofore has met faithfully its obligations under the terms of the Debt Funding Agreement entered into between the governments of Lithuania and the United States of America on September 22, 1924.

The disintegrating forces, which originated from the World War activities and which seemed to be on a decline at the time of the above mentioned debt settlement, have reasserted themselves during recent years on such a wide scale and with such unexpected violence throughout the world that it is felt that the encouraging prospects of the early economic recuperation, so fondly hoped for at that time, now have to be all but abandoned. The general feeling seems to be that urgent and drastic corrective measures must be taken without further delay if the remnants of the economic structure are to be saved and the very hope for a better future is not to be abandoned.

It is in the light of these general circumstances and apprehensions that the Lithuanian Government feels itself moved, however unwillingly, to respectfully submit to the Government of the United States, for its earnest attention and consideration, the greatly changed state of conditions by which the Government of Lithuania finds itself faced in its attempts to discharge the obligations undertaken by the terms of the above mentioned Agreement.

I. A brief review of the origin of the Agreement, as well as of some of the circumstances closely relating to it, may be helpful in clarifying the motives which prompt the Lithuanian Government in this matter.

In 1919, while the Lithuanian territory was still under the occupation of German troops and the Lithuanian Government was as yet unrecognized by the Allied and Associated Powers, and, as such, was deprived of the ability to enter into any direct binding agreements with other governments, the Government of the United States was in the process of disposing of various surplus war materials then stored in France.

The Lithuanian Government, through its Delegation to the Peace Conference in Paris, applied for some of these surplus war materials. A request was made not for weapons or other strictly-termed war materials, but for food, clothing, medical appliances and like materials then urgently needed by the destitute population of Lithuania. This application was unsuccessful for the reason that the Lithuanian Government, still unrecognized by the Government of the United States, lacked the legal capacity to enter into a binding international agreement. The United States Liquidation Commission, in charge of the disposal of the above mentioned surplus war materials, though unable to grant the request of the unrecognized government, could dispose, however, of these surplus materials to private organizations and corporations.

To meet the said contingency, the co-partnership named "Vilnis" was organized and this organization negotiated with the United States Liquidation Commission the purchase of certain supplies to the total value of $4,159,491.96. Payment for the said supplies was arranged in the following manner: a Special Treasury Note of the Lithuanian Government in the face value of five million dollars, due and payable on June 30, 1922, was given,—thus covering the principal and interest at the rate of five per cent per annum up to the date of maturity of the said note. (It is interesting to note here that the significant passage in the said Special Treasury Note read, in part, as follows: "This note shall be entitled to the security of, and shall constitute a charge upon, any payments or property which the Government of Lithuania may receive from Germany or any of its Allies, by way of reparation or cession.")

In addition to the above mentioned supplies, Lithuania received a certain amount of supplies from the American Relief Administration, the original cost of which was $822,136.07.

Thus the total indebtedness of the Lithuanian Government to the Government of the United States, arising out of the above two transactions, amounted to the original value of $4,981,628.03. With the interest to date, accrued and unpaid, it was funded by the Agreement, signed on September 22, 1924, in the sum of $6,030,000 on terms substantially similar to those of the settlement with Great Britain.

The above tends to indicate that Lithuania's indebtedness in some respects differs from the so-called "war debts" proper, as for instance:

(a) The Lithuanian Government's indebtedness did not arise out of loans made before the Armistice, nor was it for any war materials or for war purposes generally. On the contrary, it was incurred for supplies of such a nature that it might be more properly classified under the head of Relief Assistance.

(b) The Lithuanian Government in contracting this indebtedness did not receive one cent in cash, but acquired the various supplies at the prices then prevailing;—and it must be remembered that the prices of 1919, due to the exigencies of war, were the highest on record.

In this connection it may also be observed that the above mentioned temporary legal incapacity placed the Lithuanian Government, as a purchaser, in a disadvantageous position as compared to that of other purchasers whose legal status was not questioned and who, arriving on the scene at an earlier date, had a full opportunity for a free bargain and an ample selection while the Lithuanian purchaser, handicapped by the above circumstances, was glad to receive what could possibly be obtained.

It should be stated immediately that the above elucidation of the transaction, resulting in an indebtedness of Lithuania to the United States of America, is made here not in a spirit of any grievance whatsoever, but with the sole purpose of indicating that while all the debts, from a legal point of view, are of equal validity, still there may be certain circumstances, in connection with the process of contracting them, which would seem to justify their consideration, if not in law then at least in equity, in a somewhat different light from the straight loan transactions.

11. By the terms of the Funding Agreement of September 22, 1924, Lithuania undertook to repay this original indebtedness of $4,981,628.03 in the total funded sum (principal and interest) of over fourteen million dollars, to be paid during a period of 62 years.

With reference to the above settlement it may be permissible to mention a few additional circumstances which may illuminate more adequately the position of Lithuania. They are:

(1) Lithuania is well advanced on the list of debt settlements, being the fourth nation to sign a debt funding agreement.

(2) The interest payable, as accepted by Lithuania, is the same as that of Great Britain and is of the highest category.

(3) In the meantime, the extent of reduction granted to Lithuania by the terms of the debt settlement happens to be of the lowest category, only a few other debtors leading her by an insignificant fraction of percentage.

(4) Although between the beginning of the World War in 1914 and the date of the debt settlement with the United States in 1924, the Lithuanian people were twice made unwilling victims of the total devaluation of the currency imposed upon them (first the Russian rouble and then the German mark), yet Lithuania undertook to pay off her obligations as soon as she succeeded in establishing her national sound currency,—and she has already actually paid in cash on account of the said indebtedness the total sum of $1,128,580.22.

(5) Additional light may be thrown on the subject by mentioning the fact that Lithuania, although a victim of the very extensive damages done to her while her territory was a battlefield for the contending armies and of still more extensive damages resulting from a nearly five year occupation by German armies, received no appropriate compensation or reparations which could be applied toward payment of her own obligations contracted during dire necessity and thus lighten her own burden. In this respect the position of Lithuania greatly differs from the position of other debtors and her comparative capacity to pay is thereby affected.

It is hoped that the above observations may lay the foundation for the claim that, if Lithuania was eager to settle her obligations at the earliest possible opportunity, she was in no less a degree determined, regardless of all the difficulties and handicaps of a newly-born State, to carry out faithfully and to the best of her ability the obligations so undertaken.

III. It is assumed from the various statements repeatedly made by authoritative persons, at the time of the debt settlement and since, that the basic principle underlying the debt settlements with the various debtor countries was the debtor's capacity to pay. It must be recognized that it is a just and generous principle, and of undisputed practical value. Yet, since this principle was laid as a foundation of the settlement, it may also be logically assumed that what was just and equitable at the time of settlement and of the initial payment must also be just and equitable at the time of any subsequent payment—in other words, that the same principle of the capacity to pay, born at the inception of the transaction, was meant to live during the subsequent stages of the fulfillment of the same transaction. An eloquent confirmation of the above assumption was given by the Debt Funding Commission itself when the policy of the United States was defined in the following terms:

"The commission (Debt Funding Commission) in its settlement with Great Britain . . . and in subsequent negotiations or settlements has adhered to the principle that the adjustments made with each government must be measured by the ability of the particular government to put aside and transfer to the United States the payments called for under the funding agreement.

"Nor does the principle of capacity to pay require the foreign debtor to pay to the full limit of its present or future capacity.

"It must be permitted to preserve and improve its economic position, to bring its budget into balance, and to place its finances and currency on a sound basis, and to maintain and, if possible, to improve the standard of living of its citizens.

"No settlement which is oppressive and retards the recovery and development of the foreign debtor is to the best interests of the United States or of Europe."

Prompted by the above stated considerations, the Lithuanian Government, while greatly regretting the necessity, nevertheless feels its duty to make a frank exposition of Lithuania's present economic and financial conditions which naturally control its "capacity to pay" and determine the ability to continue the fulfillment of its obligations.

IV. In order to show the difference between the economic conditions which prevailed in Lithuania at the time of the debt settlement and those existing at the present time, a statistical comparison of a few chief indicators of the national welfare will be necessary,—such as of the annual budgets, the trade balances and the currency circulation.

Annual budgets.—The annual budget of Lithuania for 1925, the first year of the debt payments to the United States, totaled in the sum of nearly $26,000,000. During subsequent years the annual budgets gradually increased until in 1930 the sum of nearly $35,000,000 was reached. Practically all of the budgets were balanced with a small favorable margin.

Then adverse economic and financial conditions proceeded to set it back. The current year's budget was balanced at a level of $28,000,000, thus making a drastic reduction, in comparison with last year, of $6,000,000. The figures available for the first nine months of the current year indicate a further alarming fall in revenue receipts and a considerable further reduction of the budgetary figures will be unavoidable. Thus the budget of the current year has dropped nearly to the level of that of 1925, and the modest degree of progress made during the intervening years was lost. Of greater significance is the apprehension that, regardless of drastic cuts in expenditures, a balance between revenue receipts and expenditures may not be maintained. For a small and new country with limited and very modest resources, the prospect of being thrown on the negative side of the ledger, is a matter not merely of apprehension but of real danger.

The above budgetary figures also demonstrate the extremely low level of incomes and expenditures per capita: about $10.00 in 1924, $14.00 in 1930, and again about $10.00 in 1932. It is not difficult to see that the margin between the present level of the country's development and that of a minimum indispensable for its cultural and economic progress is so narrow that a further retrenchment would not only arrest the continuation of the very modest progress, but would simultaneously set into action those disintegrating forces which, if permitted to continue, would lead to an actual collapse of the economic structure.

Trade balance.—As already mentioned above, Lithuania undertook to repay her obligations to the United States of America shortly after the establishment of her own stable currency.

Having practically no gold reserve at the time and having to discharge her obligations to the United States in terms of gold currency, Lithuania could meet these obligations only from her foreign trade surpluses. The development of the foreign trade of Lithuania was as follows.

For the year of 1924, the value of exports was $26,660,000; the value of imports—$20,650,000, leaving a surplus of $6,000,000.

For the year of 1930, the exports amounted to $33,378,000, the imports to $32,984,000, leaving a surplus of only $394,000.

The catastrophic drop in the prices of agricultural products, which constitute practically the sole items of export, as well as various trade restrictions of recent origin, account for the following figures of exports for the last 2 years:

1931.....	$27,311,910
1932 (for the first 9 months).....	14,246,140

The sharp drop in exports compelled a corresponding curtailment of imports, as is shown by the following figures:

1931.....	$27,795,910
1932.....	12,434,090

Of particular interest is the trade balance between Lithuania and the United States. It has always been very adverse to Lithuania, as the following figures show:

Exports to the United States:		Imports from the United States:
1924.....	$811,560	1924.....	$988,460
1925.....	359,380	1925.....	1,831,080
1926.....	208,330	1926.....	1,065,240
1927.....	437,870	1927.....	1,450,330
1928.....	241,140	1928.....	2,047,860
1929.....	442,140	1929.....	1,672,430
1930.....	264,340	1930.....	1,470,370
1931.....	201,360	1931.....	1,077,390
1932 (for the first 9 months).....	23,670	1932 (for the first 9 months).....	393,170
Total.....	2,989,790	Total.....	11,996,330

The above review of the development of the foreign trade of Lithuania clearly demonstrates two propositions:

First. That the catastrophic drop in prices of agricultural commodities, the numerous new and drastic trade restrictions introduced throughout Europe, and, finally, the abandonment of the gold standard by some countries which happen to be among the best trade customers of Lithuania, brought about the situation where it comes not only increasingly difficult, but almost impossible to build up the balances out of which her foreign obligations may be met;

Second. That the trade balance with the United States for the period from the time of the debt settlement up to the present date shows that Lithuania has actually paid to the United States of America in trade a net sum of $9,006,540.

Money circulation.—The Lithuanian national currency, the litas, was established at the end of 1922. In the beginning it was covered, almost exclusively, by stable foreign currencies—mostly the dollar and the pound sterling. Then a modest gold reserve was gradually built. The Lithuanian Government has this to its credit, that while the various European currencies, new ones as well as old ones, crashed or widely fluctuated, the newly-established Lithuanian national currency never went off its full par value, which was of a gold standard.

This was achieved at the cost of considerable hardships and sacrifices. The fixed determination of the Lithuanian Government is to continue to maintain her currency on the gold standard as it is considered to be the only reliable anchor for her economic and financial safety. Yet this is possible of achievement only when the annual budgets are adequately balanced and the trade and paying balances maintain a proper equilibrium. If it is deemed advisable to apply such a policy to any country,—in the case of a small and new country with limited resources and possibilities, a similar policy is imperative.

V. It is hoped that the above review, incomplete as it is, will sufficiently indicate the changed status of economic and financial conditions in Lithuania and demonstrate how gravely the events of recent years have affected her capacity to pay. In some respects this capacity is actually even below the level of the capacity existing at the time of the debt settlement.

In view of the above considerations, the Lithuanian Government has the honor to request, and ventures to hope that the Government of the United States will consent, to reexamine and to reconsider the question of the indebtedness of Lithuania to the United States, with a view of its more proper adjustment to the new and changed economic and financial conditions.

At the same time the Lithuanian Government desires to bring to the attention of the United States Government that the rapidly diminishing revenue receipts of the current year, the greatly reduced value of the foreign trade and the existing exchange difficulties, have created a situation whereby it becomes increasingly difficult for the Lithuanian Government to meet the payment due on the 15th day of December of the current year in the manner provided by the terms of the Funding Agreement of 1924. The Lithuanian Government, therefore, would greatly appreciate it if a postponement of this payment could be granted or an adequate relief from the strict compliance with the terms of the said Agreement could be arranged.

DECEMBER 9, 1932.

To the Lithuanian Minister, December 15, 1932

SIR:

My Government has considered with the greatest care the note of December 10th, 1932, from the Lithuanian Government, in which it has set forth at length the reasons it advances for a reconsideration of the whole question of inter-governmental war debts, and for the postponement of the payment due by the Lithuanian Government to the Government of the United States on December 15th, next.

Whatever part debt payments may have played in the economic history of the post-war years, it is clear that in the present conditions of world-wide depression, accompanied by a sweeping fall of prices, their weight has greatly increased, and that they have a very definite relationship to the problem of recovery in which both the Lithuanian and the American people have so vital an interest.

The President of the United States is prepared, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, to cooperate with the Lithuanian Government in surveying the entire situation and in considering what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade, and the recovery of prices.

I believe that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. Such an examination does not imply cancellation.

My Government, however, has not been able to reach the conclusion that a postponement of the December 15th payment from the Lithuanian Government to the United States is necessary because of its effect on the problem of recovery. Although we recognize the serious economic and financial difficulties which the Lithuanian Government, in common with all other governments, is now facing, the maintenance of these agreements in their operation pending due opportunity for analysis of all matters bearing upon your request for revision and its consideration by the American Congress and people still appears to us to outweigh any reasons presented for a delay.

SIR:

Referring to my note and Memorandum delivered to you on December 10, and the exchange of views on that occasion, I have the honor to inform you that the Lithuanian Government has decided to pay the next instalment due to the Treasury of the United States on December 15, as provided by the terms of the Debt Funding Agreement of September 22, 1924, and that the said payment will be made to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States.

At the same time my Government desires to express a hope that by making this payment it is not placing itself in a less favorable position than that which may result to any of the other countries from the eventual reconsideration of the general question of intergovernmental debts.

To the Secretary of State from the Polish Ambassador, November 22, 1932
SIR:

Referring to our conversation this morning, I have the honor to send you the enclosed copy of my oral declaration.

[Memorandum]

On the occasion of the conference held today in Washington the Polish Government consider it their duty to notify the United States Government that owing to the general financial and economic situation of the world, the Polish Government foresee the necessity of asking for the postponement of the payment due from Poland to the Government of the United States on December 15, 1932.

At the same time the Polish Government declare they would welcome the opportunity of a conference with the Government of the United States in order to discuss conditions of the above postponement of the December payment and the reconsideration of the Agreement of November 14, 1924.

To the Polish Ambassador, November 26, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

I fully appreciate the importance of the proposal that you made to me on November 22nd and the seriousness of the situation upon which it is predicated. The mere fact that your Government suggests the necessity of a review of the intergovernmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

With this end in view, you will permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government such a review and might affect its result. Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but the Congress in the past has itself provided the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The Executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

I am not oblivious to the fact that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country can not be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described.

The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to, should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject.

As to the suspension of the installment of the Polish debt due on December 15th, no authority lies within the Executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15th as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

W. R. CASTLE, Jr.,
Acting Secretary of State.

To the Secretary of State from the Polish Ambassador, December 8, 1932

SIR:

In accordance with the instructions received from my Government I have the honor to submit herewith their reply to your note of November 26, 1932.

Because of the importance which my Government attach to their note, I have been instructed to submit it to you in its original Polish text together with a translation into English.

Accept [etc.]

[Enclosure]

1. The Polish Government acknowledge the receipt of the note of the Department of State dated November 26, and highly appreciate the desire of the American Government expressed therein of arriving at solutions which would be satisfactory to both Governments and Nations.

2. Poland, on her part, is mindful of the friendly action of the American people, who, by advancing on credit food articles, clothing and medical supplies, had assisted the Polish Nation in overcoming the difficult period following the conclusion of the Great War. To satisfy this obligation has been Poland's constant and earnest ambition.

3. The Polish Government has spared no effort in order to provide the country with a sound and permanent financial basis. The achievement of this object was fraught with great difficulties owing to the devastation of Polish territory by war, and by the presence of armies of occupation also to the fact that the country was entirely deprived of capital. The country's finances were, nevertheless, gradually put in order with the notable aid of private American capital, the currency was stabilized, and, thanks to the prudent policy of the Polish Government, which knew how to adapt itself to the exigencies of the world crisis, it was possible to avoid restrictions on the freedom of remittances payable abroad, although in most countries neighboring with Poland such restrictions have been imposed.

4. Poland is ready to do her utmost in order to fulfill her obligation. Yet, being aware of the practical sense guiding the United States and convinced that the permanent liabilities accepted in the agreement of November 14th, 1924, have been too burdensome,—as witness the fact that the rate of interest on Poland's debt is three per cent and three and one half per cent, while debts of several other countries whose capacity to pay exceeds that of Poland, bear considerably lower rates, amounting in some instances to one-eighth per cent,—requests that, until such time as the entire matter of Poland's indebtedness to the United States is reconsidered, the payment of interest due on December 15, next, be postponed.

5. In view of the tenor of the sixth paragraph of the State Department's note dated November 26, the Polish Government affirm that they are prompted to such action because of the grave effects which the remittance of such payment might produce on Poland's economic structure and balance. The danger of such consequences will be clearly apparent if the economic and financial situation in which Poland has found itself in consequence of the universal economic difficulties, are taken into consideration.

6. As a country of predominantly agricultural character Poland has been particularly severely affected by the present crisis. The decline in prices of farm products has made unprofitable a branch of production, which forms a means of livelihood for over seventy per cent of Poland's population. The catastrophic condition of agriculture has reacted unfavorably on all other branches of national production, already affected by difficulties of disposal in foreign markets. The incomes of the vast majority of citizens are today considerably below those which should be regarded as a reasonable minimum for existence. The expenditures of the State and of local government bodies have been reduced to the very low limits.

7. The Polish Government are conducting a policy of strict economies. A monthly budgeting system which had been suggested by American experts is being applied. Far reaching economies have been effected in all branches of the budget. The number of officials has been reduced, several government departments, including two Ministries, have been suppressed. Salaries of government officials have been reduced by twenty to thirty per cent. As a result of these efforts the actual expenditure of the State—which in the budget period of 1929/30 amounted to 335 million dollars (2,991 million zlotys), and in the period of 1930/31 still reached the sum of 315 million dollars (2,810 million zlotys)—was reduced, in the budget year of 1931/32, to only 277 million dollars (2,466 million zlotys) and, in the first six months of 1932/33,—to 126 million dollars (1,128 million zlotys). Important economies have also been effected in the expenditures of local government bodies. But the decline in the revenue of the State and of local government bodies was even greater, notwithstanding the several new taxes which were introduced during that period. The actual revenue of the State for the budget period of 1929/30 was 339 million dollars (3,030 million zlotys), in the period of 1930/31—308 million dollars (2,748 million zlotys), while in the 1931/32 period it was 254 million dollars (2,262 million zlotys), and during the first six months of 1932/33—113 million dollars (1,007 million zlotys). It is apparent from the above figures that the deficit for the budget period of 1930/31 amounted to 7 million dollars (62 million zlotys), for the 1931/32 period—to 23 million dollars (204 million zlotys) and for the first half of the current budget year—to 13 million dollars (121 million zlotys) which necessitates the adoption of still further economies.

8. It is imperative for Poland to maintain a budget balance not only within the yearly but also within the monthly budget limits, firstly because of a shortage of cash reserves and, secondly, because of the condition of the Polish money market, disallowing, as it does, the coverage of expenditures by means of even short term credit operations—a remedy which is at the disposal of governments elsewhere. To a large extent this difficulty is caused by the withdrawal of short-term foreign investments, which have hitherto been engaged in the country. As stated above, Poland did not impose currency restrictions; the imposition, however, of such restrictions in neighboring countries caused a comparatively considerable egress of foreign short term credits amounting to over 30 per cent as compared with the year 1930. Under such conditions of the Polish money market any larger expenditure, resulting in an increase of the monthly budget deficit, would necessarily cause a disorganisation in the machinery of the State.

9. The continued stability of the currency necessitated and still necessitates a recourse to far reaching deflation. In accordance with this principle the Bank of Poland maintains the statutory ratio of cover to currency in circulation, thereby insuring the maintenance of the par value of the zloty and the capacity of meeting foreign commitments in the future. However, the balance in this field has been achieved on a very low level of both coverage and circulation; the value of Bank of Poland notes in circulation at the end of 1930 amounted to 183 million dollars (1,628 million zlotys), on November 20, 1932—to 108 million dollars (966 million zlotys); the coverage in gold and foreign exchange at the end of 1930 was 107 million dollars (957 million zlotys) and on November 20, 1932—60 million dollars (537 million zlotys); the ratio of cover to currency in circulation and obligations payable at sight was 63 per cent at the end of 1930 and 45 per cent on November 20, 1932. The maintenance of this ratio, on its present level at least, must be regarded as indispensable to the continued stability of the currency and to the capacity of making foreign payments. In this respect, the transfer of the sums due on December 15th might have very unfavorable effects.

10. In view of the complete stoppage of the international circulation of capital, Poland is able to cover its foreign payment only through the exportation of its produce. Polish exports meet with ever-increasing difficulties. The value of the Polish export trade which consists predominantly of agricultural products and raw materials is, because of the decline in prices, particularly depreciated. The figures of the Polish export and import trade illustrate this condition. Thus, the value of exports in 1928 amounted to 288 million dollars (2,508 million zlotys), in 1931—211 million dollars (1,879 million zlotys), for the first ten months of 1932—100 million dollars (890 million zlotys); the value of imports to Poland in 1928 was 377 million dollars (3,362 million zlotys), in 1931—165 million dollars (1,468 million zlotys) and for the first ten months of 1932—80 million dollars (713 million zlotys). In recent years favorable trade balances were attained by Poland only through a maximum limitation of consumption of imported merchandise. Thirty nine per cent of Polish exports are destined to markets where currency regulations are in force; twenty six per cent to markets, where, since 1931, currency has depreciated. It is important to note that the markets thus affected are those which form the natural outlets for Polish exports, the first as regards exports by land and the second as regards exports by sea. Import quotas and embargoes as well as high tariff barriers are encountered by Polish exports in practically all their markets.

11. The commercial relations between Poland and the United States are such that Poland buys ten times as much from, as she sells in, the United States. In the years 1927 and 1928 the resulting balance in favor of the United States was offset by the influx into Poland of long-term American investments. At the same time an important item in Poland's balance of payments was formed by remittances of Polish emigrants settling in the United States. Since 1929 the influx of American capital into Poland has ceased. The restrictions on immigration to the United States, which have existed since 1922, have been, apart from other important consequences for Poland, causing a decline in emigrant remittances. The service of market loans floated in the United States by the Polish Government and by local government bodies necessitates regular annual payments, amounting approximately to 14 million dollars (130 million zlotys) per year. Poland's balance of payments in respect of the United States shows a very considerable surplus in favor of the latter. During the three years from 1929 to 1931, inclusive, the surplus in favor of the United States amounted to 103 million dollars (919 million zlotys). This sum is composed as follows: balance of trade—84 million dollars (744 million zlotys); service of market loans—43 million dollars (388 million zlotys) and payments on account of Poland's indebtedness to the Government of the United States—14 million dollars (121 million zlotys), less the sum of Polish emigrant remittances during the same period which amounted to 38 million dollars (334 million zlotys). In the current year the balance of payments will remain in favor of the United States and will amount to 18 million dollars (162 million zlotys), of which the balance of trade is 11 million dollars (100 million zlotys), service of market loans—15 million dollars (133 million zlotys), emigrant remittances—8 million dollars (71 million zlotys). It is clearly apparent from these figures that, in order to cover its payments to the United States, which even without the installments on account of the indebtedness to the Government of the United States are already very considerable, Poland must obtain an equivalent in favorable balance of trade with other countries. As has been pointed out above, this is at present becoming ever more difficult. The general tendency displayed by nations, which up to now have had a surplus of imports to equalize their trade balances, must also be taken into consideration.

12. The concern over the continued maintenance of the country's capacity to pay, and in particular over the safeguard for the future of the possibilities of further payments in full of all foreign obligations resulting from commercial relations and market loans—in the first place those contracted in the American market—forms the reason which prompts the present approach of the Polish Government to the Government of the United States on the subject of the postponement of the installment payment. In the light of the figures cited above, it becomes obvious that the benefits which will accrue therefrom to the citizens of the United States will exceed many times such burdens as might result for them from postponement. The Polish Government are deeply convinced that its attitude will meet with complete understanding in the United States and that the Government and Congress of the United States will be willing to consider favorably the postponement of the installment of interest due December 15th. The Polish Government express their readiness to communicate any further data and information, which might be found necessary, and will willingly consider with the Government of the United States, the form in which such postponement could be vested.

To the Polish Ambassador, December 15, 1932

EXCELLENCY:

My Government has considered with the greatest care the note of December 8, 1932, from the Polish Government, in which it has set forth at length the reasons it advances for a reconsideration of the whole question of intergovernmental war debts, and for the postponement of the payment due by the Polish Government to the Government of the United States on December 15th, next.

I believe that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. Such an examination does not imply cancellation.

My Government, however, has not been able to reach the conclusion that a postponement of the December 15th payment from the Polish Government to the United States is necessary because of its effect on the problem of recovery. Although we recognize the serious economic and financial difficulties which the Polish Government, in common with all other governments, is now facing, the maintenance of these agreements in their operation pending due opportunity for analysis of all matters bearing upon your request for revision and its consideration by the American Congress and people still appears to us to outweigh any reasons presented for a delay.

*To the Department of State from the Polish Ambassador, June 14, 1933—
Memorandum*

Referring to the note addressed to the Government of the United States by the Polish Government on December 8th, 1932, concerning the postponement of the payment of the consolidated debt instalment due on December 15th, 1932, the Polish Government declares that the factual situation set forth in the above mentioned note has not in any way improved in the course of the last six months and that the premises therein adduced continue to remain in force.

In view of the above, the payment by the Polish Government of the interest instalment due on June 15th, 1933, has unfortunately also become impossible.

Under these circumstances the Polish Government is compelled to request the Government of the United States to take the above under advisement and to defer similarly the payment of the instalment due on June 15th.

The Polish Government declares its readiness to communicate all the data and information which might be found necessary and, referring to the declaration made by the Ambassador in Washington on January 18th, 1933, is ready to consider with the Government of the United States the matter of the aforesaid debt in its entirety.

To the Polish Ambassador, June 17, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

The Government of the United States acknowledges receipt of the note of the Polish Government setting forth its attitude concerning the debt obligation due on June 15th to this Government. It notes that the Polish Government has failed to meet in whole or in part the installment due on existing debt agreement between the Polish Government and the Government of the United States.

The Government of the United States must, in all frankness, call attention to the problems raised by the failure of the Polish Government to meet the payment due on December 15th, 1932, which have not yet been solved or even discussed between the two nations.

The Government of the United States notes further that the failure to pay this installment is based by the Polish Government upon the principle of inability to pay.

RUMANIA

Statement of the Department of State, February 8, 1933

Mr. Roosevelt has authorized the Secretary of State to advise the Rumanian Government, in response to its request for a discussion of the debts owed by that country, that he will be prepared to enter into discussions with the Rumanian Government having a similar scope and purpose as those already contemplated with Great Britain; these discussions to take place after the discussions with Great Britain and the time to be determined later.

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Rumanian Minister, June 15, 1933

SIR:

In reply to your note of June 9, permit me to emphasize, in the name of my Government, the following part of the note which I had the honour to address to you today:

"* * * In the course of these conferences I have also shown that although the limits of taxation have been reached and every possible economy made, the expected revenue of Rumania, with a population of almost 19,000,000, is equivalent to only 139,500,000 gold dollars, of which $35,000,000 are due on account of interest on the external public debt service, the statutory amortization of which has had to be practically suspended for the next years, with the consent of the bondholders; that the national income of Rumania in 1932 has fallen to 56.96% of the figures for 1929 and that this situation compelled Rumania to enforce severe foreign exchange restrictions, this being, under the circumstances, the only means of maintaining the legal parity of the national currency. I have, therefore, been compelled to request that the instalment due by Rumania to the United States of America on June 15, 1933, be postponed until after the re-examination of the entire problem and that a date should be set for this purpose. Unfortunately, for reasons which I well understand, this request of my Government could not so far be complied with."

It results from the above that the Rumanian Government, at present, has not the capacity to pay the instalment due on June 15th to the Government of the United States, as it has likewise, as previously quoted, been compelled to suspend the sinking fund payment on the other governmental debts. Nevertheless, as a token of good-will, the Rumanian Government wishes to pay in advance 3% interest, as calculated in the Rumanian-American debt agreement, on the instalment due June 15th, which it hopes will be considered as a payment on account. This represents 29,100 dollars. By this the Rumanian Government desires to acknowledge the debt, pending a final settlement, and trusts that a date for the rediscussion of the whole problem will be set at your earliest convenience.

Please accept [etc.]

DAVILA.

To the Rumanian Minister, June 21, 1933

SIR:

The President directs me to acknowledge receipt of your note of June 15, 1933, in which you set forth the decision of the Rumanian Government to pay the Government of the United States the sum of $29,100.00, an amount which you state is equivalent to three per cent. advance interest on the instalment which fell due on June 15, as a payment on account and as an acknowledgment by the Rumanian Government of the debt due the United States. The presentation made in your note as to the inability of your Government to pay the entire amount due has been noted.

In accordance with your request, the representations of the Government of Rumania with regard to the entire debt question between our two countries will be gladly heard at a date to be agreed upon between us.

Acting Secretary of State.

YUGOSLAVIA

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Minister of Yugoslavia, June 15, 1933

SIR:

Referring to your note of June 9th, 1933, and our conversation of yesterday concerning the payments on War Debts due in 1932 and 1933, I beg to state the views of my Government.

The Royal Yugoslav Government is financially unable to make these payments on account of the following reasons:

1) The chief reason is the non-payment of the German reparations due to Yugoslavia, which have not been paid to us, in spite of the fact that we did not accept the moratorium proposed by President Hoover. This situation was continued by virtue of the Lausanne Agreement. Yugoslavia was inequitably and harder hit than any other country by this moratorium and was placed in quite singular a situation, for if the annuities due by Yugoslavia on her debts are deducted from the reparation payments due to her by Germany, she is a loser to the extent of sixteen millions dollars per annum.

This money was devoted to carrying out the obligations imposed upon the country by the expenses of the war and the enemy occupation, such as the payments to war invalids, war damage to property, etc. In addition the reparation money was used for the repayment of the foreign debts contracted for the restoration of the country devastated by war operations and enemy occupation.

The grave consequences of the moratorium for Yugoslavia were recognized publicly by the Committee of Experts in London in August 1931.

In view of the absence of German reparation payments and, consequently, in absence of considerable receipts in cash, the Yugoslav Government finds itself absolutely unable, from a merely budgetary standpoint and also in so far as its capacity of exporting foreign exchange is in question, to meet its obligations concerning War Debts regularly and on time.

2) In addition, this very unfavorable situation has been aggravated by the general world crisis, and particularly by the agricultural crisis under which Yugoslavia, which is chiefly an agricultural country, is particularly suffering. The budgetary consequence thereof is that, on account of the fall of agricultural prices, the revenues of the State are lowered. As additional consequences of this crisis in Central Europe, foreign capital was withdrawn and on account of the dropping of foreign trade, all commerce has to be carried on by making use of the clearing system.

To the Minister of Yugoslavia, June 21, 1933

SIR:

The Government of the United States acknowledges receipt of the note of the Yugoslav Government setting forth its attitude concerning the debt obligation due on June 15 to this Government. It notes that the Royal Yugoslav Government has failed to meet in whole or in part the instalment due on the existing debt agreement between the Yugoslav Government and the Government of the United States.

The Government of the United States must, in all frankness, call attention to the problems raised by the failure of the Yugoslav Government to meet the payment due on December 15, 1932, which have not yet been solved or even discussed between the two nations.

The Government of the United States notes further that the failure to pay the present instalment is based by the Royal Yugoslav Government upon the principle of inability to pay, which it alleges to be due to special conditions not applying to other Governments.

MIXED CLAIMS

Exhibit 33

Regulations No. 9.—Payments on account of awards against Hungary entered by the Tripartite Claims Commission (United States, Austria, and Hungary) (Department Circular No. 499)

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, D.C., September 12, 1933.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, approved March 10, 1928, the following regulations governing payments in respect of the awards of the Tripartite Claims Commission, entered against Hungary, are hereby prescribed:

APPLICATION

1. (a) General provisions.—No payment of the amount due in respect of an award will be made unless application therefor, on and in accordance with the form provided for the purpose, is received by the Secretary of the Treasury before March 11, 1934. A single application must be filed for each award, and must be executed by each person on behalf of whom the award was made. Each such person (including each member of a partnership or association) must sign the application and verify it by affidavit sworn to before any officer authorized by law to administer oaths or, if executed abroad, before a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States. In the case of a corporation, the application must be signed and verified by the president and secretary, or by at least two officers thereof having authority to do so.

(b) Partnerships, associations, and corporations the existence of which has been terminated.—In the case of a partnership or association the existence of which has been terminated, the application must be executed by each of the members thereof designated in the award. In the case of a corporation the existence of which has been terminated, the application must be executed by the person or persons authorized by law to wind up the affairs thereof or by a trustee, duly appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction, having authority to execute such application and receive payment.

(c) Receivers and trustees.—If a receiver or trustee for a person on behalf of whom the award was made has been duly appointed by a court in the United States, the application must be executed by such receiver or trustee, or by a person duly authorized by an order of the court, except that in the case of an assignment by any such receiver or trustee an application for payment of the amount due under such assignment must be made by the assignee.

(d) Persons deceased or under legal disability.—If any person who is required to execute the application is deceased or is under a legal disability, the application must be executed by the executor or administrator of the estate of the decedent or by the conservator or guardian of the estate of the person under legal disability, except that if the payment to be made is not over $500, and if the legal representative has been discharged, or none has been appointed, an application may be executed by any person claiming to be entitled thereto.

APPLICANTS OTHER THAN CLAIMANTS—PROOF OF INTEREST

2. (a) In any case in which the application is executed by any person other than the person on behalf of whom the award was made, there must be submitted with the application evidence sufficient to prove the authority of the applicant and his interest in the award. The following will generally be sufficient:

(1) In the case of a legal representative of a decedent or person under a legal disability, then a copy of the order of appointment or letters and a recent certificate of the clerk of the appointing court to the effect that the legal representative has not been discharged;

(2) In the case of a decedent or a person under a legal disability, if the payment to be made is not more than $500 and if there is no legal representative, then a copy of the order of distribution or any other pertinent orders in probate proceedings, if any, or one or more affidavits sufficient to prove the authority and interest of the applicant;

(3) In any case in which a receiver or trustee has been appointed for a person on behalf of whom the award was made, and if the application is executed by such receiver or trustee, then a copy of the order of court appointing such receiver or trustee and a recent certificate of the clerk of such court to the effect that such receiver or trustee has not been discharged;

(4) In any case in which a receiver or trustee has been appointed for a person on behalf of whom an award was made, and if the application is executed by a person other than such receiver or trustee, then a copy of the order of the court appointing such receiver or trustee and of all orders of court and documents necessary to prove the authority and interest of the applicant;

(5) In the case of a corporation the existence of which has been terminated, then such documents as may be sufficient to prove the authority and interest of the applicant.

(b) All copies of records and documents must be properly authenticated.

PAYMENTS

3. (a) Time of payment.—Payments will be made as promptly as practicable after the receipt of the application and the receipt from Hungary of an amount sufficient to pay the award in full, together with the interest, if any, payable thereon. The act requires the deduction from each payment of one half of 1 percent thereof as reimbursement for expenses incurred by the United States.

(b) Manner of payment.—Payment will be made by check drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury on the Treasurer of the United States, against the Hungarian special deposit account created by the act, to the order of the person entitled thereto. Checks will be mailed to the payee, with a statement of account in each case, at the address given in the application, or in accordance with a notice of change of address subsequently received by the Secretary of the Treasury. Where the award has been entered in favor of more than one person, only one check will be drawn in making payment, except that if the applicants specify the share of each, and so request, separate checks will be drawn in accordance therewith.

POWERS OF ATTORNEY

4. In view of the provisions of the act to the effect that payments shall, except in certain specified cases, be made only to the person on behalf of whom the award was made, no power of attorney to sign an application or to receive payment will be recognized, except that in any case in which the Secretary determines that the circumstances require it, a special power of attorney to indorse a check will be recognized if properly executed after the issuance of the check, identifying the check by date, number, and amount. Such power of attorney must be attached to the check, or final payment will be refused. Forms for this purpose may be obtained from the Secretary of the Treasury.

ASSIGNMENTS

5. The Treasury will recognize an assignment of an award, in whole or in part, pursuant to the act of March 3, 1933 (Public No. 426, 72d Cong.). Assignments must be made in writing, duly acknowledged and filed with the application. Such assignments must be executed in the same manner and similar information must be furnished as required in connection with the execution of the application under (1) and (2) above. The assignee must also file an application as required by these regulations.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

6. Additional information or evidence may be required from time to time from any person applying for payment hereunder.

RESERVATION OF POWER TO AMEND

7. These regulations may be amended from time to time.

THOMAS HEWES,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

Exhibit 34

[Public Resolution No. 11, 73d Cong., H.J.Res. 183]

Joint resolution extending for 1 year the time within which American claimants may make application for payment, under the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission and of the Tripartite Claims Commission

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. That subsection (g) of section 2 and subsection (f) of section 5 of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended by Public Resolution Numbered 27, Seventy-second Congress, approved June 14, 1932, are further amended, respectively, by striking out the words "five years" wherever such words appear therein and inserting in lieu thereof the words "six years."

Approved, June 12, 1933.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITS

Special deposits of public moneys under the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended (third supplement to Department Circular No. 92, revised)

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, July 24, 1933.

To Federal Reserve Banks and Other Banks and Trust Companies Incorporated Under the Laws of the United States or of any State:

Treasury Department Circular No. 92, dated February 23, 1932, as amended, is hereby further amended by the addition of the following paragraph under the caption "Collateral security":

"11. Federal land bank and Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds.—Bonds of the Federal land banks and bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation; all at par."

Paragraph 2 of the collateral security provisions of the circular is hereby amended to read as follows:

"2. Federal farm loan, insular, and Territorial Government securities.—Bonds and debentures issued under the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended (other than bonds of the Federal land banks as specified in par. 11), bonds of Puerto Rico, bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the Philippine Islands, and bonds of the Territory of Hawaii; all at market value, not to exceed face value."

DEAN ACHESON,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

Exhibit 37

Regulations governing deposit of public moneys and payment of Government checks and warrants (fourth supplement to Department Circular No. 176)

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, June 26, 1933.

To the Treasurer of the United States, Federal Reserve Banks and Branches, Member Bank Depositories, Special Depositories of Public Moneys, Collectors of Internal Revenue, Collectors of Customs, Receivers of Public Moneys, Marshals and Clerks of Court, All Other Officers or Agents of the United States Engaged in Collecting, Depositing, or Transmitting Public Moneys, and Others Concerned:

In view of the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Banking Act of 1933, Treasury Department Circular No. 176, dated September 2, 1930, as amended and supplemented, is hereby further amended so as to eliminate paragraph 30, "Interest on deposits", which reads as follows:

"30, Interest on deposits.—Until further notice, unless otherwise specified by the Secretary of the Treasury, each depository will be required to pay interest at the rate of one half of 1 percent per annum on daily balances, including balances specified in paragraph 29 hereof. Interest will be calculated on an actual days' basis, and shall be paid semiannually on January 1 and July 1 in each year, one fourth of 1 percent for each six months' period. Reports on form 5407 must be submitted to the Treasurer of the United States not later than January 15 and July 15, respectively, accompanied by payment of the amount due, in the form of a draft drawn in favor of the Treasurer of the United States on the Federal Reserve bank of the district in which the depository is located."

Accordingly, beginning July 1, 1933, and thereafter, general and limited member bank depositories designated under the terms of Treasury Department Circular No. 176, dated September 2, 1930, as amended and supplemented, will not be required to pay interest on daily balances carried thereunder.

DEAN ACHESON,

MISCELLANEOUS

Exhibit 38

Description of change in form of exhibiting receipts and expenditures in the Daily Statement of the United States Treasury, July 1, 1933

Beginning with the issue of the Daily Statement of the United States Treasury for July 1, 1933, several important changes have been made on page 2 thereof with respect to exhibiting the receipts and expenditures of the Government.

The principal changes are the consolidation of receipts and expenditures on account of general and special funds, the segregation of general and emergency expenditures for the fiscal year 1934, and the segregation from the departmental expenditures of expenditures relating to national defense, Veterans' Administration, public building construction by the Treasury Department, and river and harbor work. Expenditures for public highway construction and the Boulder Canyon project during the fiscal year 1934 will appear only under the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The only change in the statement of receipts, aside from the consolidation of general and special funds, is the addition of a new item to cover the processing tax on farm products under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933.

The expenditures on account of national defense, public building construction by the Treasury Department, and river and harbor work under the caption "General" do not include the emergency expenditures on these accounts. These expenditures are included under the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, the classification of which will be shown in the statement of classified receipts and expenditures appearing on page 4 of the daily Treasury statement for the 15th of each month. The statement for the 15th of each month, page 4, will also contain a classification of expenditures from funds of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and will show national defense expenditures classified as to the Army and Navy. Comparable figures (except for Reconstruction Finance Corporation) for the fiscal year 1933 are not available.

The new form of statement will show in a separate group the emergency expenditures under the President's recovery program. This classification will show expenditures as and when made for account of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, the Administration for Industrial Recovery, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (except expenditures made from funds collected on account of the processing tax on farm products which will appear under general expenditures), the Farm Credit Administration (except expenditures from unobligated balances of appropriations transferred from the Federal Farm Board and the Department of Agriculture which appear under general expenditures), the Administration of Emergency Conservation Work, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, The Tennessee Valley Authority, subscriptions to paid-in surplus of Federal land banks and payments to Federal land banks for reduction in interest rates on farm mortgages, subscriptions to preferred shares of Federal Savings and Loan Associations, and subscriptions to stock of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Emergency expenditures for the fiscal year 1933 (except Reconstruction Finance Corporation) are included in "General" expenditures, the classification of which emergency expenditures on a daily Treasury statement basis is not available for comparison with emergency expenditures for the fiscal year 1934. Therefore, neither the totals of general expenditures nor the totals of emergency expenditures for the two fiscal years are comparable.

There is also included in the new form of statement a summary reflecting daily the net effect of all receipts and expenditures of the Government on the gross public debt.

In the new form of statement the totals only of trust fund receipts and expenditures will be shown. The classification of trust fund receipts and expenditures will appear on page 4 of the daily Treasury statement for the 15th of each month.

DEAN ACHESON,

Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

Executive Order No. 6226 providing for current encumbrance reports

In pursuance of the provisions of the Budget and Accounting Act approved June 10, 1921, and Section 16 of the Executive Order (No. 6166) of June 10, 1933, I hereby prescribe the following regulations with regard to furnishing for use by the Bureau of the Budget proposed apportionments of each separate appropriation or other available fund administered by the several departments, independent establishments, and governmental corporations operating on public funds, and current reports of obligations incurred thereunder:

1. There shall be maintained on the books of the Treasury Department under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, budgetary accounts relating to the apportionment and obligation of public funds.

2. The head of each executive department, independent establishment, and governmental corporation operating on public funds shall furnish the Treasury Department such reports as the Secretary of the Treasury may require in order that the books of the Treasury may reflect currently the status of appropriations and other funds available for expenditure.

3. The Secretary of the Treasury shall furnish the Director, Bureau of the Budget, such reports covering the status of appropriations and funds available for expenditure as the Director may require.

4. The Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe such forms and issue such instructions as he may consider necessary to carry out the provisions of this Order.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
July 27, 1933.

NOTE.—Pursuant to paragraph 4, forms and instructions were issued by the Secretary of the Treasury as Department Circular No. 494, August 5, 1933.

Total.....	61,691,286.59

TABLES

EXPLANATION OF BASES USED IN TABLES

Figures in the following tables are shown on various bases, namely: (1) daily Treasury statements, unrevised (current cash); (2) daily Treasury statements, revised (actual); (3) warrants issued; (4) checks issued; and (5) collections reported by collecting officers.

Daily Treasury statements (unrevised) (receipts and expenditures).—The figures shown in the daily statement of the United States Treasury are compiled from the latest daily reports received by the Treasurer of the United States from Treasury officers and public depositaries holding Government funds. The daily Treasury statement, therefore, is a current report compiled from latest available information, and, by reason of the promptness with which the information is obtained and made public, it has come into general use as reflecting the financial operations of the Government covering a given period, and gives an accurate idea of the actual condition of the Treasury as far as it is ascertainable from day to day. This is known as "current cash basis", according to daily Treasury statements (unrevised). Table 4 (p. 299) shows receipts and expenditures on this basis. The current assets and liabilities of the Treasury and the outstanding public debt are also available on this basis.

Daily Treasury statements (revised) (receipts and expenditures).—On account of the distance of some of the Treasury offices and depositaries from the Treasury, it is obvious that the reports from all officers covering a particular day's transactions cannot be received and assembled in the Treasury at one time without delaying for several days the publication of the daily Treasury statement. It is necessary, therefore, in order to exhibit the actual receipts and expenditures for any given month or fiscal year, to take into consideration those reports covering the transactions for the last few days of the month or fiscal year concerned which have not been received in the Treasury until the succeeding month or fiscal year, and to eliminate receipts and expenditures relating to the preceding month. After taking into consideration these reports, the revised figures indicate the condition of the Treasury on the basis of actual transactions occurring during the period under review. This is known as "the basis of daily Treasury statements (revised)."

It is not practical to delay the publication of the daily Treasury statement in order to include the later reports, as the difference between the revised and the unrevised figures is immaterial. The unrevised figures as shown in current daily Treasury statements are the basis for the Budget estimates submitted to Congress by the President. The revised figures are of no practical use except to enable the use of a true General Fund balance on the monthly statement of the public debt of the United States and to bring the daily Treasury statement figures into agreement with the figures based on warrants issued. The table on page 150 shows receipts and expenditures on this basis. The current assets and liabilities of the Treasury and the outstanding public debt are also available on this basis.

Warrants issued (receipts).—Section 305 of the Revised Statutes provides that receipts for all moneys received by the Treasurer of the United States shall be indorsed upon warrants signed by the Secretary of the Treasury, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment for money received into the Public Treasury shall be valid. The issuance of warrants by the Secretary of the Treasury, as provided by law, represents the formal covering of receipts into the Treasury.

Certificates of deposit covering actual deposits in Treasury offices and depositaries, upon which covering warrants are based, cannot reach the Treasury simultaneously, and for that reason all receipts for a fiscal year cannot be covered into the Treasury by warrants of the Secretary immediately upon the close of that fiscal year. It is necessary to have all certificates of deposit before a statement can be issued showing the total receipts for a particular fiscal year on a warrant basis. The figures thus compiled will agree with the figures compiled on the basis of daily Treasury statements (revised). The details in Table 2 (p. 281) show receipts on this basis.

Warrants issued (expenditures).—The Constitution of the United States provides that no money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law. Section 305 of the Revised Statutes requires that the Treasurer of the United States shall disburse the moneys of the United States upon warrants drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury. As the warrants are issued by the Secretary they are charged against the appropriate appropriations provided by law. Some of these warrants do not represent actual payments to claimants, but are merely advances of funds to be placed to the credit of disbursing officers of the Government with the Treasurer of the United States for the payment of Government obligations. The disbursing officer then issues his check on the Treasurer in payment of such obligations. As far as the appropriation accounts are concerned, the warrants issued and charged thereto constitute expenditures, but it will be observed that such expenditures necessarily include unexpended balances to the credit of the disbursing officers. Under normal conditions these balances over a period of several years fluctuate very little in the aggregate, and the difference between the total expenditures on a warrant basis and a cash basis (revised) is immaterial. Statement of the expenditures on a warrant basis from 1789 to 1915 is shown on page 303 of this report.

Checks issued (expenditures).—This basis, more than any other, reflects the real expenditures of the Government. Expenditures for a given fiscal year on the basis of checks issued differ from the corresponding figures on the basis of warrants in that the former include expenditures made by disbursing officers from credits granted during the previous fiscal year, and exclude the amount of unexpended grants remaining to their credit at the end of the fiscal year. The basis of checks issued differs from the basis of the daily Treasury statement (revised) in that the former includes checks outstanding at the end of the fiscal year, and excludes unpaid checks outstanding at the beginning of the fiscal year. A detailed explanation of the basis of checks issued will be found on page 89 of the Secretary's report for 1927. Table 3 (p. 290) shows expenditures on this basis.

Collections reported by collecting officers (receipts).—Statements showing receipts on a collection basis are compiled from reports received by the various administrative offices from collecting officers in the field, such as collectors of internal revenue and collectors of customs. These reports cover the collections actually made by these officers during the period specified. The collections are then deposited in a designated Government depository to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, which depository renders a report to the Treasurer. The reports of the collecting officers and the depositories do not, of course, coincide, for the reason that the collecting officers make collections during the last few days of the fiscal year which are not deposited until after the close of the fiscal year. On this account the two reports will not agree. The receipts are reported on a collection basis merely for statistical purposes and to furnish information as to detailed sources of revenue. Classification of such items on the basis of deposits has been found to be impracticable and uneconomical. Tables 8 and 14 (pp. 317 and 325) show receipts on a collection basis.

DESCRIPTION OF FUND ACCOUNTS THROUGH WHICH TREASURY OPERATIONS ARE EFFECTED

All receipts of the Government are covered into the General Fund of the Treasury from which all expenditures are made. Receipts and expenditures, however, are classified in the Treasury's records according to the class of accounts through which operations are effected. Transactions are segregated in order to exhibit separately those effected through general fund accounts, as contrasted with those effected through special fund and trust fund accounts representing restricted or specially allocated receipts and expenditures chargeable thereto. This classification was first shown in published records for 1927 for the warrants and checks-issued bases and on the daily Treasury statements beginning with the July 1, 1930, issue, in order to conform to the practice of the Bureau of the Budget. In some tables in this report, however, transactions in the three types of accounts are combined for purposes of historical comparison. A brief general explanation of the three classes of accounts is presented below.

General fund accounts.—The principal sources of general fund account receipts are income taxes, miscellaneous internal revenue, and customs duties. In addition, a large number of miscellaneous receipts come under this head including such items as proceeds of Government-owned securities (except those which are applicable to public debt retirement), sale of surplus and condemned property, Panama Canal tolls, fees (including consular and passport fees), fines, penalties, forfeitures, rentals, royalties, reimbursements, immigration head tax, sale of public land, tax on national bank circulation, interest on public deposits, seigniorage on coinage of subsidiary silver and minor coins, etc. Moneys represented in the general fund accounts may be withdrawn from the Treasury only in pursuance of appropriations made by Congress. There are four classes of appropriations payable through the general fund accounts of the Treasury, namely: (a) Annual, being those made each year in the several departmental supply bills and limited for obligation during the fiscal year for which made; (b) continuing (no-year), being available until expended or until the object for which appropriated has been accomplished, such as construction of public works; (c) permanent-specific, being fixed amounts provided for each of a series of years by permanent legislation, without annual action of Congress; and (d) permanent-indefinite, being indefinite amounts (so much as may be necessary) provided by permanent legislation without annual action of Congress, such as the indefinite appropriation to cover interest on the public debt.

A statement of general fund receipts and expenditures is, therefore, in the nature of a general operating statement, and gives a picture of the relationship between the general revenues of the Government and the operating expenditures (including capital outlays and fixed charges) chargeable against them.

Special fund accounts.—Special fund account receipts may be generally defined as funds received under special authorizations of law which may be expended only for the particular purposes specified therein. Special fund account receipts may not be used for the general expenditures of the Government. The most important items of receipts included under this heading, from the standpoint of amounts, are those applicable to the retirement of the public debt. Other important special fund receipts are the reclamation fund under the Department of the Interior, funds received for river and harbor improvements, Forest Service cooperative funds, proceeds from sales of ships, etc., by the United States Shipping Board available for construction loans, assessments on Federal Reserve banks for salaries and expenses of the Federal Reserve Board, and assessments upon national banks for expenses of examinations. There are many other special fund receipts of lesser importance.

Trust fund accounts.—Trust fund account receipts represent moneys received by the Government for the benefit of individuals or classes of individuals. Moneys held in trust, being payable to or for the use of beneficiaries only, are not available for general expenditures of the Government. There are several classes of trust fund receipts, the beneficiaries under which may be either individuals or groups of individuals. The funds may represent (a) moneys received directly from or for account of individuals, as in the case of moneys received from foreign governments or other sources in trust for citizens of the United States or others under the act of February 27, 1896; (b) moneys collected as revenues and held in trust, such as the proceeds of sales of Indian lands which are held as interest-bearing funds for the benefit of Indian tribes; and (c) proceeds of grants from the general fund accounts of the Treasury in pursuance of treaty or other obligations such as the perpetual trust fund created for the Ute Indians under section 5 of the act of June 15, 1880.

³ Trust fund receipts of $15,593.08 included in trust funds below.

⁶ Excess receipts.

⁸ Includes the Bureau of Pensions and National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

⁹ Exclusive of Bureau of Pensions. See note 8.

¹⁰ Exclusive of National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. See note 8.

¹² $7,775,000 plus additional charges of $41,049.08 under divided accounts.

³ This item shown on p. 291.

⁴ Expenditures from "Army account of advances" on account of the Emergency Conservation fund, amounting to $14,239,529.61, were included in the expenditures of the War Department in daily Treasury statements for the fiscal year 1933, the transfer and counter adjustments between Army account of advances and the Emergency Conservation fund not having reached the Treasury until after the close of the fiscal year 1933. The warrants in such cases, however, were dated June 30, 1933 which accounts for the difference in the classification of the expenditures on a checks-issued basis included in this report and the cash expenditures as published in daily Treasury statements under the classifications pertaining to the War Department and independent offices, respectively.

⁹ The $500 chargeable to the District of Columbia under Freedman's Hospital which was transferred to "Contingent expenses, Department of the Interior", is included in District of Columbia expenditures.

¹⁰ This amount does not include the sum of $1,000,000 heretofore reimbursed annually to the general fund under the act of June 12, 1917.

¹³ See "Refunds of receipts", p. 297.

¹⁴ Additional expenditures under Department of Justice for this item amount to $9,086,733.07. See p. 293.

¹⁵ Exclusive of refunds of receipts, p. 297.

¹⁷ See note 16.

¹⁹ For classification of extraordinary expenditures contributing to the deficiency in postal revenues for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1933, see exhibit 41 on p. 271 for statement of account.

²⁰ See footnote 4, p. 281.

²¹ See pages beginning 55 for statements of accounts.

²³ Included under Veterans' Administration, p. 291.

²⁴ $7,775,000 plus additional charges of $1,049.08 under divided accounts.

²⁵ Excess of receipts over expenditures.

TABLE 4.—*Ordinary receipts, expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts, and surplus or deficit for the fiscal years 1916 to 1933*¹

[On basis of daily Treasury statements (unrevised), see p. 275]

(Beginning with the fiscal year 1931 receipts and expenditures were classified according to general, special, and trust funds in the daily Treasury statement in order to conform to the practice of the Bureau of the Budget. In the following table, however, transactions in general, special, and trust funds are combined for purposes of historical comparison. For explanation of funds, see p. 276.)

NOTE.—Excess credits in italics to be deducted.

⁵ Revised to cover all expenditures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation including payments against credits established for the corporation through the purchase of its notes under section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act.

⁶ In the fiscal years 1921, 1922, and 1923, changes were made in classification of expenditures between Legislative Establishment, Executive Office, and other independent offices and commissions, which account for most of the differences as compared with expenditures for other fiscal years.

¹² Payments on account of veterans' relief made prior to Aug. 11, 1921, by the War Risk Insurance Bureau are included under Treasury Department, while similar payments made prior to that date by the Federal Board for Vocational Education are included under "other independent offices and commissions."

¹⁴ Included under Post Office Department prior to fiscal year 1922.

¹⁵ Established by act of May 22, 1920, and included under Interior Department prior to fiscal year 1922.

¹⁶ Included under District of Columbia prior to fiscal year 1922.

² On basis of warrants issued from 1789 to 1933.

⁶ Exclusive of civil expenditures under War Department and Navy Department in Washington to and including fiscal year 1920.

¹² Beginning with the fiscal year 1932 tonnage tax has been covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

¹³ Revised to cover all expenditures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation including payments against credits established for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation through the purchase of its notes under sec. 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act.

Note.—Excess credits in italics to be deducted.

² Expenditures for the District of Columbia representing the share of the United States are charged against the amount to be advanced from the General Fund until the authorized amount is expended. After that they are charged against the revenues of the District under trust funds.

² Includes income tax on Alaska railroads (act of July 18, 1914) amounting to $4,262.03.

NOTE.—For additional information, see published report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the year ended June 30, 1933.

¹ Customs receipts, on the basis of reports of collections, are credited to the districts in which the collections are made. Receipts in the various districts do not indicate the tax burden of the respective districts, since the taxes may be eventually borne by persons in other divisions. The duties on a warrant basis during the fiscal year 1933 amounted to $250,514,771.77.

² The amounts shown in this column have been revised to include the payments to the Government of Panama under the treaty of Nov. 18, 1903, of $250,000 per annum, the first payment being made during the fiscal year 1913, and similar payments continuing each year since that date; but do not include the payments to the Government of Colombia growing out of the construction of the Panama Canal of $5,000,000 per annum during the fiscal years 1923 to 1927, inclusive, an aggregate sum of $25,000,000, as provided for under the treaty of Apr. 6, 1914. Includes expenses of civil government, Panama Canal and Canal Zone.

³ This amount includes the $40,000,000 paid to the New Panama Canal Co. of France for the acquisition of the property, and the $10,000,000 paid to the Republic of Panama in connection with the Canal Zone as provided for under art. 14 of the treaty of Nov. 18, 1903.

³ Funds available for the adjusted service certificate fund are invested and reinvested in special short-term securities which are redeemed from time to time to meet current obligations. These transactions will occur until the adjusted service certificates mature about 1945.

(Footnotes for table 21)

² Exclusive of the bonds issued to the Pacific railways (provision having been made by law to secure the Treasury against both principal and interest) and the Navy pension fund (which was in no sense a debt, the principal being the property of the United States).

MEMORANDUM

Amount due the United States from the Central Branch of the Union Pacific R.R. on account of bonds issued (Pacific R.R. Aid bonds, acts approved July 1, 1862, July 2, 1864, and May 7, 1878):

Principal.....	1,600,000.00
Interest.....	1,730,033.17
Total.....	3,330,033.17

² Original amount ($66,560,560.43) included bonds aggregating $21,970,560.43 representing interest accruing and remaining unpaid during first 14 years, payment of which, under the funding agreement, is extended over the last 48 years.

⁴ Indebtedness of Czechoslovakia has been funded under the agreement of Oct. 13, 1925, but the original obligations have not been exchanged for the new bonds of that Government.

⁵ Division of German bonds between private awards and Government awards is an estimate based upon best information available at this time. When Mixed Claims Commission has completed its duties, a more accurate division may be made. Awards generally bear interest at 5 percent per annum. Bonds do not bear interest, but the aggregate face amount thereof will be sufficient to cover payment of the principal and interest due on the total awards finally entered by the Mixed Claims Commission. Bonds for private awards are held in trust, the proceeds thereof when received at maturity to be distributed by the Treasury to the claimants. Bonds mature on Mar. 31 and Sept. 30 of each year in the principal amount of RM20,-400,000 each. No payments are to be made on Government awards until all private awards are paid in full.

NOTE.—For description of security held for redemption, see note 3, p. 373.

¹ Payments of governments which have funded were made prior to the dates of the funding agreements.² Difference between principal of funded debts and amounts here stated represents deferred payments provided for in the funding agreements, for which gold bonds of the respective debtor governments have been or will be delivered to the Treasury.³ Increase over amount funded due to exercise of options with respect to the payment of interest due on original issue of bonds of debtor governments.⁴ Represents proceeds of liquidation of financial affairs of Russian Government in this country. (Copies of letter dated May 23, 1922, from the Secretary of State and reply of the Secretary of the Treasury dated June 2, 1922, in regard to loans to the Russian Government and liquidation of affairs of the latter in this country, appear in the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the fiscal year 1922, as exhibit 79, p. 283, and in the combined annual reports of the World War Foreign Debt Commission, exhibit 2, p. 84.)⁵ Includes amounts postponed under provisions of joint resolution of Dec. 23, 1931. (For amounts postponed see p. 35 of report of Secretary of the Treasury for 1932.)

Total to June 30, 1933.....	40,583,000,000

⁴ The sum of $400,000,000 has been allotted and transferred to the Department of Agriculture from the appropriation for National Industrial Recovery for emergency construction of public highways and related projects, from which grants may be made to States, pursuant to sec. 204 (a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, June 16, 1933.

⁵ Established by act of June 6, 1933 (48 Stat. 113), for cooperation with the States.

⁷ Includes medical supplies and relief in drought-stricken areas.

NOTE.—Data for fiscal years 1921 to 1930 are shown in the annual report for 1930, pp. 617-622, and for fiscal year 1931 in annual report for that year, p. 563.

TABLE 49.—Expenditures made by the Government as direct payments to States under cooperative arrangements during the fiscal year 1933 1

[The records of the Treasury Department, except in the cases mentioned in notes at end of this statement, do not show the amounts disbursed or allotted to the States under the respective appropriations shown in this statement, such matters being under the control of the department or establishment of the Government that administers the activities covered by the appropriations. The Department, however, for general information has compiled, from its records so far as available, and in the other cases from figures furnished by the departments and establishments concerned, the following statement, exhibiting by States and Territories the amounts paid to each under the appropriations for Federal aid to States shown under class I in the preceding statement (table 48). Any discrepancies between this and the preceding table are due to unavoidable differences in the bases upon which these figures have been compiled. The amounts in this table, derived from the accounts of various departments and establishments, are not on the same accounting bases, and are consequently not strictly comparable. This table includes only direct payments to States and does not include amounts expended in cooperation with States, appropriations for certain of which are included under class II, table 48.]
